Westfield.

The Park Commission has received bids for trees to be planted along the highways this spring. The town will require about 2,000.

The lawn-owners of Mountainside are complaining of timber thieves that have in some tracts practically cut all of the standing cedar. The wood is cut and taken by people who apparently come from a distance, for their teams are not known. One man who was topped yesterday with a load of cedar said he had purchased of the owner, but later the man threw off the load of wood and drove away.

Millinery Exhibition

Beautiful, distinctive and becoming hats, embracing every size and style, variety of curves and most becoming lines are included in this exhibition.

The imported models from Reboux, Georgette, Marie Guy, Lewis, Roger, Lewisson and others who stand for the highest in millinery art in the estimation of women versed in fashions.

The small close fitting hats have the call this season, however, every woman cannot wear a small, close fitting hat, therefore our search in order that our exhibit may be fully comprehensive has been more extensive this season than ever before and we feel safe in saying that this is one of the best that this house has ever presented to the public of Newark and environs.

Our own hats designed and planned in our own workrooms are far ahead of the efforts of previous seasons, in style, distinctiveness, becomingness, design and color thought—and are most creditable, vying in every detail with those of the imported models.

THE COLORS—This season promises to be a season of colors; coq de roche copper shadings, pam green, nell rose, the Dresden blues and the mixed Bulgarian shades are shown in great profusion; the brown shadings and the burnt colors and linen shades and black-and black and white effects are also shown very strong. Some of the striking colors are used singly, others in beautiful combinations.

THE UNTRIMMED HAT SECTION is overflowing with newness and becoming styles; mostly small shapes, many elongated styles in every color and black.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Jennings, Louisiana, has adopted the commission plan of government.

Colonel Roosevelt has promised to attend a conference of his Pennsylvania followers in Philadelphia this month.

It is expected that the Republican caucus of the Sixty-third Congress will re-elect Representative Mann, of Illinois, as minority leader in the House.

Victor Berger, for two years the lone Socialist representative in Congress, has returned to Milwaukee to resume the editorship of his newspaper in that city.

Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, aged 38; Senator Shepherd, of Texas, aged 39, and Senator Lea, of Tennessee, aged 34, are called the babies of the United States Senate.

A special election will be held in the Massachusetts district on April 15 to elect a successor to Representative John W. Weeks, who resigned to become United States senator.

In the Sixty-third Congress Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, will be the oldest senator in point of service, while Senator Stephenson, of Wisconsin, aged 84, will be the oldest in years.

The Sixty-second Congress in its last days increased the salary of the Secretary to the President from $6,000 to $7,500 a year, and made provision that hereafter this should be the permanent compensation.

A curious similarity exists in the careers of the two new senators from Colorado, John F. Shafroth and Charles S. Thomas. Both were reared in Michigan and educated at the University of Michigan and both have served as governor of Colorado.

Woodrow Wilson is the second Princeton graduate to become President of the United States. The first was James Madison, who graduated from Princeton in 1771. The high honors are still divided by Harvard University and William and Mary College, with three Presidents each.

Judge Nathan Goff, the new United States senator from West Virginia, has had a most distinguished career. In the Civil War he served in the Union army and was brevetted brigadier general. President Grant made him district attorney in West Virginia and President Hays appointed him Secretary of the Navy. President Harrison appointed him circuit judge in 1892 and last year President Taft made him judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, Nebraska and Nevada are to vote on equal suffrage this year. Next year, it is expected, the question will be decided in Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin. In Delaware, Mississippi, Kentucky, North Dakota, New York, Virginia and Pennsylvania the vote on the question is to be deferred until 1915.

NEARLY 60 YEARS MARRIED.

Trenton, March 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Roberts [illegible] years married March 16, and they have but one ambition which they would like to have realized before they die. They do so want to live one year longer so they can say that they have lived happily together as man and wife for sixty years. Mrs. Roberts, who is seventy-eight years old, is rugged and hearty, but of late Mr. Roberts, who is eighty-three, has not been in the best of health. There are two children, Harry J. Roberts, an engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad, residing in Harrisburg, and Mrs. Hannah L. Claypool, of Trenton, with whom the old couple live at 6 West End avenue.

STYLES OF THE RIVIERA.

It is an accepted fact that to find the last word in fashion one must go to the Riviera, and it is therefore most fitting that Gimbel Brothers should have chosen this portion of the Mediterranean coast for the background of their Promenade des Toilettes. An endless array of the newest spring and summer models are displayed on a flower-decked terrace overlooking the blue waters, with Monaco and the Casino in the near distance. The gowns are worn by living models, who promenade along a flower-hung pathway, terminating in a spacious corridor with white marble pillars gleaming beneath their decorations of asparagus fern. The setting is beautiful, yet none too beautiful for the charming gowns displayed.

Gowns of all descriptions are exhibited, from the street suit to the evening frock. There are some excellent models of riding habits and bathing suits; also suits for outdoor sports. The afternoon dresses for summer wear are astonishingly lovely, and show the newest materials and colorings. There are models for every style of beauty, and every type. If you have ever faced the question of what special style or coloring is most becoming, a visit to this exhibition will solve the problem for you.

Little girls' frocks and coats are also displayed, and these are charming. The hats come in for their share of attention, and parasols and various other dress accessories are not forgotten. It is impossible to describe in detail any of the models. They are all beautiful in the extreme, and display all of the newest features of the fashions of the moment. Here one may gain an intimate acquaintance with the art of the leading Parisian coutouriers, and every woman owes it to herself to take advantage of the event.

Our entire stock of Ranges and Heaters was on the ground floor in our warehouse at the time of the fire. Some were water damaged and have since rusted; a good blacking will make them look like new. Others were untouched, but the insurance companies have paid for them, and, as in all cases, the savings will be passed on to you.

GO-CARTS

Many of the Go-Carts and Carriages were slightly damaged by water; others are as good as when they left the factory. We are going to sell them at 75c on the dollar.

RUGS

Some of the rugs are smoke damaged; others were simply water soaked, while still others are brand-new. All are to go at less than the cost of new material.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

LENTEN SALADS.

ONE has usually many early vegetables to vary the monotony of Lenten fare, but here is a salad that may be made with canned tomatoes.

Macaroni and Tomato Salad.—Take a cupful of cold boiled macaroni, cut it fine and add an equal quantity of drained tomatoes cut into small pieces and a grated white onion. Dust this lightly with salt and pepper, moisten with a boiled dressing and serve heaped in a mound on a bed of heart lettuce leaves. Pour over the salad half a cupful more of the dressing and garnish with capers and stuffed olives.

Mock Oyster Salad.

Oyster Plant Salad.—Take a bunch of salsify or oyster plant, one cupful of diced celery, six sliced stuffed olives, half teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a cupful of olive oil, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of onion juice and a dash of paprika.

Scrub the oyster plant, then stew in salted water. Rub off the skin and cut the roots into inch lengths. Prepare a French dressing of the salt, oil, vinegar, onion juice and paprika. Marinate the oyster plant and celery separately in it for twenty minutes, then combine. Garnish with parsley or watercress and stew with olives.

Fancy Salads.

Molded Celery Salad.—Take fresh, crisp celery and chop in inch pieces. Split these into thin lengths, dry and place on ice. Beat the yolks of two eggs very stiff and drop in olive oil to make a cup of mayonnaise. Thin with lemon juice when it grows too thick to beat. Season with a teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cayenne. Dissolve one and one half tablespoonfuls of gelatin in a little cold water and steam it over a teakettle until it is smooth and thin. Cool this, beat in the mayonnaise and add one and one-half cupfuls of celery. Put in a smooth, round mold and leave overnight. The next day turn it out on a flat dish, surround with white lettuce leaves and serve with thin crackers.

A Floral Salad.

Beet Salad.—Take five boiled beets uniform in size. Remove the skins and hollow out the centers with a sharp knife. Shape the hollowed beets to represent the petals of a flower, cutting down about two-thirds of the way. In the centers drop mayonnaise dressing and the chopped meats of blanched almonds. Serve on chilled heart of lettuce leaves.

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

Russian blouses will be very fashionable this spring. Here is an attractive model that is simple and easy to make. The big collar is a pretty feature, but if the square neck finished with bands is preferred it can be used with equal propriety. The sleeves can be cut off at the elbows if desired.

For the medium size the blouse will require four and five-eighths yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with three-eighths of a yard twenty-seven inches wide for the bands shown in the back view.

RUSSIAN BLOUSE WAIST.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 40 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7766, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The great Equal Suffrage parade at Washington, D. C., still continues one of the chief topics of conversation and comment. Senator Gebhardt and his daughter, Miss Elinor, gave to the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield on Monday afternoon a glowing account of the splendid pageant, which astonished everybody by the size and character as well as the beauty. "The most beautiful thing of its kind I ever saw," said the Senator, "and when we looked into the faces of those fine, purposeful women, thousands of them, and contrasted them with the average male voter, there was little need of further argument." Senator Gebhardt declares the Washington parade to be the most important and far-reaching single event in the whole history of woman's battle for enfranchisement. Even "the wrath of our enemies" has been made to serve us for the too evident indifference, and in some cases, actual hostility and insults of the Washington police have aroused a storm of indignant protest all over the land.

The U. S. Senate has adopted two resolutions which seek to get at the facts, while Representative Hobson who marched with twenty other Senators and Representatives, and who had previously asked for and been granted a federal cavalry escort by Maj. Gen. Wood; which assistance however, was declined by the Washington chief of police, is determined that there shall be a congressional investigation into the matter. Senator Gebhardt thinks that the police had no conception of the strength of the Equal Suffrage movement and expected few marchers and few observers on March 3. Indeed it was freely asserted in Washington by many that the woman's parade would be a "frost." Hence, the enormous crowd, the throngs from Baltimore and all the outlying towns were a baffling surprise to the unsympathetic police. Gertrude Atherton, the noted novelist, who was in the parade, ascribes the abominable treatment of women that day to the old fashioned southern man's attitude toward her. "Men of the old school profess to idealize women," she says, "but secretly despise them."

Theory and Practice.

At the legislative hearing in Massachusetts last week, there were but few of the prophecies of dire results which have marked the hearings in past years. We used to be told that equal suffrage was utterly contrary to nature and should never be granted. This year the anti speakers said over and over that it ws inexpedient "at this time," and pleaded for delay.

Very effective points in answer to Miss Minnie Bronson were made by the working girls who spoke from experience. Miss Bronson had said that night work for women was absolutely forbidden in Massachusetts. The representative of the telephone operators said, "Call up Central at 2 a. m., and see whether it is a man or woman's voice that answers you." The representative of the Fall River textile workers told how late at night the women had to work, after their hard day in the mills, to keep their children clean. "All through the quarter where the mill workers live," she said, "you will see the women hanging out their washing at 11 p. m." Much had been said of the fine protective laws for workers and little of their poor enforcement. Mrs. Odell, of the Lowell Trade and Labor Council, said that the factory inspector noticed the tea leaves in the sink, but did not look to see if the safety appliances were in order. Only a few days later a boy was caught in the shaft, and when the women pressed the safety button to stop the machine, it would not work—and the boy was burning up on the shaft.

Miss Bronson, who is represented as an authority on labor legislation, said that Colorado put no limitation on women's hours of labor, and Mrs. George had to pass a note up to her to inform her that Colorado has an eight-hour law. A. S. B.

The Woman Voter for March is a White Slave Traffic number. It contains a powerful article on "The Traffic In Women," by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw contributes a particularly fine paper on White Slavery.

Read the Woman's Journal of March 8, especially read "Why I Want a Vote," by Josephine Preston Peabody Marks, and the Herald prize paper by Mrs. Maud Nathan, president of the Consumers' League. The prize was $100.

Nothing Doing, Madam!

"Floating gently into the Chronicle office like a belated valentine," says the Spokane Chronicle, "comes this neat little missive from Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, who dwells in New York: "'We offer for publication an illustrated anti-suffrage page. Among those who have contributed are Miss Ida M. Tarbell, Mrs. John Martin, ... Hon Elihu Root, Hon. Charles S. Fairchild, Henry A. Wise, Esq., and others. This material, including matrices or electros, will be sent without cost to you for your use as you see fit. Write or wire your desires at once.'

"It's nice of you, Mrs. Dodge; but there's nothing doing—absolutely nothing doing, ma'am, at all.

"If the people of this State didn't know anything about equal suffrage; if they had an idea that the woman who votes must be six feet tall, have a voice like a football rooter, a hand like a blacksmith, and a disposition like a mule; if they believed it was all right for wives and mothers to give hours to studying bridge rules or spring styles in bonnets, but positively ruinous to read about the history of this nation, its needs and its hopes; if they thought it demoralizing for their daughters to know whether Woodrow Wilson is a Republican or a Progressive; if they expected the sweethearts and sisters to spend election week rounding up the saloon vote and campaigning in the shady district, then, Mrs. Dodge, they might care two straws how Ida Tarbell shrieks about it, or what Elihu Root ruminates, or what Charley Fairchild thinks he thinks. But they don't.

"They've tried it, madame president; and they propose to keep on trying. They've seen the ballots of this State's skirted citizens help to smash rings, break party lines to fragments, and clear the way for reforms. They have found that these new voters have no use for the rascal in office, for the hypocrite, for the grafter, the booby or the rake. They have seen feminine officials take control of public affairs with energy, tact and ability that made the records of masculine years seem tame and feeble. And they know that, from Amundsen's coldest cache to Peary's farthest igloo, the world holds no fairer, brighter, no gentler, no truer, nor better, no dearer wives or mothers or sisters or sweethearts or daughters than the voting women of Washington.

"There's nothing doing, Mrs. Dodge—absolutely nothing; and that's why."

MARVELOUS OF MICROSCOPY.

Chicago, Ill., March 12.—A complete copy of the Bible written on a square inch of glass is one of many interesting exhibits illustrating the marvels of modern microscopy that were displayed here today at the opening of a national convention of microscopists and microphotographers. The convention sessions are being held at the Academy of Sciences and will continue several days. The chief aim of the gathering is to bring the microscope into more general use, particularly along the lines of protecting mankind against disease and pointing the way for remedies.

CHILD LABOR AND POVERTY.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 12.—From all parts of the country men and women who have dedicated their lives to the betterment of the moral and physical condition of the child worker are arriving in this city to take part in the annual conference of the National Child Labor Committee. The sessions of the conference will begin tomorrow and continue until the end of the week. "Child labor and poverty" has been selected as the general topic for discussion.

IN PLAINFIELD.

The Evidence is Supplied by Local Testimony.

If the reader wants stronger proof than the following statement and experience of a resident of Plainfield, what can it be?

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 1009 South Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "There was a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and various other remedies but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store. They made a lasting cure. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly today as I have been for the past five years."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.—Advertisement.

OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE RACE ON THAMES TOMORROW

London, March 12.—The annual boat race between the crews of Oxford and Cambridge universities will take place tomorrow and interest in the great acquatic event is as keen as ever. The contest, as in previous years, will be rowed over the Thames course from Mortlake to Putney.

Both crews took their final practice spins this morning and the unanimous opinion of the critics was that both crews are superior to those of last year. The odds are slightly in favor of Oxford, though everyone agrees that it is likely to be a close contest. If the water is rough tomorrow the toss of a coin for choice of stations may decide the race.

The race will be the seventieth in the series of annual contests between the Oxford and Cambridge eights. Of the total Oxford has won 38 and Cambridge 30. In 1877 the contest resulted in a dead heat. The best record for the distance (about four and one-quarter miles) is 18 minutes 29 seconds, which was made by the Oxford crew two years ago.

BASEBALL ELECTION.

A meeting of the Y. M. A. A. baseball team will be held at the home of William Conger, at 331 East Third street, tomorrow night for the purpose of eelcting officers for the coming season. All members of the association are requested to be on hand. A social will follow the business meeting.

C. E. "RUBBER SOCIAL."

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will hold a "rubber social" at the chapel tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The admission fee will be a pair of rubbers. These will be sold and the proceeds will be used for the flower fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ingham, of Indianapolis, Ind., are guests of Mrs. Thomas B. Titsworth, of the Babcock building.

STURTEVANT'S MACHINE SMASHES ANOTHER CAR

A Moon roadster, driven by Harold Willard, was run into this morning at Central avenue and Third street by a touring car owned by Charles Sturtevant, and who is said to have been at the wheel of the car. Willard was driving south on Central avenue at what he claims was a rate of twelve miles an hour, when he reached Third street and the other automobile while traveling west on the same street ran into the front of the roadster. The Moon car was badly smashed in the front, but the passenger escaped injury The Sturtevant car was not so badly damaged. Willard said this morning that he was traveling slowly, but that the other car was going at a much faster pace. Willard states that by all rules of the road he had the right of way, and was run into without warning, and, he alleges, that after the collision the other car speeded off and did not wait to see how much damage was done.

FREEHOLDERS TALK ABOUT ROAD WORK

Somerset Balked by State Commissioner Will Not Treat With Him.

Somerville, March 12.—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders has learned that State Commissioner Stevens will approve of no more roads to be improved under State aid until something is done with the road leading from the Central Railroad across the low land to and beyond the new Johns-Manville plant. The special committee appointed at a previous meeting of the Board reported that Col. Hine, of the P. S. C., had signified a willingness to meet the members of the Board on the premises, and efforts will be made to have a conference between the Freeholders, State Commissioner Stevens, Col. Hine and also the Manville people on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A number of residents of Franklin Township were present in behalf of the road leading from South Bound Brook to New Brunswick, on the west side of the river. It was claimed that this road had been improved a distance of four and three-quarter miles, leaving one and three-quarter miles yet to be improved, and that the Somerset County Board had assured members of the Middlesex County Board that the remaining section would be completed if the latter county would improve the road to the Somerset county line. This was done, but Somerset county had neglected to fulfill its part of the agreement. Mr. McCurdy, a large property owner along the unimproved part of the road, made an earnest plea to the freeholders to have the road improved, and also showed numerous photographs of the road, taken recently, and which indicated that the road certainly needed improving.

On invitation of Mr. McCurdy, the Board will be his guests at New Brunswick on Monday, after which an attempt will be made to go over the road to learn its condition by actual experience. It was estimated that it would cost $16,000 to properly improve the road.

The members of the Board will also meet at Weston this afternoon, for the purpose of going over the road from South Bound Brook to that place, along the canal. The residents of that section petitioned the Board some time ago to have this road improved.

On Friday the Board will meet on the Sycamore avenue bridge, in North Plainfield, for the purpose of viewing that structure, which is claimed to be too narrow.

Surrogate McMurtry made a personal request for a number of indices for the use of his office, which will cost from $500 to $600, and the matter was laid over for one month.

Representatives of a point concern and also of a patent fire extinguisher addressed the members in behalf of their products, but nothing was doing.

EX-REBEL CHIEF NOW A FARMER

Experience of Aguinaldo Is Fine Example.

SHOWS CHANGE IN ISLANDS

Wonderful Industrial Advancement Has Occurred In Philippines During Past Few Years—Splendid Schools Have Trained People In Work of Production—Teacher Tells of Work.

Aguinaldo, erstwhile rebel leader, engaged in farming and in the manufacture of a special brand of hemp braid for hats, is the enticing picture of Philippine industrial conditions drawn by J. C. Muerman, formerly division school superintendent of Cebu, P. I., now a rural school specialist in the United States bureau of education. Aguinaldo's peaceful pursuit is typical of the change that has taken place in the Philippines during the past few years.

Mr. Muerman describes entertainingly the remarkable educational advance in the islands since the day the first American teachers disembarked from the United States transport Thomas a dozen years ago. Unhampered by academic tradition and face to face with problems of education that were as big as civilization itself, these educators and those who followed them have gradually developed a system of Filipino schools under Filipino teachers that is rapidly transforming the social and industrial life of the islands.

Industrial Training Good.

Compulsory industrial training, fitted for the needs of everyday Filipino life, is the most distinctive feature of the island schools. The Americans have carefully studied the possibilities of the valuable raw materials abundantly at hand in the islands and are able to show the Filipinos how to make the most of them. Every Filipino schoolboy is required to do a certain amount of work with native woods and fibers. Every one must learn to till the soil by actually doing it in the school garden and in a plat of his own, and every Filipino schoolgirl is taught certain essentials of sewing and other home making arts. All the children in the schools are obliged to pass through this period of elementary training in the everyday tasks of life.

Lacemaking School.

Most significant in the scheme of industrial education is the recent establishment of the Philippine school of household industries. Two hundred women from different parts of the island were brought together at Manila, shown how to adapt their native skill in embroidery and lacemaking to the demands of foreign markets and then sent back to their homes to form centers of industrial progress in their own communities. The government has established a sales agency to dispose of the commodities thus produced.

One Filipino woman who was trained in the new school has 800 women working under her and is receiving from firms in the United States orders for thousands of embroidered shirt waists and handkerchiefs. The beautiful pina cloth, made from pineapple, is one product to which special attention is paid. Before the Americans came this cloth sold for from 10 to 50 cents a yard. The demand for it is now such that it brings from $1.50 to $3 a yard.

Hustle and Bustle New In Islands.

"The hardest thing American teachers in the Philippines have to contend with," says Mr. Muerman, "is the American spirit of hustle and bustle. The American is in too much haste. He wants to get everything done at once. He tries to overturn in a few weeks the traditions of centuries. And yet, coming into a country where the ideal tends to be that of manana—never do today what you can by any possibility put off till tomorrow—he has really made astonishing headway in transforming the Philippines into a country of today, where things move with something like American hurry. The old folks shake their heads and sigh for the good old times, but the young people, boys and girls alike, are glad to take advantage of the more efficient methods. They play American games and accept the educational opportunities offered them with equal adaptability, and it is through them that the new Filipino civilization is making its way irresistibly.

"Aguinaldo, with his hemp weaving and agriculture, may be a less heroic figure than the wily general who for so long eluded the American armies, just as clean streets and city high schools somehow make less noise in the concert of the powers than the roar of guns in Manila bay, but when the real history of humanity is written it can scarcely leave untold the story of the unselfish efforts of America to carry the light of education to the Philippines."

Bill Curbs Newly Wed Jokes.

Callithumpian serenades, parading of newly married couples through the streets or other pranks commonly practiced on the newly wed will be a misdemeanor in Pennsylvania if a bill introduced in the lower house of the legislature recently becomes a law. The proposed penalty for violation is a fine of $25 or thirty days' imprisonment.

Mrs. Charles Gullberg, of South avenue, who was removed to the hospital last week, remains in about the same condition.

TWO RUNAWAYS.

Miss Freda Ritcher, formerly of 822 East Second street, and Miss Margaret Coy, of Newark, succeeded in escaping Monday night from the State Home for Girls and are being sought by the police of the surrounding municipalities.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

Dr. F. Potterton, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will deliver an illustrated travelogue in the Park Avenue Baptist church on Thursday night. The subject will be "Hawaii, the Gem of the Pacific."

JAS. E. MARTINE FOR WITTPENN

Senator Says Jersey City Mayor is Strongest Man for Gubernatorial Nomination.

FIELDER IS SURPRISED

"Said Almost the Same Thing About My Candidacy," Declares Rival Who Doubts That Statement Is Authentic.

Trenton, March 13 (Special).—United States Senator James E. Martine, joins with his colleague, United States Senator William Hughes, in endorsing Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. When interviewed today in connection with his stand on the candidates for the Governorship, Senator Martine said that above all things he wanted the Democrats to win in the gubernatorial election, and that he thought Mayor Wittpenn would be far the strongest candidate the Democrats could name. Senator Martine's statement was as follows:

"Above all things I desire to carry New Jersey for my party in the gubernatorial contest. To do this we must present the most available candidate. All the gentlemen whose names have been suggested are personal friends; but this is a crisis with the Democratic party—friendship must step aside for availability. Having this in mind, I unhesitatingly say that the nomination of Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City, would meet with overwhelming approval on the part of the voters of the State of New Jersey, and I think he would be by far the strongest candidate our party could present for the nomination for Governor at the next election. With his nomination Democratic victory would be certain.

"With these views, I promise my support to the candidacy of H. Otto Wittpenn at the primary election.'

Acting Governor James F. Fielder, who will be one of the leading candidates against Mayor Wittpenn for the nomination, is surprised that Senator Martine should endorse the Jersey City Mayor. After learning of Senator Martine's statement today, Acting Governor Fielder said:

"I am surprised that Senator Martine should make such a statement. When I was in Washington recently, Senator Martine said almost the same thing about my own candidacy. Furthermore, I am inclined to doubt the authenticity of the statement as credited to Senator Martine."

MISSIONARIES WED IN FLOWERY KINGDOM

Announcements have just reached Plainfield of the marriage of Miss Anna DeForest Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron J. Thompson, to Rev. Dr. Jarius Polk Moore. The ceremony was performed in the Reformed church, Yokohoma, Japan, on Saturday, February 8, and the couple will be "at home' at Sendai, Japan, where they are engaged as missionaries. The bride is a cousin of Mr. and Mrs. Corra Ryno, of Codington avenue.

Mrs. Moore has been connected with Ferris Seminary in Japan for many years, being supported there by the Reformed church in America. She formerly lived at Readington, this State, and is wdely known throughout this section of New Jersey. Dr. Moore is connected with the German Reformed church, and has been a missionary in Japan for several years.

RARITAN MAN DROPPED DEAD OF HEART DISEASE

Raritan, March 13.—Richard Dahoney, aged about 70 years, almost a life-long resident of this place, dropped dead at his home this morning. He had been employed as watchman at the new mill at that place for the past forty years. He had been home for only a few days on account of illness and was sitting on a lounge in his home on First street, when he suddenly fell over dead from an attack of heart disease. Besides his wife, he is survived by two children, John R. Dahoney and Miss Kattie Dahoney, who lives at home.

Dahoney was a prominent and respected resident and one of the oldtime settlers of Raritan who are fast passing away, and was the last of his immediate family. The funeral services will be held at St. Bernard's church, at Raritan, on Saturday.

Arthur E. Smith, engineer and contractor, of Park avenue, returned home last night from a three weeks' trip to Panama. Mr. Smith made the trip to the Canal Zone for the purpose of looking over the construction of the canal locks and walls. He was accompanied by Edward Laing, the stationer.

DR. WM. CARR TALKS ON "ORAL SURGERY"

Plainfield Dental Society Hears Him at its Quarterly Banquet.

"Oral Surgery" was discussed in a practical way by Dr. William Carr, of the New York Dental College, at the quarterly meeting and banquet of the Plainfield Dental Society at The Homestead, last night, and he also gave a demonstration, using a patient, which he is treating in New York, for the purpose of illustrating this branch of dentistry. There was an informal discussion of the subject by the dentists. The banquet was held first, being served by Mrs. Henry Johnson, after which Dr. Carr spoke.

Dr. Walter Mansell, of Philadelphia, who has just associated himself with Dr. Charles L. Moore, of West Front street, was among the following present: Drs. C. W. Leonard, B. F. Leonard, Guy Hillman, George Moore, Charles L. Moore, David G. Atwood, W. E. Stelle, Frank Clawson, O. B. Whitford, Raymond Stevens, Charles Davis, R. W. Meeker, F. W. French, of this city; Drs. Naylor and George Voorhees, of Somerville, and Chauncey M. Egel, of Westfield.

During a business session there was some talk of the Union County Dental Society becoming affiliated with the local society, but no formal application for membership had been received and no action was taken. It is not known whether the two societies will be merged into one or not. The matter will probably come up at a future meeting.

TWO BUSY MONTHS IN CHARITY WORK

The Report of C. O. S. Shows How Busy It Has Been Recently.

The Charity Organization Society has just completed two of the heaviest months of the year. Not since last April have so many familes been brought to its attention; 125 in February and 119 in January. During the two months 521 persons have interviewed the office in the Babcock Building as to how persons in distress could be assisted. And there have been in the same period 400 applications made at the office from persons themselves in trobule, or needing some kind of assistance. The office staff made 884 visits during the two months to the homes or in behalf of the applicants. Thirty families in January and twenty in February were also visited by volunteer visitors working with the secretary. 970 letters in January, (preceeding the State Conference), and 272 in February were written and 408 received.

What was done for these various persons? Many needed only advice or some slight help in obtaining clothes. Second-hand clothing is on sale daily and many a mother is able to keep her child in school with the help this provided. The clothing is sold very cheap but buyers do not become listed on the Charity Organization files. More clothing, by the way, is always needed, both for giving away and for selling and the society will collect bundles in answer to any call. New clothing amounting to $54.36 was given away during January and February. Other relief was, board $90.10, milk $52.86, provisions $64.50 and other things. So that the total relief expended in the two months amounted to $470.62. Whenever possible relatives of friends were found to meet these demands and their reimbursements to the society will amount to $281.51 if all is collected that is promised.

Besides careful visiting and relief giving the society has obtained for nineteen of its applicants during January and February the best help of all, viz: work. For twenty others medical attention has been provided, eleven were placed in institutions; two of these being feebleminded women whose cost to the community, if they had been allowed to remain at large, it is hard to estimate either in dollars or in suffering. Ten cases had to be taken before the court to compel proper support or behavior. Last but not least, two children were placed in private homes. Again it is difficult to estimate the advantage to a community when a child is removed from a bad environment to a good one. The society needs at present two good, free homes, one for a colored boy of eight, one for a white girl of twelve. Anyone knowing of such homes or desiring to take either of these children will receive all details by telephoning 103.

COWARD BUILDING VISITED BY FIRE

Willet's Shoe Store Principal Loser by Flames Which Did $10,000 Damage.

ORIGIN IS A MYSTERY

Patrolman Discovers Blaze in the Early Hours—It Was Started Among Some Refuse in Rear of Willet Shop.

Fire, which was discovered by Patrolman McIntyre in the rear of A. K. Willett's shoe store on Park avenue, near Front street, at 2:45 o'clock this morning, resulted in $10,000 damage to the Coward building and the contents of not only Mr. Willet's store, but that of Mulford Estil, adjoining. An alarm was sent in from Box 12, and when the department arrived the basement and first floor of the building were filled with smoke.

The blaze started in some old lumber and waste material in the cellar of the store and rapidly found its way through the wood-work into the stores. The firemen at first had some difficulty in locating the fire. Finally an entrance was effected through Mr. Estil's store and three lines of hose were laid in to the rear of a hallway, where it was learned that the blaze originated. The dense smoke combined with the intense heat made it difficult for the firemen to make much progress for a time.

The basement and first floor, especially in the shoe store, were deluged with water, and Mr. Willett's loss will aggregate at least $3,000. He recently received his stock of spring and summer shoes, the largest part of which is damaged more or less by water. That the firemen were able to prevent the flames from reaching the second and third floors, seems remarkable, for they had gained much headway when the department arrived.

Although the fire did not reach the second floor, the law office of W. S. Angleman, as well as the offices of F. A. Dunham, civil engineer, and Charles Mann's barber shop were damaged to some extent by the smoke and broken pains of glass.

Mr. Willett carried insurance which it is believed may cover his loss, as did also Mr. Estil. The building was partially covered by insurance. Mr. Willett expects to be ready for business within a few days, Mr. Estil is able to continue without interruption, although a large part of his stock, water-soaked, will have to be replaced. Neither Fire Chief Doane nor the tenants of the building are able to give any cause for the fire, beyond the fact that it is known to have started among some waste material in the rear of the building.

MRS. WHITON'S SHOWER FOR THE BRIDE-ELECT

The young women comprising the Sunday-school class of the Congregational church, of which Mrs. John M. Whiton is the teacher, gave a "shower" yesterday afternoon for Miss Marjorie Phillips, at the home of Miss Myra Emmons on Prospect place, the borough. There were about fifteen guests and Miss Phillips received a number of useful gilts.

Miss Phillips is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Phillips, of Madison avenue. She is to be a June bride, at which time she will be married to James Mauger, son of Nicholas Mauger, of West Seventh street.

TO DECIDE WHETHER HE WAS HIS WIFE'S AGENT

Stahl & Kinney, contractors and builders, have instituted proceedings in the District Court against Mrs. Ella E. Banks, wife of William E. Banks, of Netherwood avenue, to recover $403 balance claimed to be due the plaintiffs on work done on a grocery store situated at the intersection of Leland avenue and East Second street. The contract for the work was made, it is said, through William T. Banks, who the builders claim was acting as agent of his wife who owns the property. From papers on file in the District Court clerk's office, it appears that the dispute arises as to whether or not Mrs. Banks' husband was her agent in the matter. A jury trial has been demanded and this morning Judge Walter L. Hetfield set Wednesday, March 26, as the trial date.

Charles M. Dolliver and Robert Newton Crane, represent Stahl & Kinney, and Codington and Blatz have been retained as counsel for the defendants.

The question involved is a novel one as establishing an agency between husband and wife.

REED APPOINTMENT NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

He Will Be Corporation Counsel and Hetfield, Jr., Likely as His Assistant.

Former State Senator Charles A. Reed will be appointed corporation counsel by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, and it is expected that the Council will promptly confirm the appointment. Following the amendment of the ordinance permitting Mr. Stewart to make the appointment, it was necessary that ten days should elapse before the Mayor could present Mr. Reed's name. Mr. Stewart on Monday asked the Council to adjourn for one week so that he might name Mr. Reed at that time.

While it has been announced that the office of assistant corporation counsel will not be created, Mr. Reed will be privileged to have an assistant, and it is expected that Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., will be chosen for the position. There are many important questions now before the Common Council and for that reason Mayor Stewart is especially anxious that the appointment of a corporation counsel be settled as soon as possible.

MRS. C. FRANK FRENCH GIVES CHARMING TEA

Mrs. C. Frank French, of Washington avenue, gave a charming tea at her home yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Katherine Blaizer, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. James Headley, of Union. Vocal and instrumental music was furnished by skilled artists during the afternoon, after which tea and refreshments were served. Manning's orchestra provided a popular program while the tea was being served and later for dancing. The tea room was tastefully decorated with jonquills and ferns, the prevailing colors being yellow and green.

MRS. A. V. HEELY TO GIVE "SUFFRAGE QUESTIONAIRE"

Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, of West Eighth street, has arranged for a "suffrage questionaire" for Mrs. M. J. Reynolds, who is the house guest of Mrs. Frank deLacy Hyde, to be held at her home on the morning of Tuesday, March 18. Mrs. Reynolds is an old Colorado voter, and the guests are invited for the purpose of asking her all the questions they please about equal suffrage.

On the same day, Mrs. Hyde and Mrs. Reynolds will lunch with Mrs. Frank W. Smith, president of the Woman's Club, of Westfield, and in the afternoon, Mrs. Smith will give a large parlor meeting at which Mrs. Reynolds will speak. Meetings are being arranged for Mrs. Reynolds in Rahway, Roselle, Cranford, Scotch Plains and Garwood.

MOTION PICTURES OF SCENES IN THE CITY

Albert C. Pegg, representing the American Travel Film Company, Inc., of New York, arrived yesterday to complete negotiations which have been under way for some time between his company and Manager Sanderson, of the Plainfield theatre, to have motion pictures taken showing the industries, scenery, business establishments and street scenes of the city. Frederick C. Wainwright, the chief photographer of the company, arrived today, and the actual work of taking the pictures will be begun tomorrow provided the weather permits.

Announcements of the plan of operation will be made daily as it is the desire of those interested that as many persons as possible appear in the pictures in order that Plainfield will show up well when the pictures are exhibited throughout the country. Among other interesting features of the pictures will be a run of the local fire department which will probably be made the first of next week, through the courtesy of Chief Doane, and pictures of the business section on Saturday.

GAVE "500" PARTY.

Mrs. Robert Gow, of West Fifth street, gave a "500" party at her home, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Walter Apgar received first prize and Mrs. Allan Coddington the second prize. The decorations consisted of red carnations. Refreshments were served after the play.

DEALS LENIENTLY WITH OFFENDERS

Judge DeMeza Sends Only One of Nine Youthful Prisoners to Jail.

LECTURE FOR PARENTS

Three Are Placed on Probation, One Goes to Jail and Five Get Suspended Sentences on Serious Charges Because of Their Age.

Nine badly frightened boys, ranging in ages from eleven to seventeen years of age, who were threatened with a sentence in the Reformatory until they should become of age, when arraigned yesterday morning before City Judge De Meza on charges of attempting to wreck a train of the Jersey Central Railroad on Saturday, March 1, were confronted last night in the city court by their parents who were summoned by the judge to talk over the disposition of the serious charges preferred against their sons. The parents of the prisoners condemned the actions of the youthful offenders and the meeting resulted in three boys being placed on probation, five received suspended sentences and the remaining prisoner, Andrew Grieve, 14 years old, of 752 St. Mary's avenue, who had also been arrested on burglary and held under $500 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury, was taken to the county jail in Elizabeth to await his hearing on this charge. It is not considered that the railroad company will press the charges of attempted train-wrecking against him, considering that a prison sentence confronts him on the burglary charge. Gustav Hersh, implicated with Grieve in the breaking and entering charge as well as in the charges preferred by the railroad authorities, was in Newark at the time, where he was re-arrested through the timely action of William H. Schooley, the police court reporter of the Daily Press, after escaping from the local lock-up early in the afternoon.

Those placed on probation are: Raymond Vail, 13 years old, of 12 Duer street; Walter Holliwell, 16 years old, of 208 Spooner avenue, and Lorenzo McCrae, colored, 12 years old, of 643 West Fourth street. The others are: George Kennedy, 14 years old, of 124 Liberty street; James Mallek, 15 years old, of 38 Harmony street; Leland Todd, 13 years old, of 508 Watchung avenue; Louis Rosenthal, 12 years old, of 505 West Third street, and Samuel Fay, 11 years old, of 512 West Third street.

The offenses took place the latter part of February and on Saturday, March 1. On the latter date, it is alleged, they placed large pieces of scrap iron on the local track of the Jersey Central Railroad near the Fanwood "cut." The obstruction waas removed by the crew of a passing pusher engine, thereby averting a possible serious accident. They also confessed to "hopping" moving freight trains; uncoupling the cars when wishing to alight; applying the brakes to the freighter they were riding on and allowing the engine ahead to continue on its way with but part of the long line of cars it was hauling.

Addressing the parents last night, Judge De Meza said: "The violations of the law which your sons are charged with are punishable by severe prison terms, but because of their youth, we cannot send them to jail. Their recent actions have caused the lives and property of many people to be placed in jeopardy and I want to impress upon you very strongly that because they are under age, you are morally responsible for their acts. In the future I want every one of you to look after your boys and if they are brought before me again on any charge I will make a thorough investigation to ascertain whether you have been reasonably observant of their habits and actions."

Continuing, the court told the parents the serious results that might have happened by their actions and warned the boys to stay away from the railroad.

COLORED YOUTH IS A FIRE HERO NOW

Abraham Lincoln Brown Prevents Big Blaze, Damage Being But $500.

Prompt action on the part of Abraham Lincoln Brown, a colored lad living in the thickly populated section of South Second street and Muhlenberg place, prevented a big blaze at 2 o'clock this morning. He was aroused from his sleep by the cry of fire and looking out of his bedroom window, saw flames shooting from Leon Ferrera's barber shop at 672 South Second street.

Quickly dressing himself, the lad hurried to the fire-box nearby and sent in an alarm which brought the department to the scene within a few minutes. The flames had gained considerable headway and before they could be extinguished $500 damage resulted. The interior of the shop, as well as the house occupied by the family, which comprises the building, was pretty well gutted.

It was learned that Ferrera, owner of the shop, had gone to New York in the afternoon, leaving an Italian, who boarded with him, in charge. He was the first one to discover the blaze and rushing to the window he yelled "fire!" at the top of his voice. His cries awakened young Brown.

Although frightened at what he did, explaining to Fire Chief Doane that he did not intend to do anything wrong in breaking the glass of the alarm box, Mr. Doane complimented the lad and commended him for his prompt action in sending in the alarm. The loss is fully covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is not known.

HARTRIDGE PUPILS' FAIR ON SATURDAY

To Raise Fund for Support of One or Two Beds at the Hospital.

The pupils of The Hartridge School will hold their annual fair for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital on Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 6 o'clock, at the Hartridge Auditorium. The purpose is to earn money to support for the year one child's bed, and, if possible, two.

The pupils and teachers have been very busy for the past week providing for their tables. There will be for sale flowers and candy, under the management of the seniors and the fourth grade. The members of the third and second grades academic will use the large stage of the auditorium as a refreshment room, in which chocolate, tea, ices, cake and sandwiches will be served. The first grade academic will preside over a fancy-work table, at which articles both elaborate and simple will be sold.

An innovation in the form of a boudoir table is being planned by the older members of the elementary department, who do not hesitate to say that New York does not furnish more beautiful boudoir caps, slipper rosettes, hand-painted fans and hair ornaments than they will have to offer. The table of the fourth and fifth grades elementary offers allurements to children in the way of games of all descriptions. Easter cards and Easter toys will be found at the booths of the third and the first grades respectively, while the children of the second grade will have, as usual, a most charming Japanese booth, where souvenirs, toys and ornaments will all be found.

Last year the children cleared over $400, and they are earnestly hoping that they will have as great a success this year.

MRS. VICTORA JABINSKI.

HERSCH ESCAPED, WAS RECAPTURED

Daily Press Reporter Locates Young Desperado in Newark and Causes Arrest.

BROUGHT BACK HERE

Leader of Gang Accused of Many Burglaries and of Attempting to Wreck a Railroad Train—May Get a Jail Sentence.

Arrested on Sunday night and charged with burglary; arraigned Monday before City Judge De Meza and held under bonds of $500 to await the action of the Grand Jury; held in the local jail until yesterday morning, when he was arraigned in company with nine other boys on charges of train wrecking; escaped from his cell at police headquarters and fled to Newark; re-arrested at Market and Broad streets, in that city, and brought to this city today by Patrolman MacDonald—such has been the eventful record of Gustav Hersh, 17 years old, of West Front street, since falling into the hands of the local police. He is considered one of the most daring burglars for one of his age and is believed by the police to be responsible for many "jobs" which have baffled the police of this city.

Hersh was arrested Sunday night, after entering the store of Scheuer Brothers in West Front street and several other establishments in the city, with his companion, Andrew Grieve, 14 years old, of 752 St. Mary's avenue. The usual custom followed by the local authorities when a prisoner has been held to await the action of the Grand Jury is to have him committeed immediately to the county jail in Elizabeth. Hersh, however, being implicated in the attempted train-wrecking charges on which nine other boys were arraigned yesterday, he was held at local headquarters to appear before the court on this offense. Through neglect which cannot be accounted for by the police, the cell in which Hersh was lodged was not locked, although an iron door leading to other parts of the prison was securely fastened. When food was brought to the other prisoners confined in cells, this door was left open, the officer in charge thinking that all cells were locked. Hersh, watching for his opportunity, stole from his cell through the doorway into the main corridor of the prison, forced a rear door leading to the prison yard and gained his liberty. This took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

When Chief Kiely returned and learned of the prisoner's escape the police of neighboring cities were promptly furnished with Hersh's description. Shortly before 8 o'clock, the fugitive was located by Traffic Policeman Benfer, of the Newark force, enjoying an ice cream soda in a drug store at Market and Broad streets, one of the busiest "four corners" in the country.

Credit for the capture of the fugitive is due to William H. Schooley, the police court man of the Daily Press reportorial staff. Schooley, who is known as "Scoop" among his friends here, spied Hersh and quickly got hold of the traffic policeman, whom he accompanied to the place where Hersh sat. Schooley questioned the youth and his arrest followed. The modest "Scoop" appealed to the editor to have his name kept out of print in this connection. He admitted his identity, and said "the judge in Plainfield gave me another chance and paroled me." He was taken to the Newark headquarters and placed in a cell. Hersh served two years in the Rahway Reformatory for highway robbery. His victim was a minister.

C. H. Baker, of 222 West Second street, was responsible for Hersh's capture here on Sunday night. The latter applied to Mr. Baker for a furnished room and his suspicions aroused, by a ruse he caused the arrest, after examining Hersh's baggage and finding stolen money.

Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, officiated. There were numerous floral tributes. The pall-bearers were Donald McInnes, G. H. Condict, William Doig and James Kenney. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

ROSELLE'S MAYOR IN A FRAUD CASE

Harwood Fisk Calls Charges Against His Company "Spite Work."

False representations about the chances of money-making in Brazil are alleged against the management of the Gem Dredging Company in a suit filed yesterday in the Supreme Court at Newark against Mayor Harwood Fish, of Roselle Park. Mayor Fish is sued as president and general manager of the Gem Company by C. F. A. Salter, No. 291 Pearl street, New York.

"Spite work, fostered by enemies of mine in Roselle Park," is the Mayor's reply.

According to Mr. Salter' complaint, Mayor Fish knew the falsity of representations made in circulars of the company. The organization with its successor, into which it was merged, the Gem Exploration Company, was formed to exploit alleged rich Brazilian diamond and gold fields.

Mr. Salter attacks a statement in a prospectus stating that "our properties have been thoroughly tested and have proven immensely rich. Experts say our property will yield $1,000,000 per mile on the basis of $5 per cubic yard, while tests show anywhere from $5 per cubic yard up.

He alleges the Gem management claimed the company owned 1,400 acres under a perpetual lease, and declares the property really consists of leases and concessions of no legal value.

The complainant states he bought 250 shares of stock in 1909 and has realized nothing. He says the company is insolvent.

Mayor Fish stated yesterday that Mr. Salter's investment was $62.50, while he himself had put in $18,000.

Erwin's lectures on the wonders of the western land continue to receive unstinted praise from the press of New York and northern New Jersey where he has spoken and shown his views and moving pictures to crowded houses during the present winter. Erwin, of San Francisco, in the auditorium of the Fourth Presbyterian church, where he gave the second of a series of illustrated lectures on the Great West. The number present was double what appeared on Monday night, and the attendance is certain to be increased tonight and tomorrow evening." It is expected these highly artistic and educational lectures will draw equally large and delighted audiences at the High School Monday and Tuesday nights, March 17 and 18.

A Paragraph on Spring Hats

First of all, it might be well to have one thing understood. No manufacturer can use my good reputation to sell his poor hats.

And for that reason I want you to pin your faith as I have pinned mine to

Mallory Hats

The Spring 1913 models in soft and stiff shapes are unusually well represented in my store.

Look for the largest hat advertisement ever placed by any manufacturer in the world. You will find it in the Saturday Evening Post and it's an ad of the Mallory Hat.

A Pronouncement On Spring Clothes

There are only two ways to compare things — by their points of sameness and their points of difference.

There is no superiority in sameness—no advantage in tameness!

Men are strong only as they are "different." And so with clothes!

Rothberg's clothing is preeminent not on account of its similarity with what other stores sell, but by reason of its "points of difference."

Spring Suits & Top Coats as Low AS $10; AS HIGH AS $25

My Spring array has the scope of an encyclopedia.

At $12 and $15 you will see things never before attempted at the price—at $18 and $20 features that are only shown on the high priced "tailor-mades."

Won't you come in today?

ELEPHANT CAN'T OUST BULL MOOSE

Decided That Progressives Can't Be Removed From District Election Boards.

Trenton, March 13.—The State Civil Service Commission has just received an opinion from Assistant Attorney General Gaskill that it has no jurisdiction to investigate the party status of persons now holding the position of Republican election officers, and of those recorded upon its list of eligibles as Republicans. Mr. Gaskill also rules that there is no warrant in law for the exercise by the Commission of any control over election officers after the Commission has discharged its function of examination and certification, and the appointments to the election boards have been made.

The opinion was requested because the question of the power of the Commission to make such an investigation had been raised by Republican County Chairman Barkley, of Hunterdon county. Many election officers all over the State appointed as Republicans, have turned to be Progressive. The Republican leaders claim this leaves them without representation upon these boards and violates the election law.

Under this opinion, however, there seems to be no way of removing them.

WHO WILL BE 13TH WHITE HOUSE BRIDE?

Maybe She Will Be one of President Wilson's Charming Daughters.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—For the first time since the brief administration of President Taylor the presidential household has three marriageable girls forming a part of it. The advent of the President and Mrs. Wilson and their three "bachelor" daughters has naturally aroused Washington society to speculation as to the possibility of one or more White House weddings during the administration now begun.

The first White House wedding took place a little more than a century ago, when Mrs. Madison's younger sister, Lucy Payne Washington, widow of a nephew of George Washington, was the bride.

During President Jackson's administration three weddings took place in the historic mansion, those of Delia Lewis, of Nashville, and Alphonse Pageot, a member of the French legation; Mary Easton, a niece of Mrs. Jackson, and Lucien B. Polk, and Emily Martin, a relative of the President, and Lewis Randolph.

The next White House wedding was that of Elizabeth Tyler, daughter of President Tyler, and William Waller, of Virginia. The next was the famous wedding of Nellie Grant and Algernon Sartoris.

The White House weddings of late years, in the order in which they took place, were those of Emily Platt, a niece of President Hayes, and General Russell Hasting; Miss Frances Folsom and President Cleveland, and Miss Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth.

The list to date totals an even dozen. Now the question asked is whether one of the Wilson girls will flout superstition and become the thirteenth White House bride.

SECTION GANG STRIKE BROKEN.

Camden, March 13.—Fully manned section gangs are once more at work along the South Jersey lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad affected by the recent strike of Italian laborers, and officials of the big corporation say that so far as they are concerned the strike is over. None of the striking workmen will be taken back into the employ of the road. The place of every striker has been filled by English-speaking recruits. Strikebreakers have been imported from a distance, and extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent trouble, as the company is determined to take no chances. The Pittsburgh and New York railroad police divisions arrived here today to help the local authorities. The strikers organized a local branch of the Industrial Workers of the World, and this is said to be the real basis for the company's decisive action.

At the association's annual meeting Monday night, John Gruchsler and Joseph Wilson, of Trenton Lodge, asked information concerning the organization, with the idea of forming a similar one in Mercer county. The second degree was conferred upon four candidates by the Bergen County Lodge team.

FREEHOLDER DECISION.

By the decision of the Supreme Court handed down yesterday, the small Board of Freeholders in Union county is ousted from office and the old large Board, which the people voted to abolish, is empowered and directed to continue in office. That an appeal will be taken immediately to the Court of Errors is already decided. Undoubtedly moreover, within a few days bills will be introduced in the Legislature for the purpose of providing for small Boards in second class counties and if this be successful, as it probably will, undoubtedly a special election will be held in this county at the earliest possible date.

The Supreme Court in declaring the small Board invalid did so on the ground that the amendment passed in 1908 to the original small board law, known as the Strong act of 1902, excluded second class counties from the provisions of the act. Consequently when the people of Union county voted for the adoption of the Strong act in 1911 they were voting for a law not then in existence. The Gill act of 1912 restored second class counties to the provisions of the law, but the court held that as the election had already taken place before the Gill law was enacted, it did not validate the election.

It is most unfortunate that such botch work is done in enacting laws for the enormous expense to which the taxpayers are put becomes so much lost money and moreover the people's will is circumvented. In this particular case the voters of Union county decided that they wanted a small board to run their county affairs and they selected the men desired for the membership of seven. Now they must begin anew. It is not the fault of the courts; it is the fault of legislators who have a slovenly way in enacting laws.

PLAINFIELD IS FORTUNATE.

Former State Senator Charles Arthur Reed will be nominated by Mayor Stewart as corporation counsel, it being announced that his name will be sent to the Common Council on Monday night where unanimous confirmation it is naturally expected will be given at once. It is a great thing for Plainfield to be able to obtain the services of this admittedly able, shrewd and resourceful lawyer and in saying this we but voice enlightened public opinion. While in the Legislature, Mr. Reed was chairman of the committee which revised the municipal laws and his splendid services as borough counsel in North Plainfield are too well known to need comment. But let us recall, that when serving in that capacity, he was so zealous in the discharge of his duties that he invariably attended the Council meetings and materially aided in expediting business by giving his opinions then and there. In our own city in the past it has been the custom to refer many important questions to the municipality's lawyer for he was never present and that meant an annoying delay. We sincerely hope and expect that Mr. Reed will be good enough to follow the precedent he himself established in North Plainfield.

DEMOCRATIC ENGLAND.

Great Britain, the most democratic of all the monarchial types of government, will soon have a law-making body as democratic as our own Congress. During the present session of Parliament it is proposed to abolish the House of Lords and the heredity principle which at present entitles lords spiritual and lords temporal to seats in the upper house will be forever gone. The chamber to be created in its stead, it is reported, will consist of about 150 senators or lords of parliament and their office will be an elective one. The absolute veto power now vested in the upper house will also be but a memory. When this comes to pass, and it is presumed that it will in a very few months, Great Britain, whose king is clothed with far less power than our President, will be a monarchy in name only.

TIME FOR ACTION.

The police court story of the youths charged with having committed burglaries and attempting to wreck a train reads more like a tale from the dime novels of the Deadwood Dick and Nick Carter type than a true story of what actually happened in a high class community like Plainfield. The worst of it is that, every now and then boys as bad as these are arrested for offenses with which we generally associate the hardened criminal. It does seem that the time has come when Plainfield must have a probation officer to watch over boys of this class, for apparently their parents cannot or will not give them the attention they demand.

It appears to be an easy matter for boys to obtain liquor in Dunellen for of late youths have been seen about the borough's streets in an intoxicated condition. On Saturday night particularly was this condition of affairs most noticeable. The man who is furnishing them with liquor is the man the police should lose no time in running down and if Judge Daly, of Middlesex, is as pronounced in his views as Judge Beekman, of Somerset, the treatment awaiting the guilty one will be most severe.

The new subscribers' list book issued by the New York Telephone is the worst outrage perpetrated upon the public in some time. It is an example of inconveniencing the public to pay fatter dividends and it is not surprising that the protest against the book is general.

The contributing editor for Saturday's issue will be a Plainfielder who has had years of experience on New York, Philadelphia and Washington dailies and who at present is night editor of the New York Evening Telegram.

Linbarger, of 189 Putnam avenue, Brooklyn, and nephew of Mrs. Percy McVoy, of this city, died yesterday at his parents' home from peritonitis. He had been ill about a week. ENGLISH BOYS HAVE LOST ART OF PLAYING AT SCHOOL

So Many Children Forced to Labor They Are Dull.

That boys are losing the art of playing is a deduction to be drawn from the numbers of juvenile workers in Lancashire (England) towns. Owing to a shortage of labor many boys of school age are said to be working for hours before school in the morning, during the dinner interval and then again at night.

"I have seen children fall asleep at their desks," said Robert Henderson, the president of the Manchester Certified Class Teachers' association.

"It is a fact," he added, "that the boys have forgotten how to play. They are dull, heavy and listless and rarely play proper games.

"The games we played in our school days are dead and gone. In the recreation interval all the modern boy can do is to kick something about.

"The girls are a little better than the boys. They still play shuttlecock and use skipping ropes."

CLEVER BOY GETS DEGREE.

At Eighteen Prodigy Is Made Doctor of Philosophy by Harvard.

Norbert Weiner, who has for years past born the sobriquet of the "cleverest boy in the world," was recently, at the astonishing age of eighteen years, awarded a degree of doctor of philosophy at Harvard university.

Young Weiner, who, despite a studiousness and scholarly accomplishment that began before he was out of pinafores, is a sturdy youth and athletic, entered Tufts college when he was eleven years old and graduated when he was fourteen. Since then he has studied at Cornell, specializing in philosophy and mathematics. During the present year, at an age when most boys are entering their freshman year, he received his third year degree.

Weiner was born in Columbia, Mo., Nov. 26, 1894, his mother being a Missourian, his father a Russian, who is now a professor of Slavonic languages at Harvard.

When he was eighteen months old Norbert knew his alphabet and at three could read and write. At six he had mastered arithmetic, algebra, plane and solid geometry. At eight he read books in Latin, German, French and Russian; at nine he was solving problems in trigonometry and calculus, and at twelve he was an expert in chemistry.

SIMPLON TUNNEL IS MINED.

Great Tube Through Alps Could Be Destroyed by Pressure on Button.

The Italian government has followed the example of the other European powers in making military preparations. It has increased the garrisons along the Swiss frontier, and military engineers are engaged in building new forts commanding the passes from the mouth of the Simplon tunnel toward the east.

Chambers for mines have been excavated at the Italian entrance to the great Simplon tunnel, and these have been filled with secret electrical connections underground, so that by pressing a button twenty miles away the tunnel can be shattered. The mines have not yet been charged with explosives.

In the middle of the Simplon tunnel there is a massive steel door which may be worked from either the Swiss or Italian side in order to block the passage of trains or troops.

TO MEASURE ESKIMO MINDS.

Psychologist to Accompany Stefansson Expedition Into Polar Region.

The University of Iowa will send the first psychologist to be a member of a polar expedition north this spring with Vilhjalmar Stefansson. Luther E. Widen of Iowa will accompany the expedition with a complete laboratory outfit of psychological apparatus to measure the efficiency of the Eskimo mind. He will make a special study of the blond Eskimos discovered by Stefansson.

The testing instruments to be carried by Mr. Widen will be the first ever tried on a primitive race. He believes that data of great value may be procured by a comprehensive study of the mind of the wild Eskimo, practically the only race which has not felt the influence of the white man.

ANGORAS IN THE PARCEL POST

Cats Shipped by Mail to Aid Fund For Wisconsin Girls' School.

Shipping cats by parcel post is the unique development in the endowment fund campaign for Grafton Hall, a preparatory school for young women conducted at Fond du Lac, Wis., by the Episcopal dioceses. The cats are two valuable Angoras. The shipment was made from a friend of the school at Jonesville, the proceeds of the sale of the cats to be added to the fund.

The cats traveled 200 miles and were shipped in a basket which contained a box of food for them, the outside of the parcel bearing the inscription, "Postal clerks may feed the cats if they cry."

One of the Angoras sold for $100 immediately upon reaching its destination.

Iowans to Vote on Suffrage.

THE DEATH PACT.

Did Rubinstein Keep His Word With His Former Pupil?

Writing her memories of Anton Rubinstein in Harper's Magazine, a former pupil tells a strange story of the great pianist's death.

"One wild and blustery night I found myself at dinner alone with Rubinstein, the weather being terrific even for St. Petersburg. The winds were howling round the house, and Rubinstein, who liked to ask questions, inquired of me what they represented to my mind. I replied, 'The moaning of lost souls.' From this a theological discussion followed.

"'There may be a future,' he said.

"'There is a future,' I cried—'a great and beautiful future. If I die first I shall come to you and prove this.'

"He turned to me with great solemnity.

"'Good, Liloscha; that is a bargain, and I will come to you.'

"Six years later in Paris I woke one night with a cry of agony and despair ringing in my ears, such as I hope may never be duplicated in my lifetime. Rubinstein's face was close to mine, a countenance distorted by every phase of fear, despair, agony, remorse and anger. I started up, turned on all the lights and stood for a moment shaking in every limb till I put fear from me and decided that it was merely a dream. I had for the moment completely forgotten our compact. News is always late in Paris, and it was Le Petit Journal, published in the afternoon, that had the first account of his sudden death.

"Four years later Teresa Carreno, who had just come from Russia and was touring America—I had met her in St. Petersburg frequently at Rubinstein's dinner table—told me that Rubinstein died with a cry of agony impossible of description. I knew then that even in death Rubinstein had kept, as he always did, his word."

HE WAS GAME.

An Experience of Bob Taylor When He Started Out to Lecture.

"When the late Senator Bob Taylor first went upon the lecture platform he was in bad financial fix, but if a crowd of his down in Taylor, Tex., had known it we would not have played such a mean game on him," said Colonel Albert W. Carpenter of the Lone Star State.

"Little did we know at the time of the glorious nature and generous soul of a man who made half a million dollars and died penniless.

"What we did was to dragoon the orator after the delivery of his speech into joining an absurd sort of secret society. As a part of the ridiculous initiation he was sworn to set up a dinner to all present immediately on the adjournment of the lodge. There was a good big crowd of us, and the eating and drinking came to just about $100, or exactly what Bob Taylor had netted by his talk. Subsequently he confessed to a friend that after paying the score he had barely enough cash to enable him to pay railroad fare out of the town.

"A year later he came back to our burg, and the whole community turned out to hear him. Never did a man get a more flattering ovation in a small village. The profits of his lecture this time were $800. Before leaving us somebody reminded him of his previous visit, whereupon the genial Bob laughingly inquired what motive had animated us in thus despoiling him. 'We just wanted to see, governor, if you were game,' spoke up one of the townsmen, and in recounting the affair later Bob Taylor always added, 'You can bet your life I was glad that I had proved game.'"—Los Angeles Times.

"EAT SPARINGLY"—JOHN D.

That's His Health Rule, but He Eats Pretty Heavily.

The prevalent impression that John D. Rockefeller cannot eat is apparently without foundation in fact, as is proved by the daily menu he enjoyed recently at Sea Breeze, Fla.

For breakfast he usually had oatmeal, lamb chops, baked potato, toast, milk; for luncheon, clam broth, fish, cold chicken, toast, rice pudding; for dinner, oysters, consomme, fish, roast chicken, rice, spinach, baked potato.

"Most people eat too much," said Mr. Rockefeller one day. "My theory is to get up from the table a little hungry."

By following this rule he is hale and hearty at seventy-three and weighs 168 pounds.

NAVY TO AID SEA SCOUTS.

Branch of Boy Scout Movement Receives Official Sanction.

Former Secretary of the Navy Meyer issued recently a general order to all navy officials and commandants of navy yards and naval stations to cooperate in every way possible in the development of a division of "sea scouts" as a branch of the Boy Scouts of America.

Notice of the issuing of the general order was received by Colin H. Livingstone, president of the national council of boy scouts, and the national organization took immediate steps toward the developing of the sea scouts as an important adjunct to the boy scouts' organization.

WATCHING BILLS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Union County Assemblymen Interested in Fate of Their Bills in the Senate.

Elizabeth, March 13.—The Union County delegation in the Assembly is much interested in several bills that are now pending in the Senate, some of which were passed by the House some time ago. Among the measures is Assemblyman Leonard's bill, Assembly, 286, which provides for the payment of the wages of all railroad employes in cash twice monthly. It is alleged that the bill is being held up in the Senate because of opposition on the part of the railroads, and as a result the organizations with which railroad employes are affiliated are taking an active interest in getting speedy action on the measure.

Mr. Leonard's bill, Assembly 237, which provides that police sergeants or other officers in charge may accept bail for prisoners under certain conditions, is also awaiting action by the upper house.

The House yesterday passed Assemblyman Griffin's bill authorizing the Governor to appoint a commission of two bona fide representative master builders and two bona fide journeyman building trade mechanics to make an investigation of the building industry in New Jersey and report back to the next Legislature the advisability of an effective license law for all master builders and construction companies of the State. Mr. Griffin is of the opinion that the bill will pass the Senate without difficulty.

SUES LOCAL CONCERN TO RECOVER FOR HURTS

Mrs. Hannah E. Case, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, has instituted suit for $5,000 damages in the Supreme Court against George E. Hall, Mrs. Ada Cumming and Isaac R. Giles, doing a wholesale confectionery business in Plainfield under the name of I. R. Giles Company, for injuries which she claims in the complaint she sustained January 11 last, as the result of an accident occurring near Whitehouse. It appears by the complaint that Mrs. Case was the guest of Amos Karokoff, who was driving her in a wagon to the Whitehouse railroad station, and that an automobile truck owned by the defendant company was proceeding along the road in an opposite direction. As the two vehicles approached the horse driven by Karakoff became frightened and the latter, it is said, signalled the driver of the auto to bring his machine to a stop, which he failed to do. As a result, it is alleged, the horse became unmanageable and ran away and threw Mrs. Case from the wagon to the ground, severely injuring her.

The case will be tried in April in Hunterdon county. Robert Newton Crane, of this city, represents the plaintiff. Mrs. Case is the mother of Mrs. Clarence Sharkey, of this city.

MAYOR ISSUES ORDER.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart, following a talk with Police Chief Kiely today, issued orders that the law prohibiting expectorating on the sidewalks be strictly enforced. The Mayor urged that arrests be made of every offender noted by the police, in an effort to wipe out this evil which spreads disease and endangers the general health of the inhabitants. All offenders are liable to $10 fine.

TWO BILLS AFFECT TRUST COMPANIES

Senator Pierce Introduces one Relating to Taxation of Shares of Their Stock.

Trenton, March 13.—Senator Pierce, of Union county, yesterday introduced a bill in the Senate providing for the taxation of shares of stock of trust companies, belonging to residents of this State in the taxing district where they reside. The bill also provides that shares belonging to non-residents shall be assessed against the holder in the taxing district where the trust company is located. The tax in each instance is so levied that it will be a lien against the stock from May 20 of each year. Mr. Pierce also introduced a bill which repeals the supplement of 1905 to the act of 1903 for the assessment and collection of taxes.

A bill by Senator Low provides that no trust company shall maintain a branch agency without the approval in writing of the Banking Commissioner, which approval shall not be given unless the capital of such company actually paid in shall exceed the amount required for the incorporation of such trust company to the extent of $100,000 for each branch established.

GAS METER THIEVES ARE STILL AT WORK

Held at police headquarters on suspicion that they had looted the quarter gas meter in their own home, Detective Sergeant Flynn is today trying to obtain evidence against Arthur and George Lee, of 211 Plainfield avenue, who were brought to Chief Kiely's office today and questioned. They firmly maintained that they were innocent.

Reports are being received daily by the police from the Public Service Gas Co. of looting of meters in the West End section of the city. Yesterday another suspect was brought to headquarters and cross-examined but no positive information of the thief could be secured.

SMALL BOARD MEETS TO PLAN FOR ACTION

Leavitt, Collector of Large Board, Says Appeal to Errors Court Welcomed.

The small board of freeholders of Union county is in session this afternoon at Elizabeth for the purpose of deciding what action will be taken as the result of the Supreme Court decision yesterday by which the small boards are ousted and the large boards upheld.

It is the general opinion that final disposition of the question will be up to the legislature. It is said that legislation can be enacted whereby the small boards selected at the last election can be placed in office.

Nathan R. Leavitt, of Elizabeth, county collector under the old board, said yesterday that the only possible way for the legislature to oust the old board is to empower a judge to appoint the members. Mr. Leavitt thought that the case should be taken to the court of appeals for final disposition.

"We would welcome the taking of the case to the Court of Appeals," Mr. Leavitt said yesterday. "We are anxious to have this matter over with and we want to know just where we stand. The Court of Appeals is the only place where it should be taken."

Abe J. David, of Elizabeth, the small board's appointee for county collector, made a statement to the effect that the legislature will decide the trouble. He is of the opinion that the legislators have power, by enacting certain legislation, to sustain the small board.

Thomas J. Pierson, of Elizabeth, director of the small board, declined to discuss the decision yesterday, and sent out notices to the other members of the board requesting their silence.

"It will be settled at the meeting of the board this afternoon," said Mr. Pierson, "and nothing can be announced before that time."

That the small board can be sustained by the legislature, was the statement of John N. Cady, director of the large board yesterday. Mr. Cady thought that the small board would take the case to the court of appeals.

PERSONAL.

Miss Sophie Gefer, of this city, was among the passengers today on the Steamship Kleist, of the North German Lloyd Line, for Bremen.

Dr. Walter Mansell, of Philadelphia, a graduate of the dental department of the University of Pennsylvania, has associated himself with Dr. Charles L. Moore, of West Front street. The two dentists were classmates at Pennsylvania and Dr. Mansell was best man at the latter's wedding.

Thomas, West, formerly of this city, but now of Toronto, Canada, was in town yesterday visiting his old friends. He says that while Toronto is a fine city it is not to be compared with Plainfield.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Bible School campaign of the First Baptist church is moving forward rapidly, the entire church being interested, realizing what the success of the effort will mean. It is already evident that the complete success of the campaign will necessitate the early erection of a modern Sunday-school chapel adjacent to the church. So many public school teachers have recently united with the school that a class especially for them and for others will be organized immediately after the Easter vacation with a competent teacher. An invitation is extended to all not connected with some Bible school to join this class.

Why I Give My Wife Free Rein

Lots of people wonder why I give my wife free rein, and let her do anything she wants about the home. Shall I tell you why? It's because I know she's got good business sense and knows what she's about.

She runs the home just the way I run my business, just as economically and perhaps a little bit more successfully. When she buys her household supplies, does she go to the store and pay top prices for them? No, indeed. She buys them direct from the factory and gets just TWICE AS MUCH FOR HER MONEY. For three or four years now she's dealt with Larkin Co. and every couple of weeks sends them an order for teas, groceries, soaps and other things she needs around the house. I thought it was all foolishness at first until she proved to me how much it saved her and how much better we could live.

What I can't understand though, is why every woman doesn't do what she does. My wife tells me that anyone can get a Larkin Catalog D 24 and learn all about this money-saving plan, simply by writing to Larkin Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Why don't you get your wife to do this? It will not only save you money, but will enable her to have a little extra cash of her own, and be lots happier and better off for it.

The Classified Advertisements

in the Plainfield Daily Press are result-producers and the best investment for the price paid. They cost one cent a word undisplayed and cover the entire field—Wants, to let, for sale, board, furnished rooms, real estate exchanges, automobiles, etc. Strict supervision is given to admit only those that are unobjectionable. A ten-cent advertisement has often closed a transaction that has amounted to hundreds of dollars. Property-owners who are seeking the best paying tenants or those who have money to buy real estate; business men who want help above the average; manufacturers who are looking for skilled labor; housewives who want to reach competent help for their homes—these and others will find the logical medium. Experience aplenty has proven that the Daily Press supplies the best help, secures the best tenants and makes the best sales of real estate and other needs. It goes among its readers in the evening when there is time to consider the subject properly; it is read by a class of people who want and seek the best.

There are vacant rooms and desirable real estate that would bring owners quick returns if advertised in the Daily Press and hundreds of small businesses could be economically and resultfully advertised at one cent a word.

Copy for all these received Daily until 1:30 o'clock.

A FALSE ALARM.

C. C. Wisely, a representative of the School Progress League, incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, has been mistaken by some residents of the city, as a collector for the local Board of Education, whereas he is not affiliated in Plainfield educational circles, but is a solicitor for the "School Progress," a report in book form, published for the interests of teachers, parents and pupils. The rumor that such a person was canvassing the West End section of the city for the local Board of Education is evidently without foundation.

AGED MAN REGAINING LOST FACULTIES LIKE A CHILD

After Removal of Tumor in Brain, Patient, Sixty-three, Is Born Again.

Every morning a number of the leading surgeons of Denver gather at the county hospital to watch the remarkable spectacle of a man sixty-three years old literally a baby. Each day the patient acquires the use of one or two more of his faculties until he can now move, eat, recognize persons and speak a few words.

The man is Luther Dionne, who for five years has been practically dying from a tumor in his brain. He was paralyzed, speechless, sightless and outwardly dead on Dec. 30 last, when Dr. Leonard Freeman, assisted by Dr. Clarence Hall, operated upon his brain.

They removed a tumor larger than a walnut from the cortex of the brain. This tumor had destroyed all the nerve fibers except those running to the heart and lungs.

For two weeks after the operation Luther Dionne lay as if dead. He was fed through the nostrils. Then he began to undergo a complete second birth into life. His fingers began to move. The next day his toes moved. On the third day he could lift his arm slightly, and so on, day after day, the rejuvenation continued. At the end of ten days he regained his sight, but was like a baby and knew no one. When two weeks had passed he spoke a word or so, repeating after the nurses "food" or "doctor" or "nurse."

TO PHOTOGRAPH NEW PLANET

Astronomers on the Alert For Celestial Body Recently Discovered.

Astronomers the world over are nightly expectant that they may be able to show to the world the card "up their sleeve," which consists of a new planet immense in size and which is making its force felt without the remote orbit of Neptune.

Whether the new planet will prove to be inhabited or merely a formation without sustaining life is still a matter of conjecture, as the astronomers have not been able to obtain a photograph of the coming planet.

The Rev. Father Odenbach of St. Ignatius college, New York, says the first announcement of the impending discovery came some time ago from Professor Pickering, noted Harvard university astronomer. At the time of Professor Pickering's announcement to his brother astronomers it was said the new planet had manifested itself by its influence on Uranus and Neptune.

Ever since Pickering's message the world of astronomy has been busy searching the heavens with powerful telescopes hoping every minute to "snap" a photograph of the new world.

"The discovery of the planet and its final placing will be one of the greatest achievements of modern astronomy," said Father Odenbach. "Astronomers nightly are searching the heavens with photographic telescopes to prove its existence. It will be by means of photographs that it finally will be discovered."

WILL EXPLORE THE AMAZON.

Expedition Off to Pierce Darkest South America.

Dr. William C. Farabee, formerly in charge of the Peabody museum, at Harvard university, left Philadelphia recently at the head of a costly expedition, to penetrate "darkest" South America. The party plans to be gone for three years and to explore the Amazon river and its tributaries.

The University of Pennsylvania has furnished the expedition with a private yacht, fitted with electric lights, copper wire screens to keep out insects and an elaborate medical equipment.

The explorers plan to obtain some historical remains of the native tribes. Dr. Franklin B. Church of New York, who will accompany the expedition, will make an extensive study of tropical diseases.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

IN PLACE OF MEAT.

NUTS should have a high place in the estimation of the good church man or church woman because they may be used to provide really satisfactory substitutes for it when meat is banished from the table.

Baked and Roasted.

Some recipes for delicious nut foods are the following:

Nut and Celery Loaf.—Take a cupful of well chopped celery, one of nut meats and one of breadcrumbs. Add one cupful of milk, one tablespoonful of melted butter, salt, pepper, onion juice and poultry stuffing. Knead with the hands. Form into a loaf and bake about one hour.

Nut Roast.—Boil a pint of beans until tender, but not mushy. Put in a baking dish. Take a tablespoonful peanut butter rubbed to a smooth cream in half a cupful warm water; salt and pepper. Mix half of this with the beans and put the rest on top. Bake in the oven about an hour. If liked sweet add a little molasses.

Combined With Cheese.

Nut and Cheese Roast.—Simmer two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion in one tablespoonful of butter and a little water. When tender mix one cupful each of grated cheese, chopped English walnuts and soft stale breadcrumbs together and moisten with the water in which the onion has been cooked. Add half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper, also juice of half a lemon. Pour into a shallow baking dish and bake in the oven until brown.

Fried Nut Meats.

Nut Croquettes.—Take two cupfuls of hot riced potatoes and three tablespoonfuls of cream, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of cayenne and a few drops of onion juice. Beat thoroughly and add one egg yolk. Cook one-fourth cupful of soft breadcrumbs with one-fourth cupful of cream until the consistency of a thick paste. Then add one-half egg yolk and salt to taste. Cool and add nutmeg broken in pieces, using as many nutmegs as will be held together by the paste. Shape the potatoes into small balls. Hollow out the balls and fill with the nuts. Cover with the potatoes and roll into balls. Dip in egg and crumbs. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper, serving very hot with garnish of fried parsley.

Jersey School News.

The School News, started one year ago, is a monthly paper, published at New Egypt, New Jersey, at the rate of fifty cents a year, for the purpose of disseminating the interesting and important news from all schools throughout the State, including action of Boards of Education, school laws and rulings of the State Department of Education. One page of each issue is devoted to the interests of homes and parents and edited by Mrs. A. H. Reeve, president of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers, who cordially endorses this publication.

Institute of Child Life.

The American Institute of Child Life is an endowed corporation, chartered under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, as an educational institution without profit, to interpret the best that is known about children to those who love and care for them; also to give children and young people an appreciation of the best things in life and to equip them with just the right material for their individual needs. Its work is endorsed by the New Jersey Congress of Mothers.

Dunellen.

On the afternoon of Thursday, March 6, the parents and teachers of the Dunellen schools organized a Parent-Teacher Association with forty charter members. G. H. Reutshler, principal of schools, was authorized to appoint a committee of three to present nominations for office, and a constitution at the following meeting which was set for March 18. The following women consented to serve: Mrs. M. R. Dayton, Mrs. J. N. Apgar and Mrs. A. B. Vanderveer. Rev. E. R. Brown, of the Presbyterian church, and Mrs. W. M. Sandford, Jr., of Plainfield, spoke at length of the advantages to a community and to individual members resulting from the work of such organizations.

Social Centres.

So much interest has been shown in the opening of the school buildings for social purposes that arrangements have been made to have three well known speakers come to Plainfield to give information about what is being done in other places, and suggestions for the work in this city. John Collier, secretary of the Department of Recreation of the People's Institute of New York city, will speak on "The Opening of the School Buildings for Social Purposes;" Frank Kiernan, supervisor of social centre work, and Daniel Bergen, president of the citizens' committee, will tell of the work in Jersey City. All who are interested in the moral uplift and progress of the city are invited to attend this meeting, to be held in the auditorium of the High School, Friday evening, March 14, at 8 o'clock. Mayor Stewart is expected to preside.

For the Water Trip.

Before taking a trip on the water apply to the face a thin mask of cold cream dusted over with powder. Be careful not to rub the mask off during the trip. Immediately upon your return remove the powder and cream with a lotion containing a dissolving agent. Soap and water are a mistake, as they add to the irritation resulting from tan and sunburn. After several applications of the astringent, for which a small sponge should be used, pat the skin dry with a soft cloth, but do not rub it. Later make a second application of a good skin food.

Here and There.

For girls going on motor trips the little boxes of individual toilet requisites are quite indispensable. In these tiny leatherette boxes come four articles—a sachet, a wee bottle of perfume and of toilet water and a box of talcum powder. Each set is sufficient for a trip.

Instead of buttoning a flounce to a petticoat get a narrow beading twice the circumference of the skirt at the height of the ruffle. Sew one half of it to the skirt at that height and head the flounce with the other. They are easily joined with a ribbon, with the ends finished. This gives a dainty finish, and the flounce does not sag.

—Going to a store to buy an advertised article, is always a money-saving trip.

CHANCE FORECASTS.

Writers of Old Who Dimly Pointed to Modern Inventions.

Chance phrases in the literary works of other days describe with uncanny exactness inventions of far later times. For instance, we find in the "Prolusions" of Strada the Roman, which were published in the year 1617, what might be held to embody a crude description of wireless telegraphy.

Strada represents two friends as carrying on a correspondence by means of a "certain loadstone which has such virtue in it that, if it touches two needles when one of the needles begins to move, the other, although at ever so great a distance, moves at the same time and in the same manner."

In 1674 Robert Hooke published a work wherein he observed that as glasses improve the vision so ways might be found to improve our other senses. "It is not impossible," says he, "to hear a whisper a distance of a furlong, and perhaps the nature of the thing would not make it impossible although that furlong should be ten times multiplied." This seems to be a fair forecast of the telephone.

In "Gulliver's Travels" Swift causes his hero to relate in the voyage to Laputa that the astronomers there "have likewise discovered the two lesser stars or satellites which revolve about Mars." This has been held to constitute a satire on sham science. Nevertheless Professor Asaph Hall a few years ago discovered the two tiny satellites.

It was more than 1,700 years ago that Lucian gave an account of the manner wherein the inhabitants of the moon drank "air squeezed or compressed into a goblet" so that it formed a kind of dew. This clearly suggests liquid air.

The same writer in "Vera Historia" humorously and at some length describes an aerial ship the sails of which were inflated by a whirlwind, thus impelling it through space to the moon.—Harper's.

SYSTEMS IN GAMBLING.

Monte Carlo Just Smiles at Them and Keeps on Winning.

There are only two games played at Monte Carlo—roulette and a simple card game called trente et quarante. One is assured that these games are played quite fairly and that the percentage in favor of the bank is 61 to 60. Whatever it may be, this certain percentage in favor of the tables overcomes all systems that human ingenuity can work out by any law of averages. M. Blanc will permit you to play any way you like, and to double your bet as often as you like until it reaches 6,000 francs at roulette or 20,000 francs at trente et quarante. Then you must begin over again, for it is quite clear that if one were permitted to double indefinitely it would only be a question of time and sufficient money to put M. Blanc out of business.

Thus it happens that M. Blanc, who takes no chance, wins against all those who are permitted to take any sort of chance they like. Sir Hiram Maxim disposed of all systems when he shattered a popular delusion in these words:

"If red has come up twenty times in succession it is just as likely to come up at the twenty-first time as it would be if it had not come up before for a week. Each particular coup is governed altogether by the physical conditions existing at that particular instant. The ball spins round a great many times in a groove. When its momentum is used up it comes in contact with several pieces of brass and finally tumbles into a pocket in the wheel which is rotating in an opposite direction. It is a pure and unadulterated question of chance, and it is not influenced in the least by anything that has ever taken place before or that will take place in the future."—Melville Davisson Post in Saturday Evening Post.

Bringing Up a Dog.

A writer in Country Life in America gives some advice on the bringing up of a dog. As he tells it, the process looks easy enough. The first and most important lesson for a pup to learn is to stop anything he may be doing when you say "Stop" and to continue when you say "All right." If well learned this will explain to him all future commands. After this comes the lesson to lie down when you command "Down" and to stay down while you leave him. For this latter it is best to tie him to something and then if he does not drop when you call "Down" from a distance return quickly and, scolding, push him down forcibly. A caress and a taste of food should be his reward if he does right.

Old Time School Hours.

In Scotland, up to the middle of the eighteenth century, the usual school hours were from 6 a. m. till 6 p. m., with two breaks of an hour each. Some schools opened an hour earlier and worked so long as daylight lasted. No alteration in the hours was made on Saturday, and even on Sunday a certain amount of school work was done. The holidays were restricted to a day at Candlemas and at Whitsun, and a fortnight in the autumn.

WE GIVE AND REDEEM SURETY COUPONS

Hahne & Co.'s Awnings
Positively Best Obtainable
At 10 Per Cent. Less If Ordered Now

Why not save this 10 per cent. on the cost of your awnings, when all that is necessary on your part is to say the word permitting us to go ahead with your order.

You need not pay until we deliver and hang your awnings.

We use absolutely the best materials that can be put into awnings, guarantee you the most careful workmanship and the most expert hanging, and give you the service at the lowest possible price.

No one can promise you any more and make good their promise.

We make and sell more awning than any other two or three shops in town. We've built the business on the basis of highest quality, best service and fair price.

We use the Best and Heaviest Galvanized Frames close to one-half inch thick, on all window awnings of standard size.

For porches we use, ⅜, ½ and ¾ Galvanized Pipe, the solid iron being too heavy for porch use because of the greater widths and lengths required.

We also use head rods attop of awnings, thus saving your woodwork and making awnings easy to put up or take down. Exclusive with us.

We Use the Best and Most Fully Guaranteed Awning Stripes, giving you wide choice of colors, including the popular browns and tans, reds, blues, greens—Colors That Will Not Run, no matter how much exposed to rain and wind they may be.

In making the awnings, the frames are enveloped in a pocket—a most important feature—introduced by us, copied by very few—so that they will withstand the heaviest wind storms.

If you will observe many of the awnings hung by others, you will find that the awning covers are attached to the frames only here and there with little patches, making it easy for a violent wind to rip them to pieces.

AWNINGS GENEROUS IN SIZE.

We will make all our awnings in Generous Sizes, making them look Dressy and Full, hanging as low as need be to keep out all the sun, yet so that they may be raised to let in the air when the sun is not beating upon your windows. There is as much difference between Hahne & Co. awnings and many that you get elsewhere as there is between a carefully tailored suit and the most ordinary hand-me-down.

If you want the best awnings at the fairest prices, send us work at once and our experts will come and measure your windows or porches, bringing samples of stripes for you to choose from, relieving you of any further worry or bother.

NEXT TIME, SCOOP, FLASH YOUR UNION CARD

"MAC" SAYS

Sunday-school baseball leaguers will issue their first "play ball" call tonight. Representatives are wanted from all of the teams contemplating entering the organization this season.

Several new organizations have signified their intention of obtaining franchises. This matter will also probably be decided at tonight's meeting.

A Manufacturers' league baseball team has been heard from. Although it looks as though there would be no factory organization this year, the Commercials have reorganized and will play independently at any rate.

Slocum and Frederickson are putting on the finishing touches to their preliminary training this week. Sunday they leave for Winston-Salem.

Captain Good was confronted with the problem of developing a string of twirlers for the Plainfield High School baseball team when the training program was first instituted but according to Slocum and Frederickson, who have been coaching the moundsmen, two good young pitchers have been tried out.

Sminck and Coughlin are the two most likely candidates for P. H. S mound duty. Coughlin twirled a few games last year, and although Sminck is out for the first time, he has a world of speed and good assortment of benders, a combination that ought to make him a reliable man.

Rahway High School seems to have had its cravings satisfied in the claims it made for the State basketball title. St. Benedicts vanquished the Rahwayites yesterday afternoon.

Rahway High has won eighteen games on its home court this season and the Newarkers were the first to break this string.

The telegraph wires from San Francisco were burdened last night with the startling news that "Rube" Marquard "had signed his contract with the Giants." Of course he has. He signed it a year ago—and for three years.

"If the wrestling game was only on the level," starts an exchange. Yes, and if Taft had gotten more votes than Wilson, or if Ty Cobb couldn't hit, a lot of things would be different. Considerable "if."

New Brunswick is still being mentioned as a contender in the new baseball league. When Brunswck determines it profitable to enter an organization of this kind it will be high time to stand from under as the well known heavens begin to fall.

Many and varied are the opinions concerning Jim Thorpe's ability to stick around the big circuit. To date we have not seen any of his signed stuff, so we are unable to tell whether he is a real ball player or not. The genuine ball tosser gets into newspaper columns about twice a week signing articles which he never saw.

TY COBB WITH BROOKLYN.

Ty Cobb, the Detroit baseball star, donned a Brooklyn uniform yesterday afternoon, and played the outfield for Manager Dahlen's crew. Don't worry, gentle fan, it was only for an afternoon. The Tigers' swatter was requested by the Trolley Dodgers' manager to fill in a gap in the outfield in an exhibition game and the Georgia Peach readily obliged. He showed that he still retains his eye for the safety clouts by lining out two beautiful singles that brought victory to the Brooklyns.

LEW WILTSE IN THE COME BACK CIRCLE

A Real Ball Player Resides in Netherwood—May Be an Advertising Slogan.

The angels of the baseball universe are smiling on the ambitions of Lew Wiltse. Mephisto and Socrates sink back in the shades of evenfall of Wetumpka Falls. Our Lewis—he is now a resident of Netherwood, and the erstwhile king pitcher in the Eastern League circuit, famous Tri-State League outlaw, etc., who has been disporting in Bound Brook and Scotch Plains uniforms for the last two summer seasons—has filed his application to affiliate with the Come Back Circle. Just a couple of days ago Lew nudged alongside of the Daily Press baseball writer in a trolley car and said:

"Say, boy, my arm was never better, and I could jump out of this trolley car and twirl a game," and the snow peaked face of Washington Rock stared blankly two miles away.

Getting down to brass tacks, Lew declares he is as good and even better than he was in years gone by. He has a desire to pitch but he avers that he prefers to play first base. He has two offers in mind just at present, one from the Syracuse Club, of the New York State League, and the other from Billy Hamilton's Haverhill club in the New England League. Unless he can obtain a renumerative position in the independent ranks in the metropolitan district Lew will try for the rekindling of a life germ in the minors, and he should make good.

It was only back in 1904 that Wiltse sprang into national prominence with Toledo, and the following season re-joined Baltimore and led the Eastern League twirlers.

COMMERCIAL NINE ELECTS OFFICERS

Manufacturers' League Team Makes Preparations for the Season.

One of the six Manufacturers' Baseball League teams has come to life again and is making preparations to open the diamond season once more. Members of the Commercial nine met at the Queen City Hotel, Monday evening, and reorganized the speedy aggregation they placed on the field last year which made such a creditable fight for league championship honors. The Commercials led the organization race the greater part of last season and were right in the running when the final games for the bunting were being staged. The early season pace the Commercials put up was terrific, however, and told on the players when they were called upon to fight for the title with the R. G. E. aggregation, succumbing to the latter in the final contest.

Raymond Guinn was elected to serve in the capacity of manager this year and Bert Banks will lead the team on the field. Nearly all of last year's squad is still available and a wealth of new material has sprung up. At the meeting Monday night it was decided to arrange a schedule to consist of out of town teams and any rival manager desiring to arrange games can do so by communication with the Commercial game booker at 401 Watchung avenue.

The candidates who have signified their intention of trying for the nine are as follows: Banks, Guinn, Conover, Staats, McVoy, Clarke, Van Zandt, Emmons, Harriman, Egan, Conshay, Lambertson, Brokaw, Freeman, Savage, Fritts and Randolph.

GOOD GAME AT THE HOPE CHAPEL GYM

Fast Newark Quintet Will Appear in This City Saturday Night.

A Newark basketball team will invade the confines of Hope chapel Saturday night and make an attempt to shatter the chapelites unbroken string of victories hung up on its home court this season. The High Street Presbyterian five, of New Jersey's metropolis, will be their opponents in the week-end tussel and from past season's performances on the part of the visiting churchmen, the Hope contingent will have to hustle to keep in the running.

The Newarkers will have no kick coming because of the size of the Hope chapel court as many other teams have had this and other seasons, for the home gym possessed by the Presbyterians is little more than a small sized room fitted up with a basket in each corner. The Newark court is triangular in shape with baskets set in the angular corners, and they will no doubt be considerably handicapped when they get on the open Plainfield court. Notwithstanding the size and position of the gym they have played their contests in this season the High Street five has become recognized in Newark for the article of basketball put up and will make a suitable opponent to compete with the local church boys. The Newarkers have a record of fourteen wins and five losses.

The two teams will lineup as follows:

HOPE CHAPEL.	HIGH STREET.
J. Heron	Sargent

T. Heron	Morgan

Doig	Dilly

Leighs	Smedburg

Snyder	Ness

RAHWAY'S CLAIMS JOLTED BY DEFEAT

Did Not Reckon With St. Benedicts When it Claimed State Championship.

The St. Benedict's "Prep" School basketball five, of Newark, gained a half-Nelson hold on the scholastic championship of the State yesterday afternoon, when the Newark quintet visited Rahway and downed the members of the High School five of that city, who were claimants for the title, by a score of 28 to 20. Not satisfied with the result, the Rahway lads insisted on playing the series out, and the second game will take place tomorrow afternoon on the Casino Hall court, the St. Benedict's home lair.

The St. Benedict lads were the first to defeat the Rahwayites on their home court this season. The latter has to date won eighteen games and lost three, Camden and East Side High School being the other teams to humble the lads from Central Jersey. Both games were dropped on opponents' courts. Rahway came back and walloped Camden, but no return game was arranged with East Side, although the Rahwayites claim that they could easily prove their superiority over the Newark five on their home court. Camden was also a contestant for the State title, but their defeat at the hands of Rahway eliminates them from the competition.

The contest yesterday was played on the Rahway Y. M. C. A. court, which proved to be much smaller than was reported. It seemed as if the entire student body turned out to witness the contest. When the Newark contingent arrived there was not an available seat in the balcony and the maroon and gray followers were forced to take to the gym floor. It was estimated that fully five hundred fans jammed their way into the hall and about a hundred of these were Newarkers.

HOLY CROSS CLUB WILL HAVE A NINE

Captain and Manager Elected for Baseball Team at Last Night's Meeting.

A special meeting for the election of a president and vice president was conducted by the Holy Cross Boys' Club last night in the club rooms. John Hebert was chosen as president and Ronald Conroy will act in the capacity of vice president. John Hull and Edson Day were elected secretary and treasurer respectively, at a previous meeting of the organization.

The club voted to attend the services at the Holy Cross church Sunday evening in a body. Malcolm Marsh was elected as manager of this season's baseball team and Ronald Conroy will pilot the team on the field. If the weather permits Captain Conroy will have his squad out for their initial practise Saturday afternoon on Cricket Field. An abundance of new and promising material is available and the junior combination promises to be a strong one.

WILL INCREASE NEW BALL ORGANIZATION

New Brunswick Not Mentioned at This Meeting as a Possible Choice.

The Long Branch, N. J., baseball club was admitted to membership in the New York and New Jersey Inter-State League at a meeting of the club owners at the Hotel Cadillac yesterday. Long Branch takes the place of Long Island City, which was unable to join the league on account of the objection of the Brooklyn baseball club of the National League, which has jurisdiction over that district. Long Branch is considered a valuable addition to the league because of the large summer colony there and the popularity of Sunday baseball.

The Long Branch club is owned by Henry Henriquez, a Cuban, who has several Cuban players on his team. The team had a fine record last season playing Sunday games against major league teams. Gondolaz, who caught for the club last season, has been signed by the Boston Nationals.

Billy Lush, the former Yale baseball coach, and Montreal manager, made application at the meeting for a franchise for Port Chester, N. Y. He pointed out that the place would support a club, especially as Sunday games could be played there. The league looked upon the application favorably, but no action will be taken until the league ascertains if it will be able to form an eight-club circuit.

Port Chester would make the seventh club, and an eighth member would have to be admitted to balance the circuit. An effort will be made to interest Asbury Park promoters in a scheme to place a team at that resort. It is believed that with the large summer colony a team would find ample support. The outlook for a club there is encouraging, and it is very likely that the league will now have an eight-club circuit. The sanction of the National Association which has been withheld because of the objection of the Brooklyn club, will be given in a few days by Secretary John H. Farrell, of Auburn.

The club owners adopted many of the rules of other Class D leagues. Each visiting club will be guaranteed $40 a game, and $60 for double-benders. In case of a postponement, the visiting club will be guaranteed $20. The league also voted to pool the holiday receipts, each club to receive an equal share, which will be a big protection to the weaker clubs.

The umpires will be paid $6 a game, or $9 for a double-header, which is to be paid immediately after each game. The club has already received enough applications from umpires to furnish a dozen leagues.

BRUNSWICK WANTS DRISCOLL'S NINE

According to Newspapers of That City the First Baseman Will Play There.

Now that Dave Driscoll, manager of the Brunswick baseball team on Sundays and captain of the Plainfield team on Saturdays, has returned from his Porto Rico trip, the directors of the New Brunswick Outdoor Amusement Company will talk baseball. They will soon have a meeting with Driscoll to talk over plans for the coming season.

It is almost a certainty that Driscoll will again return to New Brunswick, according to papers of that town, this year. The Amusement Company has been waiting until Driscoll completed his West Indies trip before they began talking about plans for this year. Driscoll has a large following in New Brunswick. The question about playing games on Saturday will also be taken up when the conference with Driscoll is held, and this may have some effect on the lineup of the Plainfield baseball team in the Central New Jersey League.

DRISCOLL RETURNS FROM PORTO RICO

Local Player and His Nine Had a Great Trip in Southern Clime.

Dave Driscoll, captain of the Plainfield baseball team, has returned from Porto Rico, where he has been with his All-Star team playing the national game. The last of Driscoll's players arrived home yesterday and they report having a delightful time. Driscoll says that the trip was a very successful one, and his team showed up in great form. They were there just eighteen days.

Driscoll's team played the first game on Washington's Birthday when they defeated the Underwood Club by a score of 9 to 3. The following day they humbled San Juan tossers by a 21 to 3 score, and then came the only defeat of the series, the Ponce nine walloping the Yankees by a score of 4 to 3. The Porto Rican stay was concluded at Ponce with a two game series, which was won by the U. S. aggregation by scores of 1 to 0 and 6 to 2. Results of other games were: All Nationals 30, Interiors 5; Nationals 13, Astorias 7; Nationals 11, Santurse 5; Nationals 10, Centrals 2; Nationals 13, Remingtons 2; Nationals 11, Pope-Toledo 4; Nationals 2, Cadillacs 1; Nationals 9, Ricoras 0.

JESS WILLARD NOW IN LINE

Giant Pugilist Next Logical Opponent of Luther McCarty.

WOULD DECIDE THE TITLE.

Winner of Battle Would Be Undisputed Wearer of White Heavyweight Crown—Once Handed Beating to McCarty.

It is highly probable that Luther McCarty will find it convenient to sidetrack the few remaining "hopes" who threaten his reign until he has finished a theatrical tour such as invariably follows a notable success in the ring. The elimination of Al Palzer in such decisive fashion makes the newly created champion's future look exceedingly bright. But there still remains some work for him to do before he can feel himself securely seated on the white heavyweight throne.

That McCarty can justly claim to be the holder of the new title despite his possession of the McCarty belt will be disputed in some quarters. Most of this opposition will come from Gunboat Smith, Bombardier Wells and Jess Willard. Of these the six foot six inch form of Willard looms up the most menacing of all. It can be argued that Wells was eliminated when he lost to Palzer. Smith, although a terrific hitter, is not much of a boxer and besides is badly handicapped in the matter of weight. But Willard's right to the next match with Palzer's conqueror cannot be argued away.

Willard and McCarty have already crossed arms, and the result was not altogether favorable to McCarty. In fact, during the last two rounds of their ten round bout McCarty looked to be all primed for a knockout. He was badly cut up while Willard escaped without a mark. After that affair many of the New York critics could see no hope for McCarty and put him down as a greatly overrated fighter. If the bout had ten more rounds to go Willard would have been a ten to one favorite with no takers. But McCarty has since shown great improvement. Still, Willard also has learned a lot since then.

Willard is a very mysterious person. The exact extent of his ability is still very uncertain. Even his closest friends do not understand him. "A queer fellow—a very queer fellow," was Charlie Cutler's comment while discussing Willard just prior to the latter's bout with "Soldier" Kearns, whom he knocked out in eight rounds. Cutler is the wrestler-pugilist who helps Willard train and assists in making his matches. Many shrewd managers have made overtures to Willard. He will have none of them.

When in action Willard shows himself in need of a firm hand at the helm. His ill timed attempts at humor and general lack of concentration on the work at hand during the Kearns bout caused many to ridicule him as a championship possibility. Yet there were moments in that affair when Willard showed flashes of form no other white hope has yet equaled. His faults are all minor ones. He has none that cannot be easily remedied. The most noticeable one is lack of aggressiveness.

Willard is a careful boxer, and in a long fight his methods are most likely to get good results. He seldom leads, and he forces his opponents to do all the hard work while he himself conserves his energy. His counters are both forceful and usually well timed. When he feels in need of a rest he simply leans back, and in this position his great height protects his towering head from all assaults.

In a long battle this unique method of obtaining a needed rest would be of immense advantage. During his bout with McCarty the latter was completely mystified whenever Willard assumed this position. Despite his frantic rushes, McCarty's swings and jabs fell short. While resting in this manner Willard presents the appearance of a badly tired fighter.

It is just at these times that he is most dangerous. As his opponent rushes in, deceived into thinking Willard has shot his bolt, he meets with a stunning surprise. Willard's lax muscles suddenly tighten up and his long lean arms flash out in a storm of hooks and uppercuts. Although at long range Willard often misses, he is very accurate in the mixups at close quarters. Altogether he is a formidable opponent, and if McCarty adds him to his list of victims the cow puncher can be safely put down as a genuine champion.

OXFORD DEFEATS CAMBRIDGE.

Putney, England, March 13.—Under conditions never before known in the history of the contest the Oxford-Cambridge crews faced each other here today in the 68th race on the Thames from Putney to Mort Lake. Unusual precautions were taken to guard the course. As threats had been made by suffragettes to make an attack both sides of the shore were patroled by soldiers. Oxford defeated Cambridge in the eight oared boat race from Putney to Mort Lake on the Thames.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION IN BALTIMORE HARBOR CAUSES GREAT DAMAGE AND LOSS OF LIFE

THE ALUM CHINE ON BOARD WHICH 343 TONS OF DYNAMITE EXPLODED

Fifty-four known dead, a number of others unaccounted for and whose bodies are probably beneath the waters of the harbor, at least forty injured, many of whom will die, represent the human toll of the dynamite explosion in the hold of the British steamship Alum Chine, off Fort Howard, Baltimore, Md., on March 7. The money loss probably will total $600,000. Besides the total destruction of the Alum Chine and a barge the superstructure of the new United States collier Jason was torn away, and the tug Atlantic was wrecked. Three hundred and forty-three tons of dynamite in the hold of the steamship exploded from some unascertained cause.

The effect of the explosion was felt for a distance of a hundred miles from Baltimore and windows were broken and chimneys wrecked on houses a dozen or more miles from the scene of the disaster.

Baltimore was shaken as if by an earthquake and buildings in the centre of the city were rocked by the shock. The origin of the fire in the hold of the vessel, which preceded the explosion, has not been learned, but a thorough investigation will be made by the federal government to ascertain the cause of the disaster and to place the responsibility for it.

MAP OF BALTIMORE HARBOR . . ● SHOWS WHERE EXPLOSION OCCURRED

The wreckage of the demolished vessels was surrounded by floating bodies, many of which were picked up by the rescuers. Some injured men were found clinging to pieces of wreckage and were saved.

Four of the victims of the explosion were members of the crew of the United States collier Jason, which was lying in midstream. Forty other members of the crew are reported injured.

The Jason was wrecked and it will take several months to repair her. The vessel was completed recently at Sparrow Point and was nearly ready to start on her trial trip.

WIRELESS ROOM OF THE COLLIER JASON, WRECKED BY EXPLOSION

ALLEGED ASSAILANT'S TRIAL.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 13.—After a delay of more than a year Detective Robert J. Foster was place on trial today on a charge of assaulting Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. Foster was a detective in the employ of the National Erectors' Association. On January 27, 1912, he is alleged to have entered Ryan's office and the latter is said to have ordered him out. In the dispute Foster is alleged to have struck Ryan. At the time of the alleged occurrence the Federal grand jury was investigating the charges against Ryan and other officials of the union in what has become known as the "dynamite conspiracy" case. The investigation resulted in the indictment and conviction of Ryan, who is now out on bond pending the settlement of his appeal.

PROGRESSIVES CONFER.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 13.—The leaders responsible for Theodore Roosevelt's sweeping victory in Pennsylvania last November rallied here in force today for the first annual State conference of Progressives. The chief purposes of the conference, which is to last two days, are to discuss questions of policy and perfect a permanent organization. An address by Gifford Pinchot on the subject of "Conservatism" was the principal feature of the opening session of the conference this morning. Colonel Roosevelt delivers an address tonight. "Popular Rule" and "Social and Industrial Injustice" will be discussed at tomorrow's sessions and in the evening the gathering will be brought to a close with a banquet at which ex-Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, is scheduled as the chief speaker.

FOR CAUCUS ON POLICE JOBS.

Elizabeth, March 13.—Some of the Democratic members of the City Council are endeavoring to have a caucus called for next Tuesday night for the purpose of fixing a slate for police promotions and additions to the police department. Council is scheduled to meet on Monday evening, but as several of the members will not be able to attend, it is possible that adjournment will be taken until Tuesday night. There is a fight between Council factions for the police patronage, as at least thirty men are to be added to the force, several are to be promoted, and a captain to succeed John A. Peters, now chief, is to be named.

TO TRY BANK PRESIDENT.

Trenton, N. J., March 13.—Following numerous postponements and other delays the case of Robert M. Petty, formerly president of the First National Bank of Washington, N. J., was moved for trial in the United States District Court here today. Petty was indicted for misusing the funds of the bank, and entered a plea of not guilty several terms ago. Since then his trial has been postponed from time to time, while his friends made an effort to make good the alleged shortage and to adjust his financial affairs generally.

Their wedding took place in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, March 13, 1879. The Duke was then twenty-nine years of age and the bride was nineteen. The Duchess before her marriage was Princess Louise of Prussia, daughter of Prince Frederick Charles, one of the most illustrious commanders of the Prussian army.

BIG COLLEGES TO MEET.

New Haven, Conn., March 13.—Harvard, Princeton and Yale are to meet tomorrow night in their annual triangular debating contest, and the event promises to be one of the most interesting of the college year. Yale and Harvard will meet at Cambridge, Princeton and Harvard at Princeton and Princeton and Yale in New Haven. The question to be argued is, "Resolved, That the United States should exempt her coastwise traffic from Panama Canal tolls." In each case the home team will support the negative side of the question.

BILLIARD EXHIBITION.

Doc Nelson, of Boston, America's greatest exhibition pool player, will demonstrate some difficult shots at Stites' billiard parlor tonight. Nelson will play the two Stites boys, giving them 125 to 100. A fancy shot exhibition will follow the contest.

A meeting of Trafalgar Lodge, No. 506, Sons of St. George, will be held in Coward Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

Color Combinations of the Futurists
Cubist Influence in Fashions

In the New Paris Models for Spring

In every age, the dress worn by the fashionable women of the day has expressed the spirit of the times.

The classic draperies of the Greeks were the direct outcome of their noble attitude of thought; the fashions of the days of Louis XVI. expressed the frivolity and luxury and effeminency of the times—and the fashions for Spring, 1913, are a revelation of the daring and freedom and power of the thought that is growing up around us in these days.

Call it Cubism or Post Impressionism or Futurism or any name you will, the thing exists in every realm that art can touch. In some cases it is a striving for a newer and simpler way to express feeling; in others, it is an attempt to express the idea of power and motion; in every case, it is the effort after freedom from conventional ideals and conventional methods. Casting away so many rules results in a naive, primitive sort of art that is closely allied to the Japanese. It has been ridiculed; it has been misinterpreted and misunderstood. It has irritated, puzzled and disturbed. The old discussions that arose when Cezanne's pictures were rejected by the Paris Salons have recommenced. But Cezanne is accepted as a standard today, and the men of the new school are in the position their master held when he first began to paint.

Henri Matisse, who is one of the radicals in the new school, said: "An artist should above all, express a Vision of Color, the harmony of which corresponds to his feelings."

That is what they have done—these creators of new fashions. Line, for the moment, drops back into a secondary place. Color is the vital thing. With the gown as a palette, the world has been painted over, intensified, vivified, made luminous, by putting into it dresses which express the color visions of the Modernists.

Very largely these fashions have grown out of the pictures that are being painted today.

It is the popular idea that women wear the gowns and artists put them on canvas; but the opposite is the fact. The gowns are inspired by the paintings.

So we are showing them, like paintings in a frame. They will be posed in the Wanamaker Auditorium at half past ten o'clock in the morning, and at 2 o'clock and again at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

'FIRST CITIZENS' TWP. PROTECTORS

Hotel Proprietor Asks That He Be Saved From Serving Liquor to Drunkards.

AUTHORITIES COMPLIED

Distinguished Divine, Noted Mining Engineer and the Postmaster to Compose Board in North Plainfield Township.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York city; and Postmaster George P. Schmidt, all of Watchung, were yesterday appointed as a board of protectors, by the North Plainfield Township Committee, following the request of Frank A. Probst, proprietor of the Washington House in the "Valley."

So far as known this is the first instance in this vicinity where such a board has been appointed, the action being taken under the State law of 1909. In a large number of towns throughout the State boards have been named under the act and have been in operation for three years or more.

At the committee meeting, yesterday, Mr. Probst after stating that he desired to conduct his hotel in an ideal manner, both from a hotel and moral point of view, petitioned the committee to lend him assistance in his purpose by selecting a Board of Protectors.

The purpose of the board is to prevent general drunkenness or the excessive use of alcohol. After a resolution was adopted authorizing the committee to act, Chairman William de La R. Anderson, the chairman, appointed the three men named above.

FINAL RALLY FOR BOYS AT Y. M. C. A.

Seventh of Series Will be Featured by a Talk From William D. Murray.

William D. Murray, the newly elected president of the local Y. M. C. A., will be the speaker at the final rally meeting to be conducted for Plainfield boys in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium tomorrow morning. Boys' Secretary C. William Bingeman has been holding these Saturday morning meetings for the past seven weeks and has secured Mr. Murray to speak at the final session tomorrow morning, making this one the most interesting of the series. The speaker is a favorite with a large number of boys in this city with which he has come in personal contact and is known the world over as an ardent student of the boys question so pertinent at the present time.

M. Murray will take as his subject "David Livingstone," describing the boyhood of this historical character in a way that will be understood even by the youngest listener. A special reel of motion pictures will be thrown on the screen folowing the speaker's address and this will be an added attraction. All Plainfield boys are invited to attend whether or not they are members of the association boys' department.

YOUTHFUL DESPERADO SENT TO REFORMATORY

Gustav Hersh, the seventeen-year-old desperado, who has been causing the local police so much trouble of late, was taken to Elizabeth yesterday afternoon where he was sentenced by Judge Connolly to the Rahway Reformatory, where he previously served a term of two years for robbery. Young Hersh was taken into custody by the police last Sunday night together with Andrew Grieve, 14 years old, on a charge of burglary and was later implicated in attempted train wrecking for which he was being held in the local jail when he escaped and fled to Newark last Wednesday afternoon. He was recaptured in that city the same night and returned to Plainfield yesterday morning when he was sent to the county jail pending further action.

When he arrived in Elizabeth yesterday he pleaded for leniency, claiming that he was subject to frequent spells of insanity.

ELOPING HUSBAND GETS SENTENCE OF TEN DAYS

Frank B. Foley, who deserted his wife in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was arrested here January 31, on a serious charge, together with Mrs. Etta Wood, a widow, who eloped with him, was sentenced by Judge Connolly in the Court of Quarter Sessions at Elizabeth today, to serve ten days in the county jail at Elizabeth. Pleas for leniency coming from several prominent county officials, among them Prosecutor A. A. Stein, and the fact that his wife had forgiven him for his wrongdoing, were effective. The prisoner had been confined to the county jail for seven weeks pending arraignment for sentence.

Foley deserted his wife Dec. 27 and was arrested by the local police in a house on Grove street with the Wood woman on January 31. His apprehension disclosed startling revelations of broken marriage vows and Mrs. Wood, his companion, is now in a nervous state following certain disclosures. She was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

NEW CAMP FIRE STARTED BY HEOWAUKA DIVISION

A supper and ceremonial meeting was conducted by the Heowauka Camp Fire Girls, of the North Plainfield High School, in the Y. W. C. A. parlors last night and a new camp fire to be known as the O'Waissa Camp was organized. A preliminary meeting of this new department was held last night and new members will be received at any time, applications to be filed at the association.

Miss Eva Terry, guardian of the Heowauka Camp, distributed honors among the various members at the supper last evening in the nature of rewards for services performed. Three new members were received into the camp which is now established on a firm basis and has taken the form of a flourishing social organization.

LECTURE ON HAWAII.

"Hawaii, the Gem of the Pacific," was the subject of an illustrated lecture given at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night by Rev. Dr. Frederick Potterton, of Brooklyn, widely-known as a lecturer and traveler. He exhibited a large number of fine colored views taken in the various places in Hawaii, showing the modern construction of buildings, and the up-to-date methods employed. Instead of Hawaii being primitive as some people believe, it is thoroughly modern and the people enjoy practically all of the privileges of any modern place, the lecturer said.

MAYOR PRAISES CHIEF OF POLICE

Stewart Says Some Nice Things of Kiely at Police Chiefs' Meeting.

GATHERED AT BANQUET

Visitors Enjoy Fine Dinner at Henry Windham's Hotel Waldorf, Where City Executive is the Principal Speaker.

Members of the Police Chiefs' Association of New Jersey who met yesterday afternoon in the Frost building, were the guests of Police Chief Kiely at an informal dinner at Hotel Waldorf following the transaction of all business matters. The police heads, who came from all of the principal cities of the State, were addressed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart. The dinner was of the kind for which Henry Windham enjoys a well earned reputation. Mayor Stewart, in a short address, verbally applauded the services of the police departments in the various cities and towns of the State. He paid Chief Kiely a glowing tribute for the condition of the department in this city.

Continuing, the city's Chief Executive said: "The responsibility placed on the chiefs of police is great; they are to protect property, guard the safety of our inhabitants and bring the unlawful ones to justice, a trust which, as far as I can remember, has never been betrayed. A police department depends largely on the integrity, wisdom and ability of the head of the system and their dutiful purpose is accomplished with no blowing of trumpets or pulling of political wires. I therefore take great pleasure in complimenting the chiefs of New Jersey as being men possessed of sterling ability, with a wide knowledge of the human race and its traits."

Among those seated around the banquet table were: President of the association, Chief Frank Monahan, of Jersey City; vice president, Chief John J. Cleary, of Trenton; secretary, Chief W. H. O'Neill, of East Orange; treasurer, Chief Michael O'Connor, of New Brunswick; Chief Patrick J. Kiely, of this city; J. J. Drabell, of Orange; Wright Sutcliffe, of Nutley; Jacob Dunn, of Hackettstown; John O. Force, of Garfield; George McClellen, of Rutherford; Frank Titus, of Englewood; E. A. Gravenor, of Camden; William Henry, of Passaic; Patrick Burke, of Perth Amboy, Alexander Green, of Irvington; Patrick Hayes, Jr., of Hoboken; John Yaul, of Bayonne; County Detective John J. Gallatian; Prosecutor's Detective Fred Weimer, of Essex county; Mayor Percy H. Stewart and Councilman Francis J. Blatz.

TWENTY WITNESSES IN SEPARATION CASE

Testimony is Heard in Action Brought by Wife Against Dr. Albert Pittis.

Newark, March 14.—The hearing in the action for a separation on the grounds of cruelty, instituted by Mrs. Ida Caroline Pittis, against her husband, Dr. Albert Pittis, of Plainfield, which was begun on Wednesday, before John Franklin Fort, former Governor and former Supreme Court Judge, sitting as an advisory Special Master, was concluded late yesterday afternoon. During the hearing, which was held in the offices of the Special Master in the Essex building, more than twenty witnesses were examined for both the complainant and defendant.

Mrs. Pittis was represented by Richardson & Shreve, of Washington, Walter I. Auten, of this city, appearing as the attorney of record. The defendant was represented by William N. Runyon and former State Senator Charles A. Reed, of Plainfield.

Mrs. Pittis not only is suing for a separation on the grounds of cruelty, but she also asks for maintenance. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Borsum, who formerly resided in Plainfield, but not live at at 191 South Seventh street, this city.

The couple was married at the Borsum home in Plainfield in 1904, by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, and lived together in Plainfield until several months ago when Mrs. Pittis returned to the home of her parents here. Following the hearing, Mr. Fort reserved decision. This will be announced later.

FREEHOLDERS MAY BUILD ROCKVIEW AVENUE BRIDGE

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders visited North Plainfield this morning for the purpose of inspecting the bridge on Rockview avenue, over Green brook. Recently, the board received a request from a number of large taxpayers in that section of the borough, asking that steps be taken to replace the old bidge with a modern one. It was claimed that the present structure is too narrow and in view of the great amount of travel through that street, it being practically the only direct thoroughfare from that section into Geenbrook road, that a better bridge is needed.

While no decision was reached in the matter this morning, it is the belief that the freeholders are favorably inclined toward making a change. The present bridge is one of the oldest in the borough section of the county and it is said has outlived its usefulness. It has a plank flooring which needs frequent repairing and it is not at all in keeping with the attractive residential surroundings.

OUSTED FREEHOLDERS DISCUSS AN APPEAL

Elizabeth, March 14.—The members of the small Board of Freeholders of Union county, who were ousted from office by the decision this week of the Supreme Court, which favored the old Board of Freeholders, met this morning to discuss the question of an appeal.

Morris, Bergen and Mercer counties were likewise affected by the decision of the court.

It seemed to be the concensus of opinion of the Union county board that it would be best to appeal from the decision independently of the other counties.

After debating the matter for some time, the members adjourned to the law office of John K. English, of counsel for the ousted board, to continue the discussion. Another meeting has been arranged this afternoon when it is expected that some decision will be reached regarding future action. All of the members of the board attended the conference this morning, as well as other county persons affected by the court's action.

AMATEUR THIEVES WORKING AT WILL

Petty Burglaries, Particularly Gas Meter Looting, Continue Despite Police.

MORE CASES REPORTED

The P. S. C. Gas Department Receives More Complaints—Note of Warning is Given by the Local Police.

Petty burglaries and looting of gas meters still continue in this city despite the activity of the police. The residents of the west end section of the city are living in a state of constant fear of crooks of this type, who are causing the authorities an unlimited amount of trouble. The thieves are careful to leave no clue to their identity where they perform their "jobs" although each instance coming to the attention of the police appears to be the work of amateurs. They confine their operations largely to colored families and in many cases have left many expensive articles untouched, whereas they have in some instances taken pieces of clothing, etc., of practically little worth.

The Public Service Corporation reported three cases of meter looting yesterday and this morning notified Chief Kiely that the quarter gas meters at 965 West Fifth street and 519 West Sixth street have been torn from their connections, the money stolen and the gas allowed to escape. So did the thief. Isaac Niles and family live at the former address, but the house at 519 West Sixth street is vacant.

The danger of a disastrous explosion caused by these operations is great, as was demonstrated several weeks ago at 527-A West Fourth street, where Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Harvey lived.

"Do not look for the escaping gas fumes with lighted lamp, candle or match. Do not investigate at all, but if your home is flooded with the odors of illuminating gas, notify the Public Service Gas Co., immediately and their representative will find the leak," say the police.

Silas A. Brown this morning contributed an account of another petty burglary. He said a coat and pair of trousers were stolen from his furnished room at 411 West Fourth street some time yesterday. In a pocket of the latter garment was a bank book of the Plainfield Trust Co., showing a deposit of $15.

PETTY THIEVES WORK IN THE SUBURBS, TOO

Petty thieves are bothering the authorities of Scotch Plains and Fanwood as well as those of this city, where over a dozen small "jobs" have been performed. Public School No. 1, which is used by pupils of Fanwood and Scotch Plains, was entered on Wednesday night, a rear window being forced. The miscreants ransacked the desks, including those of the faculty, and took everything of value.

The same night burglars effected an entrance at the offices of the Fanwood Lumber and Supply Co., by forcing a door in the rear of the structure. They got little for their trouble, however, with the exception of a few postage stamps.

Similar to the cases in this city, the jobs appear to be the work of amateurs who satisfy themselves with small booty.

RUBBER SOCIAL HELD BY WARREN CHAPEL C. E.

The "Rubber Social" held in Warren chapel last night under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society was largely attended and a success was made of it by the untiring efforts of those in charge. A barrel of old rubbers, including cast-off rubbers, worn out automobile tires, bicycle tires and rubber household necessities which will be sold to some rubber manufacturing concern was received from those in attendance. During the evening games were enjoyed and a collection of $13.50 for the flower fund was given.

The proceeds of the sale of the old rubber will be added to the flower fund. The committee in charge was composed of Miss Dolly Bolsterll, chairman, assisted by the Misses Adelaide Stiglitz and Ida Wheeler.

KEIDERLING FINDS JUDGE EASY ONE

Youth With Police Record Even Confessed Atrocious Assault on Woman.

BEEKMAN IS LENIENT

Despite His Previous Bad Record, Prisoner Escapes Jail, Being Sent By Somerset's Judge to the Rahway Reformatory.

Somerville, March 14.—James Keiderling, who pleaded guilty on Tuesday to atrocious assault and battery upon Miss Nellie White, of North Plainfield, some few weeks ago, since which time he has been confined in the Somerset county jail, was arraigned before Judge D. H. Beekman in the Somerset County Courts, at Somerville, this morning for sentence.

Prosecutor Pope related to the court the circumstances of the case, and also stated that Keiderling had stated to the Chief of Police of North Plainfield, at the time of his arrest, that the next time an officer tried to arrest him he would shoot him. Mr. Pope said that Keiderling had been arrested twice before, once for assault and battery and once for larceny; that he was the son of respectable parents, but that he was inclined to go wrong, especially when under the influence of liquor; that he had broke his probation, both in Somerset and Union counties.

Keiderling, who is only about twenty years of age, was given a lecture by Judge Beekman, who said that he was at a loss as to what to do with such a young man; that Judge Case, on two different occasions, had dealt leniently with him, and that it was more on account of his youth and physical weakness that had decided him as to what course to pursue. The court said it did not wish to send him to State prison, and put a stigma on him for the rest of his life, but would give him one more chance, but that this was to be his last. Judge Beekman then sentenced him to the Reformatory at Rahway.

JOHN ASQUITH MUIR HAD THRILLING EXPERIENCE

John Asquith Muir, aged nineteen years, while seated in the parlor of his home at 302 Grant avenue, at 11 o'clock last night, reading adventures of train robbers, thieves, quarter gas meter looters, etc., etc., heard footsteps on the back porch of the dwelling. Tip-toeing to the kitchen, he softly approached the door as the lock turned when a skeleton key was inserted in the key hole. As the would-be intruder was about to open the door, quietly turning the knob, Muir pulled the door open with a quick jerk. Realizing that he was discovered, the man made a flying leap from the stoop to the ground and disappeared around the corner of the house. John Asquith Muir swears to this, adding that he gave chase in his stocking feet, but that the man dropped from view, enveloped in the darkness of the night.

Muir said the man was white, of stocky build, medium height, wore a dark suit, and a slouch hat pulled far down over his eyes.

"I don't know what I would have done to him," said John Asquith Muir, today, when recounting his experience, "but I think it would have gone hard with him had I got hold of him."

HEAR ARGUMENT IN WATER CASE

Errors Court Reserves Decision in the Condemnation Proceedings.

AS TO APPOINTMENTS

Commissioners Named to Fix Value on Private Concern's Plant Were Ousted and a Certiorari Was Taken.

Trenton, March 14 (Special).—The Court of Errors and Appeal heard argument today on the appeal of the City of Plainfield from a judgment of the Supreme Court on a writ of certiorari to review an appointment of condemnation commissioners made by Justice Bergen on May 7, 1912.

The appointment was made on petition of Plainfield to condemn land and other property of the Plainfield-Union Water Company. The decision was reserved.

Upon the ground that the city has no right to condemn a water supply which is aready devoted in part to the public use of other municipalities, the Supreme Court, on December 7, last, in an opinion written by Justice Swayze, set aside the order appointing commissioners to condemn a portion of the water works of the Plainfield-Union Water Company.

The city sought to condemn a portion of the water company's plant in Plainfield which was formed by the consolidation of the Plainfield Water Supply Company and the Union Water Company, and a portion of the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, as it existed prior to the consolidation, including the source of supply.

The water company, after the appointment of condemnation comissioners, brought certiorari proceedings to review their appointment. In brief the court's decision was that contracts between a private water company and municipalities pursuant to statutory authority, not only give the municipalities a right to a supply of water, but create a public duty on the part of the company to supply consumers.

The Legislature may authorize a public agency to condemn property already devoted to a public use by another public agency, but the intention to great such authority must be manifested in express terms or by necessary implication. The act of April 21, 1876, the court held was not meant to authorize the condemnation either in whole or in part of a water supply plant, supplying several municipalities.

TEPPER BROS. MAKE AN IMPORTANT CHANGE

Tepper Brothers, the dry goods merchants, have been making extensive changes in their store with a view to making shopping more convenient. One of the most important changes is that of removing the millinery department from the first to the second floor adjoining that of the women's ready-to-wear department. This allows more room for the handsome display of millinery.

This department has been elaborately equipped with quartered oak wall cases, glass show cases and wall mirrors. The floor covering of heavy carpet, and the general surroundings are so attractive that women will find it a pleasure to visit the department. It also brings customers in closer touch with the head milliner, Miss Elizabeth Foubel, in discussing plans for the trimming of hats. The display of millinery in the equal of that shown in large New York stores, there being a full and complete line of all the modern shapes.

MUST ANSWER FOR QUADRUPLE MURDER

Trial of Celebrated Pfanschmidt Case to Begin on Tuesday.

Quincy, Ill., March 14.—On Tuesday the case of Ray Pfanschmidt, accused of the Pfanschmidt quadruple murder, will be called for trial. The attorneys for the defense some days ago withdrew their motion for a continuance, and it is believed that both sides will answer "ready" at the first calling. Judge Guy R. Williams, of Havana, has been assigned to preside at the trial. Some of the best legal talent in this section of Illinois has been engaged in the case. Many witnesses are to be called and it is expected that the trial will occupy several weeks.

No murder committed in this part of the State ever attracted more attention and comment than the Pfanschmidt murder did at the time, and it was by the narrowest margin that young Pfanschmidt escaped mob violence at the time of his arrest. The feeling at the time was so intense that Governor Deneen wired Captain W. A. Long, commander of the local company of the Illinois National Guard, to have his company in readiness to repel any mob should one be formed.

Charles A. Pfanschmidt, the head of the family and one of the victims of the quadruple tragedy, was a well-to-do and highly respected farmer residing about twelve miles southeast of this city. In addition to Mr. Pfanschmidt the family consisted of Mrs. Matilda Pfanschmidt, their daughter, Blanche Pfanschmidt, and one son, Ray Pfanschmidt, who is to be tried for the murder of his relatives. At the time of the tragedy the household also included Miss Emma Kaempen, a young school teacher.

Early on the morning of September 29 last neighbors discovered that the Pfanschmidt home had been destroyed by fire during the preceding night. A search of the ruins revealed the remains of the father, mother and daughter and the school teacher, Miss Kaempen. There was evidence to indicate that the four victims had probably been murdered in their beds before the house was fired.

The first theory was that the quadruple murder was the work of the so-called "axe murderer," who some months previously had wiped out entire families at various points in Colorado, Kansas and Iowa. But suspicion soon turned to Ray Pfanschmidt, the only surviving member of the family, whose story of the tragedy was far from satisfactory to the authorities who were investigating the case. About a week after the murders the popular suspicions were vastly strengthened by the discovery of a suit of Ray Pfanschmidt's clothes saturated with blood. The clothes had been hidden beneath the barn.

The elder Pfanschmidt carried considerable life insurance and in addition his estate was valued at about $50,000. It is expected that the prosecuting attorney at the coming trial will endeavor to prove that the son wiped out the family in order to inherit the estate. A desire to marry a young woman with whom he had been keeping company is also believed to have figured in the young man's calculations.

WHAT OR WHERE IS TEAPOT HARD? DOES ANYONE REALLY KNOW?

To conform to the regulations laid down by the British Home Office for aerial exploits contemplated within the limits of the shores of Great Britain, foreign aviators must acquaint themselves with other conditions besides the varieties of fog and Scotch mist with which the atmosphere of the United Kingdom is generously reinforced.

To accomplish this the aviators will find useless the many official and unofficial maps, topographical charts, survey gazetteers, lists of naval stations and bases, locations of forts and the like. Apparently a very necessary provision—and this is a matter of life and death to him—is that the aviator acquaint himself with the slang terms in use in the royal navy of Great Britain.

Included in the scheme of military sanctuaries which the foreign aviator must avoid is a place named Teapot Hard. A perusal of sundry maps of the British Isles and the survey gazetteer published by George Newnes, Limited, of London, failed to reveal any such name in the list of places in England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales or the Isle of Man. If the British government had designated any military or naval station by the name of Teapot Hard the officials of the British Consulate in New York city, as well as officials in Washington and other parts of the country, had not heard of it any more than the people of England.

NURSE SUES ESTATE OF LATE RAILROAD PRESIDENT

MISS JEANNE LA ROE

Witnesses were called before Justice Hendrick, in New York, in an effort to prove that the bequests in the will of Horatio V. Newcomb, for many years president of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, for the benefit of Miss Jeanne La Roe, were intended by him to serve as compensation for Miss La Roe's services as a nurse in the last years of his life.

The will bequeathed $4,000 to Miss La Roe and an annuity of $1,400. She is suing to collect $7,597, which she says is the balance due for her services for the period between 1907 and the date of Mr. Newcomb's death in 1911. Warren P. Newcomb, executor of the estate of his father, asks that the will be construed to mean that Miss La Roe surrenders all claim to the bequests under the will in case she insists on pressing the action to collect for her services as nurse.

Miss La Roe testified that Mr. Newcomb did not pay her regularly for her services because he was short of money. She also said Mr. Newcomb in the latter years of his illness agreed to pay her $40 a week.

BOY, 16 YEARS OLD, TRAPS TWO BANDITS

WALTER CRISS

Walter Criss, a sixteen-year-old Butter county boy, who lives at Live Oak, a little town outside of San Francisco, Cal., started out to capture two safe crackers the first day of this year, and he caught them. To the United States Grand Jury there he told his unusual story and is now asking his reward of $200 each for the capture of the men. Indictments against the alleged bandits, Frank Martin and Fred Smith, were voted by the Grand Jury.

PROCTOR'S NEW BILL.

A double back flip in the air is a stunt seldom tried by gymnasts, but when a triple turn is attempted, this hazardous feat is bound to hold the audience spellbound. Not only do the seven colonial Montroses do this almost impossible stunt, but the turner who performs it lands in a standing position on another member's shoulders. In their musical acrobatic sensation these athletes are unsurpassed, having appeared in a prolonged engagement at the Hippodrome. When the name of Gus Edwards is named in vaudeville, something side-splitting is looked for and his sextette of newsboys are no exception along this line. They render a number of topical hits in great style and their soloists make a hit at every appearance. Nehr and Kappel novelty roller skaters, give a fine exhibition of figure skating, dancing and other stunts while on the iron rollers. Nettie Black and company in their comedy sketch entitled "Lonesome," display some clever acting. The Kinemacolor pictures have proven unusually popular during their short regime and have come to stay.

COURT HAS RIGHT TO REMOVE INTERPRETER

Elizabeth, March 14.—The notice served recently on Ferdinand Wasserberger by Judge Connolly that his services as interpreter of German, Polish and Slavish for the Union County Courts would terminate on April 13, has aroused considerable interest among local lawyers, both on account of the removal and the naming of Mr. Wasserberger's successor.

Those who have looked up the law agree that Judge Connolly is well within his rights in ousting the interpreter, as the civil service law provides that appointees to each position shall be on probation during the first three months of service, and if prior to the expiration of that time notice is served to vacate the office, citing the reasons for removal, there can be no alternative or appeal.

These opinions were looked up by Wasserberger's friends in the legal profession at his behest, and from none of them did he obtain enough encouragement to contest removal.

The name of Alexander Byerlein, of Elizabeth, and a Trenton man were the only ones certified to by the Civil Service Commission as those who had passed the examination. It is understood that Karl Schaffer, also a local resident, was the fourth on the list, and seems to have the call for the appointment.

ANECDOTES FROM LIFE OF MORTON

Former Vice President Had Big Successes.

A MANY SIDED PERSONAGE.

How He Gave "Pin Money" House to Each of His Five Daughters—His Splendid Farm—Accepted Statue of Liberty For United States—How He Paid Back His Creditors.

Levi P. Morton, vice president of the United States under Benjamin Harrison and governor of New York for the term beginning in 1894, appears in history with big success to his credit. Mr. Morton in his long and active life figured as schoolteacher, merchant, banker, farmer, statesman and diplomat.

Incidents in his career are recorded in interesting anecdotes. He began life as a boy doing chores in a country grocery store. He next eked a penurious living from teaching a small district school.

A notable story of Mr. Morton after he had reached the position of wealth is that of how he gave pin money houses to each of his five daughters. Mr. Morton set aside a row of five handsome brownstone houses in West Ninety-fifth street, near Central park, New York, for his daughters. They were worth $30,000 apiece years ago, when he first acquired them, and rapidly took on increased value.

As each of the Misses Morton came to her twenty-first birthday Mr. Morton conferred upon her one of the fine residences as a pin money gift. It was a matter of much public interest when the social calendar announced the approaching coming out party of one of the young women, and it became known incidentally that a pin money house was to change hands.

Accepted Liberty Statue.

As United States minister to France Mr. Morton was the one to formally accept the Liberty statue from France. He hammered the first nail in the construction of the great monument.

While governor and during his retirement from public life Mr. Morton found chief diversion in his magnificent farm estate of Ellerslie, at Rhinecliff-on-the-Hudson. It comprises about 1,000 acres of splendidly scenic land, with a park of lawns, walks, knolls, shady dells and gardens. It possesses great greenhouses and a fine herd of blooded Guernsey cattle.

Mr. Morton received notable prizes for his three animals, named Crown Prince of Orange, Annatto and Lord Worth III.

As a diplomat Mr. Morton won the credit for obtaining from France a decree relieving American banks, telegraph and insurance companies from the hardship of being unable to collect any debt in France from any French citizen.

Mr. Morton first became a prominent merchant as member of the firm of Morton & Grinnell, dealing in dry goods in New York. An amusing story is told of this venture. The young clerks in the store acquired the fashion of wearing trim, natty little mustachios. One day an order appeared on the walls requiring that the clerks appear to work without their mustachios before a certain date or be ready to resign.

How Mustachios Disappeared.

There wasn't any strike, and from all accounts the mustachios disappeared. Mr. Morton in telling the story in after years asserted he hadn't placed the cruel order on the walls, but understood that some of the country customers had complained to one of the managers that they didn't like being waited upon by young men wearing high hats and mustachios. It was the manager who issued the order.

This firm went into bankruptcy during the civil war, and the creditors received 50 cents on the dollar. Years afterward, when Mr. Morton had recouped his fortune, he invited the creditors of the Morton & Grinnell firm to a big dinner. At each man's plate was a check for the balance due him on the old account.

SEA WATER IN RESIDENCES.

San Francisco to Have Unique Luxury Soon.

The introduction of the salt water auxiliary fire system, which will be in operation in two months provides an opportunity for giving San Francisco homes a luxury that is enjoyed by dwellers in no other city in the world—an unlimited supply of water from the Pacific.

The system, with its tremendous pressure is for protective purposes in cases of fire, but the water may be carried through the residence district.

As it is now, athletic clubs and several big bathing places have salt water on tap for the plunge, shower and tub baths, but with the extension every home may enjoy the luxury.

To Search Jungles For Snakes.

Allen Samuel Williams, a New York naturalist, left recently on a trip to Brazil and other South American countries in quest of snakes. He will search the jungles for odd specimens to be used in the annual Sportsmen's show in New York.

Miss Lena Mobus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Mobus, of Watchung avenue, is detained at home by illness.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Fiske O'Hara will be presented by Manager Augustus Pitou, Jr., in a new Irish play, "The Rose of Kildare," at the Plainfield theatre, Wednesday, March 19. In this play Mr. O'Hara will give us an excellent picture of life as it was in the Emerald Isle during the days of the Irish rebellion of 1798, one of the most exciting periods in the history of the country. It was a time in which the country gentleman raised his own horses and raced them, too. If he couldn't raise his hunter over a six foot wall in the cross country race and didn't fight a duel at least once a month, he was not considered fit company for man or beast. Such was the period in which Messrs. Paulton and Bradley have placed the action of their play. It is filled with all the romance and high sentiment of the period and is exciting and virile enough to make the pulse of the audience quicken and the good red blood tingle in the dramatic scenes. There is an abundance of good wholesole fun and O'Hara has the best budget of songs he has yet presented to an audience. Manager Pitou has made an elaborate production of the piece and has given Mr. O'Hara an admirable supporting company.

In the articles on Health and Beauty that Lillian Russell has been contributing to the public in the last two years she has offered to women a good deal of sound advice. On no subject has she been so insistent as that upon the use of alcoholic stimulents. For years she has been a total abstainer. One reason for her appeal to women to abjure alcohol entirely is because she considers that those who indulge in its use, even occasionally, cannot hope to retain their beauty for any length of time. Its effect is speedily shown not only in the face but in the figure. Insiniously it works ravages that no pain or powder can conceal. When the introduction of the poisonous drug into the blood has the ultimate effect of undermining the very foundation of the human structure. Miss Russell, however, looks beyond the most selfish motive of women preserving their good looks to the more important duty that they owe to posterity. As patriotic citizens the prospective mothers of future American boys and girls cannot afford to drink alcohol. They must remember that if this nation is to remain paramount in the family of nations, it can only be accomplished by fitting the unborn generations with sound health and strength, mentally and physically, which result cannot be obtained if mothers from the very beginning tax their offspring with a burden too heavy to be borne. Miss Russell appears at the Plainfield theatre, Monday, March 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Earley, of Watchung avenue, are parents of a girl born to them yesterday.

Clarence Patrick, of Summit avenue, has left school and taken a position as clerk in a local store.

Miss Dorothy Crane, of Westervelt avenue, is detained at home by illness.

Miss Mary Compton and Miss Alice Drake, of West Front street, have returned from a delightful trip to the Bahama Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Liefke, of West Front street, are spending several days at Atlantic City.

Miss Kathryn Gray, of East Second street, is planning a vacation trip to Atlantic City.

Plainfield, N. J., March 14, 1913.

A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

Our esteemed contemporary seems to miss the point entirely in the agitation for commission government for Plainfield. It seems to assume, if we correctly interpret a reply made in its columns yesterday to a communication on the subject, that the purpose is to avoid graft for it declares that five men can be corrupted as easily as eleven. We have not heard it charged that there is any corruption in our government and we feel quite certain that none who advocates the new form of administration is actuated with that idea in mind.

The true mission of commission government is to give the greatest degree of efficiency. As has been said many times, the whole idea is to apply to a municipality the same sort of government as is found in the management of any big business corporation.

It entirely eliminates party politics and the five men chosen to conduct the city's affairs occupy precisely the same positions as the managers of any great private corporation, for what is the city of Plainfield but a big corporation in which each taxpayer is a stockholder? These five men are supposed to give their entire time to the management of the municipality and in that way they become experts. They are assumed to be kept in office so long as they faithfully perform their duties and should their services be unsatisfactory, there is a "recall" provision to be used as a remedy.

Contrast this with present conditions. The average councilman tires of his office within a few years and then a new man must be selected to fill his place and it naturally takes him considerable time to get thoroughly in touch with conditions and needs. Moreover, he is generally a very busy man and after a hard day's work over his private affairs is called upon to spend his evenings with city matters. This strikes us as unfair to him and unfair to the city.

Our contemporary asserts that commission government "has not been a howling success in New Jersey, where it has been tried, if reports concerning its anticipated economy, which proved to be extravagant, be true." We should like to ask what authority it has for this assertion. Where and how, has commission government proven to be extravagant in New Jersey? Please be good enough to render a public service by producing facts to substantiate the statement for if such be the case Plainfield people are entitled to know it.

Now as to our neighbor's remark that "it takes six men now to carry measures in the Common Council. Under commission government three would have all the say." According to our way of thinking, granting that three men could control affairs public business could be better and more speedily expedited. That is the whole tendency of the times not only in the business world but in political government; it is the underlying principle in the enactment of the small board of freeholders law and similar measures for the public good. But there is something still more important in this connection. There is no provision for recalling a councilman when the taxpayers are dissatisfied with his public actions but goodness knows had there been in recent years, there is reason to suppose that the people may have taken advantage of it. In the commission government law, there is specific provision for the recall and there are cases on record where the right has been exercised. Still another advantage in this new plan is the initiative, whereby ordinances may originate with the people and moreover may be referred to them for final decision.

But the strangest part of our contemporary's contention is this paragraph:

"The $10,000 a year in salaries for commission government would have to come from somewhere, and in these times of increased cost of everything it cannot come from any of the city departments without crippling their work."

To be more correct the amount in salaries for the commissioners would aggregate $7,800 a year and not $10,000, unless a measure now in the Legislature should become a law. Of course, the salaries "would have to come from somewhere," and any one at all acquainted with the history of commission government in the 222 or more cities where it is in force can quickly tell you where the money comes from. The commissioners are privileged to select one among their number as a purchasing agent or they can delegate this power to a subordinate, as we understand it. Does the Courier-News know that under the present system of government, Plainfield's supplies are purchased in a way that no sound private business concern would tolerate for one moment? The various councilmanic committees arrange for the purchase of supplies for their own separate departments and the heads of departments purchase at retail many needed articles. Now, to illustrate what this means and what a great amount of money could be saved the taxpayers, the stockholders of the corporation of Plainfield, by a purchasing agent, we cite a case right here at home. Some time ago, the governors of Muhlenberg Hospital created the office of purchasing agent at that institution. In less than a year and a half, this purchasing agent saved the institution over $3,000, much more than his salary and he brought a high degree of business efficiency to the institution, for he was and is the business manager of the institution. Now, if Muhlenberg Hospital can do this, cannot Plainfield save a relatively greater amount and thereby not only pay the commissioners' salaries but bring about a better degree of business efficiency?

The contributing editor for tomorrow's issue will be Andrew R. Parkhurst, former editor of the Courier-News, and now night editor of the New York Evening Telegram. Mr. Parkhurst is well and favorably known among the newspaper fraternity in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, where he has held responsible positions in reportorial and editorial work.

Scoop says: "I suspect one of these art guys they call 'futurists' palmed off that design on the new five cent piece."

SCHOOLS TO BE CLOSED DURING THE HOLY WEEK

Following the custom being followed in most of the schools of the metropolitan district the North Plainfield public schools closed today for the Easter vacation and will reconvene Tuesday, March 26. This will mean no school during Holy Week instead of having the respite after Easter as is the case in this city. Local schools will not close until next Thursday.

In speaking of the new custom this afternoon, Arthur B. Vossler, supervising principal of the North Plainfield schools, said that the chief reason for having the vacation before Easter was to assure a longer spring term after Easter in which to prepare for the June examinations.

RESTORES STOLEN FUNDS.

Trneton, March 14.—A. C. Bonwell, who defrauded three banks here of more than $700 and is now serving five years prison sentence in Virginia for similar transactions there, has paid back all of the money he obtained from the local institutions in the hope of escaping punishment in New Jersey.

JUDGE IN FAVOR OF PROBATION OFFICER

Wm. G. DeMeza Tells Why He Prefers Not to Send Offenders to Prison.

That the best purpose of the law is fulfilled in other ways, in many cases, than in imposing prison sentences and the evident need of a probation officer in Plainfield, were discussed last night by City Judge DeMeza in an address before the Men's Club of the Church of the Heavenly Rest. The State Assembly several days ago passed a bill making it lawful to apply the Probation System to the police courts of cities, which gives the courts power to release persons convicted therein, and place them on probation, instead of sending them to jail.

Judge DeMeza also told of his work on the bench. He said in part: "It is the duty of a judge to thoroughly investigate the substance and incidents before passing sentence. Many times the unfortunate surrounding in which persons are placed is responsible for their becoming criminals or performing unlawful acts, whereas, at heart they are good citizens and have a desire to live up to the law in its full sense."

The judge referred to the need of a probation officer in Plainfield and told of the benefits to be derived therefrom. In conclusion he told o many interesting cases which had come before his court, and of his efforts to permanently settle all cases satisfactorily, and if possible without imposing jail terms. He said the latter dispositon of many prisoners makes them disgusted with society and the laws of the land when they are set free, instead of reforming them.

WILSON MAKES LOV E TO THE PROGRESSIVE

Confab With LaFollette Tonight a Sign of President's Plan of Action.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, March 14.—President Wilson is systematically building up support for himself and his administration in the Senate against expected approaching trials of strength between the Progressive and the Conservative faction when the tariff legislation reaches its final stages. He has already shown official consideration to several of the Progressive Republican Senators in consulting them about patronage and tonight is to have at the White House by special invitation the leader of the Republican Progressives, Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin. That Senator is quite a stranger at the White House.

President Wilson's party will have a clear majority of six in the Senate when the extra session convenes. The special session of the Senate will probably adjourn tomorrow or early next week. Anyhow as it is expected the reorganization will be completed.

Both Houses and Senate will meet at noon Monday, April 7, in extraordinary session pursuant to the President's proclamation to be issued soon.

Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Anderson returned yesterday from a visit of several months at Jacksonville and Tampa, Fla. They report having had a most splendid time, and a desire to try it again.

David Zimmerman, a carpenter fell from a scaffold while working on a building on South Gaston avenue in East Somerville, yesterday morning, and was taken to Somerset Hospital with his back badly strained. He will be discharged in a few days.

Ermino Illario, who runs a tailor shop on Davenport street, has been maintaining a number of signs projecting from his building in violation of a borough ordinance, and he was notified by Chief of Police Bellis on Tuesday to remove them or the police would be instructed to do it for him. Yesterday, in a fit of rage Illario tore down the offending signs in short order. Since the crusade against signs was made several years ago, the merchants have generally shown a disposition to abide by the ordinance, but once in a while some of the storekeepers have to be cautioned by the police when they begin to encroach on the sidewalk with displays of goods or signs.

DUG HOLE AND DIED IN IT.

Atlantic City, March 14.—William S. Crawford, a restaurant keeper who had been missing two days, was found in his yard yesterday with his head over a hole which he had dug to discover the location of a leak in his gas pipes. He had found the leak and been asphyxiated. Crawford was 68 years old, and the flow of gas was so strong that he was overcome by the poisonous fumes before he could get away.

Freehold, March 14.—The home of Secretary of State David S. Crater was opened today for a suffrage parlor meeting, Miss Crater being a warm friend of the suffrage movement. Mrs. M. J. Reynolds, who is staying with Mrs. Francis deLacey Hyde, at Plainfield, in the interests of the suffrage campaign in Union county, was the speaker. CHILD'S WELFARE CAMPAIGN BY MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

J. J. Savitz, county superintendent of schools, spoke at the regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' Association in the Plainfield High School auditorium on the subject of "County Schools," giving a detailed account of the work being conducted and many statistics to show the development in recent years. He made a plea for the introduction of practical trade teaching in the schools of Union county a feature already adopted at Westfield.

Mrs. Joseph Smith spoke to the association on the "Equal Guardian Law," describing the importance of the law to those interested in child welfare and explaining some of the most important features of it. A campaign for the furtherence of child welfare work in this city was launched at the meeting yesterday by Mrs. Lukes, who is connected with the Child's Welfare Institute and came to Plainfield to lead the campaign until it was firmly started.

PLAINFIELD Y. W. C. A. GIRLS PLAY TRENTONIANS TONIGHT

The Y. W. C. A. basketball team, of this city, will go to Trenton tonight to play the association girls of that place in their second game of the season. Plainfield made an excellent showing against the strong Trentonites in the initial appearance and although defeated in the first game they will make a strong attempt to win tonight. Should the local girls defeat Trenton tonight a double tie for the New Jersey State feminine title would exist, as the Capitol City maidens are already tied with the Nonpareil girls, of this city, in the championship race, the third game of which will probably be contested next week. Those who will play in the game tonight are as follows: Miss Marjorie Burtis and Miss Helen George (captain), forwards; Miss Gertrude Mair, center; Miss Marion Mair and Miss Ellen Doughty, guards. Miss Jessie Stewart will be taken as a substitute.

PUBLIC SCHOOL USE FOR SOCIAL PURPOSES

E. A. Ransom, Jr., of Jersey City, the originator of the plan of using public schools for educational and social purposes, will take the place of Daniel Bergen, of Jersey City, as a speaker at the meeting to be held at the Plainfield High School tonight, to further the interest of this movement. Mr. Ransom is connected with the Jersey Journal, and has been actively engaged in promoting the plan for the opening of public schools for the benefit of the people.

The other speakers tonight will be John Collier, secretary of the Department of Recreation of the People's Institute, New York, who will talk on "The Opening of School Buildings for Social Purposes," and Frank Kiernan, of Jersey City, supervisor of Social Centre Work in that city. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF SAMUEL HUMPSTON HELD

The funeral service of Samuel Humpston, who died Tuesday morning in his 96th year, was held at the late home, 547 West Front street, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors. Rev. William S. McCoy, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, the borough, officiated, during which he made a short address of eulogy.

There were a great many floral tributes, including those from the children of the Washington School, of which Miss Millicent Humpston is principal, the teachers of the school and all the principals of the city schools, in addition to tributes from relatives and other friends.

Mr. Humpston had been a resident of Plainfield since 1854, during which time he had always lived a quiet, retired life. He possessed a sterling character and was admired for his many excellent qualities.

The burial was in Evergreen cemetery on Plainfield avenue, and the pall-bearers were Samuel E. Humpston, a son; Richard Gosman, of Perth Amboy; John Gosman and Howard Gardner, of Long Island, the last three being cousins.

COTTAGERS NOW WANT BOROUGH GOVERNMENT

Long Branch, March 14.—Residents of the Elberon and West End sections of the city are signing petitions favoring a change in the form of government. Borough rule is asked. The petitions have been signed by many cottagers, whose winter homes are in New York. It is believed that the movement for the establishment of a borough was launched because of the failure of the residents to get street improvements asked for.

The commissioners, however, have planned to improve several thoroughfares, notably Park and Lincoln avenues. Today work was commenced on the widening of the street at Lincoln and Ocean avenues, long a dangerous spot for automobilists.

ELIZABETH TENEMENT IS SWEPT BY BLAZE

Elizabeth, March 14.—Fire completely destroyed the interior of a three-story frame residence at 1181 William street, yesterday. The building was occupied by Mrs. Robert Clayton and two boarders. The boarders were at work and Mrs. Clayton was visiting the owner of the building, Mrs. Charles Ellis, who lives next door.

All the furniture and clothing in the structure were destroyed and a pet cat was lost. There is no insurance on either the furniture or the house. Mrs. Clayton's husband has been a patient at the General Hospital for seven months.

A new range was put in the kitchen and the workmen said at that time the chimney needed attention. The alleged defect is believed to have caused the blaze.

COULDN'T WAIT A DAY, SO LEFT STATE TO WED

Phillipsburg, March 14.—Mrs. Adele Mann, of Blairstown, and Dewitt C. Titman, of Montrose, came to Phillipsburg late Tuesday afternoon to be married, but discovered that under the new State law it would be necessary for them to wait for twenty-four hours after they had secured a license. They then went to Easton, Pa., where they got a license and were married by Rev. Samuel C. Hodge at the parsonage of the Brainard Union Presbyterian church. Two nieces of Mr. Titman were the witnesses.

Mr. Titman, who has served two terms in the Pennsylvania Legislature, gave his age as sixty-nine years, while Mrs. Mann said that she was fifty-one.

WILL MODEL METHODS AFTER BEN B. LINDSEY'S

Jersey City, March 14.—Judge Lange, of the Juvenile Court, sat Wednesday for the first time, occupying the office in the courthouse that formerly belonged to the building committee. He declared he intended to model his work along the lines pursued by Judge Ben B. Lindsey in Denver.

Judge Lange also said that instead of holding local sessions, going from place to place where there are juvenile delinquents, he intended to have them all come to his office, unless there should be many at one time in one place. This, he said, was in the interest of the economy of time. He expects, he said, to have personal talks with all brought before him, believing this method better than usual court procedure.

A FEATURE PICTURE.

An interesting feature picture entitled "The Wives of Jamestown," will be shown at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening. A short synopsis of the historical film follows: Bryan O'Sullivan, an Irish lad of humble birth, rescues Lady Geraldine from drowning as her boat capsizes, thereby meriting her lasting gratitude. Forgetful of his station, Bryan falls in love with Lady Geraldine, who momentarily listens to his pleadings. Her acceptance of attentions from O'Rourke angers Bryan and he upbraids her for falseness. The nobleman draws his sword, but Bryan wrenches it from his hand and breaks it to pieces. Knowing that he cannot now remain, Bryan bids farewell to Lady Geraldine and sails for America. Bryan O'Sullivan, Irishman, becomes John Pierce, Colonist of Jamestown, Virginia. Years later Lady Geraldine suffers many vicissitudes; her castle is besieged by the Cromwellians and she with many others is sent to Jamestown to be sold to the colonists as wives. John Pierce is startled to see Lady Geraldine, but she fails to recognize him because of a heavy beard. Seeing that he is an honest man, she offers to become his wife. He takes her to his cottage and stepping into another room shaves off his beard, and begins to play the flute, which he so loved in days gone by. Lady Geraldine, who is about to end her life, hears the music and stepping to the door recognizes John Pierce, her husband, as Bryan O'Sullivan, her lover, and love claims its own.

Furniture and Carpets in Our Market Street Building

REGARDLESS OF COST

WE ARE compelled to empty our Market street building in order to avoid a heavy loss. Immediately after our warehouse fire we telegraphed our factories to rush shipments of all goods on order. The factories have made good, and car loads of furniture have been arriving daily, but our warehouse not being ready, we were compelled to pay demurrage to the railroads to hold the cars for us. Now the railroads threaten to place these goods in storage, which would mean a terrific expense and a tremendous loss to us. There is only one way out, WE ARE COMPELLED TO BRING THESE NEW GOODS INTO OUR STORE. TO DO THIS WE MUST FIRST DISPOSE OF WHAT WE NOW HAVE IN OUR BUILDING, AND AT ANY PRICE.

This Is Your Opportunity to Secure Durable, Well-Made Furniture For Every Room in the House

THOSE who bought during the recent Fire Sale and were amazed at the bargains they received will be startled at the still greater cut in prices during the next few days. WE ARE GOING TO SELL EVERYTHING REGARDLESS OF COST, despite the fact that

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

VARIOUS BARLEY SOUPS.

BARLEY soup is one of those good old dishes that have been banished from many tables for more fashionable but less nourishing and appetizing ones.

Barley soup may be made with stock, milk or with fresh soup meat. Veal makes the best barley soup.

Good Barley Broths.

Brown Barley Soup.—When gravy is left over save it until you have about a pint of the thick gravy and thin it with hot water to make about a quart of broth. To this add two tablespoonfuls of well washed barley, one teaspoonful of salt, dash of white pepper, one teaspoonful of finely cut parsley, one tablespoonful of cut carrot and one tablespoonful of caramel. Boil slowly one and one-half hours.

Barley Soup With Meat.—Take a pound of soup meat, two tablespoonfuls of barley, a small onion cut fine and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Beef should be used for this, and a piece of marrowbone will add to its richness. Put the meat and bone on with two quarts cold water, the onion, salt and pepper and boil slowly for one hour. Then wash and add the barley and boil another hour. Add one tablespoonful caramel and the parsley.

A Nice Cream Soup.

Cream of Barley Soup.—Take two cupfuls of milk, two tablespoonfuls of barley, a teaspoonful each of butter, flour, chopped parsely and salt, a dash of pepper and a dash of paprika. Wash the barley through several waters; put over fire with a quart of boiling water and boil slowly one hour. Add water if necessary so that there will be a pint of water at the end of the hour. Have the milk on in top of a double boiler; add the barley and the barley water, the salt, pepper, paprika, nutmeg and the butter and flour, which have been rubbed together. Boil one minute and add the parsley and serve.

With Rich Balls.

Barley Soup With Veal.—This may be made with veal or with chicken bones. Place these in two quarts of cold water and simmer gently for three hours. Then skim and strain. Wash a half cupful of pearl barley in cold water, place it in a saucepan and cover it with the broth just made. Cook gently until the barley is tender, then remove one-third of the barley, set aside and rub the rest through the sieve. Now place the whole barley grains in a saucepan, also the barley and stock passed through the sieve; add a half pint of boiling cream; season to taste with salt and pepper. Add a dozen meat balls; boil and serve three balls to each person. For the balls mince any scraps of cold veal and season with onion juice, salt and pepper. Moisten with cold gravy or soup. Set over the fire and stir into it one tablespoonful of flour; cook five minutes, remove and as soon as it is cool enough to handle form into balls the size of marbles, dip in unbeaten egg and fry brown in hot fat.

M'COMBS DOES NOT WANT FRENCH AMBASSADORSHIP

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, March 14.—William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has told President Wilson he did not care to go to Paris as American ambassador. He informed the Executive he preferred to continue his law practice in New York and conduct the affairs of the National Committee. President Wilson asked him to reconsider and Mr. McCombs agreed to take the matter under advisement. The President gave him until the opening of the extra session to reach a decision.

SIR THOMAS RESENTS N. Y. YACHT CLUB ACTION

London, March 14.—Sir Thomas Lipton, who recently challenged the N. Y. Yacht Club to another contest for the America's Cup, resents the attitude taken by the American yachtsmen and may withdraw his challenge.

When Sir Thomas today read the cablegram which stated that the New York Yacht Club had declined his challenge because the size of the contending yacht is limited to 75 feet on the water line, he said:

"Under the deed of gift the challenger is allowed to stipulate the size of boat. I do not see why the challenging club in this instance should be forced to build a yacht 90 feet long. With such a boat we would stand little chance of success."

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

At Proctor's Fifth Avenue theatre, Holy Week is to be ushered in with great eclat, each night, beginning with Monday (when 400 Sons of St. Patrick will attend in a body) calling for some special gathering at the handsome palace of varieties. Foremost on a bill of festival persuasion will be that impressive player, Edward Davis and Company in the gorgeous allegorical masterpiece with music, "The Kingdom of Destiny," an offering that has been pronounced the grandest thing yet done in vaudeville. Eddie Leonard and Mable Russell in "Dandy Doings Down in Dixie;" Belle Story, the Mary Garden of vaudeville, in an entirely new repertoire; Billy Gould and Belle Ashlyn in classy chatter, saucy songs and sartorial surprises; the Ten Courtiers in a lively musical ensemble; Arthur Geary, the Red Hussar tenor; Adonis, the act beautiful with the posing dog; West and Charles, ragtime rioters; Jack Dakota Trio, novelty sharpshooters; De Lesso Troupe, European equillibrists, and as a continued feature, Edison's Marvelous Talking Moving Pictures in new subjects from nature, the drama and the realm of fancy.

Laurette Taylor continues to attract capacity audiences to the Cort theatre at every performance of J. Hartley Manners' charming comedy, "Peg O' My Heart." Oliver Morosco is quite satisfied his attraction will remain at the Cort all through the summer and into next season. There will be a special performance of the play on Monday afternoon, St. Patrick's Day, when fitting souvenirs will be given, marking the 100th presentation of the play in New York. No performance will be given on Good Friday.

"The American Maid," sprightly, happy and comfortable, will enter upon the third week of her stay at the Broadway theatre on Monday night. John Cort has given the Sousa opera a magnificent production and a highly satisfactory company of one hundred players and singers. It would not be at all surprising if the Broadway would house this attraction well into the summer.

Francis Wilson will follow William Collier at the 48th Street theatre when the latter concludes his New York engagement one week from tonight. Mr. Wilson, who is appearing for the first time under John Cort's management, will present his latest comedy, "The Spiritualist."

PAY HOLD-UP STIRS OFFICERS.

New Brunswick, March 14.—Unless Mayor John J. Morrison signs the warrants for the payment of salaries to the new officers elected by the Democratic Common Council to fill the places of Republicans whose offices were declared vacant, mandamus proceedings will be started, it is declared, by those who now hold the offices. The Mayor vetoed the resolution ordering the salaries paid and Common Council repassed the resolution over the veto. The Mayor asked for additional time to consider the matter and this expired yesterday.

HOLLIS U. S. SENATOR.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Concord, N. H., March 14.—Henry F. Hollis, Democrat, of Concord, has been elected U. S. Senator by a margin of two votes, on the forty-second ballot.

ELIZABETH SOCIETIES TO HONOR ST. PATRICK

Elizabeth, March 14.—Three local organizations, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the Sons of Erin, and the First Irish Families of Elizabeth, will observe St. Patrick's Day here with banquets.

Acting Governor Fielder has given the arrangements committee positive assurance that he will be present at the Friendly Sons' dinner, to respond to the toast, "Our State." Former Governor Stokes will speak on "Our Country;" Rev. Peter A. Reilly, of Bayonne, "The Day We Celebrate;" Thomas N. Donnelly, of Hudson, "The Friendly Sons;" Joseph W. Keller, assistant attorney general of New York State, on "As the Spirit Moves Me." Assemblyman John J. Griffin will be toastmaster.

James J. Fitzgerald, a New York lawyer, will speak at the Sons of Erin banquet, at St. Michael's Hall. His topic will be "Irishmen." Other speakers will be Rev. J. J. Corcoran, of Newark; William J. Kearns, of Newark; Assemblyman John Matthews, of Newark, and former Governor Foster M. Voorhees. Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton, will be unable to attend. Rev. Edward Kirk, of Paterson, a native of Elizabeth, will be toastmaster.

The First Irish Families' function will be held at Travers' Hall. An interesting program of speechmaking has been arranged.

PURSER 31 YEARS AT SEA WITHOUT MISHAP

Hoboken, March 14.—Crossing the sea for some thirty-one years without a serious accident happening, is the record of Carl H. Schnell, purser of the Kaiser Wilhelm II., of the North German Lloyd Line. The purser Wednesday completed his 300th round trip across the Atlantic when his ship arrived here.

Mr. Schnell says that he must be a mascot, for not once has any vessel on which he served had any accident while he was on board. One steamship, the Elbe, was sunk in a collision in the North Sea in 1894, with great loss of life, just after Mr. Schnell had left her to go on board the Hohenzollern.

The Lahn, with Mr. Schnell on board, was one day late in reaching New York during the summer of 1900, and instead of getting here July 1 came in twenty-four hours afterward, just escaping the great Hoboken fire, which swept the piers of the line, burning all the steamships there at the time.

During his thirty-one years' service with the North German Lloyd Line Mr. Schnell has served on board the Amerika, the Strassburg, the Ohio, the Hermann, the Elms, the Fulda, the Elbe, the Hohenzollern, the Lahn, the Friedrich der Grosse, the Kaiserin Maria Theresa, the Neckar and the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, besides his present vessel. Mr. Schnell is sixty-six years old. His home is in Bermerhaven.

RICH STOREKEEPER DIED, FEARING TO MAKE A WILL

New Brunswick, March 14.—After the funeral of Israel Marks there was a gathering of his relatives at his late home, 300 Burnett street, and it was made known that Marks had not made a will, because he feared that if he did he would soon die. For many years he had conducted a second-hand clothing store and did odd-bits of business on the side. He invested a good part of his money in real estate.

Although he and his wife, the latter being eighty-seven years old, had lived for years as if they were destitute, it became known that Marks, or "Moxie," as he was known, had left a fortune estimated at between $100,000 and $200,000.

The manner of life followed by Marks formed the text of the funeral discourse delivered by the rabbi at the funeral services in the synagogue. The rabbit advised his hearers to do good with whatever riches they might acquire.

Mr. and Mrs. Marks had lived alone for years and about five years ago were attacked by burglars. When Marks shouted for the police one of the burglers slashed him with a razor and split his tongue so that his speech afterwards was indistinct.

Besides his widow he leaves a brother, Moses Marks, of New York, and other relatives, including Abraham and Samuel Marks, of this city; Mrs. Celia Goldstein, of Beachmont, Mass.; Mrs. Theresa Nathanson, of Roxbury, Mass., and Marks Levy, of California.

PEROXIDE GAVE OUT, SO HIS HAIR TURNED DARK

Jersey City, March 14.—When Tony McNicci, eighteen years old, was arraigned before Judge Carey in the Court of Common Pleas, he exhibited two shades of hair. The top of his head was thatched in brilliant red, while below his hair was jet black.

Judge Carey was curious and asked the cause, and it was reported that the lower part of the lad's hair had turned black while he was in jail awaiting trial with John Delano for taking stolen goods from a lot in Hoboken, near the yards of the North Shore Railroad.

When asked the reason for the color transformation, McNicci admitted that lack of peroxide had done the trick.

The court was astonished.

"Peroxide? You use peroxide?" queried Judge Carey.

"Why, sure; all the boys down our way are turning into peroxide blondes," McNicci ingenuously replied.

When he was pressed to name a few, the only one whom McNicci could, or would, recall was a youth who rejoices in the sobriquet of "The Mouse."

Judge Carey released the two in the custody of Probation Officer Smith.

BOONTON AUTO STRIKES WIFE OF FREEHOLDER

Boonton, March 14.—Mrs. John J. Cunningham, wife of Freeholder Cunningham, of Morris county, and sister of Public Utility Commissioner Thomas J. Hillery, of Boonton, was struck by an automobile in West Main street, near Lake avenue, Wednesday. Mrs. Cunningham was painfully hurt, although it is thought she is not seriously injured.

Mrs. Cunningham was out walking with her baby, when an automobile, belonging to Charles E. Estler, of Boonton, came toward her. The chauffeur evidently was confused at an approaching trolley car and turned toward the sidewalk, where Mrs. Cunningham was walking. The front of the car struck her, knocked her down and threw her aside, but did not run over her. The baby carriage was upset, but the baby was uninjured.

Mrs. Cunningham was stunned, and was taken to her home nearby, where an examination showed that her back and right leg was injured, but no bones were broken.

PASSAIC CLUB TAKES UP CHEAPER POWER OFFER

Passaic, March 14.—Consideration by the Hamilton Club, Wednesday of the proposal of the Electric Power Company to supply water-generated current to local manufacturers at a cost of forty per cent. cheaper than the existing Public Service rates, culminated in a resolution calling upon the Board of Commissioners to investigate the responsibility of the Electric Power Company and the feasibility of the proposed plant.

Carl C. Giles, manager of the Electric Power Company, outlined the company's plans in support of its application for a fifty-year franchise before the gathering, which included Commissioners John H. Kehoe and William A. Reid, City Counsel Dr. Albert O. Miller and officials of the Public Service. The Public Service men declared they were present simply as auditors.

MOTHER OF FOUR GLAD TO DIE AT TWENTY-ONE

Washington, N. J., March 14.—Commending three of her four children to the care of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lunger, and the oldest to a neighbor, who had shown her kindness when she was in distress, Mrs. Charles W. Garey, tired already of the world at the age of twenty-one, told those gathered about her bedside that she was eager to die, and expired shortly before midnight Wednesday.

Death was due to peritonitis. All day Wednesday two physicians and a trained nurse were at her bedside in a vain effort to save Mrs. Garey's life. She had been married five years. Her eldest child is not yet four years old, and the youngest, a daughter, is but sixteen days old.

Mrs. Garey had known for hours that she was to die. Assured by a neighbor, Mrs. Charles Carling, that she would provide the oldest child a good home, Mrs. Garey called for her parents and exacted from them the promise to take the other three children to their own home. This given she sank back upon her pillow, exclaiming:

"Oh, it has been so hard, so hard! I am glad I am going now. Such a heavenly peace I have not had for years."

As her parents and friends bent weeping at her bedside, Mrs. Garey bade them dry their tears. Herself dry-eyed and apparently unmoved save by the peacefulness she said possessed her, she planned all the details of her funeral, and her plans will be carried out to the letter, as she enjoined her father to see that they should be.

Besides her husband, children and parents, Mrs. Garey is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Swick and Miss Abbie Lunger, and a brother, Charles Lunger, of Washington. Before her marriage she was Miss May Lunger.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from Mrs. Garey's late home, and burial will be in Washington cemetery. Rev. Dr. F. L. West will officiate.

ELIZABETH DETECTIVES IN DOUBT OVER PLACES

Elizabeth, March 14.—Although the three county detectives attached to the prosecutor's office claim protection under civil service rules, there is a report that two of them may be ousted.

The detectives are John A. Gallatian, Frank V. Lowden and Joseph Buckley. The first named, who is the senior in point of service, will, it is expected, be retained by Prosecutor Stein. Buckley is a new appointee, having been named two months ago by Prosecutor Swift, after an examination.

Another position which the holder believes to be protected by civil service is that of district court clerk, now filled by George Smith, a Republican. Frank Jaques, formerly a clerk in the office of Robert H. McAdams, who yesterday commenced his duties as district court judge, takes a different view.

COURT HAS RIGHT TO REMOVE INTERPRETTOD

Elizabeth, March 14.—David Ramsey, whom the Supreme Court recently ousted from the position of chief of police of Rahway, is being considered, it is said, for the position of warden of the Union County Jail. This place has been held for many years by Charles W. Dodd, of Plainfield.

Sheriff William H. Wright has nothing to say concerning the appointment, but it is declared that he contemplates finding a place for the deposed chief. If the appointment comes, however, it will only be after the case is thrashed out by the Court of Errors and Appeals, to which, it is said, Ramsey will appeal.

As the position of chief of police pays but $5 more than other positions in the Rahway department, there is said to be a dearth of aspirants for the place.

MONMOUTH MEN SEEK NEW TROLLEY ROUTES

Red Bank, March 14.—Merchants and farmers from various parts of Monmouth county attended a meeting held in the Baptist church at Holmdel Wednesday afternoon and evening at which an improvement association was organized.

Rev. W. P. Chase, pastor of the Baptist church, presided. Mr. Chase was appointed chairman of the organization. A committee of nine was appointed to draft a set of bylaws and a constitution. It is the object of the organization to secure a trolley line from Red Bank to Freehold via Holmdel and from Keyport to Lakewood. The need of a better electric and telephone service was also discussed.

Mr. Chase said yesterday morning that there is no doubt that the property owners along the suggested trolley route between Red Bank and Freehold would willingly grant a franchise. This, he said, he learned in interviewing them.

Mr. Chase also said that he had received communications from trolley companies asking for a conference in regard to extending their lines over the proposed routes.

"The line between Red Bank and Freehold is almost a certainty," said Mr. Chase, "and we hope in due course to establish the Keyport-Lakewood route."

The improvement association will probably be called the Central Jersey Improvement Association. Another meeting will be held in the near future at which permanent officers will be elected.

IMPORT 50,000 EASTER LILIES IN EACH CARGO FROM BERMUDA

IN THE EASTER FLOWER MARKET

What is Easter without the lilies? Why, very much like Easter without the Bunny Rabbits and the rainbow eggs, I suppose. But let's not think of that kind of an Easter, with a fresh wilderness of the fair white bells coming in every day and enough colored eggs to gladden the heart of every small boy and girl.

Easter lilies, in the larger and more plentiful sense of the word, come from Bermuda. Under the clear Southern sky they grow as luxuriantly as do our dandelions. Any one with lawn mower proclivities will tell you dandelions are the limit of luxuriance. In Bermuda the natives gather lilies by the armful and take them to market, where they sell them for export to "the States." Imagine going out into the field and gathering an armful of Easter lilies. In "the States" we are lucky to have a single bloom.

In order to present them to us fresh and fragrant, the blossoms are picked before they are fully open. The lily spikes are wrapped in a kind of gray moss which keeps them damp and fresh, a hundred to two hundred in a box. Fifty thousand of these flowers of rare perfume are often contained in a single cargo.

GERMANY, IN FEAR OF NEW SLAV NATION, HAS GREAT WAR DRAIN

Victorious Balkan Allies Believed to Be a Serious Peril.

Kaiser's People Forced to Give One-fourth of Savings For 800,000 Army.

IT is not so many years since the kaiser drew with his own hand a caricature showing United Japan and China, represented as a huge dragon, reaching westward to devour Europe, and wrote underneath, "Europeans, protect your most sacred possessions!"

Today the yellow peril is forgotten in the presence of the new giant that has arisen in the east. It is the peril of the eventual Slav domination of Europe. This is apparent in Germany's great military preparation.

Since the days of Bismarck Germany has realized dimly the potentialities of the vast districts eastward, but it took the lessons of the Balkan war to awaken the Germans thoroughly to the possibilities of the rise of this great power in Asia and the near east.

And so, in days of great financial stringency, when the markets are already depressed and Germany and Prussia are floating loans of 550,000,000 marks, comes the startling announcement that 1,000,000,000 marks, or $250,000,000, will be asked for immediate armament purposes and a permanent addition of 200,000,000 marks to the yearly military budget.

The immensity of the contribution asked can be understood when it is considered that the annual savings of the entire German people amount only to about 4,000,000,000 marks. The amount asked for military purposes, therefore, will absorb a quarter of this, to say nothing of the regular annual expenditure added to the permanent budget.

Demands Stagger German Public.

It is not alone the immensity of the sum demanded that has staggered Germans and the whole of Europe as well, but also the recollection that when the addition of some 30,000 men annually to the standing army was asked last year the military authorities assured the nation that the increase asked would suffice to make Germany strong enough to resist all aggression that could be expected and to protect all her interests. Yet now they come with an unprecedented demand for 1,000,000,000 marks and an increase in the number of the army which it was at first understood would be 50,000 yearly, but now, it is understood, will amount to 84,000, raising the standing army to a peace footing of more than 800,000.

As an explanation of this the semi-official Cologne Gazette comes out with the statement:

"For the present our armament is sufficient. What is asked is provision for the future. In the bloody hours before Kirk Kilise the face of affairs began to change, and an alteration in conditions began which will become history with the signing of the peace treaty.

"This drives Germany to strengthen her military forces. It is not the sudden threatening turn in the aspect of affairs that demands a stronger military force than would have been necessary had things remained as they were before the war, but it is the fact that with the national and military rise of the Balkan states and the temporary elimination of Turkey as an armed power a shifting in relative strength has taken place to benefit the entire Slav nation."

Kaiser's View Altered.

It is an open secret that the kaiser has been averse to any increase in the army which might appear unwarranted. In fact, many army officers have been known, when conversing with friends on whose discretion they depended, to say more or less bitter things about the emperor's love for peace and to make dire predictions as to whither his very real aversion for war was likely to lead the country.

It is now reported, however, that the kaiser has become convinced that the time to act has arrived and that the new proposal was inspired by him. It is fairly certain, in any event, that he is the author of the proposal that 1,000,000,000 marks be raised by taxation on the country's great fortunes and that the princes surrender for this purpose their ordinary exemption from taxation.

The emperor has pointed out that the year 1813 was a year of unexampled sacrifices by the people and that no better way could be found to celebrate the anniversary of the freeing of Prussia from the foreign yoke than by this sacrifice.

The extent of the sacrifice proposed can be judged from the fact that the entire taxable valuation of the German empire probably does not exceed 200,000,000,000 marks, or $50,000,000,000. It is proposed, however, to exempt small fortunes up to perhaps 50,000 marks from the tax. This would eliminate a considerable part of the whole and impose a really tremendous burden on the richest.

No Serious Objection.

The German nation has a right to be proud of the fact that thus for no serious objection has been urged against the scheme, although it must be admitted that the Prussian "junker" organs appear rather lukewarm regarding the matter. In general, however, the response has been gratifying. But the effect on the financial situation of the empire and as a consequence on the financial world generally is bound to be to a considerable extent disastrous.

The money market is already very tight. Peace in the near east will give rise to new demands for money. Half the new Prussian and imperial loan subscriptions, amounting to 275,000,000 marks, must be paid on March 27. A great many cities have been awaiting a favorable time for floating loans, which will now probably have to wait still longer.

The 1,000,000,000 marks asked for are to be spent mainly on fortifications along the eastern frontier.

ARTIFICIAL MEAT PRODUCED.

Belgian Chemist Invents Curious Substitute For Usual Food.

A Belgian chemist, Effront, has succeeded in making artificial meat, according to the testimony of several prominent doctors. They say the new product is easier to digest, more nourishing and far cheaper than the real thing. It tastes about the same. Beef, mutton and pork can be turned out to order.

The component parts of "vrandin," as it has been christened, are hardly appetizing. Malt is the main ingredient, and it is treated with various chemicals.

A test is about to be made in regard both to taste and nourishing powers.

SAYS HE CAN CONTROL SEX.

Paris Physician Astonishes Medical Fraternity With Alleged Discovery.

A controversy rages in Paris over the announcement of R. Robinson that he has found a way to control the sex of the unborn. His experiments have been made in collaboration with Dr. Carlo Basile of Rome.

Briefly, their theory is that an injection of lecithin or of cholin will cause the offspring to be a female, while the injection of adrenalin will incline the offspring to be of the male sex. Lecithin is colorless phosphorized fat obtained from the cells of animals and vegetables. Cholin is an alkaline from the bile of animals, and it is obtained also from egg yolk and from animal nerve tissues.

Adrenalin is an extract of the glands which lie above the kidneys without any known purpose. Lecithin and cholin, according to Robinson and Basile, destroy the male element in the maternal cells, and adrenalin destroys the female element in the cells.

ONLY GIRL BABIES WANTED

Evidence of Female Superiority Shown In Odd Way.

An extraordinary manifestation of the alleged growing interest in the superiority of women was told to the woman's party at Chicago recently by Mrs. Julia Way, superintendent of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society.

"We find now," said Mrs. Way, "that there is no demand for boy babies. Families that wish to adopt babies invariably ask for girl babies. The hospitals and asylums are full of healthy boy babies, but no one wants them. Girl babies are as scarce as feathers on a cat. They are seized in their swaddling clothes by persons anxious to adopt them.

"What we shall do with the male babies is a pressing question that has found no solution as yet. I know it is heartless to discriminate against them, but such is the fashion of the day."

TRY A PRESS WANT AD

THEY HIRED A CARRIAGE.

The Ride Was a Dismal Failure, but It Didn't Cost Very Much.

This is the latest joke they tell in Washington concerning a midnight adventure of two congressmen who had to journey across the city one night last winter, when the streets and sidewalks were so icy that every wayfarer wished he had come of a long line of tight rope walkers.

The congressmen had spent the evening with a friend who was celebrating a birthday, or the approach of a birthday, or something like that, and who had endeavored to make his guests forget all about the worries of statecraft.

Neither felt like attempting to navigate the icy streets afoot when they found how slippery they were, and they hailed a carriage standing nearby.

One of them opened the door and started to climb into the vehicle. He slipped and fell clear across the carriage and out the other door. His companion tried to rescue him, and he also fell out. So much confusion frightened the horse, and one of the representatives skated to its head and caught hold of the bridle. But in doing so he lost his balance and slipped. His feet hit against one leg of the horse, which was not rough shod, and the horse fell down, too—on top of the other representative.

It was apparent that the horse couldn't proceed without somebody to steady him, and the two representatives started to lead him, one at each side. They bade the driver hold a tight rein, and with cautious step they set out for their hotel. It was slow going. Sometimes they would slip, and the horse would hold them up, and then again they would reciprocate by holding the horse up. At the end of an hour and fifteen minutes they had reached their hotel in a rather dazed condition.

"How much—uh—do we owe you, driver?" one of them faltered.

"Three dollars," said the man on the box.

They thanked him for making it so reasonable, paid it and went on into their hotel.—New York World.

A Neat Pun.

Jean de Reszke was once a guest at a large party given to a number of distinguished musicians. In the course of the evening one of the company put the somewhat tactless question:

"Who is the most popular artist on the musical stage?"

"Pas de Reszke!" flashed back the famous singer, thus punningly denying his own claim and in its stead asserting that of the great Paderewski.—Boston Post.

Not the Same One.

And men tell a tale of an Irishman who went to the postoffice and asked for his mail at the general delivery window. In the line in front of him was another Irishman on a similar errand.

"What name?" asked the clerk of the first man.

"Dennis Malone," answered the immigrant.

"Nothing here for you. Next—what name?"

"Dennis Malone," said the second Irishman.

"Didn't you just hear me say that there was no mail for Dennis Malone?"

"But, sure, I ain't the same Dennis Malone. I'm another wan entirely. Look an' see if there ain't none f'r me."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Futile Flattery.

"Even with flattery," said Mark Twain at a dinner, "you can't please some men. I remember when I was a reporter in Virginia City there was a doctor I liked—I had camped once on Lake Tahoe with him—and in an obituary I decided to give him a card. I wrote, 'Dr. Sawyer was called in, and under his prompt and skillful treatment the patient died Monday.' But Dr. Sawyer somehow wasn't pleased."

Attending a Chautauqua.

Ralph Bingham is telling this good one: The citizens of a thriving town of about 10,000 people arranged for a chautauqua assembly last summer. They held the meetings in a big tent about a mile from town, and the attendance was large from the first day. An enterprising circus man heard of the large crowds and landed in the town on the third day with a steam merry-go-round, which he located halfway between the town and the chautauqua grounds.

Along in the afternoon a young man from the country, coming from the direction of the Chautauqua, was accosted by a citizen of the town who knew him.

"Well, Ezry, I suppose you are in to the chautauqua?"

"I shore are. Just come from thar now."

"How'd you like it?" asked the townsman.

"Fine as a fiddle! I rode on the durn thing nine times!"

GRACE BOYS' FIVE WON ANOTHER GAME

Exciting Struggle on the Local Court Won by Home Team.

In an exciting game of basketball played on the Grace church Parish House court last night, the Grace church boys scored a defeat over the Dunellen Juniors by a score of 24 to 18. The playing was nip and tuck all the way and an added spurt in the final minutes of play was the play that gave the contest to the home basket cagers.

During the last five minutes of the contest the score stood a 16-16 tie and while holding the visitors to a single field goal during the rest of the game, the Grace boys scored four of the field variety in quick succession, making a victory doubly certain. Several of the Grace church men were out of the lineup and substitutes were made at the last minute.

The score:

North Plainfield High School Seniors were treated to a dose of defeat on the Holy Cross basketball court last night when the first five of the Holy Cross boys' club chalked up a 27 to 24 win. The game was an unusually clean one, fouls being conspicuous because of their absence.

TOMMY MULLIN WILL GO SOUTH TUESDAY

Local Boy Will Cavort Around Short for the Petersburg Leaguers.

Manager Henry Busch, of the Petersburg baseball team, a contender in the Virginia League, has ordered Tommy Mullin, the local youngster, to report next Wednesday at Petersburg. Tommy will leave this city Tuesday night and will join the team on its training trip there Wednesday morning. This is the Plainfield shortstops' first appearance in professional baseball circles and he has the best wishes of his many friends in this city in launching his new canoe.

Mullin has played semi-pro in the metropolitan district for the last five years, making a reputation for himself both as a shortstop and catcher. It was while doing backstop work for the fast McNulty Brothers' nine, of New York, that Mullin attracted the attention of one of Connie Mack's scouts and was offered a contract. Because of certain business engagements at that time and as he had no intention of playing the game for a livelihood, Mullin turned down the offer and has been playing independently. While Mullin is considered a wonder at short he prefers to cavort around the territory between second and third and this is where he will be played by Petersburg.

While with the McNulty team Mullin caught Louis Slocum and his classy handling of this twirler's curves made him a favorite in metropolitan circles.

BATTIN SIX WINS OVER WESTFIELD

A Third Game Will Now Be Needed—Westfield May Consent to Playoff.

In a hotly contested basketball game on the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. court yesterday afternoon, the Westfield High School girls were defeated by the Battin High School sextet by a score of 14 to 12. The last game between these two rivals resulted in a victory for the Westfielders, and since each team has now won a game it is likely that a rubber will be played some time in the near future, although the Mt. Ararat team is known to be not keen on playing rubber matches, having flatly refused to contest the third and deciding game with the North Plainfield High School maidens.

TOLEDO BOWLING TOURNEY IS OVER

A. B. C. Competition Featured by a General Smashing of Records.

Toledo, O., March 14.—The thirteenth annual American Bowling Congress tournament ended yesterday afternoon in a blaze of glory. Three men rolled into the first division in the individual event. S. Woods, of Washington, Pa., was the surprise of the day, rolling 674 for third place. Frank Genal, of Oshkosh, scored 672 for a tie for fourth place, and Jack Higgins, of Detroit, rolled 661 and tied for fifth place with Billy Heins, of New York, and Hiker, of St. Louis.

In the doubles C. Siebert and A. D. Root, of Toledo, rolled into third berth with a score of 1,268.

Former A. B. C. records, with one exception—Tom Haley's high score of 705 for three games—have been shattered in the present tournament. In the five-man events the record was passed twice. First the Overlands, of Toledo, set a new mark of 2,992, and then the Flor De Knispels, of St. Paul, counted 3,006 for another new mark. "Bill" Knox's perfect score is another record. Eddie Hermann's mark of 1,972 in the all-events will stand for years, the wise ones say.

A feature at the auditorium last night was a sweepstakes event for local bowlers and an exhibition of rolling by fifteen of Toledo's lady experts.

WESTFIELD TO HAVE CENTRAL LEAGUERS

Fans of That Place Have Been Assured of Team by Recent Organization.

Westfield baseball fans have been assured of a nine to appear in the Central New Jersey Baseball League this summer by Edward McMahon, manager of the Cranford A. C. for the past eight years, who has taken up the managerial reins of the Mt. Ararat representatives. George Ortlieb, the veteran twirler, who occupied the mound for Plainfield on several different occasions and who claims his residence as Westfield, will assist McMahon. With two such able guides as these the Westfield fans will be treated to some real baseball this season and it is safe to say that the team of that place will be right in the running when that league bunting is presented next fall.

The next meeting of the Central New Jersey Baseball League will be held in this city next Tuesday night and representatives will be in attendance from Westfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, High Bridge and New Brunswick. Jack Torpey, the well known backstop, has consented to act as manager for the High Bridge combination and it is said that Jimmy Clinton will do the mound work for that aggregation. All of the Westfield games will be played at Recreation Park, which has been a baseball rendezvous for the past decade.

BASKETBALL TONIGHT.

The Y. M. C. A. first team players will go to Dunellen tonight to play the Baraca Class quintet, of that place, at the Presbyterian church. In the previous meeting of these two aggregations, the Plainfielders won, but it is expected that the Dunellenites will make a far better showing on their home court than they did in this city and will make the association players hustle to win tonight.

middle West the list is not confined to this section of the country. The star runners of Yale, Cornell and Pennsylvania will be seen in the relay races, which will be the leading events on the program.

NEW BRUNSWICKS DROP TWO GAMES

Elks' League Leaders Outbowled in a Match on Rutherford Alleys.

New Brunswick bowlers, who are practically sure to win the Elks' League championship, got a setback last night when they dropped two games out of three on the Rutherford alleys. The Rutherford team, which completed its season's schedule last night, is pretty sure to take third place honors. The pinning in last night's match was not sensational. The New Brunswicks started with 893 and lost by thirty-three pins, the Rutherfords turning in an excellent 926. New Brunswick came back with 925 and showed to the front by fifty pins. In the last and deciding contest the Rutherfords were there for 910, while New Brunswick dropped to 830. Widmeyer turned in an excellent 235 for Rutherford and Oakes was there for 201. Burton had 221 for the visitors and Coyne was there for 213.

RUTGERS GYMNASTS WIN POINT.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Gymnasts of America was held at Earl Hall, Columbia University, yesterday, to decide details about the intercollegiate meet to be held at Princeton, March 28. A list of judges was approved by the committee, from which the Princeton management will select the men who will do the judging. Rutgers brought a protest before the committee, asking for another chance against Pennsylvania. In their recent contest the Quakers got the big end of the score by a narrow margin, and Rutgers protested on the ground that the Pennsylvania club-swingers had swung only three minutes, while their men had swung for the full official period of four minutes. Pennsylvania won the event and the meet. The Executive Committee recommended that the event be run off again at the intercollegiate under whatever conditions the two teams may agree upon.

END OF JUAREZ MEET.

Ciudad de Juarez, Mexico, March 14.—After 109 days of racing the regular winter meeting of the Juarez Jockey Club will come to an end tomorrow. The season has been one of the most successful in the history of the club. The fact that the city has been alternately in the hands of Federals and rebels has not interfered with the regular program at any time. Racing will be continued informally at the track for several weeks as there is till some time to elapse before the owners care to start their horses for Jamestown, Louisville and Latonia.

LOCAL ELKS BEAT PATERSON TWICE

A Pair of Automobiles Involved in a Series Rolled at the Silk City.

Rolling on the Paterson drives and driving to the Paterson alleys, the local Elks' bowling team, not yet intact after last night's experiences, were treated to a varied program of thrills before they returned from the scheduled match at the home of the Paterson "Bills" last night. Two automobiles were chartered to convey the Plainfielders to the silk city and before one of the machines left the Queen City it broke down so that another one had to be hired. Starting from this city at 7 o'clock the automobiles, one of them continued to Paterson, the other being delayed at New Providence by a blowout. After the tire was repaired this car containing, Chauncey Stout, George Balentyne, Samuel Tavener, George Wescott and Ben Lavere, continued on to Orange where another halt was necesitated because of a broken transmission. The machine was abandoned at this place and Ben Lavere was left in charge. In the meantime the other auto, containing Captain Frank Blatz, Bill Nash, John Campbell and Chief Kiely had arrived at the Paterson alleys but could get in no practice work until the arrival of Stout who had the balls savely stowed away in his machine.

The series was started shortly after 10 o'clock, the Plainfielders having no time to warm up and were considerably exhausted by the many interruptions on the trip. Although the silk city quintet had obtained the services of Romary and Taylor, two eastern leaguers, the Queen City representatives managed to come out ahead in two out of the trio of games rolled. In the initial setto the Plainfielders bowled low but consistently, nobody passing the 180 mark, but everybody hovering close to it, while O'Gorman brought his team's average down when he had the misfortune to chalk up five splits and recorded a tally of 130. O'Gorman got six splits in the third game which was also won by the visitors with a score of 916 to 812. The middle contest went to Paterson when that team rolled its highest team score of the season, 930, against the locals 772. High scores on the part of Stout, Kiely and Blatz in the third game brought victory to Plainfield.

Automobile number two, containing Kiely, Nash, Blatz and Campbell, arrived in this city at an early hour this morning but the other machine got stuck somewhere on the road and are said to be still missing. All the blame for the breakdowns, blowouts, stopovers, wet feet, late hours, insufficient practice, shortage of sleep, etc., is laid to Ben Lavere, who readily admitted that he had proven a hoodo in more sense of the word than one.

MILLER IN NEW YORK.

Russell Miller, of this city, will perform on the flying rings at New York University tonight when the crack gymnastic team of the New York University will compete against the University of Pennsylvania in the gymnasium at University Heights in the first dual meet these teams have had in many years. The New York team is in splendid shape, and is confident of carrying away the laurels. Capt. MacAdam and Cremer, '13, are looked upon as being sure of at least fifteen points between them, and Dutcher, '13, metropolitan champion in club swinging, ought to take first place in that event. Miller is a member of the Pennsylvania team.

PAIR FOR ELIZABETH.

On their own alleys in an Elks' League match last night the Elizabeth bowlers got two games out of three from the Rahway representatives. Elizabeth started with a total of 919 and won by a big margin, Led by Worth, who turned in 222, and McCartney, who was there for 214, the Rahway quintet tallied 826 in the second game and Elizabeth, with 905, was twenty-one pins behind. The last game saw the Rahway contingent fell back to 807, while Elizabeth was there for 923. Nolte with 211 and T. Keifer with 219 led the home team.

JONES RUNS FASTEST MILE.

John Paul Jones, Cornell's crack runner and Captain of the track team, ran a mile in 4:22 on a thirteen-lap track in the mid-week track meet, according to the official figures given out today. This is conclusive evidence that Jones is rapidly rounding into form. He started half a lap behind a pack of other runners, but caught them in the sixth lap and then went right ahead. Jones' time was better by six seconds than he had made before, and is the source of much gratification to Coach Moakley.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE LAUNCHED

Old Organization Will Be Entirely Reorganized and New Teams Added.

Representatives from five different Sunday-schools met last night and launched the Sunday-school Baseball League on its 1913 trip. From sentiment expressed at the gathering last night, it seems that the organization will be run on an entirely different basis than the one last year, and the league organization will be renovated from beginning to end, new rules being drawn up and new teams acting as contenders. The regulations of the league this year will be few, but the restrictions will have to be lived up to. Of the contenders who took part in the contest last year, representatives were present from three at last night's meeting, Park Avenue being represented by Dr. Pratt; First Baptist by Randolph Chandler, and Hope Chapel by George T. Leighs, Sr. South Plainfield will probably not enter the race this year because of the travel necessitated in covering the circuit and Monroe Avenue and Temple Baptist announced their withdrawal the latter part of last season.

Among the new candidates applying for admission were First Presbyterian and St. Mary's. Both of these Sunday-schools have unusually fast nines representing them and both look like sure contenders in the race this season. The First Presbyterian athletes were represented by Fred Lounsbury, Jr., and F. O. Dunning, Sr., and St. Mary's was represented by Joseph Green. It was voted to form an entirely new organization this year and have competent officials to compose the board, which was so weak and faltering at various intervals last year when important decisions were brought up to be rendered. All of the teams entering the race this season will be held within the laws prescribed and this will probably eliminate all of the petty quarreling that took place last year.

An organization board was appointed at last night's meeting to consist of Fred Lounsbury, chairman; Joseph Green, St. Mary's; Randolph Chandler, First Baptist; Dr. Pratt, Park Avenue, and Frank Rimmer, Hope Chapel. Immediately after the open meeting this body of officials went into executive session where they made plans for the reorganization which will be inaugurated at once. They decided to send invitations to all of the Sunday-schools in Plainfield inviting them to place a team in the league and all applications for admittance will be received at the next meeting which will be held in the Y. M. C. A. next Thursday evening. In the meantime all communications can be addressed to Fred Lounsbury at 310 Grant avenue. These invitations will be issued before next Sunday so the various Sunday-schools will have a chance to talk the matter over at their weekly sessions.

FOR LARGER USE OF THE SCHOOLS

Their Availability for Social Purposes Explained by Pioneers in Movement.

AS CRIME - DETERENT

Mayor Stewart Presides and Instructive Addresses Are Made by E. A. Ransome, Jr., John Collier and Frank Kiernan.

Due to the large amount of interest aroused in the plan of the Board of Education to allow the use of the public schools for educational and social purposes, especially as has been shown at the Washington School, three well known speakers on this subject addressed an open meeting in the auditorium of the Plainfield High School last night. E. A. Ransome, Jr., of Jersey City, the originator of the plan of using public schools for educational and social purposes in his speech caused a great deal of enthusiasm. The idea occurred to Mr. Ransom, while a police court reporter on a Jersey City paper, to use the public school auditoriums as a means of diminishing juvenile crime by turning open the doors of these institutions to the boys and girls of the city for social gatherings.

Last night he outlined a history of the work as it had been carried on in Jersey City and where it has proven a decided success. He said that using the public schools for dances would end much of the dance hall evils of the day. When he first conceived the idea of opening the schools he made up a committee and went to the Board of Education and applied for permission to use the auditoriums for social gatherings.

Mr. Ransom described a method for conducting dances in an orderly manner and he was given authority to go ahead with the movement at his own discretion. The speaker told of various instances where men who commonly frequented the lowest of public dance halls would wander into the school social and recreative centers and related how they were promptly ushered out as objectionable characters. A law was made which prohibited a young man from dancing with one of the opposite sex until he was formally introduced through a mutual friend. The talk was made exceptionally interesting by a number of anesdotes.

John Collier, secretary of the department of recreation of the People's Institute, of New York city, gave a short talk on "The Opening of School Buildings for Local Purposes." He told in a general way how the buildings owned and supported by the public ought to be used for the public's welfare. He introduced the idea of bringing the whole family to the gatherings instead of the children alone as has been the object all along. The speaker said that if the man went to the saloon alone and the child went to the dance in the public school alone, the mother would have to remain at home in solitude. As a remedy for this he suggested that the whole family be invited to attend.

Frank Kiernan, supervisor of the Social Center Work in New York, described the administrative side of the idea.

A general discussion followed and it was voted to request the mayor to appoint a committee of three, or any number he considered advisable, to study the subject and to co-operate with the local Board of Education in regard to opening the schools. No appointments were made at the meeting last night but Mayor Stewart, who presided, will probably act on the matter at an early date.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

Edson Cardner, of 312 Orange place, was delightfully surprised by a number of friends last night. Progressive games and musical selections were enjoyed. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Hayden, the Misses Mabel Cardner, Susan Cardner, Louise Arden, Isabelle Schnieper, Viola Huff, Lillian Wraight and Grace Wraight, and Harvey Houston, Edson Cardner, Samuel Montross, John Ellison, Leo Ayres, Gus Utzinger, C. W. Brown and George Wraight.

7TH-DAY ADVENTISTS TO RAISE BIG FUND

Plan to Collect One Million for Missions in Next Four Years.

One million dollars for missions during the next four years is the goal set for the Sabbath-schools of the Seventy-Day Adventists. This word has just been received by the Seventh-Day Adventist Sabbath-school in Plainfield in a letter from Mrs. L. Flora Plummer, of Washington, D. C., of the General Sabbath-school Department for that denomination. Mrs. Plummer writes as follows:

"Our summary for the last quarter is startling. It reached the splendid total of $60,728, the largest we have ever had. It makes the total for three quarters $165,135. When the returns are in for the last quarter we shall go way ahead of our goal, which was $200,000 for the year 1912. We are a little tired of having to change our goal every few months, and also ashamed of its being buried beneath the surface so deep that we hate to dig it out. We have decided, therefore, to set a goal covering 1913 to 1916, of a million dollars from our Sabbath-schools in four years. Pass on the news as soon as you like to your school, for I tell you we are counting on your State to help in this proposition. Judging from past reports, we shall not be disappointed."

According to their last statistical reports Seventh-Day Adventists are carrying on work in 67 countries, fifty of which have been entered during the past sixteen years. They are teaching the gospel orally in 80 different languages and dialects, and their publications are giving it in 71 different languages. In harmony with the gospel commission Seventh-Day Adventists are pushing out rapidly into foreign fields, believing this to be one of the great world movements before Christ shall come. They claim that the use of all of their Sabbath-school offerings for missions has brought inspiration to the schools. In harmony with Mrs. Plummer's request, the Sabbath-school here has pledged its hearty co-operation during 1913.

P. C. C. RATIFIES THE ACTION OF INCORPORATORS

The Plainfield Country Club, at a special meeting at the Hartridge Auditorium, last night, held for the purpose, ratified, confirmed and approved the action of the twelve incorporators of the club, the names of which appear in the certificate of incorporation. The resolution to the affect that the voting members confirm this action, was adopted unanimously.

The twelve incorporators are Leighton Calkins, R. S. Rowland, J. E. Erickson, R. H. Cox, S. W. Merrihew, Dr. F. E. DuBois, George P. Mellick, John P. Stevens, S. D. Lounsbury, William T. Kaufman, Arthur M. Collens and A. A. Tilney. The club's action last night completes the work of re-incorporation, which was taken to increase the number trustees from nine to twelve.

DUNELLEN TRADE BOARD COMMITTEE ON REFORMS

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Dunellen Board of Trade last night, the question of naming a committee to look into the matter of forming a new county, taking in Plainfield, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, South Plainfield and Bound Brook, was discussed. Another committee to look into the matter of a civic celebration to be held in Dunellen on July 4, to be known as Dunellen Day, was suggested. Several members will also wait upon the Dunellen Council and urged them to choose some hospital to which indigent sick can be sent to at the expense of the borough. This matter is covered by the law recently passed by the State Senate allowing a borough to make appropriations for the care of indigent sick.

It was recommended by the executive committee that the Board of Trade go on record Monday night at the regular meeting, when definite action will be taken on these matters, and also that the members of the Board be advised to vote for the purchasing of the new school site selected by the Board of Education, when it comes up at the special election Tuesday night.

THE TEMPERATURE.

TO DISTRIBUTE PALMS

Elaborate Musical Programs and Eloquent Sermons Are Promised the Worshippers in Many Plainfield Congregations.

Palm Sunday will be observed as usual in the Episcopal and Catholic churches of the city and borough, tomorrow, and there will be the customary distribution of palms among the worshippers. In each church special programs have been announced by the organists and choirmasters.

The hours of service at Grace church will be 7:30 and 11 o'clock in the morning and 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Gustav A. Carstenson, of Riverdale-on-the-Hudson, will be the special preacher at the 11 o'clock service, and the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, will preach in the afternoon.

Special services are to be held throughout Holy Week at the Church of the Holy Cross, beginning with the service of Palm Sunday tomorrow. The rector, Rev. William S. McCoy, will preach at the morning service tomorrow, taking the triumphal entry of Jerusalem as the theme and drawing practical lessons for life from it. At 7:45 o'clock tomorrow night the preacher will be the Rev. John G. Currier, of Grace church. The members of the Boys' Club will attend this service in a body.

The hours of service at St. Stephen's church tomorrow will be as follows: 8 a. m., holy communion; 11 a. m., morning prayer, litany and sermon; 4:30 p. m., evensong. At the 11 o'clock service, Charles W. Walker, organist and choirmaster, will be assisted by Mrs. Violet Truell Johnson, violinist. Faure's "The Palms," will be sung by Mrs. Warner E. L. Ward, with violin obligato. The church is attractively decorated with palms and palm branches and crosses will be distributed to the congregation.

Father Daniel Hogan will have charge of the 10:30 o'clock mass, assisted by Rev. Vincent Sciolla as deacon and Father B. M. Bogan, the pastor, as sub-deacon. The processional hymn will be sung by a choir of forty boys, and the other part of the mass will be sung by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Mary Smith, organist. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a benediction service for the children and palms will be distributed.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians will attend the evening service at which there will be a sermon on the subject of "St. Patrick."

Ceremonies appropriate to the opening of the Holy Week will be conducted at the 10:30 o'clock mass at St. Joseph's church tomorrow morning, when the palms will be blessed, followed by a procession. Rev. W. H. Miller, pastor of the church, will officiate. Holy Week services will be announced later.

GOLD FISH STOLEN.

Did you hear of the latest theft? No, a bank was not looted of its gold; a millionarie's pocketbook was not stolen nor a quarter meter looted, but five of the cutest little gold fish belonging to Mrs. Frank Linke, of 220 West Second street, were taken. From the day the fish came into Mrs. Linke's possession, and that was many years ago, she has watched over them and given them the best of care. As the warm atmosphere of the house does not agree with gold fish she had always placed the bowl containing them on the front porch. The bowl stood on a highly ornamental stand. When Mrs. Linke went to see her pets this morning, behold, fish, bowl, and stand were gone.

WOOLSTON-GEORGE NUPTIALS.

Miss Mary Woolston, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. L. B. Woolston, of Fairview avenue, will be married this evening to Edgar George, of Duer street. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride-elect.

"The Abiding Presence" will be Rev. G. W. Bailey's topic for the morning sermon tomorrow at the Baptist Institutional church, and in the evening his theme will be "The Shelter."

W. D. MURRAY TALKS ABOUT LIVINGSTONE

Tells of the Noble Sacrifice of the Great Missionary.

Nearly 300 boys attended a rally meeting conducted by Boys' Secretary C. William Bingeman at the Y. M. C. A. this morning and were given an interesting talk by William D. Murray, recently elected president of the Plainfield association. Mr. Murray took for his subject "David Livingstone," telling of the sacrifices of this noble character in foreign missionary fields. He likened the man who had given his life to helping his fellow beings, to a ball player making a sacrifice hit, the latter incident catching and holding the attention of his juvenile listeners.

Mr. Murray said that Livingstone's life had been full of sacrifice hits, many of them hidden to the public eye, but sensational in nature and he pointed out certain prominent characteristics of Livingstone that made his life a model one to look up to. Mr. Murray's talk was thoroughly appreciated by this, a representative group of Plainfield's boys over twelve years of age, and his illustrations were based on topics dearest to the heart of a true American youth.

AUTO BUS SERVICE TO MOUNTAIN VILLAGES

Plans for operating the Saurer auto bus between this city and the mountain villages, such as Watchung, Warrenville and Mt. Bethel, are being made, and the residents of those places are enthusiastic over the proposition. Manager Pritchard, representing the company which proposes to operate the bus, visited Mt. Bethel yesterday afternoon with the machine and a conference was held with several citizens. Arrangements were made to hold a public meeting next Tuesday afternoon when the details of the proposition will be discussed.

The residents in the mountain section are pleased with the prospect of having an up-to-date auto bus that will give them an opportunity to go back and forth to Plainfield comfortably without the tedious drive with a horse and wagon.

Mr. Pritchard has been invited to attend a meeting of citizens at Stirling on Monday, for the purpose of including that place on the bus route, and on Wednesday there will be a meeting of stockholders in this city to complete the organization and arrange for regular houtes and a time schedule. Mr. Pritchard said today that the complete oragnization of a company is assured and that he would be ready soon to give information regarding the operation of the bus.

P. H. S. JUNIORS WILL APPEAR IN TWO PLAYS

A large number of children from the local public schools were entertained at the dress rehearsal of the two plays to be presented by the Plainfield High School junior class in the school auditorium yesterday afternoon and although the affair was nothing more than a final rehearsal everything went off without a hitch. The main performance of the two plays, "Ici on Parle Francais," and "A Case of Suspension," will be presented in the auditorium of the school tonight and the excellent talent taking the various parts assures it of a success.

Tickets have been selling fast for the main show and a packed house is expected tonight. At the rehearsal yesterday, Elston Hoagland and William Thompson were easily the stars, both taking difficult parts in a fine style.

NO PROBATION OFFICER NEEDED

Major Irwin Thinks County Officer Can Care for Plainfield Youths.

MEETING TO CONSIDER

Mayor Stewart Will Call One for Some Date in Near Future at Which Plan Will Be Discussed by Those Interested.

Although the House of Assembly has passed a bill which if it becomes a law will legalize the appointment of a Probation officer by the Mayor of some cities, the statute will not affect Plainfield, as the act refers only to cities having a population of 50,000 or more.

Some agitation has been stirred up in the city by those favoring the establishment of this department and a meeting will be called by Mayor Percy H. Stewart in the near future to discuss the subject. Representatives of the Charity Organization Society, the local police department and several city officials will be invited. The decision was made this morning as the result of a conference in the Mayor's office between the chief executive, County Probation Officer Major Arthur Irwin and Police Chief Kiely, during which the idea was fully considered. The Mayor, at present, however, is not empowered by law to appoint a Probation Officer for this city, so in order to accomplish this Legislative proceedings would first be necessary. The solution to the problem, some say, would be the appointment of another assistant to Major Irwin, who now has but one man to help him in the duties of his office.

Speaking to a Daily Press reporter today, Major Irwin was emphatic in his opinion that Plainfield is not in need of a Probation Officer. "If the parents would co-operate with the police and with the Probation officers," the Major continued, "there would be little unlawfulness on the part of the children. The mothers of today do not pay enough attention to their offsprings; the rich children are placed in the hands of servants almost entirely in many cases and on the other hand a mother who has to work to earn a livelihood for herself and family because of a worthless husband, has not the time to properly develop the moral education of her children. But the main trouble is, too many parents follow that proverbial rule, 'Spare the rod and spoil the child.'"

The local police authorities are of the opinion that because of recent numerous violations of the law by youths, people have been misled. As a matter of fact, the number of boys placed on probation in this city seldom exceeds an average of twelve and the offenses committed in the majority of acses are trival.

MAYOR ISSUES WARNING TO THE AUTO SPEEDERS

Owing to the complaints which have been made to the Mayor by private citizens and city officials of the fast and reckless driving of automobiles in the city, the Chief of Police has been instructed to strictly enforce the automobile laws. Some time ago a warning was sent to all owners of garages in this city pointing out the necessity of a strict compliance with the law. While this law has been generally complied with there have been a number of cases where the law has been disregarded, with consequent danger to life and limb.

The Street Commissioner has recently appeared before the Mayor and complained of the fast driving of automobiles for the reason that it is destroying our roads with a consequent geat expense to the city. Most of the citizens are anxious to comply with the law and the Mayor feels certain that merely calling this matter again to their attention will be sufficient. Those who are not willing to comply will have to take the consequences of their disobedience.

WILL MAKE DAYS OF PATIENTS HAPPIER

Movement to Provide Means for the Entertainment of Bonnie Burns' Guests.

To stimulate the giving of subscriptions to the fund being raised by County Collector Leavitt to provide entertainment for the patients at Bonnie Burn, 200 letters have been sent to the lodges and charitable societies of the county. The movement has met with so much favor that not only has a player piano been donated, but a prominent Elizabeth lawyer made an anonymous gift of a library of 500 volumes. A standard make of phonograph is also wanted.

The piano was presented by Alfred E. Jackson, of Summit. The contributions have been coming in from all parts of the county. The amount on hand at present is $102. Both the piano and books were thankfully received and are considered valuable acquisitions to the institution as a means for restoring to health those unfortunate enough to need the treatment.

The sole purpose of purchasing the instruments is to divert the thoughts of the patients from themselves and their condition. Anything which will do this is considered wise and desirable. They are getting the best of medical treatment, good air and sunlight, yet it is necessary to keep them in a contented frame of mind. It is not possible to do this with all the patients by providing them with plenty of good literature. In fact reading for any length of time would not be a pleasure to many of the patients as they are obliged to be in a reclining position in bed most of the time.

The amount received to date is made up as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$67.00
Michael B. Patterson	10.00
Fred J. Faulks	10.00
F. W. Veghte	5.00
Mrs. David Kaufman	5.00
Dr. W. H. Murray	5.00

MACBETH THE CHOICE OF THEATRE-GOERS

The management of the Plainfield theatre has decided to have Robert Mantell appear in "Macbeth" at the theatre on April 2. There will be but one performance, owing to the fact that the many replies to the invitation from people who were requested to express a choice from Mr. Mantell's repertoire, chose the play of "Macbeth."

The Daily Press in announcing the appearance of Mr. Mantell in this city, opened its columns to an expression of opinion as to which play from his repertoire they would like to see. Of the large number of replies, a majority selected "Macbeth," and the theatre management agreed to present this tragedy.

DR. LOWRIE'S BROTHER DIES SUDDENLY IN WASHINGTON

Dr. Henry W. Lowrie, of 516 Park avenue, received word this morning through the local police department, of the sudden death yesterday of his brother, Rev. Dr. Randolph Lowrie, of 43 Fourth street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Death was caused by heart trouble after a short illness.

Rev. Dr. Lowrie was a retired Episcopal clergyman and although 73 years old, was up to the time of his demise, actively engaged in literary work. His only immediate relative is Dr. Lowrie, of Plainfield, who will leave tonight for the Capitol to make arrangements for the funeral and interment.

SERVICES AT ST. PETER'S.

There will be a special Palm Sunday service at St. Peter's German Lutheran church, at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, in charge of Rev. Conrad F. E. Blunk, pastor. The service will be in German. Master Richard Moldenke, of "Castle Elsinore," will be confirmed. The church will be appropriately decorated and there will be special music by the choir, with solo numbers. The Sunday-school will meet in the morning at 9:30 o'clock.

SALE NETS $100.

The Women's Alliance of the All Souls' Unitarian church held a successful sale yesterday afternoon of food, fancy work, ribbons and candy, realizing considerably over $100. The fair was held in the church parlors which were appropriately decorated for the occasion. Rev. Arthur E. Wilson was present and proved to be an efficient salesman.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will preach tomorrow morning on the subject of "The Sins that Crucified Our Lord," and in the evening on "The Faith of David Livingstone."

FOR SMALL BOARD IN EVERY COUNTY

Bill Will Make it Mandatory to Oust the Large Boards of Freeholders.

LIKELY OF ENACTMENT

Measure Will Put the "Kibosh" on Supreme Court Decision as to Union, Mercer, Bergen and Morris Counties.

Trenton, March 15.—As a direct result of the decision rendered in the Supreme Court Wednesday sustaining the legality of the large boards of freeholders in Mercer, Union, Bergen and Morris counties, it is likely that every county in New Jersey that already has not got the small board of freeholders will be forced to adopt it.

Legislation is being prepared and will probably be introduced at Monday night's session of the House of Assembly which will make it mandatory for every county to adopt the small board of freeholders. The bill will be presented by Assemblyman Zisgen, of Bergen county, one of the counties affected by the Swayze decision and a county in which the sentimeent is overwhelming in favor of the small board idea.

Mr. Zisgen said yesterday that the small board idea is now in operation in 11 of the 21 counties of the State. The practicability of the scheme has been tested and found all that has been claimed for it. The time has now come for the general operation of a law which has proved itself to be one of real benefit and saving to the people.

Unless the new bill, if introduced, is made mandatory, the old Boards of Freeholders, which means the ring politicians, will be able to postpone the taking over of the county governments by the small boards for another year. If it remains for the counties to adopt any small board act separately it would be done at next fall's election and the members would not be elected until 1914, and would not take office until January, 1915, a year later than if the bill is made mandatory.

In the event of opposition strong enough to defeat such a proposition, a bill will be passed about which there can be no doubt as to its constitutionality providing for small boards of freeholders. Then this act will be adopted in the various counties. This legislation, also, will eminate from Mr. Zisgen.

There is little doubt, however, but that the mandatory act will meet with favor at the hands of the Legislature as the State has expressed itself pretty definitely as to how it feels in regard to the large and cumbersome boards of freeholders.

AUTO WRECKED ON TRACK, OWNER SUES FOR $500

Morris Rabinowitz, of West Third street, has instituted suit against the Jersey Central railroad to recover $500, the cost of his automobile which was wrecked in a collision with a train the early part of December at the Rock avenue crossing. According to the plaintiff, he never even got the remains of his wrecked machine back. He claims the railroad authorities removed it from the scene of the accident. Rabinowitz has engaged Robert Newton Crane and Francis J. Blatz, to represent him.

Rabinowitz had a narrow escape from death when the accident occurred. According to witnesses, for some unaccountable reason Rabinowitz, it is alleged, was allowed to cross the tracks in his automobile as the gates were being lowered. An onrushing train struck the rear of the auto just as Rabinowitz put on full speed and jumped from the car. His presence of mind saved his life.

The company bought in three large lots of furniture which will be sold later. Mr. Murray conducted a successful sale on North avenue, Thursday, and another sale will be held next Thursday.

WILL TATTOOED ON HIS BACK.

California Miner Has Testament Placed on Shoulder Blade.

Probably the oddest will ever drawn by man is that of Harry Kohlman, a miner from San Bernardine county, Cal., who has had his last testament tattooed in purple ink on his left shoulder blade.

Kohlman said he was about to take a trip through the troubled regions in Mexico, and he wanted a will that was indestructible and one that would survive robbers or fire. His property is valued at $50,000.

Still inflamed with the tattooer's needle, Kohlman recently exhibited his will to a few friends. There are but fourteen words in the "document," but lawyers say it is perfectly legal. It reads, "All my claims south of Red Hill, San Bernardine county, to J. H. Cart. H. Kohlman."

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

When the Liebler Co. determined to revive "Everyman," what more natural than that they should wish to secure Miss Edith Wynne Matthison's services to play the leading role? Because Miss Matthison was under contract with another management, the revival was postponed several months. Finally, however, her contract expired, and on Monday, March 10, at the Children's theatre, she reappeared in her famous part. A cast of celebrated players, by far the strongest cast that has ever interpreted the play, appears in her support.

"The Honeymoon Express," with its thrilling race between an automobile and a train, Gaby's Parisian gowns, and the sprightliest and prettiest chorus ever seen at the Winter Garden, begins its seventh week of phenomenal business next Monday evening. The fiftieth performance occured at Saturday matinee today. The cast, which includes Gaby Deslys, Al Jolson, Ada Lewis, Fanny Brice, Yansci Dolly, Melville Ellis, Harry Fox, Harry Pilcer, F. Owen Baxter, Lou Anger and Doyle and Dixon, remains the same. The customary Sunday night concert will be given.

Reinhardt's stupendous spectacle, "The Miracle," continues at the Park theatre. There are performances every evening, including Sunday and matinees on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. All performances are given at popular prices. The story of "The Miracle," that which Materlinck used in "Sister Beatrice," is taken from a German legend of the middle ages. In the cast selected by Mr. Reinhardt to take part in the worldless mystery play are some of the most famous actors on the continental stage, including Madame Carmi of Florence, who appears as the Madonna.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MARCH 15, 1913.

The editorial columns of this paper are conducted on Saturdays by representative citizens who are free to express their own views. A. R. Parkhurst, night editor of the New York Evening Telegram and former editor of the Plainfield Courier-News, a newspaperman of ripe experience gained while occupying reportorial and editorial positions on leading dailies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, is the contributing editor for today's issue.

[The contributing editor, Mr. Parkhurst, specially requested that he be allowed to select his own topic and that no changes be made in his "copy." He was told that such was the idea of the contributed editorial. Our purpose in making this explanation may be readily understood when the contributed editorial is read.—Editors.]

PLAINFIELD'S EMANCIPATION.

Until a very few years ago there flourished like the proverbial green bay tree, and in every community, that type of coarse, brow beating, over dressed and saloon haunting politician whose domination of many about him was absolute. Whether a "ward heeler" or a real boss he was the man looked to to get out and deliver the vote to the party from which he drew his pap. In that same community could be found the "party organ," the newspaper that loyally (?) supported the dominating party and whose principal income consisted of the crumbs that filtered from the tables of the bosses. The party boss and the party organ were synonymous, inasmuch as neither could well exist without the other. In those days the Independent Newspaper was even scarcer than the honest politician, for both thrived and flourished and graft constituted their sole nourishment. The editor who possessed the courage of his convictions was regarded in the light of a suicide and although a few existed it was many years before their honesty of purpose was recognized and they were able to reap the fruits from the almost sterile soil in which the seed was sown. Later events have proved, however, that the quixotic publisher of those days was but laying the corner stone for the only type of newspaper that could endure, for a glance at the newspapers published in the United States today will readily convince the most skeptical of us that the independents are the only really great publications we have and that they alone are making money. Nowhere is this more glaringly demonstrated than in even graft ridden New York city, where the decadence of the "organ" is so marked that they are only discernible by the close proximity of the grave that yawns in their rock strewn paths.

Recent events in this State, and in fact, all over the country, prove that the stars of the party boss, the ward heeler and the professional politician have set. True, politicans still flourish and in some communities they will continue to do so. In place of the type of old we now have the sleek, fat, suave diplomatist who counts his rake-off in four and five figures where his predecessor was content with a few dollars. The former was a petit larceny thief, while he of today would not stoop to a felony that might be given a less dignified title than grand larceny. One was a piker, the other a grafter, and that's the sole distinction. But with the dawn of the new era the boss of today is skulking in his tent, exercising his nimble wits and reaching forth with itching claws to seize from the public every penny that is not nailed down, for he knows that a long suffering public has awakened and stands ready to express at the polls the indignation that has so long smouldered in its breast.

Nowhere in this State has a more rock-ribbed political organization existed than right here in Union county. Its strangle hold has been on the throat of the county and every hamlet within its confines for so long that those who constituted it were impervious to the warnings of wiser heads who counselled that they had become drunk with their own power and were surely digging their own graves. A review of recent events will disclose a symmetrical row of graves in which repose ghosts of a dead past and other graves, just as comfortable and inviting, are being prepared for those who are hanging on with a despairing but leechlike grip. As might be expected such a strangle hold was only made possible by the party organs which aided and abetted the bosses by covering up their real purpose in desiring to hold public office and blatantly proclaiming their virtues, which only existed in the imaginations of the editors. The pickings for the publisher of that type were good and they, it seems, were just as hungry as the bosses whose creatures they were. Plainfield readers for, lo, these many years, have been compelled to wade through columns upon columns of hypocritical cant which was palmed off on them under the guise of "editorials." Some of the newspapers read here essayed to stick in the middle of the road and by fawning upon and doing the bidding of the bosses swelled their coffers through contributions and advertising that came directly or indirectly through this source. Another sought to carry water on both shoulders and was nearly submerged beneath its own duplicity. The recent elections proved that there was no health in the party each had essayed to support, for all now visible of this once great organization are the bosses stark and dazed, the mask stripped from their faces, tottering amid the ruins of their crumbling throne.

Is it not but natural that a newspaper toiler of many years standing should rejoice and with open arms welcome the Plainfield Daily Press to the Independent fold? Can, you, who work so long and tirelessly to put forth your finished product, realize how refreshing it is to those of us upon our return in the evening to be able to pick up a "home paper" which has the courage of its convictions? A glance at its editorials today furnishes the reader with food for thought, and convinces him that no it is no longer necessary for the public to suffer in silence, inasmuch as it has a champion in a newspaper which is not afraid to tell the truth despite the threats or lamentations of those transgressors it seeks to expose. Had the Plainfield Daily Press but thrown off its yoke five years ago I firmly believe we would have a better Plainfield today, and not a city which, while in its present passive state, impresses would-be home seekers and other investors who come to look us over that it is afflicted with a bad attack of dry rot. No city in the state has a brighter future, yet this future cannot be realized unless an independent newspaper like the Daily Press comes out and tells the truth, thereby stirring to concerted action the slothful ones within whose power it lies to start our city on the march to renewed prosperity and vigor.

If the Plainfield Daily Press continues along the lines it has laid down for itself it will prove a saviour to those who have the best interests of the city at heart. With independence for its slogan and "fair play and a square deal for all," its dominant note that success which attends every honest effort must be its reward. The divorcement of the editorial and business departments may for a time make the paper's path a thorny one, but in the long run it will win out. Editorials reflecting thought and character and not spineless and nauseating platitudes are needed in a city of Plainfield's proportions and that is what we readers want when we pick pick our "home paper." The policy of the paper has been one which has won the unqualified admiration of all who are familiar with its columns. It is broad, liberal and public spirited and those campaigns and crusades it has undertaken were all of a character which won the interest of its readers and that interest is sustained to the end. I am told that the Plainfield Daily Press' advertising columns have increased twenty-five per cent. since it was launched as an independent, and that its circulation has grown by fifty per cent. While these substantial gains will enable its publishers to put forth an even better newspaper, such gains are infinitesimal when compared to the paper's gain in public confidence.

Let me conclude by predicting a useful and munificent career for the thoroughly readable and live newspaper the Plainfield Daily Press has become since it crawled from its chrysalis and, braving the ire of the bosses, stands forth as the lone independent newspaper in a county which, also, has just come into its own.

THESE MEN WERE HEROES AND WHAT MADE THEM?

There are a great many people in this age and generation who regard the Christian religion as a process of subtraction. Their idea is that if a man or a woman becomes a Christian he or she must give up something; he must be a loser by the transaction. The average man argues "If I become a religious man I have got to give up a certain degree of my manliness, my independence, my strength. I must become a weakling. I cannot carry my manliness into my religious relations." A man with that impression of religion very naturally declines to make the sacrifice.

But the idea is a most specious, and absurd argument of the devil. Christianity is not a process of subtraction, but of addition. You don't lose, you gain. No man has to lay aside his manliness, he has to take it up and develop it. Unmanliness in Christianity, which often passes as piety, is a wretched and wicked misrepresentation of the Christian ideal. Jesus Christ and St. Paul may be looked to as reliable exponents of the Christian ideal. What does Jesus say on this point? He says that a man who makes right and the kingdom of right his first interest, and primary business, does not lose but gains. Human experience has proved the substantial truth of his saying times without number: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." Not a loss of manliness, but the loss of the meanness and addition of the sense of right, justice, strength and truth.

Or in the opinion of St. Paul the man who is to be a decent, normal Christian is thus exhorted "add to your faith virtue." "Virtue," in its elementary significance means "manly strength." So Paul bids men add manly strength to their Christianity; and Christianity to their manly strength. The two sides are the same or complementary. Christianity without manliness is a perversion of a great ideal. Manliness without Christianity is very apt to be a mere animal manliness. Christ with man, and man with Christ is the ideal of manhood. To test the ideal in human experience what has been the source and nature of the manliness of such men as Washington, Wilberforce, Lincoln, Garison, Livingstone, Stead, Brooks? Were they men? Were they heroes of the race? Were they worthy of your respect and admiration? Great as these lives were, they are only imperfect reflectors of the strong manliness, the patience, endurance, and fortitude of their Master—Jesus Christ. And if a man wants to be like Jesus Christ, he must go where Jesus is to be found. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God."

DECIDE NOT TO ERECT SCHOOL AT MT. BETHEL

The proposition to build a public school was considered at a special election at Mt. Bethel, yesterday afternoon, and was decisively defeated, the vote being 107 to 29. The plan was to erect the proposed building at Mt. Bethel, but strong opposition developed recently and yesterday's result was not altogether a surprise. It is said that some of the members of the school board were opposed to the plan and they succeeded in securing quite a following. The question is an old one, having come up periodically for the past few years.

The annual school meeting will be held on Tuesday, when trusttes will be elected to succeed J. V. Brockway, I. V. Adams and Fred Weigand. The wise ones have picked the following to be elected: Fred Weigand, John Miller and David F. Scott. At that meeting the annual appropriations for school purposes will be voted upon.

CHARLTON CASE IN U. S. SUPREME COURT

Argument Next Week in Extradition Proceedings for Alleged Murderer.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—A final and determined effort to save Porter Charlton from being extradited to the Italian authorities demanding that the prisoner be turned over to them to be tried for the murder of his wife, Mary Scott Castle Charlton at Lake Como, Italy, on June 9, 1910, will be made when his case shall come up for argument before the United States Supreme Court next week. The case was taken to the Supreme Court on an appeal from the action of the United States Circuit Court at Trenton, N. J., in denying a writ of habeas corpus sued out by Charlton's father to review the proceedings before County Judge John A. Blair, sitting as a committing magistrate, who held Charlton for extradition.

The argument in the Supreme Court will hinge largely on the contention of Charlton's counsel that the treaty between the United States and Italy made in 1868 has been nullified by the refusal of Italy to permit the extradition to this country of Italians accused of crime and that consequently the United States is not compelled to deliver Charlton over to Italy. Another crucial question to be argued will be whether an error was committed by the committing magistrate in refusing to allow Charlton's counsel to prove that the prisoner was of unsound mind at the time of the commission of his self-confessed crime. Mr. Garven, who will argue the case for the Italian Government, was prosecutor in the proceedings before Judge Blair and succeeded in keeping out all evidence tending to show that Charlton was insane. His term as prosecutor recently expired and Governor Wilson appointed Robert S. Hudspeth to succeed him.

Porter Charlton is the son of Paul Charlton, who resigned his position as United States Judge for the district of Porto Rico a short time after the arrest of his son. Young Charlton received a fairly good education and, before he had reached his twentieth year, found employment as clerk in the National City Bank on Wall street. During the winter of 1909-10 he became acquainted with Mary Crittenden Scott Castle, a former actress who had just been divorced from her husband, and after a courtship they were married in Philadelphia on March 12, 1910. For several months they lived at the Hotel Woodward, in New York, before they started on a trip to Europe.

They made their first stop, after reaching the Italian lake region, at Cernobbio, where they took lodgings at the Hotel Suisse. They quarreled so much, however, and there were so many violent domestic scenes between them, that the manager of the hotel was forced to ask them to leave. The young couple rented the Villa Legnazzi, above Moltrasio, on Lake Como, where their quarrels continued to the last. On June 8, 1910, villagers passing the villa found it apparently closed. Neither Charlton nor his wife were seen in or near their villa. On the morning of June 10, fishermen found in Lake Como, not far from the Villa Legnazzi, a trunk which contained the body of a woman who had apparently been murdered. The body was identified as that of Mrs. Charlton and, suspecting that the woman had been murdered by her husband, the authorities notified the police throughout Italy to be on the lookout for Charlton and to arrest him when found.

Having murdered his wife with a mallet and having disposed of her body by throwing it in the lake, Charlton, carrying only a suitcase with a few clothes, left Moltrasio and went first to Como and then to Genoa, where he took passage on the steamship Princess Irene, bound for New York. The steamer touched at Naples, Palermo and Gibraltar and at each port detectives made a search for Charlton, who traveled under the name of Jack Colman, without detecting his identity.

It was due to the efforts of Capt. Henry Harrison Scott, the brother of the murdered woman, that Charlton was apprehended upon the arrival of the steamer Princess Irene in Hoboken. Charlton at first denied his identity, but in the face of positive evidence discovered in his baggage, not only admitted his identity but made a full confession of his crime. He claimed that both he and his wife had ungovernable tempers and constantly clashed. Becoming exasperated upon one occasion, he killed her.

Charlton's father gave up his position in the Insular Department and came to his son's assistance, by engaging several prominent lawyers to defend the young murderer. It is claimed by Charlton's lawyers that the young man is consumptive and suffering from periodic attacks of insanity and it is believed that they will mainly rely upon the plea of insanity to prevent the extradition of Charlton to the Italian police authorities.

WOMAN WHO IS ALLEGED TO HAVE ROBBED MISS FISK IN TOILS IN NEW YORK CITY

Miss Dorothy Fisk, daughter of Mrs. Chapman Fisk, formerly of this city, has recovered her gold mesh bag valued at $500, which was stolen in St. Bartholomew's church, New York, upon a recent visit of Miss Fisk to that church, following the arrest in New York of "Mrs. Randolph Fitzhugh," of Washington. [illegible] believed that she took Miss [illegible]'s bag at the church. It was [illegible] to the office of Harvey Fisk [illegible] in New York.

The arrest of Mrs. Fitzhugh followed many complaints of thefts in New York churches, one being made by Archbishop Cusack, and detectives arrested a handsomely attired woman, who was arraigned in court as Jane Doe, twenty-eight years old, of the Flanders Hotel, as a suspicious person.

An investigation showed that no such person was registered at the Hotel Flanders, but when a room assigned to a Mrs. Randolph Fitzhugh was examined four pocketbooks were found there. "Mrs. Fitzhugh" is one of the names in a circular sent out by the Washington police, another name given being Catherine Fennell. For nearly three weeks the woman has been under the surveillance of detectives. The woman was held in $1,000 bail in Jefferson Market Court, on a charge of larceny.

SUIT TO RECOVER $10,000.

The J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Co., of North avenue, have begun suit in the Union county courts against Emanuel Kappelsohn and other members of the Plainfield Plumbing, Hardware, Paint and Supply Co., to recover the amount of $10,000 alleged to represent the price of material said to have been furnished the defendants and used in the construction of the houses in the lower end of Arlington avenue.

PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY AND FAMILY IN THEIR LATEST PICTURE

JOSEPH P. TUMULTY AND FAMILY

The most interesting thing about Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, is his family of six little Tumultys. Although Mr. Tumulty is only thirty-four years old he has a large family. The children are Mary, Joe Grace, Catherine, Alicia and Philip. Mary is about nine years old and Philip was born on the eve of last election day. Mrs. Tumulty was Miss Mary A. Byrne of Jersey City, N. J.

ROAD INSPECTING AUTO PARTY IN TOUR TODAY

An automobile which is surveying the condition of spring touring routes for the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, passed through this city today at noon. The car came from Philadelphia by way of Lambertville, Flemington, Whitehouse and Somerville and the members of the party reported the roads in good condition with the exception of those traveled over before reaching the immediate vicinity of Somerville. The return route was made via New Brunswick and Mt. Holly. The auto is being piloted by George Treon and is making a sealed-bonnet-30-day endurance run under the auspices of the Philadelphia Club. It is being driven as near to 200 miles a day as the weather and road conditions will permit.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO 7TH-DAY BAPTISTS

William C. Hubbard, superintendent of the Seventh-Day Baptist Sabbath-school, has arranged for a brief service tomorrow to celebrate the centenary of Robert Livingstone. Rev. Elwin Shaw, the pastor, will preach at the usual morning hour of service, his theme being, "Paul's Prescription for Plenty." He will also give a chalk-talk on "Paul's Purse."

Lewis Kimball will lead the Junior C. E. Society meeting. "The Sabbath Truth Needs Our Consecrated Money," will be the subject for the prayer-meeting this evening. Henry R. Hubbard, of the High School faculty, will give an illustrated lecture on "Life In the Maine Woods," before the Men's Club Sunday night. The Junior C. E. Society will hold a social Sunday afternoon, the predominating color of the decorations being green, appropriate to St. Patrick's Day.

VINELAND HAS DECIDED ON COMMISSION RULE

Vineland, March 15.—By a vote of 440 to 175 the people of Vineland have just decided in favor of commission government for the borough. The primary will be held April 8 and the special election May 6. A year ago the people decided that the new form of government was too expensive for a town of 5,000 population.

When the Borough Council organized on January 1 the younger element was represented in the person of Benjamin Stevens, as Mayor, who took his seat after a bitter fight. Four Councilmen at once put through a resolution curtailing the Mayor's prerogatives, even to the appointment of a single official or a committee of Council and placing the appointing power in the hands of the president, one of the four. It was this which started the agitation for a commission form of government.

OLNEY DECLINES WILSON OFFER

Washington, March 15.—In a letter to President Wilson, which reached the White House today, Richard B. Olney, of Boston, formally declined the offer of the Ambassadorship to the Court of St. James.

Preparatory services will be held at the Netherwood Reformed church on Wednesday evening, March 19, and at the close the elders will meet to receive new members. The usual communion service will be held on the evening of Good Friday.

MARTINE EXPLAINS THAT ENDORSEMENT

Says He Did Not Know Fielder Was a Candidate When He Boomed Wittpenn.

Washington, March 15.—Senator Martine doesn't know why Acting Governor Fielder should be surprised that he (the Senator) is out in favor of the Gubernatorial candidacy of Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn.

"It is not a case of a change of mind on my part," said the Senator. "When the Governor was here for the inauguration we had a very pleasant conversation and there was only casual talk about the Governorship. I think I asked him how he liked the Gubernatorial toga, and I said how glad I was to see him in it, and I meant it, because I have always liked Jim Fielder.

"But, from all that he said and his manner of acting, I, or any other rational being, would draw the conclusion that he was not in the contest; that he was indifferent and deprecated the talk about his being a candidate.

"Subsequently I saw fit to announce that I favored Mayor Wittpenn. It is largely a question of availability and I consider Mr. Wittpenn the most available candidate."

DIRECT ELECTION OF SENATORS.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, March 15.—The Constitutional amendment for the direct election of United States Senators by popular vote instead of joint action in the Legislatures has been ratified by thirty-one States and only five more are needed to make it a law of the land. It is predicted that in the next election the new plan will be in country-wide operation.

LECTURES ON GOLDEN WEST.

"Yellowstone Park, the Mecca of this continent's beauties and wonders of nature, was the next marvel for attention. Its geysers, with their curious cones fantastically colored, and the Grand Canyon and Falls of the Yellowstone enchanted the eye. Bruin, the buffalo and deer were shown, the existence of game being assured by the rigid laws for their protection." The above quotation from a New York paper refers to one of Mr. Erwin's charming lectures on the Old Overland Trail and Yellowstone Park, which he will give next Monday evening at the High School to be followed on Tuesday by his choicest lecture on "The Glories of our Great Northwest." Some who have heard Mr. Erwin compare his lectures to those of Burton Holmes, and the comparison is not to Mr. Erwin's disadvantage. His descriptions of the west are richly illustrated by the finest views and moving pictures taken by himself while exploring the Western States. Further information will be found in the advertising columns.

PLUM FOR DAVIES.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Joseph E. Davies, of Wisconsin, who managed the western campaign for President Wilson, today was offered his choice of any important diplomatic post, or the assistant secretaryship of war. At the direction of the President Secretary Tumulty called Mr. Davies on the long distance telephone at Chicago and made the offer and he took it under consideration.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOME LENTEN SOUPS.

FISH soups, chowders or broths are excellent items for the lenten bill of fare.

When buying a fish for chowder have the dealer remove the head and skin when cleaning it. Then when preparing it for cooking you have only to take out the bone.

Eels are in season all year. They make a nice broth as follows:

Eel Broth.—Take about a pound of small eels and simmer them in two quarts of water till the liquor is reduced to a quart. To flavor this soup add a small blade of mace, a bay leaf, two onions and a few peppercorns. Skim well when the broth first boils up and add salt. Strain through a thick cloth, thicken and just before serving add sufficient hot milk to make the soup white. Scatter chopped parsley and yolk of hard boiled egg over and serve.

Seasonable Soups.

Codfish Chowder.—Take a pound and a half of codfish, a pint of sliced potatoes, one-quarter cupful sliced onions, four tablespoonfuls flour, four slices salt pork, a pint milk, boiling water, salt and pepper. Fry out the salt pork, add onions and cook slowly till they are yellow; then pour in a quart of boiling water and the fish cut in small pieces. Cook until the latter is nearly done, then turn in the potatoes. When they are tender add the milk and the flour dissolved in a little cold water. Season to taste and serve garnished with water crackers moistened with hot milk.

Salmon Soup.—Take a quart of stock, a sliced onion and half a can of salmon and cook together. Rub through a sieve, add a quart of boiling milk, season with salt, pepper, minced parsley and celery salt, thicken with butter and flour and serve with whipped cream.

An Elaborate Chowder.

Haddock Chowder.—Take a half dozen potatoes, slice thin and place in cold water. Take a four pound haddock, remove the skin and bones and cut into large pieces. Place the fish in cold water. Fry a large slice of fat pork in an agate kettle, cooking it until the fat is fried out. Peel and slice two medium sized onions into the fat. Dredge with flour and then add a layer of the drained potatoes. Dredge again with flour and put in a layer of fish and thus continue with alternate layers until the material is used. Pour on boiling water and cover. Let this boil until the potatoes are soft. Then add two cupfuls of milk. If the milk is not rich add a piece of butter the size of an egg, a dash of pepper and a pinch of salt. Let this just come to boil. Split and place in a tureen six or eight water crackers. Pour chowder on these. Serve at once.

FADS AND FANCIES IN FASHION PLATE

New York, March 15.—The importers have given quite interesting exhibitions of the latest models for Spring and Summer wear and among them are some exceedingly attractive creations. There is still a strong tendency noticeable to retain the Turkish method of draping full skirts toward the front instead of toward the back, although an effort was made last autumn to reverse the fashion, however without success. Yet, after all, it is quite possible that the next few weeks will see the last of skirts that have all their fullness drawn to the middle front of the waist line by pleats. The line is not good and not even the most expert artist in drapery can make it attractive except in a few rare cases.

During the past two months the designers showed a desire to drop the drapery low in front and pull it up to the middle of the back on bias lines across the knees. The only disconcerting feature of this was the fear that it would lead to the buckle or at least the effect of a buckle in stiff drapery at the end of the spine. After all, the majority of women can wear drapery that has its fullness in the back at the waist line far better than they can wear drapery arranged the other way. As for the pannier, there is no longer doubt of its popularity. It may not be placed exactly at the hips and it may not be stiffened out in an extreme fashion, but it is present in some form or fashion on many of the new frocks.

With it has come in the Watteau pleat and its imitator called the straight panel from shoulder to knees, hanging free of the waist and made of the same material but edged with another. When this panel is used it is held down to the figure with the Eastern sash which crosses the hips at the side, lifts up to the waist in front and is loosely knotted below the waist in the back.

Practically all the suits shown at the recent openings were conspicuously trimmed with buttons of original shapes and colors. Sometimes, as in the case of a ratine frock in sulphur yellow, the large ball buttons matched the cloth in color. Contrasting ones were also used, especially of black and white with a colored suit. They were liberally displayed on almost every skirt shown.

All these skirts had drapery, but it was of a restrained sort in the wool materials. The kind that crosses in the front or at the side, leaving the skirt open to considerably above the ankle, was a characteristic of several gowns. One of shepherd's plaid was open in front half way to the knee. With this was worn a cutaway coat of black satin. The slit is really necessary, as the skirt is so narrow below the knees that walking would be impossible if it were closed all around. In some cases the drop skirt also is made extremely narrow, but is slit up in the back where the opening will not show. In this way a surprising ease of movement is given whie the effect of extreme narrowness is retained.

One of the season's novelties is a sleeveless Russian blouse, somewhat reminiscent of the jumper so popular a few years ago. It reappears in this changed guise now in figured silks, or some of the self-toned brocades. The trimmings is of ornamental buttons, and there is a contrasting belt or girdle. It is woven over a thin waist, and, unlike the jumper, is to be put on or off as if it were a coat.

A sleeveless bolero is a feature of a recent Paris model in lustrous black silk. It is quite loose and is embroidered heavily in a Bulgarian design, but not in colors. Under it a very wide, soft sash encircles the waist, is loosely knotted at one side toward the back, and falls in long ends, finished with heavy tassels. The waist worn under the bolero is of thin white silk crepe, very loose and formless, with full sleeves gathered into a cord at the depth of a dropped armhole, and again into a loose band a little above the wrist. The skirt is draped in long folds, crossing both back and front.

Combinations of contrasting materials are increasingly shown. In one model four fabrics were employed, Chinese blue brocaded crepe, black satin, lace d'Angleterre, and black velvet. This multiplicity of fabrics is found in wraps also. Dolly Varden printed cotton materials are shown in combination with white. A French model has a coat of the flowered stuff with a skirt of white trimmed with buttons covered with the material of the coat. A little close fitting hat of the two materials, with tight bunches of tiny rosebuds goes with the costume.

Evening gowns for young women are generally white or cream, yet some only recently made by famous designers are of cherry panne, without a train, and exceedingly pretty and interesting; not at all heavy or old.

Skirts for young girls' frocks, particularly those for the evening, are almost entirely untrimmed. Tunics are reserved for older women. A pretty way to finish off such virgin simplicity is to have embroidery about the hem of the skirt of some flower, say Marguerites, forget-me-nots, etc., in the natural colors.

The arrangement of girdles, sashes, belts or shaped bands well below the normal waistline is a new style which is rapidly becoming prominent. At first this style was seen only on Balkan blouses. Now they appear on smart afternoon frocks, evening gowns and street dresses. The girdle which finishes the waistline on these models extends about two inches above and several inches below the waist. It almost appears as a skirt yoke. Evening gowns have soft sashes of tulle, crepe or ribbon loosely arranged several inches below the normal waistline in a crushed girdle effect, ending at the left hip. Long ends fall nearly to the skirt edge.

Rhinestone ornaments are used on skirts to loop up drapery and to hold sashes in place at the foot of the skirt. Big bowknots are most effective. Sometimes the skirt drapery is composed of soft ribbon and a wide strand of maline, chiffon or silk net. The effect of the ribbon and the net together held by the rhinestones is charming.

Velvet is combined in every possible way with thin stuffs for summer frocks. One of the most novel uses shows a wide velvet hem set under a flounce of needlework embroidery which edges the skirt of a lingerie gown. The velvet, of cerise, is used also for girdle and for touches about the bodice. The whole effect is rich and interesting and could be developed in any color.

The popular white brocaded silk is effectively made up in plain shirt waist with box-plaited front closing of bright colored satins—cerise, blue, yellow and green—and matching glass buttons for front and cuff fastenings. Collars and cuffs of colored satin are also used in combination with the colored plait.

White silk stockings, embroidered in colors, with gold and silver thread intermingled with the color, show the demand for rhinestone trimming. The centers of the flowers so elaborately formed are composed of tiny, bright stones.

FLORENCE FAIRBANKS.

Fashion Hints From Paris.

The sleeve gathered in long lines from shoulder to wrist is the newest sleeve of the moment. It is very becoming to a thin arm, but the plump armed woman should avoid it except when the material is transparent. The contrasting ruffle falls over the hand.

The newest tailor made coat is cut somewhat on the lines of the old English riding habit. It ends at the waist in front, fastening with a single big button, and slopes off into a coat tail at the back.

Feminist Movement In Egypt.

The first Egyptian Woman's league has just been formed with headquarters in Alexandria. The object of this first organization among modern Egyptian women is to defend women's interest in all directions and especially to consider means of providing schools for Egyptian girls. There are now said to be more than 25,000 young Egyptian women and girls in the government schools and almost twice as many for whom no provision has been made. The demand for teachers far exceeds the supply, and the government school facilities, funds and buildings are entirely inadequate.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS LEAGUE'S COLUMN

(Every Saturday).

Conducted by the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

EDITOR

MRS. E. F. FEICKERT.

The League's Pavilion is now on its way from the grounds of the hospital to its new location on Muhlenberg place, which will be reached during the latter part of next week. It is expected that the equipment of the building for use as an Open Air School for anemic children will be completed by the first of April, when the school work will begin. The doctors say that there are over two hundred children in Plainfield who need such treatment. However, the work will be started by providing for twenty children for the spring term, although it is hoped that the school's capacity may be increased very materially by fall, if sufficient funds are forthcoming.

The children will be supplied with the necessary blankets and the canvas bags which are worn in such schools. They will be given a substantial hot lunch at noon time, and in addition each child will have one quart of milk to drink each day.

At the beginning the working staff will comprise a teacher and a matron, who will prepare the children's food and generally look after them, under the direction of the league's nurse, Miss Leahy, who will visit the school every day. It is estimated that the cost of carrying on the work during the three months of the spring term will be about six hundred and fifty dollars, this to include the cost of the necessary additional equipment teacher's salary, salary of the matron, food, etc.

This work will not be experiment. The same thing is being done all over the country, and in our own State such schools have proved so successful in Montclair and Orange that they have been taken over by the Board of Education and made part of the regular school work of the city.

The league desires to appeal to the people of Plainfield for co-operation and help in this work. Membership in the league costs only one dollar a year, although two hundred of the league's seven hundred members subscribe annually sums ranging from two to two hundred dollars. All who are willing to join the league are asked to send their names to Mrs. William H. Murray, chairman of the Membership Committee, 737 Watchung avenue.

Under the direction of Ernest L. Ransome and H. W. Marshall a series of five-minute talks on the prevention and care of tuberculosis are being arranged for at the twenty-five or more factories in this city. A number of the local physicians have volunteered their services as lectures. Two of these talks have been given so far, one at the Rushmore Dynamo Works by Dr. F. J. Hughes, and one at the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company's Works by Dr. E. S. Krans. In both instances the men seemed very much interested. They listened attentively and heartily applauded the speakers.

The Length of Skirts.

Hems out.
Several inches longer.
Away with chopped ones.
Two inches and two and a half
Is the proper height from the ground.
The shoe top will now go into retirement.
Skirts may not be any wider,
But they are longer, which helps some.
Some folks may drop their hammers now.
Usually there is another up their sleeve for the next change of fashion.
Heigh-ho, but busybodies cannot be expected to neglect their jobs!

Conundrum.

Why is the horse the most humane of all animals? Because he gladly gives the bit out of his mouth and listens to every woe.

Halloween.

Halloween! Halloween!
Popcorn's snapping in the heat,
Chestnuts toasting, apples roasting,
Taffy stewing thick and sweet.
How the frisky shadows prance!
Like black goblins in a dance.
Down the mantelshelf an elf
Runs with twinkling feet.

Halloween! Halloween!
Pumpkin heads are all alight,
Grinning yellow at a fellow,
In a row, a silly sight.
Thought I saw a witch or two
Pass the window. Didn't you?
Fairies must be out no doubt.
'Tis the wonder night!

Pillow Slips For the Baby.

The desire of every mother's heart is to have pretty things for her own baby, no matter whether she has only one or the clothes are being prepared for the fourth arrival.

In the matter of pillow slips the fancy runs to small ones, having a design embroidered in the corner. This may consist simply of the little one's initial with a wreath of small flowers about it, or a more ornamental spray of small buds, leaves and blossoms; but whatever the design the work is always done in white, and the material of which the pillow slip is made must be of softest cotton or linen.

It is a grave mistake to embroider a pillowslip in the center, because the skin of a baby is naturally delicate and tender, and even a grown person would find it uncomfortable to lie with the face pressed against an embroidered design.

DOW AND STEPDAUGHTER OF REAR ADMIRAL EATON, VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS POISON PLOT

MRS. JOSEPH GILES EATON AND MISS DOROTHY AINSWORTH.

The District Attorney of Brockton, Mass., is convinced from the evidence at hand that Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, who died suddenly a week ago, was a victim of poison. Mrs. Eaton when she returned from her husband's funeral declared that there was no reason to suspect foul play in connection with her husband's death.

Without naval honors and with only two members of his family, his wife and adopted daughter, Miss Dorothy Ainsworth, present as mourners, the body of Rear Admiral Eaton was placed in a grave at Dracut, near Lowell, beside that of his first wife. Reporters and hackmen acted as pallbearers and with reins taken from one of the hacks two reporters helped to lower the body to its last resting place.

LOCAL BOYS' FIRST WON MEET FOR PENN.

Score Tied With N. Y. U. When Russell Miller Gives Winning Exhibition.

With the score tied at eleven points each when the final event in the nature of a flying ring exhibition was announced, the University of Pennsylvania gymnastic team, through the excellent demonstration given by Russell Miller, of this city, took all three places in this deciding event and the bigger end of a 31 to 20 score, over New York University at the University Heights gymnasium last night. Points were unusually evenly distributed in the early stages of the competition and the issue remained in doubt until the flying rings division when Penn took all three places, Miller coming in for first honors.

Many who witnessed the meet claimed that the Plainfield boy sporting the Penn silks was the star performer of the evening and he received rounds of applause for his difficult turns. He did his stunts in the cleanest fashion and achieved some remarkable flying handstands, which earned first honors for him out of a big field.

INTERCLASS TRACK MEET AGITATED AT N. P. H. S.

Agitation is rife in North Plainfield interclass athletic circles over the organization of an interclass athletic meet to be held early in the spring. Track athletics have not been fostered to any great degree in the past in the borough High School and the introduction of this branch of athletic endeavor will come as a welcome to many if it is made a reality. A number of unusually clever athletes in every common event are available among the students at N. P. H. S. and the move would probably prove to be a popular one at the outset.

An interclass meet would be the means of awakening enthusiasm over the project and would also bring out the material now hidden by the overwhelming popularity of other sports which have become firmly established. It is likely that the committee appointed recently to take charge of interclass athletics will take up the meet matter and the idea will be pushed swiftly along.

RAHWAY DID NOT DEFEAT "EVERY TEAM OF MERIT"

In one of the harest fought basketball games played on the Casino court this season the St. Benedict's "Prep" School five, of Newark, again triumphed over the Rahway High School quintet yesterday afternoon, the final score reading 31 to 16 in the Newark team's favor. The contest yesterday was the second of a series and, through their victory, the St. Benedict lads believe that they now have a good claim to the State title. It was a fitting climax to a very remarkable season's work on the court and marked the Newark five's eighteenth straight victory.

Realizing that their last claim to the championship hinged on yesterday's game, the Rahway lads went at it hammer and tongs. The game was delayed for some time on account of an argument over one of the rules between Referee Armstrong, of Rahway, and Umpire McWalters, but this only served to increase the rivalry between the teams.

Pitcher Cyril Slapnicka, the only Russian grand duke in baseball, and formerly a heaver with the White Sox, has signed with the Milwaukee Club.

P. H. S. INTERCLASS LEAGUE RACE AT A FEVER HEIGHT WITH SOPHS LEADING

Playing their post-season series with the Seniors to decide the interclass basketball league championship, the Plainfield High School Sophomores yesterday afternoon scored a 29 to 19 defeat over the graduating class in the school gymnasium. When the Seniors and Sophs ended their season's schedule it was found that they were deadlocked in first place and a three game series was announced to decide the winner, yesterday's game being the initial one of this season's series. During the first period of play the fourth year men held the upper hand coming out at the end of the first period with the score 8 to 6 in their favor. In the initial half the play was unusually close and snappy, both teams putting up a remarkable exhibition of guarding, and the shots that were made came from difficult angles and were few and far between. But two field goals were scored by the Sophs during the first period, LaRue and Hirsh each chalking up one, while McNamee tossed two fouls bringing the count up to six. The Seniors made four field goals, Foster, Henderson, Sattels and Coughlin each getting one.

When the Sophs started the second administration two points to the bad, they let loose a rush that came near carrying the upper classmen off their feet before the half was a minute old. The score remained in the Seniors' favor, however, until the last five minutes of play, when the lower class brought it up on a par with a few placed shots, the score being 19 to 19 at this time. A flash of speed launched by the second year men took the Seniors completely unawares and before they knew it one of the forwards, McNamee, had tallied four field goals, his only ones of the contest. These shots came close together and as but three minutes remained to be played, practically sewed up the contest for the Sophs.

Hirsh annexed a trio in this period and Henderson got two for the losers. The Seniors secured three from the foul line but the Sophs failed to garner any of this variety during the second period. The second game of the series will be played next Wednesday afternoon and in the event that yesterday's victors take another they will be awarded the title and a set of medals that goes with it.

BOUND BROOK BASEBALL TEAM RECEIVES BEQUEST OF $40,000 IN ROOTER'S WILL

With the announcement of the reopening of the Central New Jersey baseball league, Bound Brook fans are beginning to speculate on their team's chances of coping the bunting this season. Fans affiliated with the Central New Jersey League who are enjoying the nightmare or sunshine illusion that the old town on the banks of the old Raritan will not be in the circuit have several guesses coming.

Charles Newhouse, the veteran manager, according to a report, has visions of a stream of long green to the extent of $40,000. This is a story that has stirred Bound Brook fans to their tip toes. Alphonse Green, a farmer baseball player of East Bound Brook, one who rooted for Bound Brook for forty years or more, who recently died in Phoenix, Arizona, in his will made a promise for a $40,000 trust fund for the perpetuation of the national pastime in the town of Bound Brook. According to the precepts of the bequest, Charlie Newhouse or whoever else handles the managerial reins of the Bound Brook team, can expend $4,000 annually until the fund is wiped out.

In an interview with a Daily Press reporter today, Manager Newhouse stated:

"While I have heard of this I do not care to say anything until I receive official notification. I know Mr. Green, we were always great friends and he surely liked baseball. Before going west he told me he would die contented if he could buy the New York Giants and win a world's pennant."

In view of the windfall, Al Olmstead, of Plainfield, a former Northwestern University star, is likely to be interested in the project. Manager Newhouse has begun to look around for a site for the proposed new baseball park and has selected Irving Brampton, an old time pitcher, to lay out the grounds. Ed Radel, the former trolley magnate, who was mentioned as a possible candidate for the Central New Jersey League pesidency at its last meeting, is expected to join with those interested in Bound Brook fandom to place that little burg firmly on the baseball map. Radel is now a chicken raiser of repute having a large poultry farm near Bound Brook and he has always been a loyal supporter and backer of that aggregation.

If all this forthcoming dope is true, Bound Brook's troubles so evident at the recent league meeting appear to be allayed, as their chief reason for holding back was the absence of a suitable ball park on which to entertain visiting teams. If Newhouse gets this wealth of long green he will be able to work wonders in behalf of the national pastime in his home town, and it goes without saying that the baseballically inclined inhabitants of that burg will have their appetites satisfied this season.

TITLE FOR MONTCLAIR.

Montclair High School basketball players yesterday afternoon defeated the East Orange High quintet in the gymnasium of the Bloomfield High School and thereby won the New Jersey Interscholastic League championship. The score was 30 to 25. It was the third meeting of the teams this season both having finished their regularly scheduled series of games tied for first honors. The tide of battle swayed toward Montclair's favor in the second period, when two of the East Orange players, Brentanio, a forward, and Walton, a guard, East Orange's best men, were put out of the game for extraordinary but unintentional rough playing by Referee Way, of the Stuyvesant High School, who officiated. After these men left the game the East Orange teamwork became demoralized, and Montclair jogged to victory.

BASEBALL NOTES

It is said that Buddy-Ryan has the call of the center field position with the Cleveland Naps.

Young Orr, who is out for an infield position with Connie Mack's Athletics, is playing a wonderful game in the practices of the former world's champions.

Jacob C. Morse, the veteran Boston baseball scribe, has tendered his resignation as secretary of the New England League after fifteen years continuous service.

Manager Bill Dahlen, of the Brooklyn Superbas, believes he has copped a real star in Leo Callahan, the youngster who played with Elmira last season.

As he is owner, president, manager, captain, utility player and pinch hitter of the Baltimore team, Jack Dunn may relinquish the captaincy and appoint Freddy Parent the field general.

Word from the Giants' training camp at Marlin, Texas, has it that Manager McGraw intends to make an outfielder of Jim Thorpe as the Indian has shown some pretty nifty batting.

George (Dummy) Kihn, the former Columbia player who has been out of the game several years, will again don the spangles the coming season and play first base for the Akron Interstate League team.

In a recent ball game in Porto Rico, Dick Breen, the Jersey City second baseman, suffered a broken ankle in sliding into a base. He will be out of the game probably for the remainder of the season.

When asked whether he intended to do any training in order to reduce his weight, Umpire Tommy Connolly replied that umpires could worry off any over-weight they might be burdened with in the first three games of the season.

A "new comers" infield is being tried out by Manager Evers, of the Cubs. McDonald, formerly of Boston, is covering first; Berghammer, a recruit, second; Corridon, the former Detroit Tiger, short, and Phelan, the ex-Red, third.

Louis P. Roth, a sergeant in the United States army, has signed to umpire in the Wisconsin-Illinois League. If W.-I. players try to start anything on the field this season it will be a case of "halt—about face—double quick" to the clubhouse.

BASEBALL GETTING CHEAP.

President Charles H. Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, yesterday denied the rumor that has been circulated that there would be no twenty-five-cent seats at the new Brooklyn baseball park. The statement had no foundation in fact, because a section of quarter seats must be provided, acording to the requirements of the National agreement. There is a twenty-five-cent section at every major baseball park in both the National and American Leagues. Mr. Ebbets said yesterday: "The Brooklyn Baseball Club is in favor of a limited number of twenty-five-cent seats and will have a section at Ebbets Field. A major league club of today, however, cannot be operated on a twenty-five-cent basis. The demand of the fans is safe, secure, and comfortable accommodations. The club owners must provide suitable stands, and under the laws of the Building Department they must be of steel, stone, and concrete. Thus the cost is greatly increased, as are the players' salaries and traveling expenses."

LOCAL Y. W. C. A. GIRLS MADE TRENTON REPRESENTATIVES HUSTLE TO WIN GAME

Playing on the Trenton Y. W. C. A. court last night, the Plainfield Y. W. C. A. girls threw a scare into the Capitol City quintet's camp that will long be remembered for its thrills and sensational intervals. With the score tied the greater part of the way, the game was ever in doubt and up to the last few minutes of play the contest was anybody's, but the home players, headed by the versatile "Dot" Hayes, flashed a spurt that rapidly pushed the Queen City delegation in the rear and kept the victory at home by a score of 39 to 33.

A large crowd turned out to witness the contest which proved to be one of unusual interest, as all big scoring affairs are. It seldom happens that thirty-one field goals are scored in a girls' contest, but this was the case last night and fourteen fouls were tallied as a side issue. The playing was swift and close at all stages, neither team having a decided advantage over the other at any time, and up to the last few minutes Plainfield's chances of earning a victory looked very bright.

In the event that the local maidens won their game last night a third contest would be necessary and they would have been tied with the Nonpareils, of this city, and the Trenton Y. W. C. A., for the feminine State title; the latter two teams now being on an even footing in the race, the third game of which will be played sometime in the near future on a neutral court. One half of the game last night was played without lines and the other half with lines, feminine rules governing throughout. The close condition of the score at the end of the first half, which was 15 to 14 in favor of the Trentonians, spurred the contending combinations on to an added spurt in the final half and if anything, the last period was considerably faster than the opening one.

Miss Marjorie Burtis, the star forward on the North Plainfield High School team, and Miss Helen George, a former North Plainfield player, monopolized the Plainfield end of the scoring, doing a majority of the point tallying between them. Miss Burtis, as usual, starred on foul shooting, caging a quartet of the field variety, but topped off her work by annexing five field goals, bringing her afternoon's card up to thirteen points. Miss George secured six beautiful field goals which counted for twelve of the visitors' tallies. Miss Ellen Doughty chalked up a quartet of field goals, all coming in the same half, which gave the Plainfield score a considerable boost.

For Trenton, Miss "Dot" Hayes, as is her general custom, took first laurels in basket caging, getting seven two pointers and the same number of free throws, making a grand total of twenty-one scores. Miss Ryan managed to get in five field goals and two fouls while Miss Waller followed this up with a trio of field goals. In the latter part of the second half, Miss Jessie Stewart, last year's captain of the Plainfield High School team, was sent in at centre in the place of Miss Gertrude Mair and put up a good game while she took part.

The score:

HOPE CHAPEL WILL PLAY NEWARK BASKETBALL FIVE

Hope chapel basketball players will lineup against the High Street Presbyterian five of Newark on the local court tonight, in the first meeting of these two aggregations in an athletic contest. The Newarkers present an unusually fast set of players and the Hope boys will have to put up some speedy basketball in order to hold on to their unblemished string of victories.

The two teams will lineup as follows:

HOPE CHAPEL.	HIGH STREET.
J. Heron	Sargent
forward
T. Heron	Morgan
forward
Doig	Dilly
centre
Leighs	Smedburg
guard

SEEKS TITLE MATCH.

London, March 15.—Freddie Welsh, holder of the British lightweight championship, sailed today for New York. Prior to his departure he expressed a hope that he will be able to arrange an early match with Willie Ritchie for the world's championship. Failing to come to terms with the champion the British title-holder will take on Ad Wolgast and other American fighters of his class.

DOUBLE PROGRAM AT THE Y. M. C. A. GYM TONIGHT

A basketball game and gymnastic exhibition will be staged on the Y. M. C. A. court tonight, the game between the Y. M. C. A. first team and the Scotch Plains Parish House five, and the gymnastic demonstration by the local association's tumblers and gymnasts. The basketball clash is due to be a fast and exciting one as the local and Scotch Plains teams are the keenest of rivals having met before this season on the court.

In the first contest the Y. M. C. A. boys won out by a decisive margin, but the visitors think they stand a pretty good chance of evening matters up tonight and will probably give the Plainfielders a hard run.

The gymnastic team will consist of Kenny, Brynarski, Hansen and Anderson.

A CHALLENGE.

The following letter was received this morning from the manager of a Bayonne baseball team:

Sporting Editor:

Please insert the following in your sporting columns and oblige: "The Point A. C., a fast semi-professional nine of Bayonne, N. J., would like to arrange games with teams in and about Plainfield offering fair guarantees. The Point A. C. is fully uniformed and can be depended upon to give a fast exhibition of ball. Address all communications to John Flood, 70 East Third street, Bayonne, N. J."

WITH THE BOXERS

Jabez White, former lightweight champion of England, was defeated in 15 rounds by Bill Johnson, in London, a few nights ago.

Eddie Campi, of San Francisco, and Frankie Burns, the Jersey City bantam, have signed to box a 20-round bout at Vernon, Calif., March 29.

Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, is bringing over with him from Australia a lightweight named Reed, who is said to be some scrapper.

Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion of England, has turned down an offer of $15,000 to box five bouts in Australia. Freddie claims that his services are worth $5,000 per at least.

BOWLING TOURNEY.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 15.—An army of tenpin knights invaded Minneapolis today and will remain in possession of the city until March 24. The occasion is the annual championship tournament of the International Bowling Association, which has its formal opening today. Fourteen new alleys have been provided for the championship contests and every detail of the arrangements points to the most successful tournament in the history of the association. Many delegations of bowlers have already arrived in town and many others are expected to show up early next week. The entry list this year shows nearly one hundred teams from Minneapolis and St. Paul alone. Other entries are from Chicago, Milwaukee, Dubuque, Winnipeg, Omaha, Duluth, Sioux City, Superior and other cities of the Northwest and Canada.

DUNNING OUT AGAIN.

Frank Dunning, captain of the North Plainfield High School base ball team, who has been on the sick list for the past week confined to his home, is now able to be about once more and is evidently trying to make up for lost time as he has announced that there will be a practice every day next week at 2:30 oclock each afternoon. Some question as to whether the team ought to practice in the morning (there being no school next week) or in the afternoon has come up and the matter will be decided at the practice Monday afternoon. The team has shown up well in the few practices held and Dunning is certain of turning out an aggregation that can take Collier's trophy offered for interscholastic diamond title this season.

SOMETHING WRONG.

A notice appears in this week's issue of the "Bound Broook Chronical" announcing the appearance of the local Y. M. C. A. Ajax basketball team on the Young Men's Association court in Bound Brook tonight in a game to decide the basketball championship of Union and Somerset counties. When seen this morning, Manager Hetfield, of the Plainfield team, said that he had made no arrangements for such a contest and if anything had been done along this line it was entirely without his consent. The matter seems to be a slight mistake on the part of the Y. M. C. A. manager, however, and his schedule is probably a little twisted.

GAME AT SOMERVILLE.

The Dodgers, a basketball team composed of Rutgers players, will play the Company M Cadets in the Armory at Somerville tonight. This will be the second game between these two teams, and the Somervillians feel that they are safe, as they won the first game. Manager Kalteissen, of Somerville, will present his regular lineup with Noble and Gant, forwards; Gay, center; Haney and Morey, guards. This team has lost but one game so far this season, and they hope to annex this game to their string of victories.

GAME CANCELLED.

The game scheduled between the Y. M. C. A. first team and the Dunellen Baraca Class basketball team to be played on the Dunellen court last night, was called off by mutual agreement. It is likely that another contest will be arranged in the near future.

Boat Landing at Killarney with General View of the Lakes

WITH Saint Patrick's Day at hand and springtime fast approaching — the springtime that, in the words of the song, is associated with the shamrocks it is literally "Come Back to Erin" for great numbers of Americans of Irish birth or descent. It is remarkable how insistent is the invitation to the green little isle—at once an appeal and a command—and even more remarkable how many Irish-Americans, even those who have not yet fallen under the spell of Ireland's charm, feel its compelling influence and yield to its well-nigh hypnotic power.

When one stops to analyze the situation, however, there is no mystery to the magnetism that attracts to Killarney. To the younger generation of Irish-Americans—fed on Killarney's praises, as expressed, from time out of mind in art, music and literature—it must naturally appear in prospect the very embodiment of Irish natural beauty, the climax of Erin's scenic splendor and historic interest. And Killarney is one "show place" that fully justifies all the extravagant praise that has been showered upon her as the "fairest" spot under the heavens. So much for the situation as it relates to the juniors of Irish blood. With reference to the natives who return to Ireland after long residence in the United States the case is somewhat different. To them, to be sure, Ireland is not so new a story but, strange as it may appear, Killarney is likely to be a long-anticipated novelty. That self-same consciousness of Ireland's modest size begets presupposition in the Yankee mind that every Irishman must have seen Killarney before he "came over." But, unfortunately, such has not been the case. Many were small children and thousands of others fled in poverty from an oppressed and famine-stricken land. Thus it comes about that many of the exiles, who, having found fortune in the "other Ireland," turn their steps homeward and first seek Killarney as a dream long cherished.

It naturally follows that Killarney, with her lakes and fells, mountain paths and woodland dells, is the ideal spot in which to find concrete expression of the Irish home-going movement as it has developed during the past few years. This movement—an elaboration of the American "old home week" idea—attracted considerable attention at its inception in 1910 in which year more than 20,000 residents of the United States visited Ireland, but a considerable portion of the public is probably not aware that this home-going is becoming a permanent annual event and each spring and summer large delegations of the sons and daughters of Erin land at Queenstown or Derry.

Killarney, however, is first and foremost a pleasure mecca. It is to Ireland what Niagara Falls is to America, and more. Moreover, Killarney is thoroughly typical of the Ireland of popular imagination. There are parts of Ireland, almost as beautiful in their way, as is Killarney that are suggestive of the Rockies or Norway or Switzerland rather than the Adirondacks — the latter, our own nearest approach to Killarney. And, similarly, there are Irish cottagers who, for all their kindly hospitality, are not in the least like the devil-may-care Irishman, as we see him depicted in romantic drama. But there are none of these shocks or surprises at Killarney. Here there is every effort to live up to all preconceptions of Irish dash and lightheartedness. The green flags fly from almost every building; the street musicians play "Killarney"; and the jarveys of the jaunting cars are paragons of Irish wit and humor.

Indeed, the only fault that can be found with Killarney by even the most captious is based on the fact that her glory may be temporarily dimmed by rain or sightseeing excursions curtailed when an occasional gale renders the lakes too rough to be safely navigated by the small boats. Killarney "bright and fair" is indeed peerless but it must be admitted that during most seasons of the year the Irish weather which, in its sudden vagaries has been compared to the intimate relation of Irish laughter and tears, may compel a tourist to don and doff his raincoat several dozen times a day. But, on the other hand, any prolonged dry spell transforms the enchanting waterfall at Killarney into a tame, trickling stream, so that, perhaps, the off-repeated sudden showers have their compensations.

The Irish-Americans and other tourists who have, during the past couple of years, invaded the County Kerry have discovered that "the new way to reach Killarney" is infinitely more pleasurable than that afforded by the facilities in vogue until a comparatively recent date. The contrast between the new and the old is almost as great as that between present-day rail travel to our own Grand Canyon in Arizona and the 70-mile stage ride that was formerly the prelude to a view of the titan of chasms. Of course it has been possible, for some years past, to travel direct by rail to Killarney from Cork or Dublin or any of the principal cities of Ireland but all tourists who could afford the time and expense have been wont to approach the mecca by a coach or carriage ride through the mountains of southwestern Ireland where the scenery is a worthy prelude to the placid beauty of Killarney.

However these coach rides over carefully mapped-out routes, such as the "Prince of Wales Route," were time-consuming and also fairly expensive because, aside from the outlay for a conveyance, there were stopovers en route. These disadvantages have in great measure disappeared now that the motor-bus, a sort of sightseeing automobile, has been introduced in the Killarney district. By this scheme—which might profitably be copied in a number of America's scenic playgrounds — motor char-a-bancs are operated on regular schedule connecting Bantry, Glengarriffe, Parknasilla, Kenmare and other beauty spots with the hub of tourist travel at Killarney and for a fee of $2 to $2.50 the traveler may enjoy a scenic ride of more than fifty miles in all the comfort he could expect in his own private car.

But if the twentieth century pilgrim finds an innovation in the mode of reaching Killarney he need not expect much change in Killarney itself. To be sure the town of Killarney, a place of some 6,000 inhabitants located about a mile and a half from the lower lake and a community which formerly felt the pinch of poverty, has "spruced up" considerably in recent years and many new buildings have been erected, but the lakes and their settings seem to have been untouched by the spirit of progress—fortunately so. Why, the sojourner in this restful paradise is not even disturbed by the chug-chug of a launch or motor boat, the Earl of Kenmare, who owns the lakes and most of the surrounding country, having steadily refused to allow power-boats of any kind on the lakes or to sanction the use of craft other than the large rowboats which are employed to convey tourists back and forth throughout the chain of three lakes, the largest of which is five miles in length.

There are some people on either side of the Atlantic who are skeptical enough to say that this exclusion of power-boats from the lakes is nothing more nor less than a shrewd business move on the part of his lordship, the Earl of Kenmare.

For a consideration the Earl will put his entire estate temporarily at your disposal. There is a fee when you enter the outer gates and then there is an extra charge if you wish to gain access to the private gardens and grounds which immediately surround Kenmare House or Killarney House, the mansion of one hundred rooms, and from the terraces of which may be viewed the most impressive panorama of the lakes. Another fee must be forthcoming if you would climb to the top of Ross Castle and view the lakes from the top of this ivy-covered ruin which dates back some three centuries. All told, the Earl takes tribute to the tune of 24 cents from each visitor, no admission ticket being good for more than one day. The amount is, of course, insignificant in the case of the individual but when it is taken into consideration that more than 100,000 people visit Killarney every year it will be appreciated that there results a tidy contribution to the up-keep of the estate. No wonder the Earl has refused the offers of Irish-American millionaires who have been anxious to acquire Killarney.

Across the verdure-rimmed mirror formed by the waters of the lake when placid the visitor to the Kenmare estate may see a rival estate—the only other notable private holding in this vicinity and one that is now of exceptional interest to all American visitors by virtue of the fact that it has recently been acquired by an American. Muckross Estate is the domain in question and its new proprietor is Mr. William Bowers Bourn, long known as one of the wealthy residents of San Francisco. Mr. Bourn cannot lay claim to being an Irish-American but his daughter has married a Dublin attorney and it was for her sake, as well as by reason of his own keen interest in Irish antiquities and tradition that this well-to-do American was induced to purchase this estate at a price that is said to have been upward of $75,000.

The Muckross Estate entirely encircles the Middle Lake at Killarney, sometimes referred to as the Muckross Lake, and the road around which is eight miles in length. The show place of the property is not the mansion, which is modest enough in its way, but the famous Muckross Abbey, a historic structure which ranks with that other ivy-hung ruin, Ross Castle, as the chief show places of the lake region. Muckross Abbey, according to most historians, was founded in 1440, on the site of an older establishment and it ranks with Melrose Abbey in Scotland and Kenilworth Castle in England as among the most picturesque and interesting ruins in the world. A burying ground with monuments of rare interest surrounds the ruined abbey.

MEXICO CITY THE BEAUTIFUL

Castle of Chapultepec

A Mail Carrier

Waterway in Mexico City

Alameda Park

Selling Fruit—Street Scene

Railroad Station

Cathedral of Mexico

IN spite of Mexico's internal troubles, its capital, Mexico City, still ranks as one of the most attractive cities of North America. Few cities of this Western world compare in historical interest and beauty of setting with this ancient capital of the Aztecs. It is situated amid the most beautiful terrestrial scenes that it is possible for the eye to contemplate. On a tableland in the Valley of Mexico, it is entirely surrounded by mountains and among the first objects to attract the eye, viewed from any point in the city, are the lofty peaks of Popocatepetl, known as the "Smoking Mountain" and "Ixtaccihuatl, familiarly called "La Mujer Blanca" or "The Woman in White." These volcanoes are over sixteen thousand and seventeen thousand feet high and they keep majestic watch over the city.

In many respects the present Mexico City with its beautiful parks and asphalt streets resembles Paris. It is an easy place to get around in, the center of the city's busy life and also of the fine electric street car system being the Zocalo or Plaza Major, a square surrounding or near which are the Cathedral, Thieves Market, Municipal Palace and large store and street booths. This park is an open air space for the common people and was the heart of the fighting zone during the late rebellion in the city. Strangers usually locate themselves by this park for from it one can take an electric car over an excellent system to any part of the city or the numerous suburbs. The fare is five or ten cents in Mexican money which is one half of ours.

Recent estimates place seven thousand Americans in Mexico City and several times that many located in various other parts of the country. They are employed in every walk of life. Some run stores, others are railroad employees or officials (most of the high officials on the railroads are Americans), at least two good hotels are run by Americans, many are engaged in large commercial undertakings and for some years a factor in the life of Mexico City has been the Mexican Herald, a paper printed in English by Americans and which has a circulation of about ten thousand. The offices of this paper are in an old convent facing the Alameda, a beautiful park of twenty-five acres. This Alameda is in the center of the city, situated on a main street, once the causeway of the Spaniards, it was the Indian market place in the time of Montezuma and used by the Spaniards for their auto-da-fes. Today it is a beautiful grass and flower garden named from the alamos or poplars which fill it.

Youth and beauty congregate here and on Sunday drive past the American and other legations along a magnificent boulevard to the Castle of Chapultepec, founded by Montezuma on a hill just within the limits of the city and occupied by every ruler from Aztec times to the present. This Sunday social pageant is remarkably splendid. The Paseo de la Reforma was planned by Queen Carlotta, it is nearly a block wide, three miles long and level as a floor. Along its side are auto paths, wide walks, hundreds of bronze figures of illustrious men, and it widens into circles in which are band stands and statues which rank among the world's works of art. For instance there is an equestrian statue of Charles IV of Spain, a hundred years old, a statue to Columbus and another to Cuauhtemoc, last of the Aztec emperors.

This is but the approach to the Hill of the Grasshopper on which is Chapultepec Castle, today a beautiful building, with a famous outlook, and the permanent quarters of the National Military School — the West Point of Mexico. Though the interior of the castle is interesting with its relics of Cortez and Maximilian, it is outdoors that one lingers for below lies the historic city, and nearby numerous battlefields and shining lakes framed by snow white mountains. This well known hill was besieged in our last Mexican war, the fortress was bravely defended by the boy cadets and a handsome monument was erected in their memory in the garden at the base of the prominence. Another interesting monument is in the American cemetery in another part of the town. The title of this cemetery is vested in the United States of America and in it are seven hundred and fifty soldiers killed in the war of '47. A granite shaft rises in their memory.

One of the most interesting of the old buildings in the city is the Municipal palace which overlooks the Zocalo, and like most of the structures in this Aztec city it has a history. The present building dates back to 1692, but before that Montezuma and Cortez had official houses there. It has a frontage of nearly seven hundred feet, is built around several courts, contains the state rooms of the president, senate chamber and official residences, and is the headquarters of the army. Three entrances are guarded by soldiers and it is necessary to obtain a permit to enter. It contains a famous Hall of Embassadors whose walls are hung with portraits of patriots, among them George Washington. It is here the president receives diplomats, and here the late President Madero was placed under arrest by General Huerta. Over the main gateway to the palace hangs the famous Liberty Bell of Mexico, which was rung in 1810 by the priest Hidalgo, called the saviour of his country—to start his people to fight for liberty.

There is always variety in Mexico City. The street scenes are odd to Americans as are the magnificent amphitheatres erected for bull fights. Side by side stand the historic and the new, the ancient and modern in architecture. In the best resident section there are a few modern flat buildings, but the better class as a rule live in houses built around a beautiful patio. The Cathedral overlooks the Zocalo and is an ancient landmark and one of the historic and famous structures of the world.

This building was erected on the site of an Aztec temple in which human sacrifices were offered. Its construction began in 1573 and it is not yet completely finished. The walls are very thick, there is a remarkable facade, the towers are over two hundred feet high, and the interior is grand and severe. There are many chapels besides the main church, in one of which Iturbide, "The Liberator," the first emperor of Mexico, lies buried. The altars and choir are beautifully carved and the latter is enclosed by a remarkable and handsome railing of tumbago, a composite metal of gold, silver and copper made in Spain. This same material is employed to embellish the inside of the city's most fashionable club house, the Jockey Club House, whose facade is encrusted with blue and white tiles imported from China, and whose members are the most exclusive of Mexican society. The Americans, English, Spanish, Germans and French also have clubs but none are as elegant as this. Many of the most beautiful and historic buildings were badly damaged in the battles between Diaz and Madero in the heart of the city. These, however, will probably be restored.

Of course in a country where Romanism is the prevailing religion there are many churches, many of them showing the influence of Andalusian art, with beautifully carved facades and handsome interiors. There are many good theatres to which society people do not go until after ten o'clock in the evening and where each act is complete in itself and one is at liberty to leave when it is finished. There are fine markets and produce is shipped in from all the neighboring market gardens. Some of this comes by way of La Viga Canal, an old and picturesque waterway which was used before the time of Cortez.

The excellent railroads which extend to the northern boundary, Tampico, Vera Cruz and the West Pacific Coast have good and substantial stations. The dry goods stores carry a line of first class goods, much imported directly from Paris, and the jewelry stores are excellent. The better class Mexicans spend money lavishly, educate their sons and daughters in Europe and enjoy many luxuries. The lower class, and there is a wide demarkation between them, with almost no middle class, dress in the national costume, the men wearing tight trousers and serape thrown over the shoulder and the women with blue rebosa or shawl over the head. These constitute the bulk of the Mexican population and they are poor, illiterate and easily swayed by every passing emotion. The streets of this magnificent city are filled with women hurrying to their small merchants selling fruits and sweets from under canopies made by white umbrellas, flower girls, and carriers or carriers who take the place of drays and carts, everything on their backs from pianos to trunks.

Yet it is a most interesting and magnificent capital. Its past alone is tremendous with its amalgamation of Aztecs, Spaniards and successive Mexican regimes. The traditional story of its founding is beautiful and romantic. In a vision the Aztecs were led to look for a place where an eagle would be perched on a cactus, every coin of Mexico bears an engraving of an eagle with a serpent in his talons perched on the national plant.

M. E. CONFERENCE WILL CONVENE

Many Changes in Pastorates Expected at Annual Session Wednesday.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

James R. Joy to Be Among the Speakers—Will Rev. Dr. Anderson Be Returned to First M. E. Congregation?

Speculation is rife as to the changes to be made in the pastorates at the approaching annual session of the Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Newark, which begins on Wednesday. It is rumored that the changes will be more general than in many years. While the congregations of the First, Monroe Avenue and Grace M. E. churches have invited their pastors to return, it is said that there is no guarantee that their wishes will be granted in each case.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson has been pastor of the First church for several years, while Rev. F. J. Hubach, of the Monroe Avenue church, is completing his first year here. He is likely to return. Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace church, is serving his second term.

Rev. Dr. Addison W. Hayes, of the Westfield church, who has resigned, it is said, may succeed Rev. George Mooney formerly of Plainfield, who is now pastor of the Madison church. It is not known who will succeed Dr. Hayes. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, formerly of Dunellen, seeks retirement from the ministry and a successor to him will be appointed at the Montgomery Street church, Newark. There has been no intimation as to where Mr. Mooney will go, although it is said he has received several calls. The program for the conference follows:

Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment of visiting members of the conference and the program for their daily activities has been approved. It promises much of more than passing interest to persons who are not directly concerned with the conference deliberations.

Invitations have been extended to members of the Essex county bar to hear the discourse to be delivered by Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss, of New York, who will speak the first night of the conference on "Modern Social Problems." The lecture will be preceded by an organ recitial. The only other business of

ROSES AND CARNATIONS FOR THEIR CUSTOMERS

The formal opening of J. A. Smith & Brother's new grocery store at West Front street and Madison avenue Saturday attracted a large number of patrons and others who were invited to inspect the place. Nothing but words of praise were heard, and the firm was complimented upon the great improvement.

The store is one of the finest in the State, and the display of goods second to none. There has been added confectionery, perfumes, toilet articles and cigars to the general stock. During Saturday the concern distributed carnations and roses to its customers.

MOTION PICTURES AT THE COMMUTERS' TRAIN

Motion pictures of scenes about Plainfield were taken this morning in connection with the plan of the management of the Plainfield theatre and Proctor's theatre to exhibit them not only here, but in various Proctor houses. The views snapped today included Park avenue, East and West Front street, the Plainfield Library and a number of residences outside of the business section as well as the 8:30 "commuters' train." The trip was taken in an automobile.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock a picture will be taken of the fire department apparatus in motion at Crescent and Watchung avenues, and a number of other interesting scenes will be snapped by the moving picture machine. Due notice will be given of the time they will be shown at the local playhouses.

CHURCH CLUB DEBATE.

The Men's Club of the Crescent Avenue church will meet at the church tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock, at which time there will be a debate of the question, "Should the Church, as such, enter the field of social service." Messrs. Simons, White and Williams will speak on social service." Messrs. Simons, DeForest and Kimball on the negative side. An informal discussion will follow

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS IN DOUBLE PROGRAM

P. H. S. Juniors Presented Two Comedies Saturday Night.

Two comedies were presented under the auspices of the Plainfield High School junior class in the school auditorium Saturday night and proved to be large drawing cards, the auditorium being filled by friends and relatives of the student performers. Clever acting in the two plays, "A Case of Suspension" and "Ici on Parle Francais," made the affair a pronounced success, each part being taken efficiently, and the principals brought out the wit and humor of the comedies to perfection.

As a result of the performances the class treasury will be swelled considerably. The acting in the plays reflected with credit on those identified with the coaching department and few dramatics by amateur talent have been better presented. The school orchestra, led by Mrs. J. C. Evans, was in attendance and the Plainfield High School quartet, consisting of Monroe Good, bass; Fred Mills, second bass; Daniel McNamee, tenor, and Arthur VanZant, baritone, rendered three selections with were well received.

A young woman's room in a seminary, was the scene in which "A Case of Suspension" was presented, and Carter L. Goodrich and Miss Mary Hunting took their parts particularly well in this sketch. Miss Hunting took the role of Miss Ophelia Judkins, a stern faculty matron, while Carter Goodrich was also a faculty member, taking the part of Professor Emilius Edgerton. Elston Hoagland gave a clever exhibition of native dialect taking the part of a man of all work.

In the second play a great deal of French was spoken and proved to be a great laugh provoker in which an Englishman with some knowledge of French took a leading part. Eynon White took the part of a Frenchman, while William Thompson acted as an Englishman.

DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY HOLD OYSTER SUPPER

An oyster supper, held by Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, on Saturday night in its rooms in the Babcock building, was enjoyed by over a hundred patrons. While the guests were eating a program of musical selections, both vocal and instrumental, was provided. Miss Rose Allan, of Cranford, sang two solos, "Angus MacDonald" and "When the Heart is Young." The Misses Rose Allan and Grace Weston rendered a piano duet.

The address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. Theodore VanPelt, chairman of the committee in charge. Mrs. Elizabeth GaNun, the councilor of the lodge, responded. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Theodore VanPelt, chairman; Mrs. Eva Moore, Mrs. Elizabeth GaNun, Mrs. Florence Welch, Mrs. Walters, and Walter Walker, Elmer GaNun, George Watts and Fred Soper, Sr.

A short business session was held before the supper was served and the name of one candidate was presented for membership. The good and welfare committee is planning to hold a social on Saturday night, April 5.

On Thursday night at 8 o'clock will occur the annual Lenten service of the First Baptist church choir. Stainer's cantata "The Crucifixion," selections from Verdi's Requiem and other numbers appropriate to Holy Week will be given by the quartet and chorus, assisted by Otto K. Schill, violinist, and Udo C. Gosswieler, 'cellist. The public is invited to participate in this service. No cards of admission are requested.

LANKY BOB LOSES $1,500 TO BURGLAR

This is no Press Agent Story for "Fitz" Has Retired From Vaudeville.

That there are some people who do not fear "Bob" Fitzsimmons' solar plexus punch was demonstrated Saturday night when a mean fellow broke into the ex-champion boxer's home in Dunellen and stole $1,500 worth of silverware which was stored in the attic. At the time the burglary was committed, Fitz was in Newark and his wife was in Reno, Nevada, it is alleged, to obtain a divorce. Robert Fitzsimmons, Jr., discovered the theft but could not tell when the deed was committed.

The police of neighboring cities have been notified and it is believed by the police that the thief may be caught when he tries to dispose of the loot, so they say. Informed of his loss Lanky Bob threatened dire things. Asked if he was going in training again for the burglar, Bob answered with an emphatic "No," saying that he was in prime condition just at present to put the "sleep punch" over on the best second-story man in the business. "Bob" has retired from the vaudeville stage.

FIVE YEAR OLD ONE DRANK PINT OF WHISKEY

Drinking nearly a pint of whiskey yesterday afternoon, Charles Raymond Johnson, colored, 5 years old, of 508 West Third street, was saved from death by the quick work of Dr. Albert Pittis, of 178 East Front street.

The liquor was kept in the closet and while his parents were visiting a few doors away, the youngster, unmindful of the power of the liquor, drank so much of the stuff that when his mother returned she found him in a convulsive state. She saw the whiskey bottle lying beside her son as he lay on the kitchen floor. Thoroughly frightened she ran screaming from the house. She encountered Mr. Johnson, who got a doctor.

Dr. Pittis placed the youth, who had become unconscious, in his automobile and drove with all speed to Muhlenberg Hospital. Young Johnson was laid on the operating table and the stomach pump was applied.

This morning the little fellow left the institution little the worse for his experience.

ITALIAN LABORERS STRIKE AND BATTLE

Wanted $2 a Day for Work But Get Suspended Sentences of $10 Instead.

A fight, which was a near-riot, in East Second street, near Terrill road, where sewer pipes are being laid for the city by Mobus Brothers, this morning, was suddenly ended by the arrival of police after a number of laborers had gone on strike for higher wages. The ringleaders, who, is alleged, threatened the other men with violence if they started to work, were arrested and arraigned before City Judge DeMeza on charges of disorderly conduct. A suspended sentence of $10 fine or 40 days in jail was meted out in each case. The arrests were made by Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn, Roundsman Charles Flynn and Patrolman Craig. The offenders were Nicholas DeVitzio, 35 years old, of Scotch Plains; Frank Anduro, 48, of Terrill road; Michael Stazio, 19, of Watson avenue; Bartilome Albicu, 45, of Rock avenue; Presentuo Salvadore, 38, of Cottage place, and Michael Sundi, 38, of Fanwood. They all pleaded not guilty.

In the work of installing sewer pipes the contractors employ over 100 men. This morning, it is claimed, the laborers arrested and several others who ran away when spying the policemen, refused to start to work at 7:30 when the foreman, William Horner, gave the signal. Several laborers stood about the tool box and threatened dire things for any man who attempted to wield a pick or shovel until an increase of wages was granted. They demanded to have their wages raised from $1.60 to $2, which was refused.

As some, whose sentiments were with the contractors, started to work several hand-to-hand engagements took place and the foreman summoned the police. Frightened by threats from their countrymen, in the meanwhile, the more timid ones joined the ranks of the strikers. Others who began work accomplished little for fear of flying stones from the hands of the hot-headed ones. When the patrol arrived with the police the tool box was being guarded by laborers armed with pick handles who defied any to start work. The trouble-makers were pointed out to the police by the foreman and their arrest and arraignment followed.

In passing sentence, Judge DeMeza explained the law to several of the offenders who were recent arrivals in this country.

She is now totally blind and for two years she has been confined to her bed by illness. Despite her misfortune the former actress keeps intimately in touch with the affairs of the world. Interested in all subjects, she has her mother, who is ninety years old, read magazine and newspaper articles to her during the day and when during the night she cannot sleep, her husband, Dr. F. C. Harriott, reads to her. When not listening to the reading of her husband and mother, Miss Morris spends much of her time dictating short stories for the magazines.

THE ACCEPTED TIME.

When the United States Senate reorganized its committees on Saturday, the committee on women's suffrage was removed from what is termed the "inactive list" and was increased from a membership of five to one of nine and the majority on it are ardently in favor of "Votes for Women." The meaning of this may be seen in a statement already issued by the new committee's chairman, Senator Thomas, of Colorado, to the effect that no grass is to grow under his feet in his effort to bring about an amendment to the Constitution extending the franchise to women. This proposed addition to the Federal instrument will be submitted to Congress at the present session and if passed will, in due time, be referred to the legislatures of the forty-eight States. It would require a two-thirds approval before becoming operative.

Just what position President Wilson will assume regarding this very important question is a matter of much doubt and much concern to the army of suffragists. While Governor of New Jersey he succeeded in keeping on the fence as it were despite the way he was beseiged by advocates of the cause, but the movement has made such remarkable headway within the last twelve months that it looms up as one of the National issues of grave importance. A report from Washington states that a conference had been arranged by the National American Woman Suffrage Association with the President for today, but it is hardly likely that he will definitely commit himself at that meeting. Those who know Mr. Wilson are fully aware that he is a good listener at conferences but is not much used to putting himself on record. But the time has arrived when he will have to take a stand on the question.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Fair Lillian, who holds the secret of perpetual youth, is going to tell the Plainfield theatre-going public tonight how to live one hundred years. Her stage name, Lillian Russell, was given her by Harry S. Sanderson, manager of Proctor's and the Plainfield theatre, when she was in her teens and that was "some" few years ago. Mr. Sanderson at that time, neither one would probably not like us to say just how long ago it was, was manager for Tony Pastor at the latter's Fourteenth street house. Delving into a directory he selected the Christian and the surname to be "worn" by the fair one while in the show business. Since then, through matrimonial ventures, she has had some few other names the latest of which is Mrs. Alexander P. Moore, but she is still only known to the public generally by the name that Mr. Sanderson bestowed on her. That name has brought her fame and wealth and, what is better than either of these, perpetual youth.

That parcels post has already become generally popular throughout the United States is shown by some figures given out by Postmaster General Burleson, the most significant of which is that fifty million packages were handled during the short month of February. The net gain over the previous month in the volume of business through this new channel was some forty per cent. Chicago's post office did the banner business having sent and received over five million parcels, while New York took second place with a trifle over four million packets, and in the order named these followed: Boston, Cleveland, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Brooklyn, Detroit, Cincinnati, Baltimore, Nashville, Kansas City, Buffalo, San Francisco, Pittsburg and Minneapolis.

Throughout Christendom, the centennial of the birth of Robert Livingstone, the African explorer and missionary, is being observed, particularly so in Scotland, his native land; England, which sent him to the mission field; Canada, Australia and the United States. It may not be known to the majority of people that the great Christian explorer's own son, Robert Livingstone, took up arms for the preservation of the Union, having fought at Gettysburg in the Civil War. He is buried in Pennsylvania.

Now that James Edgar Martine has been made chairman of the United State Senate's committee on coast defenses, may there not be hope for the Samptown "navy yard?"

PANACEA FOR HUMAN ILLS IS THE CROSS

Effective When Law is Powerless Says Rector of Heavenly Rest Church.

The rector, Rev. C. H. Mallery, at the Church of the Heavenly Rest yesterday preached from the text "And sitting down they watched there." He spoke of the different kinds of watchers who gathered around the cross, on the one hand the enemies of Christ, who were there simply to mock and scoff, but called attention to another little group, consisting of the Blessed Virgin, St. John and Mary Magdalene, who had come with love and sympathy and tears to watch by the side of the dying Saviour. "Shall we not be numbered with the latter this holy week," said the rector, "and gather lovingly and sympathetically at the foot of the cross? All humanity loves to be at the deathbed of its relatives and friends soothe their last moments, listen to their last words, and respect their last wishes. Shall we do less for our Saviour?"

The preacher said the cross was a great mystery. "We could not fathom the stupendous act of our redemption, of how each one of us was personally concerned in the Saviour's offering. Yet it was the truth that our sins, your and mine, contributed to the agony of the cross. In the other world we should see this clearly, here we can only apprehend it by faith." "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends," declared the preacher was the text which seems to make it clearest to all.

In conclusion, he stated that "all Christ desired in return for His love exhibited on the cross was a response on our part to that love. It is summed up in the world response. We are to respond in our daily lives to the appeal from the cross and so show its power in the world."

Mention was made of the many petty crimes being committed in the vicinity of Plainfield recently by young men and also of the recent attempt to wreck trains on the Jersey Central Railroad by placing obstructions on the track. "Do you suppose," said the preacher, "that if these young men had ever stopped to think of the cross and its appeal of love they could have ever been guilty of such awful offences? The love of the cross is the panacea for human ills and will be effective when police forces, jails and law are powerless.

MISSIONARY MOVEMENT SUMMER CONFERENCES

FRANKLIN K. LANE

Franklin K. Lane, the new Secretary of the Interior, is strikingly symbolizing his interest in the American Indians. In return he Blackfeet have named him "Lone Chief."

Bovard, corresponding secretary of the Methodist Brotherhood, and Rev. A. A. Brown, director of social survey. There will also be a musical program by the church choir.

Laymen to Meet Friday.

Of added interest to Friday's proceedings will be the meeting of the Laymen's Association at Central church, over which John H. Ward will preside. In addition to the business session of the lay conference, which will include the election of officers and the adoption of resolutions, "Institute Hour" will be observed, with addresses by J. R. Joy, of North Plainfield, on "The New Financial Plan," and by C. A. Titus, on "The Epworth League Institute."

In the afternoon "The Problems of the Newark Conference," both in respect to the city and the country church will be discussed. At 4 o'clock "The Problem of the Old Preacher" will be presented by Dr. Eckman and "The Newark Conference Outlook," by Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding. In the evening the Epworth League will celebrate its anniversary.

Business sessions will again command the attention of delegates Saturday morning. After luncheon "The Junior Congregation" will be presented for consideration by Rev. Dr. J. M. Farrar. Rev. John Sparhawk, Jr., of Philadelphia, will speak at night on "The Spirit of the Modern Business World."

Services Sunday will be inaugurated with a love feast at 9 o'clock. The event of the day will be the annual conference sermon by the bishop.

Monday will usher in the final session of the conference, when assignments of clergymen will be made.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN LONDON

London, March 17.—Notwithstanding that this is Holy Week today's celebration of St. Patrick's Day in the metropolis was the most notable of recent years. Approaching home rule served as an added incentive for enthusiastic demonstration on the part of the sons of Erin. The Irish flag was flying from many public building, special services were held in the Catholic churches, and the shamrock, or something representing it, was seen everywhere. The Irish troops at the various garrisons were given a day's leave. Following a custom established by Queen Victoria and later observed by Queen Alexandra, Queen Mary sent to the battalion of Irish Guards on duty at the Tower of London a large quantity of shamrocks, which were distributed to the officers and men at parade this morning.

LAST GREAT LAND OPENING TO TAKE PLACE IN MONTANA SOON.

A Million and a Third Acres of Rich Homesteads For Settlers.

Great Tract Could Produce Sufficient Grain to Feed the Nation.

WHEN spring suns melt the snows now covering Montana that state will be the theater of a typical American scene staged for the last time. Thousands of women and men from all parts of the country will assemble in Poplar to benefit by Uncle Sam's last great distribution of farm land. It will be a homestead crush rather than a rush. The picturesque race of a former day that marked the throwing open of government land to settlers has given way to the more prosaic method of drawing lots. He who draws No. 1 is entitled to the first selection of a 320 acre allotment, the winner of the second ballot gets the next choice, and so it goes until all the land has been awarded to the lucky ones among the contestants, for there will be several times more applicants than farms.

There will be excitement a-plenty in spite of the new manner of distribution. Success will depend not on fleetness, but on luck. Under the former system the prospective homesteaders were lined up, and at a signal they began a rush that was one of the most thrilling sights in the modern west. Oklahoma was settled in that way. It was a race assuredly to the swift. Men on horseback—yes, men and women—spurred their mounts to distance others who sat in buckboards or farm wagons behind fleet trotters or galloping broncbos. He who reached the goal first staked out the best claim. Those who followed took the leavings. For the majority, including practically all those who traveled afoot, nothing was left.

Million and a Third Acres.

It is no small section Uncle Sam will give away in Montana this spring—nothing less than a million and a third acres. The tract is the major part of the big Fort Peck Indian reservation at Poplar. Wise men in Washington have decided that Poor Lo has had the place to himself long enough. They think he will be better off with a few thousand white neighbors, and they also deem it time to lower the cost of living for the hundred million or so of palefaces sprinkled over the United States. It is figured the necessaries of life will be made a little cheaper by opening the reservation to homesteaders, since the quick agricultural development that is sure to follow is expected to add 20,000,000 bushels of grain to the nation's annual production.

There are 2,068,693 acres in the Fort Peck tract, but the interior department has allotted 723,693 to the Mandans and Sioux now settled there, leaving 1,345,000 acres to be taken up by the descendants of the pilgrim fathers and other immigrants. It is about the richest land in the dry farming region, as is proved by the results obtained in the 3,800 acres now under cultivation. Two years ago the whole tract was bare prairie, and even last year the cultivated area was only 1,500 acres. In twenty-four months the land has been improved, without irrigation and with little rain, to the point where flax has run eighteen to twenty-six bushels to the acre, wheat twenty to twenty-five and oats sixty to eighty-five.

Tract Could Supply Nation.

Professor Thomas Shaw, agricultural expert, is authority for the belief that the million and a third acres to be given to white men will grow enough grain to feed a nation. The big yield thus far is a result of cultivation by Indians alone. What the harvest will be when palefaces get busy with the soil makes interesting reckoning. That it will be far greater than the redskins' best achievement is certain, although it must be admitted that Lo has made fine progress as a farmer in recent years.

"On the supposition that the unoccupied land were devoted to the growing of wheat on the summer fallow plan," said Professor Shaw a short time ago after a visit of inspection to the reservation, "which would mean that one-half the area would be in crop at one time, and on the further supposition that the wheat would yield twenty-five bushels per acre, which is a moderate estimate for yields on land thus prepared, the aggregate production would be 19,312,500 bushels.

"If this land were entirely devoted to the growing of barley on the summer fallow plan the yield would be 30,900,000 bushels, as barley grown on such land should average forty bushels per acre. If the entire area were devoted to the growing of oats on the same lines the total production would be 38,625,000 bushels, as fifty bushels per acre would not be an extravagant estimate for land thus farmed.

"There is another way of showing the immensity of the possible production of this fertile tract of land," the professor continued. "On the supposition that one-fourth of the entire acreage were devoted to the growing of fodder corn the yield at the moderate estimate of two and a half tons per acre of cured fodder would amount to 840,625 tons. If winter wheat were drilled in the fodder at the proper season, which is August, and if the yield were the same as on the summer fallow, which would be reasonable to look for, the production in wheat would amount to 8,406,250 bushels.

Great Flax Crop.

"If one-tenth of the land were devoted to the growing of flax and the yield were ten bushels per acre the flax crop would amount to 1,345,000 bushels. If one-tenth of the land were also devoted to the growing of barley, putting the yield at thirty bushels per acre, which would be high enough for land not summer fallowed, the production would be 4,035,000 bushels. If one-tenth of the land were devoted to the growing of oats at forty bushels per acre the yield would be 5,380,000 bushels.

"This," Professor Shaw added, "would still leave one-fifth of the land for other kinds of production, such as alfalfa, vegetables and pasturage. The estimated possible production then would stand as follows for each year after the first year:

Fodder corn	840,625 tons
Wheat	8,406,250 bushels
Flax	1,345,000 bushels
Barley	4,035,000 bushels
Oats	5,380,000 bushels

"This," he said in conclusion, "would still leave ample room for other lines of production."

Poor Lo's progress as a farmer has been forwarded by a man who not only is a great believer in the future of the northwest, but who also thinks the one time savage can be made a really useful member of civilization instead of being herded in reservations on a footing of mere tolerance. This promoter of Indian advancement is Louis W. Hill, son of James J. Hill, founder of the Great Northern railway. He himself is chairman of that road's board of directors. Young Hill, with Mrs. Hill and their four children, passes much of his time in the big outdoors. He has made many visits to the Fort Peck reservation and has studied closely the possibilities of the Sioux and Mandans.

To Instruct Indians.

The result of his observation was a conviction that it would pay in a sociological sense to have the Indians instructed in the agricultural methods of the whites. He obtained permission from the department of the interior to send a delegation of redskins to the land show in New York a year ago. The Indians were so much impressed by the evidences of advanced agriculture they saw in New York that on their return to the high plains of Montana they voluntarily became instructors of their brethren in scientific farming, with the logical outcome that the reservation yielded a bumper crop last autumn.

"The figures are rather surprising," said Hill to the writer in St. Paul recently, "for they show that since these Indians returned from New York twice as much acreage has been cultivated on the Fort Peck reservation as was planted last year. It simply goes to show that almost anybody will improve his condition if he gets a helping hand in the right direction."

That comment was made when Louis Hill and his interviewer had returned from the first county fair ever held by Indians, at Poplar, which is about as prosperous a little town as can be found in the country. A big agricultural exhibit had demonstrated what Lo could do as a farmer, and at the same time a great gathering of chiefs and braves and squaws and pappooses had shown what a tribal reunion meant. More than 2,000 Sioux, Mandans and Blackfeet were camped in a circle a mile in diameter. For five days they entertained visitors with pony races, war dances, medicine making and other features of life in the open and then switched to a football game between the Mandans and a team of Blackfeet from Glacier National park. The palefaces came away with increased esteem for a race that could grow in a generation from the savagery of the tepee to the civilization of the frontier farmhouse.

DETECT CHECK RAISING BY ULTRA VIOLET RAYS.

New Method Shows Up Faintest Signs of Erasures.

Changes in documents or checks made after the use of a chemical ink eraser may be detected by photography with the aid of ultra violet rays, according to Dr. Robert W. Wood of Johns Hopkins university, who announced his discovery recently.

Dr. Wood exhibited a check raised to $2,400. The words originally were "twenty-four dollars." The change was made by an expert in a manner that made it impossible to discover the change even with a high power magnifying glass.

The slip of paper was placed under the ultra violet rays for a ten minute exposure. The result was that a heavy smudge appeared after the words "twenty-four," clearly showing that there had been an erasure and something else written in.

MEMBERS OF MADERO FAMILY TO HOLD MEETING IN THE UNITED STATES IN AN EFFORT TO RE-ESTABLISH THEIR LOST FORTUNES

MRS. FRANCISCO I. MADERO SR.

Bitter in their denunciation of the heads of the new government in Mexico, calling them traitors and murderers, ten members of the Madero family, all relatives of the late President, Francisco I. Madero, Jr., are now in New York, where they arrived on March 15 on board the Monterey, of the Ward line. They came to this country to meet others of the family already in the United States and to consider where and how the Maderos, once the richest and proudest in Mexico, may re-establish their fortunes.

In the party were Mrs. Francisco Madero, the late President's mother; Mrs. Sarah P. Madero, his widow; Julio Madero, one of his brothers; Angela and Mercedes Madero and Mrs. Rafaela Zirion, his sisters, and the four children of the latter. They were met at the pier by Ernesto Madero, another brother of the late President, and the other members of the family who fled from Mexico as soon as the revolution began.

Miss Mercedes Madero, in talking to reporters at the pier, was loudest in the denunciation of President Huerta and General Diaz. All were vehement, however, in their attack on the heads of the provisional government, and it was declared by one member of the family that positive proof that President Madero and his Vice President, Pino Suarez, were assassinated was in their possession.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The demand for the one piece gown of simple cut is increasing. This costume is an essentially comfortable, satisfactory garment which every woman likes to wear, and the vogue of the separate long coat on the street makes it a doubly useful one.

Here is a new one piece model with the closing at the right side making a notable feature and with a dropping shoulder line. It includes a separate chemisette that can be worn when occasion requires, and the model makes an excellent one for indoor wear at the present season and for the street gown when that is being made in anticipation of mild days later on.

For the medium size the gown will require six and a half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, five-eighths of a yard of twenty-seven inch goods for the trimming and five-eighths of some thin material for the chemisette.

GOWN FOR EARLY SPRING.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7751, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

EGGS IN COCOTTES.

If you wish to serve eggs attractively provide yourself with the little individual egg cups, or cocottes. The latter are very convenient, as each has a small handle by which it may be conveniently lifted, even when hot.

The most useful cocottes are of earthenware. They will stand more rough usage than the china cups or ramekin dishes.

Individual Dishes.

Eggs Shirred In Chicken Broth.—Take the cocottes and butter them well on the inside. Stir together a cupful of chicken broth, a quarter of a cupful of butter, a cupful of cream and the whites of two eggs. Pour into the dishes and break an egg into the center of each one. Stand the dishes in hot water for about eight or ten minutes. When served, garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Culinary Melanges.

Steamed Eggs In Cocottes.—Take four eggs, four tablespoonfuls of cream, two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, salt and pepper and a little butter. Butter the little cocottes. Put about two tablespoonfuls of cream into each; then on to this carefully break a new laid egg. Sprinkle a little salt, pepper and parsley on the top. Place them in a pan of water to come halfway up the cups and put buttered paper over the tops. Let them steam till the eggs are just set; then serve immediately in the cups.

Eggs Shirred With Tomatoes.—Drop a bit of butter in dishes, break into each a fresh egg, season and place in the oven until the whites begin to set. Do not forget that the cooking continues for a minute after the dishes are removed from the oven. A sprinkling of minced ham, chicken, tongue or parsley may be added before the dish is sent to the table. It is these little decorative touches that add so much to the appearance of a dish.

ABROAD FOR RURAL CREDIT SYSTEMS IDEA

Bryan Issues Instructions for Our Diplomatic Officers to Aid Commissioners.

Washington, March 17.—Instructions to the American diplomatic officers in Europe to secure courtesies from the foreign governments for the American commission which is to visit Europe this spring under the auspices of the Southern Commercial Congress to investigate rural credit systems were issued today by Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan.

Before leaving office Secretary Knox gave the State Department's approval to the rural credit investigation but since that time the American commission has received approval by Congress and President Wilson which gives it a semi-official status. In his instructions Secretary Bryan points out that Congress has appropriated $25,000 for the expenses of several commissioners, who will be appointed by President Wilson, to cooperate with the American commission. No salaries will be paid to these commissioners. Congress also passed a joint resolution directing the Secretary of State "to bespeak for the proposed American commission the diplomatic courtesies of the various European Governments." In carrying out these directions Secretary Bryan has instructed the American ambassadors in Europe to secure for the commission "such courtesies and assistance in the line of its endeavors as it may be possible to obtain," and adds "it will be seen that by this joint resolution the commission under the direction of the Southern Commercial Congress is given semi-official standing."

This act of Secretary Bryan raises the American commission to the standing of a semi-official body and assures it every facility that can be extended by the European Governments for the conduct of its investigations. The commission is directed by Congress to submit to that body a report on the subject of rural credit systems and the question of adopting the co-operative principle in all lines of agricultural production and distribution.

Though the Southern Commercial Congress began its efforts in a campaign for the adoption of rural credit systems it has received such strong support both from the Federal and State Government and from private sources that it has been able to enlarge the scope of its work to include a thorough investigation of all forms of co-operative production and distribution in the agricultural field. Co-operative credit is only a part of the immense system of co-operative organizations which has spread all over Europe. Co-operative purchasing organizations, co-operative and municipal markets, where farmers' produce is sold by agents at a fixed commission, the entire balance of the proceeds going to the farmer direct and co-operative associations for packing and distributing farm products, will all be investigated.

The Democratic national platform on which President Wilson was elected, contains a plank endorsing the agricultural co-operative movement and President Wilson has already evinced a keen interest in the subject. There now exists a committee of nine Governors of States to consider legislation necessary for the organization of co-operative credit and other associations. This committee, as well as the Federal Congress, will receive the report of the National Commission, and it appears now that next fall a nation-wide campaign will be waged in the interest of the co-operative movement among American farmers as a means to increase agricultural production and lower the cost of living.

GRANDEST DAYS ARE THOSE NOW

THE AGE OF PROGRESS

"Never Was There Such a Promising Outlook in the Realm of Politics as Today," First Baptist Pastor Says.

Declaring that the present days have always been the best days, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, preached a sermon of unusual interest yesterday morning, taking his text from Ecclesiastics 7:10: "Say not thou what is the cause that the former days were better than these, for thou doest not enquire wisely concerning this."

"The present days have always been the best days," said Dr. Strong, "and better days are yet to come. The pessimist defeats himself at the very outset by his pessimism. If we believe we are working in a lost cause, doomed to failure, we have no spirit to accomplish anything, and might as well give up and be done with it.

"These are the grandest days in every sense of the word that this old world has ever known. The high cost of living need not trouble us if we would but go back and live like our forefathers did in the 'good old days.' Not so many generations ago, surgery was butchery; anaesthetics were unknown. When Cotton Mather graduated from Yale, he would hardly have been the peer in training of our High School graduate of today. A judge in Massachusetts in 1835 stated the following: 'Look at your newspapers, and see sprinkled on every page murders, suicides, arsons, burglaries, larcenies, riots, mobs, frauds and cheats of every degree of iniquity and depravity.' And this in the good old days of virtue!

"Never was there such a promising outlook in the realm of politics as today. There are being brought to pass in the State and Nation that never could have been before. Robert Morris said of our second Congress: 'What a set of infernal scoundrels those men were.' Most of them were receiving a regular sum from France to insure legislation favorable to that country. Fancy that being done in the Twentieth Century! In those good old days clergymen and deacons not only imbibed the intoxicating cup freely, but it was the order of the day that at funerals, weddings and ordinations the pastor be under the influence of liquor to a greater or less degree. Think of such a condition in this day! How many of us would want to go back to the buildings in which we used to worship, with their bare seats, foot stoves and unattractive appointments? When the minister preached three hours and prayed one. When the children were 'to be seen and not heard' and had to stand behind their elders during a meal and be trundled off to bed on occasions of festivity? When the dining table was actually a board and most of what we call indispensable conveniences were unheard of?

"Today is an age of progress along every line, not the least of these being in the realm of the Kingdom of Christ. Things are being accomplished. Christian ideals are being disseminated, spiritual darkness being dispelled and the kingdoms of the world are turning to the Christ. With more faith, more energy, more systematic endeavor let us work and fight and pray that these better days may shortly become the best days for all mankind and the kingdoms of this world shall have become the kingdoms of our Lord."

SPENT HONEYMOON IN JAIL.

Atlanta, Ga., March 17.—Harley Baliles may attempt to collect damages from the United States for having to spend his honeymoon in jail. Baliles and his bride spent six months in a cell because they were wanted as witnesses in a murder trial. Being ignorant of the ways of the law they were unable to take steps toward regaining their liberty and with all the stoism of north Georgia mountaineers they settled down to housekeeping behind the bars of Fulton tower. During a portion of their imprisonment they were confined in the death cell as no other quarters were available. The release of the prisoners came after their case was given publicity in the local newspapers. It became known today that Baliles is considering taking legal steps to obtain redress for his enforced idleness and the humiliation suffered by himself and his 17-year-old bride.

DISCUSS PHYSICAL EDUCATION.

Parish, March 17.—Delegates from many countries, including the United States, assembled in Paris today to take part in the first international congress on physical education. The sessions, which will continue several days, are being held under the auspices of the faculty of medicine of the University of Paris.

Miss Emma Hasbrook, of New York, has returned after spending some time with his sister, Mrs. E. A. Sprowl, of Marion avenue.

Y. M. C. A. WALLOPED PARISH HOUSE FIVE

Visitors Played at the Mercy of Association Boys' Teamwork.

Playing with a somewhat crippled lineup, the Scotch Plains Parish House basketball team was beaten to a frazzel by the Y. M. C. A. first five on the latter's court Saturday night, the final score being 53 to 17. From the first minute of play, when Coyle pushed in two of his side shots, until the final whistle blew, there was nothing to it but Y. M. C. A., the players on that aggregation scoring field goals at will from every part of the floor. Some pretty passing by the winners, helped them to work the ball up and down the floor at will, getting it under the basket where Coyle was generally waiting to push it in.

Once more Ricketts and Coyle, old rivals, were brought together, and another of the scoring battles that always results when these youngsters meet was evidenced. Coyle had decidedly the better of the argument this trip, however, totaling up twelve field goals, one more than he did against Scotch Plains in their previous meeting, while Ricketts could make good on but one out of many attempts. Stine also did some high scoring totaling up eight field goals, while Taylor came next with a quartet of the field variety. Bailey's guarding and Smith's part in the team work were conspicuous factors in the victory.

HOPE FINISHES ITS SEASON UNDEFEATED

This Record Made on Home Court, However—Ajax Took Measure Twice.

With a string of victories larger than any other team in this vicinity, and but two reverses to mark their entire season's record, the Hope Chapel basketball team closed one of the greatest indoor seasons in the history of the game at the little Fourth street rendezvous Saturday night, taking the Park Presbyterian five into camp with a score of 49 to 12. But two defeats have been administered to the Hope contingent this year, but both of these were of the bitterest nature, as they were applied by Hope's greatest rivals, the Y. M. C. A. Ajax, and carried with them the championship, including a cup and seven gold medals.

The game Saturday night was little more than a runaway, as so many of the Chapelites' games have been this season, and the Plainfielders displayed their superiority early in the contest, getting a pretty collection of field goals almost at the jump off. The Presbyterian five, hailing from Newark, came heralded as a speedy aggregation but they evidently struck a decided snag when they lineed up against Hope Chapel and showed none of the aggressiveness that makes a basketball aggregation formidable. The home players, especially the Heron brothers, playing forwards, chalked up field goals at will, while the rest of the quintet were toying with the visitors' forwards, holding one scoreless and the other to a pair of sensational shots. Johnny Heron, captain of the victorious team, counted for seven field goals, while his brother, Tommy, did even better, tallying ten of the two-point variety. Doig at center, and Snyder at guard, also broke into the spot light with field goals and Leighs netted one from the field.

What little starring was done by the Presbyterian was monopolized by Jamison and Smith, who did a bulk of the defeated team's scoring.

BRITISH YACHTSMAN MAY CHALLENGE FOR THE AMERICA'S CUP

Mr. Charles C. Allom, the British yachtsman and owner of the fast 15-metre cutter Istria, whose name has been mentioned in connection with a possible challenge for the America's Cup, is now in New York city and, it is believed, will likely challenge the New York Yacht Club for a cup race.

INTERSCHOLASTIC BASEBALL LEAGUE MAY BE THREE CORNERED ONCE MORE

That Plainfield will have another interscholastic baseball league now seems an assured fact, inasmuch as Paul R. Collier has repeated his offer of last year to put up a silver loving cup for competition. Unlike the organization of last season, which was a two team affair, this year's league will undoubtedly be three-cornered as Leal School will be represented on the diamond. Although nothing definite has been done toward effecting the reorganization, it is conceded that those interested in Leal athletics will want to be considered in awarding the trophy for the interscholastic title, and if present indications count for anything it looks as though the local private school would be an able contender.

Last season North Plainfield and Plainfield High Schools fought for the trophy and after some hotly contested games the boroughites managed to annex the silver mug, as they did the basketball award the same year. This season, Plainfield took the thophy for the indoor game and N. P. H. S. is hot on the trail of revenge. Material at the Plainfield High School looks particularly bright and the team that beats the P. H. S. boys will have to be a wonder. Coaching from Jack Martin, Louis Slocum, Otto Frederickson and Eugene Lidgate has put the team on edge and those connected with the managerial end of the aggregation are looking forward to a great season on the diamond. Captain Good has had his men at work indoors and outdoors and when the time for the first struggle rolls around it will probably find the local schoolboys ready to begin a string of victories.

North Plainfield High School, although it has a far smaller group to choose from than P. H. S. always turns out excellent baseball teams and this year's contingent promises to be no exception. Few of the veterans were lost by graduation and the places vacated can be readily filled with the array of promising material on hand at present. A set back has occurred in getting the nine into condition by the recent illness of Captain Frank Dunning, but he has now returned to school and will take up the practice work in earnest this week, rushing the training to the limit.

North Plainfield is having its Easter vacation this week, but Dunning does not intend to accord the baseball candidates a respite as he has called for a practice every day this week and will work his men to the limit in an effort to make up for lost time. In speaking of his team, Dunning seems enthusiastic over the prospects for a banner combination and is confident of humiliating the local school boys on the diamond, and make up for what was lost on the basketball court.

Coach Wardlaw, of Leal's, has the smallest group of athletes to work with of any of the three contenders but he was far sighted enough to start his practice work after other teams had quit playing last year and as a result has gathered together a promising bunch of youngsters, who, though small can play the game as good as a good many larger athletes. Inside baseball has been drilled into the private school candidates and they probably know more of this important phase of diamond work than the candidates of the other two schools do put together. Mr. Wardlaw has chartered both Crescent Oval and Cricket Field for his spring training quarters and while the second team is drilling on the latter field the first squad is limbering up on the oval. He obtained somewhat of an insight as to his available material at tryouts held in the Company K armory and in the Y. M. C. A. gym during the winter months and knows just about what he can send out against the High Schools, should Leal's decide to enter the league battle.

With the reopening of the league, another controversy over the grounds on which to stage the games will probably arise and this is one of the first matters that will have to be attended to in starting the organization on a season's schedule. Plainfield will play its games on Parker Field, probably the best in this vicinity for the diamond game; North Plainfield still has Hyde field, which proved satisfactory last season, and Leal's has either Crescent Oval or Cricket Field to choose from. Both of the latter two fields are good and either could be put to good use in running off the league schedule.

ANNUAL TOURNAMENT AT EAST MILLSTONE

Affair Will Be a Mammoth One and Somerset County Title is at Stake.

The eighth annual target tournament of the East Millstone Gun Club will be held at East Millstone, N. J., Saturday afternoon, March 29, and gunners of every calibre from every part of the State have entered to contest the events scheduled. The East Millstone affair has always been a popular drawing card among gunners and if the way in which entries are pouring in is any significance as to the size of the shoot this year it will surpass all of the seven others conducted by the club. In connection with the big program of events scheduled the championship of Somerset county will be decided and a number of prominent sharpshooters are laying for these honors.

The meet will be conducted rain or shine and the money prizes will be divided by the Rose system, 5-3-2-1, high amateur guns $5, $3 and $2. A number of the most prominent professional shooters will be in attendance and local gunners will have to show some exceptionally clever work with their guns in order to get their names on the prize list. The winner of the County Championship will hold the Fleischman cup for one year and a solid gold medal permanently. The officers of the club in charge of the affair are E. H. Wyckoff, president; Arthur VanCleef, vice president; Edwin Garretson, treasurer; G. E. Welsh, captain, and F. W. Romsen, secretary.

TO TRY FOR RECORD.

In the twenty-three yard swim to be held in connection with the Color League athletic and swimming schedule in the association pool tomorrow several fast swimmers will try to better the Y. M. C. A. record for this distance. A number of speedy amphibians are enrolled among the Color League teams and it would not be a surprise to see the association record, now eleven seconds, bettered by several seconds. Among those who will try to do the record-breaking stunt is William Schooley, formerly a member of the Newark Y. M. C. A. aquatic team and his fast practise work makes him a likely aspirant for title honors. In practises Schooley has equalled the association record several times and in competition he ought to be able to do much better.

LEAGUE MEETING.

A second meeting of the Central New Jersey Baseball League has been called for tomorrow night and will take place in the Frost building beginning at 8 o'clock. This is the second meeting for the reorganization of the league and final arrangements will probably be made at this time for the opening of the season some time in the first part of May. Representatives are expected to be present from New Brunswick, Bound Brook, Somerville, Westfield, Dunellen and High Bridge, these teams having signified their intention of joining the organization.

HOPE SEASON CONTINUES.

No more home games will be played by the Hope Chapel boys' basketball team, but Manager George Leighs still has a number of out of town dates to meet, among them a game with the Park Presbyterian five in Newark and the Bayviews in Perth Amboy. The season will probably continue in the way until the first part of next month. Another game with the Y. M. C. A. Ajax is one of the possibilities.

P. H. S. CLASS TITLE.

The second game of the post season basketball series between the Plainfield High School Senior and Sophomore classes for the 1913 interclass championship will be played in the High School gym next Wednesday afternoon. In the first contest the Sophs won out after being behind most of the game by a score of 29 to 19, thus getting the initial grip on the title, but the Seniors are confident of reversing matters this trip and of making a third game necessary. Should the second year men win again they will be awarded the medals emblemic of the class championship.

BOROUGH HIGH'S ALUMNI WILL PLAY HOPE CHAPEL

A recently formed girls' basketball team, representing the North Plainfield High School Alumni Association, will meet the Hope Chapel girls on the Hope court tonight. Although the Chapel quintet has not been playing many outside games of late, it has kept in condition by holding frequent practises and will no doubt give the strong borough combination a good run.

The N. P. H. S. graduates have selected the choicest material that has gone out from that institution during the last few years and will present about as versatile a lineup as could be gathered together in local feminine circles. No definite lineup has been divulged and will not be until the team takes the floor at Hope Chapel tonight.

Y. M. A. A. NOTICE.

There will be a meeting of the Y. M. A. A. at William Conger's home, 331 East Third street, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of electing a captain for the baseball team for this season, also election of officers of said association. All candidates for this team must attend the meeting. The first game will be played April 26 on the Plainfield grounds. This game is scheduled with the Bound Brook Y. M. A., which this year has a strong aggregation. The first practice will be next Saturday afternoon on the Centre street grounds at 3 o'clock, at which time all candidates will be given a fair tryout. A social time will be given imediately after the meeting Thursday night.

HAWAIIAN TEAM COMING.

Honolulu, March 17.—The baseball team of the Chinese University of Hawaii will sail tomorrow for San Francisco, to begin a tour of the United States. After a few coast matches, the team will go east, ending its schedule with a seeries of games with New England colleges the latter part of June. The tour will comprise approximately 50,000 miles. The party will include fifteen players and will be in charge of Captain Akana. Nearly all of the players were members of the team which made a similar tour of the United States last year.

GYM TEAM PERFORMS.

Four members of the Y. M. C. A. gymnastic team, captained by Riley Hansen, gave an exhibition previous to and between the halves of the Y. M. C. A.-Scotch Plains basketball game at the association gym Saturday night. Stunts were performed on the mats and horizontal bar, the team going through many difficult and sensational moves. Those who took part were Hansen, McCoomb, Engle and Anderson.

ELKS ROLL HERE.

Jersey City antlered bowlers will be the guests of the local crew next Thursday evening in a series rolled in connection with the Elks' Bowling League. The Elks' schedule is rapidly nearing completion and the teams are making a final spurt for place honors in the last standing. This is the last game scheduled for Plainfield and the local men are, of course, anxious to wind up the season triumphantly.

ELKS BOWL TONIGHT.

Captain Blatz and his Elk pinners will go to Newark tonight to roll a postponed series with the antlered tribe of that place. This is the last out of town set for the Plainfielders and they are going primed to take all three.

VIRTUALLY ALL IN WILSON'S CABINET ARE PROGRESSIVE

Men In Official Family Nearly All of Same Age—Fifty-five Years.

Few Have Had Any Great Federal Experience and Few Are Lawyers.

THE distinguishing features of the new Wilson cabinet are that practically all the members are progressive, that few of them have had extended experience in federal office, that all of them but two are clean shaven, that there are fewer lawyers than in the Taft cabinet and they are all comparatively young.

The average age is exactly fifty years, none of them varies more than three or four years from this average. The oldest is Secretary of Commerce Redfield, fifty-four; next to him is Secretary of State Bryan, who is fifty-three; the youngest is Secretary of Agriculture Houston, who is forty-seven; one is fifty-one, two are fifty, two are forty-nine and two forty-eight. President Wilson is older than any of his cabinet, but by only two years. He is but six years older than the average and nine years older than the youngest. It is seldom in our history that men so closely bunched in their ages have served together in the president's official family.

Three of the members are lawyers, and three more have been admitted to the bar, but have not been in active practice for some years. Two are editors, one a railroad president, one a jurist, one an educator, one a manufacturer and one a coal miner and farmer.

Four of the members have served in the lower house of congress, one has been chairman of the interstate commerce commission and one a special assistant attorney general. This represents their total experience in federal office. Only three of the ten have have had a national reputation in any true sense of the term, although none of them was obscure.

As to their progressiveness there is no question. This is assured by the fact that William Jennings Bryan is at their head, but several others in their especial fields have been almost equally progressive. One has been prominent in the government's prosecutions of the trusts, one helped draw the Wilson anti-trust bills in New Jersey, one is a labor leader, one has been a member of the interstate commerce commission, and two others have been classed among the progressive Democrats in congress.

Taken all in all it is a cabinet of men who have made good in their respective fields, who are vigorous and who, in the parlance of the day, are "live wires."

William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state in President Wilson's cabinet, receives his high post after an illustrious career. He was born March 19, 1860, at Salem, Ill. Mr. Bryan was graduated and received highest honors at Illinois college, Jacksonville, in 1881 and Union College of Law, Chicago, in 1883. He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1883.

He practiced his profession at Jacksonville until 1887, when he moved to Lincoln, Neb. He was a member of congress from 1891 to 1895 from the First Nebraska district. Mr. Bryan received the Democratic nomination for United States senator in 1893, but was defeated in the state legislature by John M. Thurston. Mr. Bryan was editor of the Omaha World-Herald from 1894 to 1896. In 1896 he was a delegate to the national Democratic convention. He wrote the famous silver plank into the party platform, made a notable speech and was nominated for president. He was defeated after a remarkable campaign.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war Mr. Bryan raised the Third regiment of Nebraska volunteers and became its colonel. He was again nominated for president in 1900 and was again defeated by William McKinley.

Mr. Bryan then founded the Commoner, a weekly political magazine, at Lincoln, Neb. In 1905 he made a tour of the world. Finally he was nominated for president a third time, in 1908, and was defeated by William Howard Taft.

Josephus Daniels, the new secretary of the navy, has been identified principally as a newspaper man. He was born at Washington, N. C., May 18, 1862. He received his academic education in the Wilson Collegiate institute at Wilson, N. C. He then became editor of the Wilson Advance at eighteen. Admitted to the bar in 1885, Mr. Daniels refrained from practicing that profession, choosing instead to become editor of the Raleigh (N. C.) State Chronicle.

Mr. Daniels was state printer of North Carolina from 1887 to 1893; was chief clerk in the department of the interior, 1893 to 1895, and three times delegate to the Democratic national executive committee. In 1894 he consolidated the State Chronicle and North Carolinian with the News and Observer and has since been its editor. Mr. Daniels recently was prominent as head of the Democratic publicity committee in the presidential campaign.

William C. Redfield, who was made secretary of commerce in President Wilson's executive family, was a member of the Sixty-second congress from the Fifth New York district. Mr. Redfield was born at Albany, N. Y., June 18, 1858. He received a high school education at Pittsfield, Mass. He was treasurer of the J. H. Williams company, Brooklyn, from 1887 to 1901, was vice president of the Warp Twisting Machine company in 1904 and became president of the J. H. Williams company in 1905.

Later he became connected with the Sirocco Engineering company, with which he stayed until 1911. Then he became vice president of the American Blower company and a director of the Equitable Life Assurance society. He was the Democratic nominee for congress from the Seventh New York district in 1896 and served in the Sixty-second congress until his recent appointment.

David Franklin Houston, who is the new secretary of agriculture, had been chancellor of Washington university, St. Louis, from 1908 until he received his present appointment. Mr. Houston was born in Monroe, Union county, N. C., Feb. 17, 1866. He received degrees from South Carolina college, Harvard, Tulane and the University of Wisconsin.

He was tutor in the ancient languages at South Carolina college and superintendent of schools at Spartanburg, S. C., from 1888 to 1891. From 1894 to 1902 Mr. Houston held various professorships at the University of Texas. He was president of the University of Texas from 1905 to 1908. He became chancellor of Washington university in the latter year. Mr. Houston wrote "A Critical Study of Nullification in South Carolina."

William Gibbs McAdoo, the new secretary of the treasury, has been principally famous as builder of the first tunnel under the Hudson river and several subsequent ones. He was originally a lawyer, but of late years has been identified as railroad official, holding the presidency of the Hudson River Railway company.

Mr. McAdoo was born at Marietta, Ga., Oct. 31, 1863. In 1882 he was appointed deputy clerk of the United States circuit court for the southern division of the eastern district of Tennessee. He was admitted to the bar of Tennessee in 1885 and practiced at Chattanooga.

He removed to New York city in 1892. For a number of years and until 1903 he was partner with William McAdoo in the practice of law. In ensuing years he has been connected with railway enterprises.

CHAS. A. REED CITY'S LAWYER

Appointment of Former Senator By Mayor Quickly Confirmed By Council.

THE SALARY IS $3,500

Living Up to His Reputation For "Being On the Job," the New Corporation Counsel Is Present to Advise City Fathers.

The appointment of former State Senator Charles Arthur Reed as corporation counsel by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, was the most important matter presented to the Common Council at an adjourned meeting last night, in fact it was chiefly for that purpose that the meeting was held. The appointment followed the reading of the resignation of William M. Stillman, who held that office under appointment by Mayor G. W. V. Moy, and it was promptly confirmed through a resolution offered by Councilman Charles C. Randolph. In accepting Mr. Stillman's resignation the thanks of the Council was expressed to him for his services.

In connection with the selection of Mr. Reed as corporation counsel, another resolution offered by Mr. Randolph and adopted fixed the salary of the office at $3,500. As one of the members explained after the meeting, Mr. Reed will attend to all legal work of the city and in the future the services of out-of-town lawyers will be dispensed with. The Council will hold Mr. Reed responsible for the duties of the office, but he will be privileged to engage such assistants as he may need.

The selection of Mr. Reed seems to meet with general approbation. He has a thorough knowledge of municipal law, and his intimate knowledge of local conditions it is believed will make his services of especial value to the city.

Prior to his removal from North Plainfield, Mr. Reed was counsel for the borough for a number of years, during which time he became thoroughly acquainted with conditions there so that he is well versed in the problems in that municipality which affect Plainfield, chiefly the joint sewer proposition.

Mr. Reed was present at last night's meeting and during the short session advised the Council regarding its proposed plan to build a new pound. Resolutions were adopted authorizing the city clerk, James T. MacMurray, to advertise for bids for furnishing materials, labor, etc., for the pound in accordance with plans and specifications filed with the clerk. The pound is to be located on the city's property in the West End.

MARSHALL PRESIDENT OF CREDIT ASSOCIATION

Officers were elected and reports presented at the annual meeting of the Plainfield Business Men's Credit Association, last night. The business otherwise was chiefly of a routine nature, in which the members discussed informally matters tending toward making the association more efficient.

These officers were elected: President, H. W. Marshall; secretary, Martin B. Stutsman; treasurer, Isaac Schwed; trustees, Isaac Schwed, M. H. Marchant, H. W. Marshall, Martin B. Stutsman, J. L. Bennett, John S. Johnston, Jacob Fass, Henry Haurand and James C. Hansen.

AFFAIR NETTED $460.

The fair and entertainment given at the Hartridge School, Saturday afternoon, by the pupils, for the fund which supports two beds in the children's ward at Muhlenberg Hospital, netted $460. It was decided to continue the support of two beds, one of which is in memory of Evelyn Gertrude Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Frost, who was a pupil at the school.

CO. K IS INSPECTED BY ARMY OFFICERS

Local Citizen-Soldiery Receive Praise From Major Hayes, U. S. A.

Lieutenant Elvid Hunt and Major Hayes, Government and State inspectors respectively of the National Guard, reviewed Company K last night. The occasion was the annual inspection and the local citizen soldiers presented a complimentary appearance. Major Hayes who had seen members of the National Guard from all parts of the State, maneouvre under his critical eye, highly praised the non-commissioned officers connected with the company and said they compare with any corps in New Jersey.

Lieutenant Hunt instructed the guardsmen in the new regulations regarding the firing of their rifles in company formation and Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, in a short address told about the new school of musketry to be inaugurated Friday night.

Folowing the inspection the company was dismissed and a non-commissioned officers' meeting was held in the offices of the administration rooms in the Babcock building. Major Mortin discussed the election to be held next Monday night for a first lieutenant are Second Lieutenant A. R. Phillips, Quartermaster Sergeant J. Arthur Dow and Sergeant James B. Conkling; for sergeant, Corporals George B. Howell and James A. Thompson, and for corporals, Privates Merton Glover, Mulford Darling and Harry Owens. The election promises to be hotly contested. Major Martin and Captain Peterson will preside.

VENERABLE WOMAN IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Mrs. Swinton Run Down By Trolley Car Sustains Broken Hip and Internal Injuries.

Crossing the street at Franklin place and East Fifth street this morning, Mrs. Agnes Swinton, ninety years old, was struck by a Main Line trolley car suffering a dislocated hip and internal injuries. The police ambulance was summoned and the victim was taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. C. Langhorne, 534 East Front street, with whom she lives.

Conflicting stories as to the responsibility and details of the accident are told by witnesses. The trolley crew claim Mrs. Swinton after hesitating, stepped directly in the path of the car which was going at a slow rate of speed.

The aged woman, however, asserts she had cleared the track, when the motorman misjudged her distance from the tracks and as the car sped forward, she was knocked to the ground.

TO MAKE BIG BLAST.

C. H. Cochline, well digger, has been awarded the contract by the Smalley Stone Company, to drill six holes in the top of the mountain directly over its stone quarries, for blasting purposes. Owing to the nature of the rock at the bottom of the quarries, it has been found impossible to blast any further at that point. Deep holes will be drilled and thus the company will be able to reach unlimited quantities of fine stone. It is expected that the drilling process will require a month and a half.

BURGLARS FOILED.

Joseph C. Blimm, of 263 East Third street, reported to the police that a well dressed man had attempted to enter the flat at 261 East Third street, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwin Waters, by smashing a rear window, last night. Mrs. Waters, awakened by the noise made when the window pain was broken, discovered the intruder. The police were not notified until several hours after the attempted breaking and entering was made.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED.

Joseph Handelman, of West Third street, was arrested yesterday on the complaint of a woman who charged that he used abusive language in her presence. Arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning the complaint was dismissed and the woman, whose name was not given by the police, received a reprimand for wrongly accusing the man apprehended.

Miss Mabel Frances, a Missionary of Japan, who has returned from a convention tour, will speak at the German Reformed church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Owing to the Good Friday services in the city on Friday night, Miss Frances will not speak at the church in the evening.

Health Board For Twelfth Annual Time Asks City Fathers to Consider Garbage Collection Matter.

Jacob Sachar, who several months ago acquired a large tract of land at West Front street and Giraud avenue, in a communication to the Common Council, last night, asked that body to raise the grade of Giraud avenue, macadamize that thoroughfare and otherwise improve it. He said that he planned to lay sidewalks and was willing to do his share towards the improvement. This matter was referred to the street committee, as was also a petition from the West End Civic Association asking for crosswalks at West Fourth street and Darrow avenue and Essex street and Darrow avenue.

The Board of Health, in a communication again urged the Council to take up the question of a municipal system of collection of garbage and ashes, and further made a request that the appropriation for the coming year be made $9,500 to allow the board to extend its work of inspection. Regarding the Myrtle avenue "dump" the board notified the Council that the proposition had been abandoned.

The ordinance providing for the permanent improvement of certain streets, which was introduced at a previous meeting, was placed back upon second reading on motion of Mr. Mygatt to allow for a few minor changes. It was then adopted on second reading, ordered advertised and Monday night, April 7, was fixed as the time for a public hearing on the ordinance. The Council proposes to issue $27,000 worth of three-year bonds, and apply to the courts for the appointment of commissioners to assess benefits.

The Netherwood Residents' Association in a communication asked for a storm sewer at Belvidere avenue, Denmark and Ravine roads, in accordance with a map filed with the petition. The matter was referred, as was also a petition from George R. Cornwell requesting that Ravine road be macadamized and otherwise improved.

MRS. F. DE L. HYDE TO GIVE BIG SUFFRAGE DINNER

The "Suffrage Questionaire," which was announced for today at the home of Mrs. Augustus V. Heely, was postponed to Wednesday, March 26, at the same place, when Mrs. M. J. Reynolds, who is campaigning in Union county, will be present to answer any questions concerning suffrage.

Arrangements have been made for a suffrage dinner to be given Monday night at 7:30 o'clock by Mrs. Francis deLacey Hyde at her home in North Plainfield. A large number of invitations have been issued and among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pattison, Mr. and Mrs. George LaMonte, Miss Louise Connolly, of New York, who is a member of the moving picture censor board; Miss Mary White, of the New York Evening Post, and Assemblyman Egan, of Hudson county.

OWNERSHIP IN DOUBT

Wife, Who Sues For Divorce, Willing to Surrender Personalty Belonging to Him—He Wants to Recover $50,000 Worth.

Newark, March 18.—Following a long argument in the action brought by Richard Haden Hood, of Plainfield, husband of Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood, to recover his personal goods in the Stelle avenue mansion, which he values at $50,000, Vice Chancellor Stevens today adjourned the hearing until Tuesday, March 25, and requested the complainant to file further affdavits of the time and place of the alleged gifts to his wife, which he desires to have returned.

Vice Chancellor Stevens stated that he was not certain as to the gifts Mr. Hood is alleged to have made to his wife without any record of transfer, and for the purpose of gaining additional information, he desired that further affidavits be filed with him by next Tuesday.

The hearing developed the fact that Mrs. Hood had been willing to return certain things, including two automobiles, but Mr. Hood has filed a long list of personal goods for which he claims ownership and it is about these things that more information is wanted.

Chauncey G. Parker, of Newark, represented Mr. Hood at the hearing, while Conover English and Arthur S. Egner, both of the firm of McCarter & English, appeared for Mrs. Hood.

FISK SPEAKS TONIGHT ON COMMISSION GOV'T

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk will speak tonight at 9 o'clock before the Democratic Club on "Why I Believe in Commission Government." Every voter, irrespective of party, is given a cordial invitation to hear what Mr. Fisk has to say on this great municipal subject.

The Democratic Club rooms are on the second floor of the building at the southeast corner of North and Park avenues, opposite the Daily Press.

Mr. Fisk is among the political leaders who favor the adoption of government by commission in Plainfield. Leaders of the Republican, Progressive and Democratic parties have come out in favor of the idea of the Walsh act. Before long the matter is likely to be put up to the voters. You can learn much by attending the meeting tonight when Mr. Fisk speaks. He advocated the plan while he was mayor and so did Mayor Moy when he was in the same office.

Before his address, the club will hold a business session.

CHARLES HILL HURT; TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Charles Hill, aged forty years, of Boston, who has been temporarily residing at 203 North avenue, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital this morning with a probable dislocation of the left hip, the result of a fall. Mr. Hill, who is employed by the Northeastern Construction Company, of Fifth avenue, New York city, has been engaged superintending the construction of Clifford Baker's new house on Prospect avenue.

This morning he was called to the freight house to look after some materials which he wanted for the work, and was riding on the rear of a wagon. At a point near the freight house, the tail-board of the wagon dropped suddenly allowing Mr. Hill to fall in the street. He attempted to get on his feet, but found himself helpless. He was then assisted into the wagon and taken to the office of Dr. Pittis. From there he was sent to the hospital. The injury will detain Mr. Hill for sometime at the hospital.

HIS COLLECTION SOLD AT AUCTION

Col. Julian Scott's Ethnological Collection Disposed of In Quaker City.

SOME RARE TREASURES

Wonderful Display Once Reposed In His Studio in the Babcock Building—He Was a Famed Painter of the Indian.

There was placed on sale in Philadelphia, yesterday, a rare ethnological collection, owned by the estate of the late Col. Julian Scott, of this city. The collection was disposed of at an auction. He was a well-known painter of Indian life, and was an authority on the subject, having lived among the Indians in Arizona for a long time, where he made a close study of their customs.

Col. Scott died on July 4, 1901. His studio in the Stillman building on West Front street, was filled with art treasures.

Plainfielders will always have reason to remember Col. Scott for his large and handsome painting of the death of Gen. Sedgwick is the admiration of all who visit the art gallery at the Plainfield Public Library and Reading room. The State of Massachussets on several occasions sought to acquire this painting but failed. It is considered one of Col. Scott's best works.

In addition to the numerous specimens of blankets, tomahawks, masks and weapons of the old North American Indian tribes, there also are 125 specimens of beautifully inlaid guns, blunderbusses, pistols, daggers, shields, spears, swords, armor, clubs and other implements of warfare from the South Seas, Persia, India, Africa and the remote East. The entire collection numbers 400 objects.

Some of the beadwork in the collection is wonderful in the intricacy of design and skill shown in the making. There is a polished Sioux war club beaded its entire length and having attached to it a beaded paint bag in which the warrior's face paint was carried, so that no time was lost in going on the warpath. Some of the weapons have historical associations. One of the bell-mouthed blunderbusses was once carried on the King's coach between London and Bath.

LECTURES SUPERBLY ON THE GREAT WEST

James W. Erwin's Illustrated Talk Enjoyed By a Large Audience.

Under the auspices of the Congregational church Men's Club, James W. Erwin, of San Francisco, delivered the first of his lectures in the High School auditorium last night, before an interested audience, describing his tour along the overland trail. The talk was superbly illustrated by means of over 200 beautiful views in color and many interesting and unique motion pictures taken of scenes enroute to California.

Mr. Erwin took his listeners through the places providing the greatest amount of interest along the Pacific coast and in the great West, contrasting the present comfortable and swift method of crossing the continent with that of the early fifties. He told of the engineering difficulties encountered in opening up the west and the wonderful development of that country in recent years. Views were shown of the Frontier Day sports so dear to hearts of Wyoming cowboys and the tact involved in riding theb ucking broncho and the galloping steer. He had a number of excellent views in his collection showing the efficiency the cowboy attains in roping cattle and breaking in wild horses and the use to which these domesticated beasts are put by the natives.

Among the historical scenes known to every tourist of the west, were photographs of the great Laramis Plains, the Devil's Slide, Salt Lake City, the Great Salt Seat, the giant Castle geysers, geyser cones, "Old Faithful" Yellowstone Lake and many other interesting ar curios sights in the Wonderland of America.

Mr. Erwin will lecture again tonight in the Plainfield High School auditorium under the direction of the same organization. The committe ein charge of the lecture last night was composed of members from Women's and Men's Clubs as follows: Dr. H. V. Hubbard, chairman; Thomas Hylan, Alexander Millar, Mrs. John M. Whiton and Mrs. Alexander Millar.

FIRE ENDS LIVES OF FOUR HORSES

One Equine Burned to Death and Others Killed Following a Barn Blaze.

THE LOSS ABOUT $3,500

Structure Owned By Temple Baptist Church and Leased by Scheuer & Co., Whose Damage Is Covered by Insurance.

The large barn located on Westervelt avenue and North Front street, used by S. Scheuer & Company, the grocers, as a place to stable their seven horses and wagons, was completely destroyed by fire about 8 o'clock last night, entailing a loss of about $3,500, which is entirely covered by insurance. Firemen and others performed heroic work in rescuing the horses.

One horse was burned to death, three others were burned to such an extent that they had to be shot later, while the other three animals are under the care of a veterinary who believes they can be saved. Included in the loss was two tons of hay, just placed in the barn, together with wagons and harness. The fire is believed to have been the result of carelessness, it is being said that workmen were accustomed to smoking about the building.

An alarm was sent in from box 17, and by the time the fire department arrived the whole barn was enveloped in flames. Roundsman Andrew Saffron, among those to arrive early at the scene had a difficult time trying to rescue one of the horses. It was eleven o'clock before the fire was extinguished.

The barn was owned by the Temple Baptist church. It was erected in 1867, an interesting fact being that Fire Chief Doane was employed by as a member of the firm of Perrine & Doane, to build the structure. For a time it was used as a livery stable by the late Albert Hedden. S. Scheuer & Co., has used the barn for several years.

OCEAN VESSELS THEN AND NOW HIS THEME

"From the Half Moon to the Olympic," was the subject of an illustrated lecture given at Trinity Reformed church, last night, by Emerson E. Parvin, of this city, secretary of the International Mercantile Marine Company, of New York. The lecture was under the auspices of the Dutch Arms Men's Association, and was enjoyed by a large audience. A feature was selections by members of the band recently formed by the Dutch Arms.

An especially interesting part of the lecture was the description of the building of the "Olympic," and this was followed by many colored views of the interior of this great steamship. The second part of the lecture was devoted to a tour of the Mediterranean and the Holy Land.

During a short business session prior to the lecture, the Dutch Arms elected twenty-four to membership.

PLAINFIELD'S NEIGHBORS

Westfield.

Fruit growers in this part of the county are alarmed over the rapid advance that the buds of the fruit trees have made within the past few days. In sheltered orchards the pink of the peach blossoms is visible, and this means that a sharp frost would kill the buds and crop. Apple trees have not advanced so far, but early cherry trees have swelling blossoms.

Engineers will commence work this week on surveying the line dividing the municipalities of Springfield, Mountainside and Westfield. The line was described in 1794 by the acts which set the township of Springfield off from the townships of Newark and Elizabethtown, and set off the Fourth ward of the township of Elizabeth into the township of Westfield. So many disputes have arisen in recent years as to the exact location of the line, that it is now to be surveyed and monuments set.

The teachers were Mrs. George Dunn, Mrs. Burton Hall, Mrs. William Hoar, Mrs. B. H. Saunders, Miss Emily Joppling and Mrs. M. C. Warner. This new feature which has been recently added to the Parish House attractions has proven decidedly popular among the women members. The art of dressmaking is taught by Mrs. Apgar on Saturday when classes are held both in the morning and afternoon.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

The most popular of all the exponents of Irish comedy, Fiske O'Hara, will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre in Augustus Pitou, Jr.'s superb production of Darlton and Bradley's romantic play, "The Rose of Kildare," Wednesday night. Mr. O'Hara has won an enviable place among the young romantic actors of the country and his present production is said to have enhanced his reputation to a considerable extent, than any play he has yet produced since becoming a star. "The Rose of Kildare" is Lady Moya Fitzpatrick, a young gentlewoman of the County Kildare, whose father had been banished from Ireland for political reasons. Her fiance, Gerald O'Donnell, is a leader in the insurrection of 1798 and takes a trip to France to obtain aid for the insurgent cause from the French Government. He incidentally seeks information from the exiled parent of his sweetheart about the whereabouts of an ancient charter which gives an unalienable right to the Fitzpatricks to the estates of Ballymara. As the expedition is about to land on the Wicklow coast, the ship on which Gerald is returning is wrecked and most of those on board perish in the storm. O'Donnell swims safely ashore and is hidden in the Inn of Dan Reardon, one of the local leaders of the rebels. He is brought by a clever ruse to Ballymara when Brian Burke, a loyalist and an avowed enemy of Gerald, discovers the trick that has been played on the military and starts a pursuit of the young outlaw. Gerald is captured in the Wicklow Mountains where he has been hiding in the cave of Dan Reardon, and brought back a prisoner to Ballymara, which is now occupied by the King's troops. He is tried by courtmartial and is about to be shot when it is discovered that Burke has received a proclamation of amnesty by the Crown and is hiding it until after O'Donnell's execution. He is arrested for attempted murder and Gerald is free to join his beloved Rose of Kildare. There are many very cleverly worked out situations in the piece and much well drawn character work. The atmosphere is very fascinating as it is laid among the mad-cap Irish gentry of the 18th century and there is a dash and life in it that one would hardly find elsewhere. The name of Augustus Pitou, Jr., is a sufficient guarantee that the staging of the play will be all that can be desired. Mr. O'Hara has several very charming songs in the piece, all of which were written specially for it by Edward Paulton, one of the authors of the play.

DUCHESS OF ARGYLL IS 65.

London, March 18.—The bells of St. George's Chapel at Windsor pealed merrily today in celebration of the sixty-fifth birthday anniversary of the Duchess of Argyll, sister of the late King Edward and aunt of the present sovereign. The anniversary also was marked by the customary salute fired in the Longwalk. The Duchess of Argyll, or Princess Louise, as she is more familiarly known, was born in Buckingham Palace, March 18, 1848. In 1871 she was married to the Marquis of Lorne, who later succeeded to his father's title of Duke of Argyll.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

Attorney General McReynolds is the only bachelor of the new cabinet.

Michigan will take another popular vote on the equal suffrage question next month.

William C. Redfield, the new Secretary of Commerce, has the reputation of being an able authority on the tariff.

H. S. Cummings, of Connecticut, has succeeded William G. McAdoo as vice chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

Tampa, Fla., will hold a special election early next month to decide the question of adopting the commission plan of government.

There are still thirteen States of the Union that have never had representation in the cabinet of any President of the United States.

Less than two years represents the difference in ages of seven members of President Wilson's cabinet, while there is a difference of but seven years in the ages of the youngest and the oldest members.

Willard Saulsbury, the new United States senator from Delaware, may be said to belong to a senatorial family. His father was a United States senator back in the sixties and he also had an uncle in the Senate.

It is figured that the membership of the next House of Representatives will stand: Democrats, 291; Republicans, 97; Progressives, progressive Republicans and Washington party men, 47; total, 435.

James H. Baker, the new secretary of the United States Senate, has for twenty years served as assistant librabian of the Senate. He was born in South Carolina fifty-two years ago and was educated at Wofford College.

The States that have furnished the largest number of presidential cabinet officers, named in their numerical order, are as follows: New York, 39; Massachusetts, 35; Pennsylvania, 30; Ohio, 24; Virginia, 22; Maryland, 18; Kentucky, 15; Illinois and Tennessee, 10 each, and Connecticut, Indiana and Missouri, 9 each.

Shelby M. Cullom, of Illinois, has retired from the United States Senate with a record for continuous service that has been exceeded only twice in the history of that body. Mr. Cullom served thirty years. The late Senator Morrill, of Vermont, left a record of thirty-six years while Senator Allison, of Iowa, served thirty-five years.

President Wilson's cabinet includes two members of foreign birth, who naturally would be debarred from the presidential succession. They are Secretary of the Interior Lane, who is a native of Prince Edward Island, and William D. Wilson, head of the new Department of Labor, who firs saw the light of day at Blantyre, Scotland.

Jacob H. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, has lost the distinction of being the only physician among the members of the United States Senate. A second representative of the medical profession has appeared in the person of Dr. Harry Lane, whom Oregon has sent to the Senate as the successor of Jonathan Bourne, Jr. Senator Lane is a grandson of Gen. Joseph Lane, who served as United States senator from Oregon and was a candidate for Vice President on the Breckenridge ticket.

MINISTER VISITS DANCE HALL.

Paterson, March 18. — After preaching a sermon on the evils of modern dancing in particular and dance halls in general Sunday night, Rev. Warren P. Coles, pastor of a Methodist church in Haledon, made a personal investigation of a resort in North Haledon, where he had heard festivities were going on. The object of the visit was to confirm reports that have been circulated concerning Sunday night dancing. When the clergyman and his party arrived at the place they found no dancing in progress, but there were a number of people present, they claim, and they met a number of young men and girls on the street, near the dance hall. Just what steps the clergyman will take in the matter he had not decided yesterday. He thought, he said, he would write, to the proprietor of the place visited by him and ask that the Sunday dancing be discontinued.

FOUND ASPHYXIATED.

Elizabeth, March 18.—Thomas Cunningham, aged forty-five years, was found asphyxiated in his room at Grampp's Hotel, First and Trumbull streets, yesterday by Stephen Balcheck, a porter, who went to call him. He had been dead several hours. As the gas jet was only partly turned, it is surmised that his death was accidental. The body was removed to Martin's morgue. Cunningham was unmarried, and was employed as a molder at the Singer factory. He had been a resident of this city twenty-five years. He is survived by a brother James, who kept a saloon at Fifth and Fulton streets. Another brother Patrick and a sister, Mrs. James Pender, also survive him.

How I Furnished Our Guest Room

I suppose our guest-room wouldn't be furnished yet if I hadn't been reading a continued story in one of the magazines. Right at the end of one of the installments I discovered and advertisement which told how anyone could furnish their home without cost. At first I thought it was a lot of talk, but decided to write to this company for their Catalog.

If you have never seen a Larkin Catalog, you have missed a great deal. It contains descriptions and pictures of over seventeen hundred different kinds of Premiums which you can obtain without cost by buying your teas, soaps, spices and other household supplies from Larkin Co. I saw immediately that I could get everything I wanted for our guest-room, so I made up my first order for household supplies immediately.

That was only a year ago, and we have been using Larkin Products ever since, and like them very much. Our guest-room furniture has arrived piece by piece and it is now the best furnished room in our house. It hardly seems possible that we have furnished this entire room without its costing us anything extra.

I wish you would send for a Larkin Catalog and just look at the things they have to offer. I know you will thank me for the suggestion. Just address your letter or postal to Larkin Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and say that you want Catalog No. D 24.

LIVINGSTONE CENTENARY.

The one hundredth annivesary of the birth of Dr. David Livingstone, the famous missionary and explorer, will be celebrated tomorrow in many parts of the United Kingdom. In the popular mind the name of Dr. Livingstone is associated chiefly with the exploration of the "Dark Continent." But greater and more fruitful than his work of exploration was his work as a Christian missionary. As an explorer he tracked deserts and described the wealth of the county, in its plants, fruits and minerals. As a missionary he strove for freedom and security among the natives, acquainted them with the ways of civilization, and by striking a blow at the slave trade commenced a new era for the natives and for the traders who wished to carry on legitimate trade.

Livingstone was born March 19, 1813, on the banks of the Clyde, at Blantyre, in Lanarkshire, Scotland. His parents were splendid representatives of all that is best among the working people of Scotland. As a boy the future missionary worked in a cotton factory and his life from the beginning to the end was one of pluck and endurance. He saved his money and put it into books which he studied diligently until he was able to enter the University of Glasgow. His purpose was to study medicine, but after a short time at the university he turned his attention to the subject of theology. His knowledge of both medicine and theology he turned to good account in his missionary work later.

In 1840 Livingstone went to Africa under appointment of the London Missionary Society. The first stage of his work was that of the teacher and preacher and founder of mission stations. But he soon became dissatisfied with the prevailing methods and his characteristic impulse urged him to go further, gaining the confidence of the natives by his medical service during a 700-mile trip into the interior. The second stage of Livingstone's missionary work was conceived on broad lines. Colonization and trade were combined with mission teaching. Christian civilization became his object. With the aid of government support he explored large sections of the Zambesi district and added much to the geographical knowledge of that land. In 1864 he returned to England and spent one year.

Livingstone set out from Africa again in 1865. In this last stage of his career he sought to solve the problems of civilization, the suppression of the slave trade and the opening of central Africa. The knowledge of the resources of this land, hitherto unknown to the world is largely due to Livingstone. It was in this period of his work that he gave most attention to geographical exploration and sought the source of the Nile. Previously he had crossed the continent from the Zambesi to Congo, and again from Loando to Quilimae, and had made the discovery of Lake Nyassa. For several years no word came from the great explorer and it was generally supposed that he had perished in the African wilds.

The story of how he was sought and found by Henry M. Stanley, the American journalist, is one of the most thrilling in all history. After Stanley had found him the two traveled together for a time, but Livingstone persistently refused to return with Stanley to civilization. In poor health and becoming weaker with each day of travel, Livingstone was one day found by an attendant kneeling lifeless by his couch. The place of his death was on the south shore of Lake Bangweoli, and the date May 1, 1873. The body of the great missionary and explorer was embalmed and brought home and on April 14, 1874, the remains were interred with impressive ceremonies in Westminster Abbey, in London.

In connection with the centenary celebration the London Missionary Society has raised a $50,000 fund to found a memorial station in Africa, while the directors of Charing Cross Hospital, in London, where Livingstone studied medicine, have started a similar fund for the building of a new wing to the hospital as a memorial to Dr. Livingstone, one of the greatest Christian soldiers of all times.

Charles A. Reed, the newly-elected corporation counsel, has done just as we predicted he would. At the Common Council's session last night he was present to give any advice desired by the city fathers on matters being considered at the time. This is something unprecedented in Plainfield and is highly commendable. So long as Mr. Reed holds down the job, the authorities will not have to wait two weeks or a month to get an opinion on any subject, and what is more opinions given by him are such as to be fully relied upon as correct interpretations of the laws. And no longer will Plainfield be put to the humiliation and expense of obtaining legal service elsewhere on such matters as the water and sewage problems.

Reports from Washington have it that the unsightly "buffalo" nickel is about to be called in because it is so easily counterfeited. Certainly the finished product looks like the work of an amateur, and it is about the ugliest thing in the way of a coin that Uncle Sam has stood sponsor for.

MISSIONARY GIVES STIRRING NARRATIVE

Mrs. P. B. Kennedy Relates Exciting Experiences In Far-Away Arabia These Days.

The exciting times experienced by Mrs. Kennedy, wife of Rev. P. B. Kennedy, and daughter of Rev. Lewis Band, of this city, who is a missionary at Kotcha, Albania, are graphically described in a letter which she has written to her father. Among other things, Mrs. Kennedy says:

"On November 21, Turkish troops began to arrive, first the cavalry and then the infantry, limping along half famished. It made our hearts ache to see the misery. And the horses! There was no hay for them, the weather was cold and stormy and most of them were without shelter. We could see many of them in the church yard across the street from us, just skin and bones. They died off all over the city and many of the soldiers ripped off the skin of the dead horses in the street to make sandals for themselves.

"From our windows we saw soldiers who needed special help. We fitted out one in shoes, others were allowed to bathe their tired, swollen feet and we had the doctor prescribe for several whom we sheltered a few nights, three of whom remained until the Greek army came and later went off free to Conastir in citizens clothes, blessing us for their deliverance from the exposure and famine which faced the Turkish army when it fled from Kotcha.

"A few days after the Turks arrived, they opened three so-called hospitals—more properly refuges. All they could do those first days was to gather the men in, instead of letting them die in the street. Exposure in the wet and cold, with hunger and fatigue carried off eight or ten a day at first. The Turks were here just four weeks. The citizens of Kotcha did nobly by the poor soldiers, giving both food and clothing. They also helped conceal Christian soldiers so that they might escape army service.

"We had many days of uncertainty, for the Commander, Djavid Pasha, is noted for his cruelty and dislike of the Albanians. Our night school stopped, of course, for no one was allowed on the street at night. We were all ready to move to the girl's school building in case of necessity, for we knew our proximity to the Bishop's residence was unsafe, if the Pasha made an attack on the Christians, as we learned later he seriously purposed doing, beginning with the setting fire to the Bishop's house. He was hindered from doing so by the Moslem Beys of the city, and some leading Wallachians.

"Our house with its American flag waving over the front gate was a sort of rendevous. The young men of the night school continued to come late in the afternoon for religious or political discussion among themselves, or with us. I have had charge of the girls' school all the week as another little son was born to Mrs. Drake. She insists that in a very few days she can resume the care of the school. She is indefatigable. Ours is the only boarding school in the city. All the day school buildings were used for hospitals or barracks.

"December 19 a military officer called to say that Djavid Pasha was fleeing from the Greeks, and as he and several others of the medical staff would be left in charge of the sick and wounded he begged for a room in our house, as a place of safety. These Turks did not fear the Greek soldiers, but probable lawlessness of certain irresponsible citizens before the Greeks could enter and restore order. So we took him in with his brother, both of them pharmacists, an Arab physician and another Arab from Beirut and the treasurer of the hospital staff. Thus with the three already quartered under one roof, we had four in our spare room and four in a room on the ground floor—all of them devoutly thankful.

"Our two boys, Petrky and Esat, who live with us to study, had to sleep in Mr. Kennedy's study. The next forenoon Greek flags appeared all over the city. The Bishop and the Mufti, religious head of the Moslem population, were starting in a carriage to meet the incoming victors. Just then amid loud shouts and clapping of hands some officials rode up dressed in Greek uniform. The Greeks had arrived. Later arrived the infantry, marching right under our windows. The tension of the past weeks gave way to the wildest enthusiasm. Hats and caps were donned in place of the red fez, patriotic songs were sung and rifles were shot off on all sides. The fleeing Turkish soldiers on reaching Kotcha were glad to sell their guns and exchange cartridges for bread.

"The next evening a prominent Wallachian came to take refuge in our house, as some of his enemies sought his life. We were told that for three days the Greek soldiers had leave to do what they liked. There were many cases of lawlessness in Kotcha and the surrounding Moslem villages. The wives of the Beys sought refuge in the city, but dare not appear in the streets as the soldiers take pleasure in lifting their veils and insulting them. Christmas day was very interesting. The night before, two Greek soldiers who spoke some English, asked to spend the night, so we had a full house. I got some sort of a dinner ready, turkey and plum pudding, even. There were eleven of us altogether. While at the table a telegram was brought in from Prince Nicholas at Salonica, inquiring after Phineas and myself, and requesting a telegraphic reply. Our U. S. Consul at Salonica had been inquring after us.

"New Year's day we had many callers and late in the afternoon the pleasure of an impromptu violin recital, for we had unearthed a violinist, a Greek from Paris, who had given concerts in prominent places, but is now a common soldier. His name is Andreas Tschapaloz, a fine young man. As to the poor Turkish soldiers left here in the hospitals. Some of them had dysentery, others were wounded and had gangrene in their feet. When the Greeks came one of their surgeons kindly consented to operate on two of them—there was not chloroform enough for more. To be sure it would be undertaken, I got permission to be present at both operations and was pleased at the way the surgeon did the work.

"For a long time the girls in our school went without milk in their coffee mornings, so that the sick Turkish soldiers might have it. Colonia District is on the verge of a famine. The live stock, hay and grain of the Moslems has been taken from them by the army.

"Monday afternoon, February 10, some six carts and carriages came to the door with 55 huge bags of flour and five bags of rice, the first installment towards the relief work we hope to do in this vicinity. Prince Nicholas of Greece very kindly assisted Mr. Kennedy in getting this freight here from Salonica without cost. A week ago the Servian troops who are just over the river from Kotcha, burned some twelve or thirteen Moslem villages, presumably to put down a small uprising."

HOT CROSS BUNS ON GOOD FRIDAY

JURY FINDS NEW YORK POLICEMAN GUILTY OF PERJURY.

Guilty of perjury as indicted was the verdict rendered against Policeman John J. Hartigan. In less than two days the first of the trials of New York city policemen indicted in connection with police grafting upon lawbreakers had proceeded to a conviction.

A deep impression was made by Hartigan's fate upon those allied with the several accused policemen who have not yet come to trial. In the court room were many policemen of high rank and attorneys who will defend several of the accused. They looked grave as they left after the verdict had been returned.

The verdict against the policeman accused of swearing falsely before the Grand Jury in connection with his part as bearer of an alleged bribe fund was returned thirty-five minutes after the judge's charge. The defendant's denial that he carried money from Captain Dennis Sweeney, then inspector, to Captain Walsh with which, it was charged, George A. Sipp was to be induced to stay out of New York city and not testify against the police, failed to save him.

PRAISE FOR PIERCE.

The grade-crossing act has become a law, at last, after years of labor and a steady up-hill fight against the railroads, and against those who considered petty details of operation as more important than the salvation of human life. The Sunday Call printed more than a hundred columns of fact and argument on this subject during the twelve-month ending a year ago. It had conducted an agitation on the subject for many years before, and the last Legislature finally passed a measure which met public requirements. For reasons which no sincere advocate of this great effort has ever been able to comprehend, Governor Wilson vetoed that act. We are quite willing to let the dead bury its dead—as the railroads have buried their victims since—but we do ask of those who feel gratitude—as do we—for the present measure, to recall with honor and sincere regard, the efforts of Senator Pierce of Union county, and men who fought with him in the Legislature a year ago, by which, though failing temporarily, the present act was made imperative as a political measure. But for them, the railroads would have beaten the people again. Nor does this derogate from the honor due to Governor Fielder, whose name is on the act finally passed, both as introducer and as signer.—Newark Sunday Call.

"TEXAS BATTLESHIP DAY."

Austin, Texas, March 18.—In response to the request of Governor Colquitt this was observed as "Texas Battleship Day" in all the public schools throughout the State. Exercises were held to express the public appreciation of the action of the Navy Department in naming one of the greatest battleships of the navy after the State of Texas. At the same time small contributions were received from the school pupils to aid in the purchase of a silver service for the new dreadnought.

GOV. SULZER IS 50.

William Sulzer, governor of New York, was born in Elizabeth, N. J., March 18, 1863, his father being a German Presbyterian minister. With his parents, he removed to New York city as a boy, and received his early education in the public schools, later attending Columbia University. He was admitted to the bar in 1884. He took an early interest in campaigning for the Democratic party, and was elected to the New York Assembly in 1889. Re-elected each successive years for five terms, he served as Speaker in 1893, and was leader of the Democratic minority in 1894. In the latter year he was elected to Congress, where he continued to serve until elected to the governorship last fall. Governor Sulzer has always been called by his friends the "champion of popular rights." When the fight on the Cannon rules began in Congress in 1909, Mr. Sulzer voted against the maintenance of the Speaker's power and was one of the leading figures in the fight on the part of the Democratic minority.

BIG WAITING LIST.

Thousands upon thousands of persons in all parts of the country are waiting anxiously for their copies of next Sunday's New York World, which aside from its wonderful display of news from all over the earth, will comprise a 24-page illustrated Magazine, a 16-page Joke Book full of jests, riddles, funny pictures, tricks, puzzles, etc., the words and music of the great song hit: "Girl March" from the American Maid and many other features of surpassing interest. Owing to its great demand the Sunday World should always be ordered in advance.

Rev. Mr. Mount, of St. Paul, Minn., has accepted a call to the Mt. Bethel church, and will enter upon the duties of his new charge April 1.

FAIR LILLIAN JUST AS YOUNG AS EVER

As "Ponce de Leon," She Tells the Secret—Husband Introduces Her.

Judging from the number of women in the audience, last night at the Plainfield Theatre, where Lillian Russell told "How to Live One Hundred Years," there are many more of the gentler sex who care about the secret of longevity than there are men. About one in every four o the audience was a man, but the men seemed to enjoy the talk just as much as did the women. Those who have seen Miss Russell in the past in the many musical comedies in which she has starred, and who expected to see an ultra-dignified and matronly woman appear before them, were grievously disappointed, for aside from the fact that she did not jest as when she last appeared here in "Wildfire" and "The First Night," and the most carping critic would not say that she has grown any less handsome or less charming.

The talk illustrated by kinemacolor pictures which described the daily routine of life adopted by this remarkable woman in order to keep herself ever youthful. The pictures indicated great care and taste in their making, those showing the development of flowers from bud to blossom and scenes in Southern California being especially artistic. Throughout the evening Miss Russell described in an entertaining manner the various things she does "to keep herself young," and she confidently predicted that she would live to be 100 years old by strict adherence to the rules laid down.

In a talk with a representative of the Daily Press after the lecture Miss Russell spoke of the pleasure which it has always given her to appear in Plainfield, and of how much she thought of Manager Sanderson of the local theatre. She confirmed the statement made in the editorial column of last night's Press that Mr. Sanderson was responsible for her adopting the stage name which won her fame and fortune, and showed great familiarity with the country about this section of New Jersey, having motored out here from New York frequently in the past.

Miss Russell's husband, Alexander P. Moore, publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader, was with her last night. He is one of the active leaders of the Progressive party in Pennsylvania, and through his newspaper was a great influence in making that party successful in western Pennsylvania. Incidentally he is a great practical joker. He is responsible for "Bill" Flynn the doughty leader of the Progressives in the Keystone State being in the fight for that party, and the story of the way in which he won Mr. Flynn to the cause is interesting.

About a year ago Mr. Flynn was an avowed advocate of the LaFollette cause, prior to the time that Colonel Roosevelt was persuaded to seek the nomination against Mr. Taft. Moore met Flynn in a New York hotel one day and invited him to go and call on Colonel Roosevelt. Flynn demurred, saying that he was for LaFollette, but Moore finally persuaded him to go to the Colonel's office in New York, "just to say 'how do you do'." Flynn finally consented.

When they reached the Colonel's office the former President stepped across the room and greeted Moore cordially, and noticing Flynn in the rear said under his breath, "Is he with you?" With a twinkle in his eye Moore replied "Yes!" The Colonel greeted Flynn in a cordial manner, and told him how glad he was to hear that he intended to fight with the Progressives, and Flynn, although somewhat surprised, did not give his friend Moore away. Before they left the room Flynn had pledged allegiance to the cause, and when he got Moore outside he told him that he had cost him (Flynn) $50,000 by that visit, as he now had to go in and win. The primary result in the State of Pennsylvania tells the rest of the story. Flynn testified before the Senate investigating committee that he spent about $70,000 in thee campaign.

Because of the non-arrival of Mr. Nethersol, the manager of the lecture, Mr. Moore found it necessary to introduce his wife to the audience. He had not come prepared for such a task, and in talking about the matter afterward Miss Russeell laughingly said: "If you say anything in the Press about the introduction, be sure to say that 'if he had had his evening cloths, the introducer would have been Mr. Moore, Miss Russell's husband,' but under the circumstances it was someone else." Mr. and Mrs. Moore returned to New York after the performance last night. She will appear in Harrisburg tonight.

SCHOOL ELECTION.

The annual school meeting of the Borough of North Plainfield will be held tonight in the Somerset School building, where an election will be held to fill the vacancies on the Board of Education caused by the expirations of the terms of president, D. J. H. Cooley, Allen B. Laing and Thomas E. Currin. Asked whether they will accept renomination the retiring Board members declined to commit themselves. Dr. Cooley has served ably for fifteen years.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MEATLESS DISHES FOR LENT.

CHEESE, like eggs, contains much concentrated nourishment. Used during Lent, it may be made to take the place of meat.

Macaroni, spaghetti or any foods cooked with cheese have their food values increased.

One pound of cheese is said to contain as much nourishment as two pounds of meat.

Toothsome Victuals.

Savory Baked Cheese.—Take one-half pound of cream cheese, with salt, pepper, mustard, milk and butter. Slice the cheese thin, place in a shallow baking dish, cover with milk, dust with salt, pepper and a bit of made mustard. Dot with butter and bake in a hot oven until the cheese is melted. Serve on toasted crackers.

Scalloped Cheese and Cabbage.—Take a small cabbage and boil until very tender in water to which salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of soda has been added. Drain, separate into pieces and put one-half in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with grated cheese. Repeat until dish is full, then add one cupful white sauce and cover with buttered cracker crumbs. Bake until crumbs are browned.

Substantial Foods.

Baked Eggs and Cheese.—Take four eggs, a cupful of grated cheese, a cupful of fine, soft stale breadcrumbs, one-half teaspoonful salt, a dash of cayenne pepper. Break the eggs into a buttered baking dish and cook them in a hot oven until they begin to turn white around the edge. Cover with the mixture of crumbs, cheese and seasoning. Brown in a very hot oven. In preparing this dish the oven must be very hot or the egg will be too much cooked by the time the cheese is brown. To avoid this some cooks cover the eggs with white sauce before adding crumbs.

Baked Macaroni and Cheese.—Take a cupful of macaroni broken into small pieces, two quarts of boiling salted water, a cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-fourth to one-half pound of cheese, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne pepper. Cook the macaroni in the boiling salted water, drain in a strainer and pour cold water over it to prevent the pieces from adhering to each other. Make a cheese sauce with one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-fourth to one-half pound of cheese, one-half to a teaspoonful of salt and a little cayenne pepper. Thicken the milk with flour, add the cheese and stir until melted. Put the sauce and macaroni in alternate layers in a buttered baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and heat in the oven until the crumbs are brown.

PRINCE WM. GEORGE HAS REIGNED 50 YRS.

Popular Monarch of Greece Celebrates Half Century On the Throne.

London, March 18.—Half a century has passed since the memorable day, March 18, 1863, when the Greek National Assembly at Athens, at the suggestion of the Great Powers of Europe, elected Prince William George, of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Gluecksburg, second son of the late King Christian IX, of Denmark, and brother of Queen Alexandra, to be King of the Hellenes. England and the English people have never lost their interest in the young prince who became king and the founder of a new dynasty in the classical realm of the Hellenes, not only because of his close relationship to the royal family of Great Britain, but because England, in a manner was responsible for his election to the throne and stood sponsor for the new dynasty.

Prince William George was only eighteen years of age and midshipman in the Danish navy when he was offered the throne of Hellas. The former ruler, King Otto I., who was a Bavarian prince, was dethroned by a revolution in 1862 and the provisional government by the ministry was not strong enough to prevent political complications which threatened to undermine the peace of Europe. The great powers of Europe recognized the necessity of providing a new ruler for Greece and the position was offered first to the Duke of Edinburgh and then to the Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, but both declined. It was M de Chaudordy, a French diplomat, who conceived the idea of offering the throne to Prince William George and the plan was promptly approved by England and the other powers.

The young prince had been sent to the masthead for punishment when the emmissaries of the powers arrived to offer him the crown. He accepted through his father and, having been officially declared of age, he made his entry in Athens on October 30 of that year, took the oath and ascended the throne.

Four years later, October 15, 1867 he married the Grand Duchess Olga, eldest daugater of the Grand Duke Constantine, of Russia, thus connecting himself by a strong link with one of the most powerful reigning families of Europe. The Greeks agreed to settle $225,000 a year upon their new king. England, France and Russia each agreed to add $20,000 a year for the term of his natural life and about $50,000 was charged for his benefit on the Ionian Islands which were later ceded to him by Great Britain. Although his civil list was always rather meager, King George I., under which name he became ruler of the Hellenes, by means of his remarkable business ability accumulated an enormous fortune during the fifty years of his reign. He made large sums by successful speculation on the bourse and invested his winnings in landed estates in Greece real estate in various countries of Europe and in the United States, became the owner of mines, farms, plantations and factories, owner of stock in railroads and various financial and commercial establishments and of a large fleet of merchant vessels trading between Mediterranean ports.

Queen Olga bore him six children of whom all but the youngest, Prince Christopher born in 1888, are married. The heir apparent to the throne is Prince Constantine, Duke of Sparta, who was born in 1868 and in 1889 was married to Princess Sophia sister of Emperor William II. Although King George always showed great devotion to his people and proved himself a faithful and liberal king, neither he nor his family enjoyed great popularity. Many times the continuance of the dynasty was seriously threatened, but King George maintained his dignity and weathered all storms, even the critical period of the disastrous war against Turkey. Since Greece declared war against Turkey in October 1912, King George and his family have grown quite popular and the future of the dynasty seems to be more secure than at any time during his reign. Next to Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, King George is now the oldest among the European rulers.

PROMINENT YOUNG WOMEN PRACTISING FOR NATIONAL WOMEN'S INDOOR TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP MEET

Left to right:—Mrs. C. N. Beard, Mrs. L. Z. Murray, Miss Adele Cragin, Miss Alice Fish, Miss Jane Rowson, Miss Gertrude Della Torre, Miss Teresa Kuser, Mrs. G. F. Touchard, Miss O. Bopp, Miss Elizabeth Bunce, Mrs. Lowell Lamb, Miss Marie Wagner, Miss E. Marcus, Miss B. G. Holden, Mrs. Charles F. Porter, Miss F. M. Fish.

More than a score of well known young women are practising daily at the Seventh Regiment Armory, in New York city, for the national women's indoor tennis championship meet. The present champion, Miss Marie Wagner, is displaying rare form, and many are the predictions that she will be able to successfully defend her title. Several who have in the past won championships also have announced their intentions of entering the meet and are hard at work in the armory. Among the most consistent performers are Miss Elizabeth Bunce, Mrs. C. N. Beard, the Misses Fish and Miss Marcus.

Arrangements for the meet are in charge of Mr. James P. Allen. The great floor space of the armory has been marked off into courts, fully twenty of which can be accommodated should it become necessary. With the completion of the new balcony, now almost finished, the armory will have a seating capacity of 3,500.

Nat'l and American Leagues Will Open April 10—Pacific Coast League First.

The first baseball pennant race of 1913 will be started by the Pacific Coast League on April 1. The league is also the last to close—on October 26. April 10 is the big opening day of the year, marking not only the commencement of the two major league seasons, but those of the American Association, the Texas League and the Southern League. The Western League, whose season opens April 18 and closes October 5, has voted to retain the 168 game schedule, which makes three minor leagues now playing longer schedules than the major leagues—namely, the Pacific Coast League, the American Association and the Western League.

The Central League is considerably changed, being reduced from a 12-club circuit to one of six cities—Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and Evansville, Ind.; Dayton and Springfield, O., and Grand Rapids, Mich. The Tri-State League includes Trenton and Atlantic City, in New Jersey; Harrisburg, York and Allentown, Pa., and Wilmington, Del., six clubs. The Ohio State League is also reduced to a six-club circuit of Ironton, Lima, Mansfield, Chillicothe, Portsmouth and Newark, O.

The opening and closing dates of most of the leagues whose schedules are available are given below:

April 1—Pacific Coast League, October 26.

April 10—American League, October 5.

April 10—National League, October 5.

April 10—American Association, October 29.

April 10—Texas League, September 7.

April 10—Southern League, September 7.

April 18—International League, September 21.

April 17—South Atlantic League, September 1.

April 17—Virginia League, September 13.

April 18—Western League, October 5.

April 23—Central League, September 7.

April 23—Eastern Association (formerly Connecticut League), September 7.

April 20—New York State League, September 14.

April 30—Tri-State League, September 1.

April 30—New England League, September 1.

April 30—Central Association, September 1.

May 8—Ohio State League, September 21.

HOPPE AND MORNINGSTAR.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 18.—Devotees of billiards are manifesting a lively interest in the contest to be played here tomorrow night by Ora Morningstar and Willie Hoppe. The match, which will be of 500 points, will be for the world's championship at 18.1 balkline. The title is now held by Moringstar, who won it from Hoppe something over a year ago and recently defended it successfully against George Sutton. Hoppe, the present challenger, already holds the 18.2 title and if he regains the 18.1 championship he will again have a virtual monopoly of the premier titles in the green table sport.

AMPHIBIANS' NIGHT.

The twenty-three yard swim is on the card of athletic events for Y. M. C. A. Color Leaguers at the Association tonight and will probably bring out a big field of starters. It is said that several crack swimmers have entered with an object of bettering the association mark for this distance, and records will probably fall tonight.

TEAM RESUME OF NORTH PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL'S SEASON ON BASKETBALL COURT

Although defeated in its race for the Interscholastic basketball title the North Plainfield High School quintet has just closed a wonderfully succesful season and the coaches and officials connected with that aggregation are greatly enthused over the way the team has represented the school on the court during the past season. Thirteen games won out of a possible nineteen is some record and one that any institution promoting athletics should feel proud of.

Four of the six defeats were encountered early in the season before the team had gotten firmly started, New Brunswick, Kearney and Woodbridge High Schools each taking one and the Tiger A. C. annexing the other by a close margin. The other two losses were handed by Plainfield High School in the race for the Interscholastic title and these were the keenest encountered by the boroughites as they meant the loss of the cup and seven medals that goes with the title. A total of 746 points was recorded by N. P. H. S. against its opponents 577, the boroughites average score per game being 39.26.

A number of the North Plainfield games resulted in unusually close scores, N. P. H. S. becoming famous for its eleventh hour spurt that pulled it out of seemingly unsurmountable ruts time after time. Probably most of the credit for the great showing is due to Coach George Webster, but as is the case in every line of sport this sacrificing official seldom gets his due in the way of credit. His untiring efforts have been one of the chief assets in carrying the team through such a successful season.

In the scoring department Carrol Taylor has been the leading factor, tallying 242 points, in the eighteen games he played.

Frank Dunning played in eleven games and had a total of 116 points, while Captain George Townley, besides keeping up his excellent record for guarding tallied eighty-two points on the side. He was the only player to participate in all of the games scheduled and proved a capable leader from every point of view. No individual star can be chosen out of the remaining players, all proving efficient when called upon and all doing their share of the work in their particular departments. While some of the men have turned out to be wonders rolling up the score, others have been equally as good in goal preventation, so little can be garnered as to contrasts or comparisons, all attempts at this line of argument being out of the question.

N. P. H. S. ALUMNI BEAT CHAPELITES

Final Score Shows That the Borough Graduates Were Too Strong For Opponents.

Playing on the Hope Chapel court last night, the North Plainfield High School Alumni girls' basketball team scored a decisive victory over the Hope feminine contingent, totaling up a score of 35 to 10. The home players were completely outclassed by the speedy boroughites, they never had a lookin after the first few minutes of play. Field goals were scored at will by the Misses Helen George and Bessie Conroy who counted for most of the winner's tallies.

The first half ended with the score 15 to 3 in favor of the North Plainfield graduates and they rapidly increased their lead in the final period. Miss Josie Snyder, playing her first game as a Hope regular, put up one of the best exhibitions on the floor, guarded by a versatile opponent and getting a trio of field goals on the side. Miss Mary Duncan counted for three of the chapelites' points, while Miss Clara Weber made one from the fifteen foot mark on a penalty toss.

U. S. POLO CAPTAIN TO START TRAINING

Leader of the American Team Is Confident of Victory In Internationai Matches.

Harry Payne Whitney, who will captain the American polo team in the international matches to be played at Meadow Brook in June, was among the arrivals yesterday on the steamship George Washington. James M. Waterbury, Jr., another member of the team which will defend the Westchester Polo Club, (Newport,) was also a passenger.

Mr. Whitney and his team mate, who have been hunting during the Winter at the former's estate, Melton Mowbray, England, had little to say about the polo situation, aside from the answer by Mr. Whitney, who, when requested for some expression as to the chances in regard to the coming invasion by the team chosen by the Duke of Westminster, said that he believed that the American team would be successful.

He further said that the make-up of the team would probably be the same as that which successfully defended the cup at Meadow Brook two years ago, after winning it at Hurlingham in 1909. This means that with Mr. Whitney and J. M. Waterbury, Jr., the others will be Lawrence Waterbury and the famous "back" of the team, Devereux Milburn, quite the strongest combination available.

Mr. Whitney will immediately get his forces together and start training for the series. Arrangements have been made to get the ponies ready for the preliminary work, which will be held at the Georgian Court fields at Lakewood, where the mounts will be daily galloping under the eye of Larry Fitzpatrick, who is said to be a past master in the art of conditioning polo ponies, and who fulfilled similar duties prior to the 1911 successes.

WILL P. H. S. TEAM BE THE CHAMPION?

"If" Leal's Succeeds In Overcoming the Schoolboys Tomorrow Tide May Shift.

Although it is considered by many to be a mere formality, the final game of the Interscholastic basketball league will be played at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon, Plainfield High School and Leal's School furnishing the contending aggregations. Plainfield High is now conceded to be the champion for 1913 but in the event of the private school boys annexing a victory at the hands of the Ninth street delegation the latter would be tied with North Plainfield and another playoff would be necessary. Should this situation come to pass, criticism would probably be forthcoming in regard to the playing of a game between N. P. H. S. and P. H. S. which was advertised as a championship match and the fact that Plainfield was heralded as the league champion makes it all the more tangled up, for the boroughites are still just as much entitled to the honors as the local quintet.

It is doubtful if Leal's will stand any chance of overcoming the P. H. S. boys but if (and "if" is a big word sometimes) the Plainfield "champions" should fail for a defeat some tall crowing would probably be the issue. Leal's have had a team this year that has performed brilliantly at certain times and then at others the same aggregation resembled a group of novices, but it has always been able to put a good fight against P. H. S. and it would not be just a great surprise to see them make the school boys hustle to win tomorrow. P. H. S. athletes have been tossing a baseball around for the last week or so and may find it very different to buckle down to baseball once more and put up the same style of game as they did against the North Plainfield five in the last game.

NEWARK ELKS MADE IT THREE STRAIGHT

Plainfield Representatives Vanquished On Rivals' Alleys Last Night.

For the first time this season, the Newark Elks, rolling on their home alleys, captured three games in an Elks' Bowling League match, the Plainfield Elks being their victims. With the exception of the second contest the series was closely contested, Plainfield putting up about the same brand of pinning as did their Newark opponents. Three pins was all that kept Newark on the credit side of the ledger in the initial setto, consistent bowling on the part of T. Wilson and Clark upholding their standard.

In the closing contest but five pins separated the rivals, the home wood smashers once more holding the van with a mark of 910 against the Queen City representatives 905. Aab's 200 in the final match helped the Newarkers materially, for his high mark was just enough to nose out a victory and make a clean sweep possible for his team. Fred Wilson, with a mark of 231, was high man for the evening, while Captain Blatz, of the visitors, came next with 215.

In the second game three of the Plainfielders slipped way down below par allowing the home team to walk away with the contest. Nash continued his low scoring in the third game, Kiely came up to 190 and Campbell did pennance to the extent of 192. These marks helped considerably to swell the cause but fell shy of winning the lone game left on the program. The scores:

MARTIN A FARMER.

Jack Martin, the Plainfield boy trying for a berth at shortstop on the New York American League baseball team, has been shifted to the garden by Manager Frank Chance and played left field on the Yankee colts yesterday against the Jersey City aggregation. What Chance's intentions are in placing the local boy in the outfied art hard to fathom out but it looks as though he had about decided on Derrick to play short. It was a slow afternoon for the local youngster, he having a clean line to his credit in the box score. His only contribution was a sacrifice hit.

TOMMY ON HIS WAY.

Tommy Mullin, the popular Plainfield baseball artist, left today to join the Petersburg team, of the Virginia League, whence he has been summoned by Manager Henry Busch. This is Mullin's debut in professional circles and he launches his new boat with the best wishes of a host of Plainfield admirers. He has played baseball in this city, both as a shortstop and catcher for years, and his experience ought to help him to stick with fast company. He will be played at short by Manager Busch.

A. HACQUER, OF ARIZONA, HAS SOMETHING TO SAY

To the army of friends of Archibald Hacquer, who resigned as city editor of the Plainfield Daily Press on account of his health and recently went to Phoenix, Arizona, the following letter will prove interesting:

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

I haven't received last night's paper yet and write to inquire what is the matter with your delivery system? I don't know the name of the boy on this route, but he seems to need shaking up. I can tell you this—unless delivery improves you will lose hundreds of subscribers in this neighborhood. The Arizona Gazette can get its issue into the hands of subscribers by 5 o'clock. Why can't you?

Say! This is a heluva country. Coming through Texas, New Mexico and Arizona Saturday and Sunday I didn't see a thing to arouse the covetousness of the hungriest land shark in the world. The mountains were bare, the hills were scrofulous-looking and the sand hills were just about as pretty as the sand piles you see in front of new buildings. Phoenix might be worse. Irrigation has given birth to borders of palms, other trees, and grass along the streets, and the business district is lively, but any trim suburban town in the East can lay it all over the capitol of Arzona without half trying, as far as attractive vistas go.

And the town is full of coughs. I don't believe the lung power of all Phoenix is equal to a soft-pedal wheeze from the cheering section of an old women's home. The congregational singing in the churches must be a frost.

Because I am what I am, and have always been and can't help it, the grub situation in Phoenix commanded my earnest attention. Food always was and ever will be interesting to me. Wherefore I early noted that moderate-priced restaurants are all called "kitchens." Thus, one sees a sign "English Kitchen," and knows that food is to be had within. All nationalities seem celebrated in the feeding-out district. I have eaten at the "American Kitchen," "German Kitchen," "English Kitchen," "French Kitchen" and "Italian Kitchen." I haven't come across 'em yet, but I have no doubt there are "Irish Kitchens," "Scandinavian Kitchens," "Mexican Kitchens" and "Hungarian Kitchens." On a street near the Y. M. C. A. I saw this sign tacked to a porch: "Mother's Kitchen."

Note this in connection with the seemingly varied cuisine of Phoenix: The American Kitchen is conducted by Hop Li, the English Kitchen by Yi Long, the French Kitchen by Sing Hong, the German Kitchen by Sam Li, the Italian Kitchen by Hop Sing. And the waiters are all chinks or Japs. I haven't dropped in at Mother's Kitchen yet, and her sign bears no proprietary tag, but I have no doubt that Mother's name is Yen How or words to that effect, and she wears pants on legs that were originally cut for bloomers.

Ate a dish of real Southwestern chili con carve yesterday. I have been full of remorse and ice water ever since. Scott died in the South polar region because no one told him about chili con carve. One dish of chili taken on the eve of his departure from Australia would have kept him warm and comfortable through two polar winters.

FOLLOWS QUEEN'S DIVORCE FROM BEAUTIFUL DUCHESS OF WESTMINSTER

DUKE SEEKS DIVORCE

FROM BLACK AND WHITE.

THE DUCHESS OF WESTMINSTER

The beautiful Duchess of Westminster has quarrelled openly with her husband, one of the wealthiest men on earth, who will try to win back the International Polo Cup in America this summer.

Trouble started when the Duchess was locked out of her husband's home after attending a royal ball to which the Duke was not invited. It is said the Duke has offered his wife $300,000 a year alimony if she will agree to a divorce or $75,000 a year if she prefers a separation.

SOUTH CAROLINA GIANT, 23 YEARS OLD, SEEKS A JOB ON NEW YORK POLICE FORCE

Urging his height, weight and the size of his feet as reasons why he should be in the New York Police Department, a young man signing himself E. B. Dunn has written to Police Commissioner Waldo, of that city, from the mountains of South Carolina asking for a job. The letter indicates that South Carolina, in spots at least, is deeply interested in the New York police situation, and that Dunn's neighbors believe him to be well fitted by nature to improve conditions there.

As the young man "subscribes" himself to the Commissioner it may be gathered that he has the physical bulk to qualify. Apparent, also, is the fact that his reputation in the town of Spartanburg is of the best. But with his number 15 shoes he steps calmly, if not crushingly, on the Civil Service regulations, and for this reason his good intentions may go astray.

Owing to the Civil Service rules which govern the Police Department, Mr. Waldo replied to the ambitious young man that it would be necessary for him to become a citizen of New York by a year's residence and then pass the mental as well as the physical examination before he could hope to wear the uniform of a bluecoat there.

EXPLAINS CAUSE OF MEXICAN TROUBLES

ZEFERINO DOMINGUEZ.

All the troubles of Mexico are due to economic conditions, owing to the impossibility of the peons to eke out a living on their slender wages, according to Zeferino Dominguez, a large Mexican landowner, who has come to this country in an attempt to persuade the new administration to give its endorsement to his project for the rejuvenation of Mexico through the abatement of insurrection by agrarian reforms.

Mr. Dominguez is the pioneer in the introduction of dry farming in Mexico and has the hearty support of the great Mexican land proprietors in his endeavor to persuade the working classes to adopt extensive methods of agriculture.

STUDENTS GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

The three students of the University of North Carolina, Ralph Waldo Oldham, William L. Merriman and Aubrey C. They were each sentenced to four months in jail. An appeal will be taken.

The Palms, the Holy City, No. 16408; price 75c

There is no reason why the beautiful Easter anthems should be confined to one day or one week alone; and yet—after you hear them in the churches on Easter, they lie dormant for another year.

The same is almost as true when applied to all hymns and sacred songs. You hear them on Sunday and probably not again until the same hymns are sung on another Sunday—possibly weeks later.

With a Victor or Victrola in your home, you can hear as often as you wish, the anthems that delighted you at Easter. And many beautiful hymns which possibly you have never heard are brought right to you and impress you with their tender words and exquisite melody; and it isn't long before you really know them, and you enjoy them more every time you hear them.

Easter Hats That Are Different

Originality and individuality are characteristics of the millinery we are presenting our patrons this season more than ever before.

To have hats that are different and distinctive—hats that seem to have been made for you alone, hats that fit your face, is our special endeavor with the result that we are pleasing people more thoroughly than ever before.

We have seen so much of the hats heavily trimmed with ostrich feathers and flowers that it is refreshing to get away from those styles for a time and adopt the simpler ones which we are favoring in the trimming of our hats this season.

Even where flowers are used they are of the stick-up variety, slender and graceful, and not over-profuse.

The simpler hats of this season look well on practically every one, and women are delighted with the styles because they are so becoming, so easy to wear, and so comfortable.

While we have plenty of the more expensive hats, running to as high as one hundred dollars, we are producing vastly more of the moderate priced hats, and we are endeavoring to reproduce models of the highest class, many of them fresh from Paris, at prices any one can pay.

We direct your attention to our line of hats, beauties all of them, at such popular prices as

Dressy Suits

We are very proud of this lot of Tailored Suits of French Serge and Bedford Cord, because we can sell them to you at such a moderate price. They are strictly tailored in two and three button effects with tailored or trimmed back, and you may have them in black, navy and the season's fashionable shades. SYSTEM WRONG, SAYS C. J. FISK

Former Mayor Explains Why Adoption of Com. Gov't. Would Benefit City.

IT MEANS "HOME RULE"

Municipality Now Handicapped, 2,200 Laws Applying To Its Government—Tells Why He Favors the Modern Plan.

In an address before the Plainfield Democratic Club, last night, former Mayor Charles Joel Fisk declared that the present system of government in this city is cumbersome, and that one great trouble is that oftentimes the people are not able to do just what they desire because they do not have home rule, which the commission government plan provides.

"I want it distinctly understood," said Mr. Fisk, "that I have no criticism to make of the governing body either past or present. In the past Plainfield has enjoyed the services of its best citizens who have worked for the best interest of the city. There is probably less graft, less mismanagement here than anywhere else, but it is the system that is at fault. There is no doubt but that we have an honest, efficient administration, but like all big business, who are striving and studying methods whereby they can reduce the overhead expenses, municipalities must do the same. With the 2,200 laws on the statute books applicable to a city, we cannot do anything we want to do.

"An instance of this was shown in the matter of building the East End fire house. We had the money to build, but the State said we could not use it. We had to issue bonds for a certain term of years and were hampered with other red tape."

Mr. Fisk then gave a brief review of the commission government system as found in the Walsh Act, which is a combination of the Galveston and Des Moines law, showing that it gives cities home rule, something which the Legislature refused to do. He called attention to the fact that it was the Public Service Corporation that fought the "home rule" feature proposed in another law, and yet it had been incorporated in the Walsh Act. Cities working under the commission form of government are permitted to increase its indebtedness up to 15 per cent.

Mr. Fisk stated that Trenton and Atlantic City had found the commission form of government a success and had been able to save money, beside making extensive improvements. He declared that the principle in the new system is correct, municipalities are able to act quickly.

"What about the change of government in Plainfield?" continued Mr. Fisk. "Our Mayor and Council are able to take care of us and we are not like some other cities. But our present form of government is uncertain; cumbersome. With the present system of numerous committees officials are able to shift the work, and it is often a case of you tickle me and I will tickle you. So far as possible it is desirable that politics be divorced from municipal government. The more that we can eliminate politics the better it is for the taxpayer.

"Under the commission form of government any number of men can be placed in nomination and the ten men receiving the highest number of votes are nominated and then in turn the five men who receive the highest number of votes at the election are chosen as commissioners. In this way you are more apt to get a mixed political body, but men who are apt to give you the best service representing the entire city.

"There is a mistaken idea that a commissioner must give his entire time to the work of the office. The law does not imply that. But he

DECIDE NOT TO BUY SITE FOR A SCHOOL

Dunellen Voters Turn Down Proposition Favored By Board.

After a verbal war between J. Y. Wilson and Willard N. Apgar about the advantages and disadvantages of the land selected by the Dunellen Board of Education as a new school site, the proposition was lost by two votes when the annual school election was held in the Whittier School, Dunellen, last night. Mr. Apgar spoke in favor of purchasing the site for the amount of $5,000, the school board holding an option on it. He said that at the present time the amount asked for the property was considerably lower than asked for land nearby the proposed site, and as there was a fourteen foot drop to the brook which runs about a thousand yards in the rear of the property there was every possibility of its being dry when properly graded.

Mr. Wilson in his talk bitterly opposed the selected site and urged that the property near the Lincoln School, on Dunellen avenue, be purchased. When he proposed that the land adjourning the Lincoln School be purchased another voter present called his attention to the fact that the State Board of Education has condemned the Lincoln building as a fire trap and the expenditure to place it in proper condition would be more than the building cost when new. When the matter was put before the voters to act upon 125 ballots were cast; sixty-two were against the purchase of the proposed site and sixty for it. The tellers appointed by J. Newton Apgar, who presided at the meeting, were Walter Craig and Charles Coriell, Jr.

When the matter of electing four members for the Board of Education was put to a vote, returns showed that 101 ballots were cast—M. R. Dayton, 91; A. J. Hamley, 91; A. F. Todd, 86; these men were elected to serve on the board for three years. John P. Fenner received 94 votes and was elected as a trustee for two years. H. E. Eckert, John McMahon and W. W. Walters all received one vote each. H. B. Walters and Walter Hazleton were appointed tellers.

Following the election a motion was made and seconded that all unexpended balances be transferred to next year's account. The auditors appointed for the ensuing year were A. M. Randolph, Oscar Runyon and Paul Carpenter.

DUNELLENITES FORM PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N

A Dunellen Parent-Teacher Association was organized in that place yesterday afternoon at the meeting held in the Whittier School. A constitution was adopted and these officers were elected to serve during the coming year: President, Mrs. M. R. Dayton; vice president, Guy Reiftschler; second vice president, Mrs. G. Sumner Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. Ernest Fields; corresponding secretary, Mrs. James Bloomfield, and treasurer, Mrs. J. Newton Apgar.

H. C. Krebs, Somerset county superintendent of schools, spoke on the ways a child should be brought up, the condition of its surroundings in its home and the general way a teacher should care for it. Following Mr. Krebs' talk a short business session was held and the amount of dues was agreed upon. The meeting day was set for the fourth Tuesday of every month.

Y. M. H. A. CABARET.

About twenty members of the Plainfield Y. M. H. A. went to Perth Amboy last night and attended the annual ball and cabaret show held by the Y. M. H. A. of that town. Between the dances the guests were entertained by cabaret. Among those from here who attended were the Misses Esther Wolfe, Rose Rosenson, Fannie Moledezky, Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Kramer, Jacob Abrams, Samuel Rothberg, Louis Rothberg, Arthur Richards, Jacob Steirer, Leopold Berse, Phillip Moskowitz, Samuel Meyers and Nathan Aaron. Part of the local people who attended made the trip in automobile and the balance by train.

SUPERB LECTURE ON "EVERGREEN STATE"

James W. Erwin's Illustrated Talk Was One of Rare Enjoyment.

James W. Erwin, of San Francisco, concluded his series of two lectures held under the auspices of the Congregational Men's Club in the Plainfield High School auditorium last night, taking for his subject "Washington, the Evergreen State," and spoke before his second highly interested group of listeners. The speaker showed remarkable familiarity with his subject, describing points of interest, both historically and from a tourist's point of view, in a way that held the attention of his audience from start to finish. His talk was illustrated by a large number of stereopticon views and also several reels of superb motion pictures.

Mr. Erwin lived for a time in close proximity with the lumber camps, Washington being the home of the big forest, and he told how the giant trees were sewn and afterwards hewn down to be sent to all parts of the country

The stereopticon views pictured vividly a number of photographs taken by campers at Mt. Rainer, showing a crowd huddled about a camp fire more than a mile above sea level. Among the other views were some showing certain portions of the Indians' happy hunting ground, the wonderful yield of potatoes and portions of the Olympic Mountains.

BEN EVANS PRESIDENT OF MC WILLIAMS BIBLE CLASS

These officers were elected for the ensuing year at the annual meeting of the McWilliam's Bible class at Hope chapel last night: President, Benjamin Evans; vice president, George Bridges; secretary, William Baker; treasurer, Allen Snyder, and assistant secretary-treasurer, Walter I. Firstbrook. The reports read by the retiring officers showed that $130 had been raised for church work and that an additional $50 had been secured for benevolent purposes. The financial standing of the class at the beginning of a new year looks favorable while the membership of it is at present forty-six, an increase of over 50 per cent. of the enrollment of the class on January 1.

Steps are being taken to raise the enrollment to 100 by early fall. If the plans of the class are carried out it is expected that they will erect an addition on the church to occupy as their room. All the members are hustling to obtain the needed number of men to bring the class number up to the point where they will be able to have a club room of their own.

DUNELLENITES ENJOY ST. PATRICK'S SOCIAL

Although a day late in celebrating St. Patrick's Day, the social held under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, last night, was enjoyed by about seventy-five of the members and their friends. Games of all kinds were played during the evening and a special program of music, both vocal and instrumental, was enjoyed. Among the numbers were selections by a quartet composed of Benjamin Dodwell, George Martin, Harry Giddes and Adam Dealaman; and several duets by the Misses Dorothy Cameron and Bessie Morris. Refreshments were served.

BICYCLE THIEVES CAUGHT BY COPS

Police Believe They Have Two Crooks Who Have Stolen Many Wheels.

HEARINGS TOMORROW

Prisoners Are Held In Default of Bail and Tell Conflicting Tales—Both Are Youths—It May Be a Lucky Catch.

Daniel Sparano, aged 17 years, of 818 St. Mary's avenue, formerly of Pittsburgh, and Joseph Andrews, aged 20 years, who gave his residence as Providence, R. I., were arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing bicycles. Both prisoners told such conflicting stories that when they were arraigned before City Judge W. G. De Meza this morning he decided to hold them in $1,000 bail each for a further hearing tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

The specific instances surrounding Sparano's alleged thefts date back to February 25, when Frank Herman, of Park avenue, had his bike stolen and March 8, when Leslie Clark reported the theft of his wheel. Clark noticed Sparano yesterday riding his wheel and had the former arrested. He first said he bought the wheel for $10 from Paul Avereeso, of Terrill road, and later said he found it in East Front street. Going to the place mentioned by the prisoner the police found Herman's bicycle. Andrews was arrested riding a wheel said to have been stolen from Randolph Heimold, of 601 Richmond street, who had left it in front of the Whoodhull & Martin building, on East Front street. He, too, told conflicting stories.

COLORED MAN DYING AS RESULT OF HURTS

Small Structure Fell On H. P. Bundy and His Injuries Will Prove Fatal.

Henry P. Bundy, an aged colored man residing at 425 Elizabeth street, who has been employed at the home of George H. Burgess, of Central avenue, for many years, was probably fatally injured early this afternoon, while engaged with some other men in removing an out-house on the Burgess property. The small building toppled over, burying Bundy beneath it. Fellow workmen after much difficulty succeeded in raising the house and they found Bundy in an unconscious condition.

Dr. Albert Pittis was summoned and the victim was removed to the hospital, where an examination showed that his back was broken and he was suffering from other internal injuries. The man's condition is such that the physician does not believe that he will live more than a few hours. He has not regained consciousness since the accident. Bundy is nearly 70 years of age, a widower and has several children.

Trenton, March 19.—Mr. Griffin, of Union county, is the father of a bill designed to meet the small freeholder board situation caused by the decision of the Supreme Court setting aside the small boards in Bergen, Mercer, Morris and Union counties. The Griffin measure extends the Small Board Act of 1912 to all counties in the State, excepting that in those counties of less than 50,000 population, the act must first be adopted by a vote of the people.

LOCAL CONCERN TO DEAL IN THE CHOICEST OF FRUIT

The Fort Pierce Citrus Fruit and Produce Company, of 116 North avenue, has a display of oranges and grape fruit grown at Fort Pierce, Florida, which perhaps is the choicest fruit to be found anywhere. The company has acquired 400 acres of land at Fort Pierce, which is 240 miles south of Jacksonville on the East Coast, along the Indian River, in St. Lucie county, about sixty miles north or Palm Beach, where it proposes to raise this fruit and ship it to Plainfield, which will be the distributing point.

The company will dispense with all middlemen, so that the fruit will go direct from the grower to the dealer. The soil in the 400 acre tract is considered the most prolific to be found in the south, the fruit raised there is delicious. The company, which was recently organized with a capital stock of $100,000, has for its officers the following: President, A. I. Smalley; treasurer and general manager, Hugh A. Todd; secretary, W. R. Brandau. Persons interested are invited to call at the company's office and examine samples of the oranges and grapefruit now displayed.

A LAUGH A MINUTE, A SMILE A SECOND

Tickets For the Greatest of All Elks' Minstrels Go On Sale Tomorrow.

"Banty" Bennett—"How do I feel today? Why this is the greatest day in the year for work."

Interlocutor—"How's that, Mr. Bones?"

"Banty"—"Why, it's Labor Day."

Whereupon the fifty-nine other members of the Elks' minstrel troupe, who are holding rehearsals twice a week putting on the finishing touches for the opening performance at the Plainfield theatre Thursday evening of next week, sat back on their benches and laughed as heartily as if they had never heard that one before. The audience will join them in this laugh at both of the performances next week and what has made this mammouth chorus of black face artists roar for the last two months will likely have a side splitting effect on those who come unprepared. The end men have a lot of old ones and also some new ones and a number of interesting novelties will be introduced into minstrelsy. Some of the end men have accomplished the rare feat of singing tenor and soprano with the same throat while still others do other acrobatic stunts heretofore unheard of.

While the harmonists of the troupe blend harmony, the end men disperse a steady flow of jocular entertainment that helps to divert the audience's attention from the songsters' tragic efforts to shine. A special feature of the show will be the original arrangement of the cast, the setting being a carbaret show, one of the most talked of and prominent sources of present day entertainment. Tickets will go on sale at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock and those who have tried to secure the pasteboards for this annual performance presented by the Plainfield antlered tribe in the past will adhere strictly to the old saying of "Shop early and avoid the rush." The programs this year have been uniquely drawn up, a most prominent feature being the roasts on popular members of the Elk lodge, portraying their characteristic moods in the form of play titles now running in metropolitan theatres.

Edwin P. Goodwin Ends Life By Firing Bullet Into His Brain.

Ill in mind and body due to nervous prostration, E. P. Goodwin, sixty-four years old, a wealthy retired stock broker, of 155 Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, after shaving and eating his breakfast shortly after 8 o'clock this morning retired to his bedroom and in his state of despondency, took a loaded revolver from his bureau drawer and fired a bullet into his brain. Death occurred shortly afterward.

His wife and daughter, Mrs. W. R. Murray, hearing the fatal shot, ran to the suicide's room on the second floor, where they saw the victim stretched out upon the floor, blood running from a wound near his right temple and the smoking revolver still clasped in his hand.

Dr. T. S. Davis, of 603 Park avenuue, was quickly summoned, but Mr. Goodwin was beyond medical aid. Mrs. Goodwin was almost frantic with grief when she realized the extent of her life-partner's act, and in a state of hysteria flung herself beside her husband's unconscious form.

Mr. Goodwin's son-in-law, W. R. Murray also took his life several years ago while being driven from the Westfield station to Plainfield. The cab driver was startled by a revolver shot and investigating found Mr. Murray dead, sitting upright in the vehicle.

Mr. Goodwin had been ill for several months but this morning appeared to be in apparently good spirits and that he took his life was a severe shock to his friends and relatives.

Goodwin was born in Bristol, Conn., and early in life started operations in Wall street where he was well known. Retiring in 1901 after amassing a fortune on the "street," Mr. Goodwin came to this city to live. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Birt, of Brooklyn, were the guests of Mrs. Mary Hermstedt over Sunday.

A meeting to elect trustees to serve on the Warren Township school board was held at Mt. Bethel last night, the following being selected: John Miller, Daniel S. Scott and Fred Weigand. They appropriated $1,800 for school purposes.

NO OLD MEN IN CABINET.

Washington, D. C., March 19.—Today's birthday anniversary of Secretary of State Bryan has served to call public attention to the fact that all of the members of the Wilson cabinet are comparatively young men. Their average age is fifty years and six months, whereas the ages of the members of the Taft cabinet averaged almost fifty-nine years. The oldest member of President Wilson's official family is Secretary of Commerce Redfield, who will be fifty-five years old next June. Mr. Bryan, at fifty-three, is the next in the order of seniority. Attorney General McReynolds, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Secretary of Labor Wilson have just turned fifty, while Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of War Garrison, Secretary of the Interior Lane, Secretary of Agriculture Houston and Postmaster General Burleson have not quite reached the half-century mark. In marked contrast were the ages of the Taft cabinet officials. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson was seventy-eight and Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh seventy-two. Postmaster General Hitchcock and Secretary of War Stimson were the only members under fifty years of age.

A FOOL BILL.

Among the fool bills appearing at the present session of the Legislature, the best sample probably is a measure introduced yesterday in the Assembly by Mr. Murray. This proposed law would make it a misdemeanor to publish in any newspaper any statement or conversation of any public officer without attaching thereto the name of the person causing the publication or without giving the whole of such statement or conversation. Suffice it to say that no sane Legislature would seriously consider such a ludicrous bill, but so long as it affords Mr. Murray an opportunity to get some advertisement, what's the harm?

The Presbyterian manse at Caldwell, where Grover Cleveland was born, yesterday became a public memorial. Another tribute to his memory is the beautiful tower at Princeton University made possible by voluntary contributions of Jerseymen irrespective of party. But while the greatest monument to this really great statesman is the admiration paid to his memory by the whole people, would it not be fitting to place a tablet in the State House at Trenton in honor of this truly patriotic man?

President Wilson announces that he has too much more important business than to be galavanting about attending demonstrations in the various States and for that reason will accept no invitations that would take him away from Washington. This only goes to show that the new Chief Executive does not believe that the chief function of his exalted office is to be an ever-ready after-dinner speaker, and thereby he smashes another time honored custom.

When the Senate yesterday passed a bill adding an osteopath to the State Board of Medical Examiners and providing for the licensing of osteopathy, it gave evidence of being a truly progressive body. Time was when the allopaths bitterly fought against the recognition of the homeopaths and in these days both seem determined to resist the advance of another school whose work has been of untold benefit to mankind.

There is a movement on foot for direct connection between Plainfield and Summit by automobile bus service, the idea being to select a route touching Stirling, Mt. Bethel and New Providence. Plainfield's business men should lend their support to this enterprise for the introduction of such transportation facilities would draw a considerable volume of trade which the merchants do not enjoy at the present time.

When the Board of Health asked and got $7,500 for its work, there was a "howl," but now it humbly requests $9,500. Possibly, when it gets the larger sum, it may stir up its inspectors to see that the piles of rubbish and inflammable matter be cleaned out of back yards in the business section.

Before the Democratic Club, last night, Mayor Charles J. Fisk gave an instructive talk on Commission Government and his remarks are reported at length in our news columns. To those particularly who are not familiar with this plan of government for cities, a perusal will be of benefit.

Says the Jersey Journal: "Acting Governor Fielder is following in the footsteps of his predecessor in one respect very emphatically. He is an enthusiastic advocate of commission government."

The Dollar Diplomacy banner has been hauled down at the White House, for the new President believes that this country should have higher ideals than those based on the dollar.

Are you reading the Plainfield Equal Suffrage League's column appearing exclusively in this paper on Wednesdays? For this issue, Mrs. Charles A. Shelden is the editor.

It's the Almighty God and not the almighty dollar that is the motto in the Chief Executive's office at Washington.

A real New York cop for Metuchen.—Newspaper headline.

Pretty rough on the village.

SYSTEM WRONG, SAYS FISK

cannot engage in other work that would be detrimental to the city or his office. I believe that under such a system the ever-troublesome liquor question would be more easily solved, in fact we would have complete control of it as at present. I cannot get over my love for Plainfield, which I served for twenty years and all I want is to see Plainfield the best governed city in the United States. If we think it best to lock the stable before the horse is stolen, then I say let us have a change."

During his talk Mr. Fisk gave a brief summary of the commission government plan. At the conclusion of his talk, a rising vote of thanks was given to him. In answer to a question by J. W. Harrison, J. O. Stevens, president of the club, stated that there is a committee now at work planning a campaign of education for commission government, and those present who had not done so were given an opportunity to sign a petition asking that the question be submitted to a vote of the people.

ASSEMBLY PASSES AUTO REGULATION MEASURES

Trenton, March 18.—The Assembly last night passed the series of Fielder bills providing further automobile regulations. They provide as follows:

Senate 25, increasing the number of automobile inspectors from ten to sixteen for the better enforcement of the automobile laws.

Senate 22, requiring that each automobile shall display a red light on the rear visible at least fifty feet distant.

Senate 26, permitting the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to suspend for cause the fifteen day touring privilege allowed non-residents.

Senate 27, imposing a fine of $500 or imprisonment for sixty days for manufacturing any imitation of official automobile identification marker or license tag.

Senate 30, authorizing the Motor Vehicle Commissioner to destroy applications for license on file more than three years.

Senate 87, authorizing police officers, as well as motor vehicle inspectors to make complaints and prosecute violations of the automobile laws.

LEGISLATURE TO END.

Trenton, March 18.—Final adjournment of the 137th session of the Legislature will come Thursday, April 3, at 3 p. m. This was fixed last night when the Assembly concurred in the Senate resolution making this provision. It also provides that no bills shall be introduced after March 24 except by unanimous consent.

EGGS HATCHED BY CHEMISTRY

Frog Produced by Science Grows Up.

SECRET OF LIFE IS FOUND.

How Germs Are Fertilized Discovered by Physicians—They Experiment With Sea Urchins and Produced Hybrid Marine Life—Puncture Frogs' Eggs In Unique Tests.

Professor Jacques Loeb of the Rockefeller institute, speaking before the Manhattan Medical society in New York recently described some of his recent experiments in artificial reproduction by fertilization of specimens of animal life that developed to maturity. Professor Loeb excited great interest by relating that a female frog, produced from an artificially fertilized egg, was found on dissection after accidental death to be equipped for parenthood. This frog had reached adult life.

The physicians followed closely Dr. Loeb's description of his experiments. Professor Garry N. Calkins of Columbia university led the discussion which followed. Professor Loeb asserted that as a result of his experiments he had not only learned how to imitate the effect of the spermatozoon in nature, but to learn the nature of the spermatozoon itself and its method of action. He said:

"The egg in nature is only able to develop after the spermatozoon has entered into it. The spermatozoon calls the egg not into life—for it had life already—but into a new being. The question before biology has been, 'How?'

"Previously biologists answered this question in the same way that a few years ago was answered questions concerning contagious diseases, by hypotheses, by guesses. Biologists compared the egg to a clock and said the spermatozoon wound it. Liebeg put his metaphor into terms of chemistry and called the spermatozoon a ferment which set up vibrations in the egg.

Imitating the Spermatazoon.

"The problem of artificial fertilization was to do what the spermatazoon does by simple physio-chemical means. Observation of the natural process showed visible changes in the egg after the entrance of the spermatazoon. The entrance was followed by a halo forming about the egg, called the fertilization membrane. We found that this was the important thing in the process, not any change in the nucleus, as we had supposed.

"Experimentation led to the discovery that this same halo, or fertilization membrane, followed the application of monobasic fatty acids, such as acetic acid or buteric acid. We started with the sea urchin egg, because that is constant, and we wanted to be able to repeat our experiments.

"We found when we added a monobasic fatty acid to sea water, in which to immerse the egg, that in some cases at low temperatures the egg developed into a larvae and perished. At room temperatures the eggs divided. It was plain that the acid alone did not produce a sufficient effect.

"To prevent the disintegration we hit upon a second treatment. We took the egg from the acid sea water and put it into hypertonic sea water—water to which sugar or salt had been added. This had the effect of drawing some of the water from the egg, about which the fertilization membrane had formed, and a great many of the eggs developed normally. From this we drew the conclusion that the eggs needed a double treatment and that the spermatazoon contained this double treatment in exactly the right proportions. All eggs did not form the fertilization membrane when subjected to the first treatment, a circumstance often embarrassing to the experimenter. We then discovered that all eggs could be made equally sensitive by treating them first with barium chloride or stronsium chloride.

Marine Life Hybrid.

"Our next experiment was the attempt to fertilize the sea urchin egg with the sperm of a remote species. Ordinarily hybrids do not occur in marine life. This is remarkable, as biologists observed, when various related sea creatures spawn in the same waters. We succeeded, however, in fertilizing sea urchin eggs with starfish sperm by introducing a certain amount of alkalinity into the water."

Professor Loeb explained that the eggs of frogs were started on the road to development by merely puncturing them. This, he said, convinced him that the breaking of the outside of the egg was the important factor, accomplished in nature by chemical action of the spermatzoon, in his earlier experiments by chemical dissolution of its natural protection. Experiments both with naturally fertilized and artificially fertilized eggs, he said, showed that the first effect of the formation of the halo was to increase oxidization six times. This oxidization, he said, was the force which stirred the cell to development.

THE FORUM.

DID NOT HAVE RABIES.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

About two weeks ago you published an account of the death of a dog in the Netherwood section, supposedly due to rabies, with all the consequent alarm and uncertainty, as well as added restrictions relating to all dogs.

It therefore gives me much pleasure to notify you that in order to make sure, and, if possible, alleviate or remove this alarm, the head of the dog in question was sent to the State Laboratory of Hygiene at Trenton for examination, and I am in receipt of a report from them, which reads as follows:

"The dog's head sent by you, and received in this Laboratory on March 10th has been examined and no evidence of rabies could be found in sections of the brain. While this is good presumptive evidence that the dog was not rabid, it is not conclusive, and it will therefore be necessary to innoculate an animal with a portion of this dog's brain. A report of the result of this examination will be sent you in the course of three or four weeks."

While as stated in the report this evidence is not absolutely conclusive, it seems to me to be sufficiently so to justify my giving you this information for circulation in order to relieve the minds of those in any way connected with this particular case.

Experts who have made a study of this question have stated that cases of genuine rabies in dogs are extremely rare, and that not 1 per cent. of dogs supposed to be, are actually so affected. I am glad to believe that this is one of the 99 per cent. I am,

Yours very truly,
E. L. MACKENZIE,
President Plainfield Kennel Club.

SOMERVILLE'S SCHOOL TRUSTEES ARE ELECTED

Somerville, March 19.—At the annual school meeting held last night, L. M. Codington, Charles H. Bateman and Joseph Fitzga were elected members of the Board of Education for terms of three years each, and Francis van der Veer for a term of one year. The Board asked for the following appropriations, which were unanimously carried: Current expenses, $14,400; repairs, $1,800; manual training, $800; total, $17,000. William D. Quick and Howard Seltzer served as tells on the ballot for members of the Board, and John Enk and Francis S. van der Veer for the vote on the appropriations.

The estimated receipts for the year ending June 30 next, with balance on hand last July of $2,994.96, was placed at $50,925.94, and the expenses of the year was estimated at $50,068.50.

Here's an Economical Boiler

If you are interested in house-heating at minimum up-keep cost, look at this sectional view of a Square Pot Boiler. It shows a deep, square firepot, surrounded by water surfaces down to the grate line. It shows interior water connections built low in contact with fire and trending easily upward to facilitate circulation. It shows a large body of fire in a square cornered pot, which increases heat radiation about 20%.

These are features that produce efficiency at an actual lessening of running expense—they make Square Pot Boilers a paying proposition for interested parties to investigate. Any BOYNTON dealer will show you.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN, "COMEBACKER" THE GREATEST IN THE COUNTRY

As Premier of President's Cabinet He Achieves His Final Victory.

Indomitable Will and Tact Carried Him Through Countless Defeats.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THEY do come back—some of them. You can knock them out, jump on their prostrate forms and have them unanimously elected members of the Down and Out club, but they will be up and smiling at the tap of the gong. They are like the cat you put in a meal sack and take seventeen miles away to lose it in the wilderness, only to find on your return that the cat beat you home. You can't lose some men. Defeat only makes their friends more loyal. You may think you have them "beaten to a frazzle," but they are always ready for the next round.

With these few brief remarks, ladies and gentlemen, we will now introduce the greatest comebacker of them all, not that he needs introducing, but only to show that we know him. Sure, you guessed his identity the first time. The peerless leader is his middle name—and not only the peerless leader and peerless loser, but the peerless comebacker. You can't lose William Jennings Bryan.

There are people who held fallacious views to the contrary. They now know better. Any one who harbored that delusion is like Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner"—

A sadder and a wiser man he woke the morrow morn.

The Republicans were sure he was done for in 1896. They again gleefully announced his demise in 1900. After Parker's nomination in 1904 both the Republicans and a part of the Democrats were essentially and teetotally certain that this was the end of Bryan. They finished him once more in 1908. When he broke with Jim Dahlman and other leaders of his party in Nebraska in 1910 everybody agreed that at last he was out of it—that is, everybody but Bryan. They left the most important man out of the equation. It is hard to keep a man licked if he won't admit he's licked. You all do know what happened at the Baltimore convention and what the peerless did to them there. And now he is premier of the cabinet, thank you, is only fifty-three, his health was never better, and he still has the smile that won't come off. You can't keep a good man down—not if his name is Bryan.

Looks Like a Victor.

Did you ever see anything like it—now, honestly, did you? That man has been whipped enough to put a whole regiment of ordinary politicians permanently out of commission. But to look at him now you would think he had been a victor all his life. The same Bryan he was twenty years ago, except that he is balder and bears down a little more heavily on the scales. His smile is as ready, his wit as quick and his eye as bright as of yore. He walks with the same athletic spring, and his voice—that wonderful voice that has been heard by perhaps more people than that of any man now living—is as resonant as ever.

The writer has known Mr. Bryan for twenty-three years—ever since away back in 1890, when he was first elected to congress. During these years I have at times been associated with him intimately—politically, socially and as a newspaper man—and have studied him from every angle. As a result of this study I say deliberately that in many ways I regard him as the most remarkable man now living. That is the secret of his power to come back. He has the goods.

Shortly after the inauguration I went down to see him. Several hundred other Americans were on the same mission—that is, all of them did not go to see Bryan, but they were in Washington. Some of them were after jobs. Others went to enjoy the show. But from the numbers at his hotel and in the secretary of state's offices it was evident that most of them did see him or tried to. And great swarms of them succeeded. From long experience the new secretary of state has acquired the knack of getting a visitor's case in a word or two and passing him on. That is the secret of being a public man. You have to pass them on and make them think at the same time that you are their sworn friend. It is a great art and perhaps one that cannot be acquired. One has to be born to it, as he does to being a king or a poet.

Keeps the Line Moving.

In the art of passing them on Secretary Bryan is a past master. With one or two dexterous questions he has their story. With another word he tells them what to do. His wit is always on tap, and his memory for faces and names is remarkable. His personal magnetism is in good working order, likewise his handshake and friendliness. Bryan can make every man feel that he is a friend because it is a fact. His good will for everybody flows in a never ceasing stream. But through it all he passes them along. Never forget that one point, for it is vital. If he did not he would have no time left for being secretary of state or anything else. One of the New York newspapers says that the new premier can get rid of more callers in a less time than any public official who has recently appeared in Washington.

Those who have any real business with him he singles out and waves aside for a later conference. But these are comparatively few. The others he keeps moving in a constant stream. It is the same at the hotel or at his offices. Only at the hotel there is the added grace of Mrs. Bryan's presence. Her tact and diplomacy with people are on a par with her distinguished husband's. By 9 o'clock or shortly after the secretary is ready to go to his office. For an hour earlier he has been receiving callers at the New Willard. Any one who knows about the usual Washington hours can realize just what this means. The average high department official is seldom in his office before 10 nor, as a general thing, are his secretaries and those in immediate touch with him. Sometimes he is not there till after noon. But the new regime is not only Democratic, but early rising. Any way, you have to rise early if you get ahead of Bryan.

LATE PHOTOGRAPH OF MR. BRYAN (AT TOP) AND AT HIS DESK AS SECRETARY OF STATE.

His Job Agrees With Him.

The secretary of state occupies the presidential suit at the Willard. Nothing significant about that! Even if you get there shortly after 8 the reception room is well filled; at least it was so on the morning I went. The first to greet us was Mrs. Bryan, with a charming smile, introducing everybody to everybody else. Here is a noted lawyer from Brooklyn, there a business man and his wife from New York. You meet a Dr. Jennings, a cousin from St. Louis, then a distinguished diplomat, next an army colonel, followed by the famous this or that, also several nobodies. In a moment Mr. Bryan breaks away from an important conference in an inner room—all conferences in inner rooms are supposed to be important—and with a handshake and a word for each greets all comers. You observe that he is looking happier than usual. His new job seems to agree with him.

He Fits the Frame.

Did you ever put an old picture into a new frame? Possibly the frame was so new that it made the picture look old and dingy or so good it made the picture look cheap, or perhaps if you had the artistic sense in choosing both they seemed to fit exactly, making a harmonious and pleasing whole. Well, seeing Bryan as secretary of state was like that. He was in a new frame. Some had misgivings about whether the painting and frame would harmonize. From my brief observations I should say that President Wilson has the artistic sense. His new secretary of state fits the frame as though made for it.

The state, war and navy building is just across the way from the little low white building in which the president has his office. The secretary of state's rooms are in the south end, that toward the Potomac. Here the numbers in waiting were larger than at the hotel. There were senators, congressmen, candidates for diplomatic appointments and plain folks. Word was brought in that Secretary Bryan would see us soon, but that he was then at the White House. One wag remarked: "That sounds good. We've been trying to get him there a long while." This reminds me of what another man said to the candidate in 1908: "I'm going to vote for you, Mr. Bryan. It has become a habit."

He is exactly the same old Bryan in office that he was out of office. In fact, he is never different in any position in which he is placed. I recall having been with him the next day after his defeat for the presidency in 1900. He was the most cheerful man in the crowd. The rest of us had faces long enough to eat oats out of an old fashioned churn. Only the beaten candidate was cheerful and philosophical.

Few Defeated Three Times.

This recalls another story that a gentleman told me while on the train from Washington. He had entertained Mr. Bryan in his home and had invited a small company to meet him at dinner, among them a New York congressman. It was in 1908, when Bryan was for a third time the candidate for president. The congressman asked him point blank if he expected to be elected. Bryan replied by telling of a very aged neighbor of his whom we will call Uncle Jake and who was lying at the point of death. Dropping in to pay his respects, Mr. Bryan expressed the hope that the sufferer would pull through, and Uncle Jake responded: "Well, one thought comforts me. Very few men die when past eighty-seven (his own age)." The candidate continued that very few men had been defeated for president of the United States the third time.

There is only one change in the genial secretary observed by his old friends, and that is in his headgear. Those who were with him in the great fights of the past can think of him only in connection with a soft hat. The hat might be white or black, but it would be soft and worn at the Bryan angle. Now, however, they say that on state occasions he wears a high hat. This, of course, is only rumor and may be a libelous one at that. At the inauguration it was not so, as multitudinous photographs show. But the whispers are so persistent that they almost compel belief. At any rate, a Washington paper remarked that President Wilson once wanted to knock Bryan into a cocked hat, but had ended by knocking him into a high hat.

A Great Secretary of State.

One thing is observable in Washington—that there is a change of feeling toward Bryan. Many who have been most bitter against him before are modifying their views. Not a few of those who have been unfriendly to him in the past are predicting that he will make a great secretary of state. My own view is that he will make one of the greatest in the history of the nation, but I would distrust my own view since I may be personally biased in his favor. Certain it is that in his first move after taking office he won a diplomatic victory. That was in connection with the indemnity bill in Cuba. It was the vigorous protest of Secretary Bryan that caused the Cuban president to veto the bill.

He comes into the office with two delicate situations confronting him, that in Mexico and that with Great Britain over the Panama canal tolls. The recognition of the Chinese republic is also pending, and the Balkan war situation may develop a diplomatic crisis that will affect this country.

There have been great men in the office of secretary of state—Jefferson, John Marshall, Madison, Monroe, J. Q. Adams, Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Van Buren, Buchanan, Seward, Blaine and Hay stand among the first rank of our statesmen, and most of the others are celebrated in history. Now is added the name of William J. Bryan, thrice candidate of his party for president and known as an orator around the world. Will his conduct of our foreign relations add new luster to his name and to the great office he fills? Predictions are idle, but all true Americans, regardless of party, hope that he will, and with some of us this feeling is backed by the reminder of the trinity of love and faith.

SUNKEN FOREST IS FOUND.

It Is Said to Be a Thousand Years Old and Is Petrified.

A sunken forest, entirely petrified and thirty feet below the surface, was discovered recently near Bakersville, N. J. According to an estimate made by the state geologist, the forest is at least a thousand years old.

Workmen excavating for a clay mine kept striking hard substances after they had got down about thirty feet. They reported to Warren Somers, who owns the tract, and he submitted some of the substance to the state geologist for analysis and received word that the stuff was petrified wood.

SESAME CLUB MEETING.

The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning with Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, of 245 East Ninth street.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Robert B. Mantell's representative was in the city yesterday and after a conference with the manager of the theatre and a number of those interested in the Shakespearean and classic drama, decided to have Mr. Mantell present his elaborate production of "Macbeth," when he appears at the Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night, April 2. There could not have been a better choice, as this selection gives the theatregoing public a splendid opportunity to witness the greatest actor of his time in one of his greatest characterizations. Mr. Mantell has not appeared here for a number of years since he seldom is seen outside of the large cities, where he plays engagements of one and two weeks. From the present indications he will be greeted by a large house, as it is doubtful whether we will ever have the opportunity of seeing him in our city again. To facilitate the booking of seats, the management has decided to allow those who wish to attend, a chance to send in their orders by mail, and there will be published in this paper tomorrow an advance subscription blank, which may be cut out of the paper and sent to the box office. Mr. Mantell's company is unusually large and has been chosen from the best actors in the theatrical profession. For each of his productions his manager, William A. Brady, has provided stage settings in keeping with the dignity of the acting of this foremost Shakespearean star.

Trenton, March 19—After a lively discussion in the Senate Monday evening, the bill allowing the acquiring of Lake Hopatcong for public park purposes was passed. The measure, however, had the backing of several senators, including Senator Fitzherbert, and was finally passed.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

TEMPTING RICE PUDDINGS.

RICE pudding is a favorite with the housewife. It is easy to make and is economical.

Lest the family find it monotonous, it may be varied by using different flavors and by combining it with fruit. Raisins are generally used for the purpose, but other fruits are quite as available.

Some recipes for rice puddings with fruits are given here:

With Winter Fruits.

Rice and Apple Pudding.—Take a half pint of milk, two heaping teaspoonfuls of rice, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, two eggs and six tart apples. Boil the rice in the milk, and when the cereal is soft add the yolks of the eggs and the sugar and let it cook for several minutes, stirring all the time. Then take from the fire and line a buttered baking dish with it. In the meantime pare and core the apples and stew these until soft in sugar and water with the juice and rind of a lemon. Place the apples in the center of the rice lined baking dish. Beat the whites of the eggs to a froth and spread these over the rice and apples. Sprinkle with sugar and brown in the oven.

Rice and Marmalade Pudding.—Take half a cupful of rice and simmer in a quart of milk till it is soft and thick. Add a little salt, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and a little cream. Let all cool together, then pour into a baking dish and bake till set. Then spread over the pudding a thick coating of some favorite marmalade. Put a meringue over that and return the pudding to the oven till the top is lightly browned. This is delicious cold.

Served With Sauce.

Rice and Date Pudding.—Mold this in a shallow serving bowl. Take a small cup or bowl similar in shape to the mold, wet on outside and set in the mold. Now with a spoon take up some boiled rice and form a ring around the cup. Press firmly against the sides and have the outer edge nice and even. Remove the inner dish. This forms a ring of rice with a little well inside for sauce. Place the sauce in center, sift a little sugar over the rice and serve with cream or milk.

Date Sauce.—To make the sauce take half a pound of dates and remove the stones. Add enough water to cover and simmer slowly until perfectly soft. Mash and sweeten to taste. Some prefer them unsweetened. Let cool, then fill rice border.

Anna Thompson.

By JUDIC CHOLLET

All overskirts and tunic effects will be modish this spring, and this model is one of the most attractive that have been brought out. It consists of a two piece skirt with the tunic portions arranged over the sides, and the two are stitched together. In reality the two are in one, though the effect of a separate tunic is given.

Both a high and natural waist line may be used. The material in the illustration is diagonal cloth. In one of the small views the lower edges of the tunic portions are overfaced with a contrasting material, and the suggestion is a happy one.

For the medium size the skirt requires four and three-quarters yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with three-quarters yard of the same width to trim as shown in the small view.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 22 to 30 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7771, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

That Forced Vote.

The anti-suffragists used to declare that if women were given the vote they would not use it. It has come to pass that women in nine States have been granted full citizenship. Have they made use of it? Statistics show that women in the full suffrage States register promptly and in large numbers, and they vote acordingly. In some cases the ballot is cast by ninety per cent. of the women citizens. The proportions of women who register and vote compares favorably with the number of men who do so—in some cases being even greater.

In view of these facts it behooves the anti's to change their cry. So now they are wailing through the land that only an infinitesimal fraction of women wish for the vote and that they are determined to coerce the other large per cent. The saddest tears are shed by the anti's for those poor browbeaten California women—'only eight per cent. of whom wished for the vote"—and now it has been thrust upon them and they have to bear the awful burden. One would think to read their protests that ninety-two out of every hundred women in California spent election day being dragged or driven to the polls.

Suppose some woman opposed to suffrage had the great fortune to be the mother of half a dozen sons; one after another they would become of age, thereby reaching automatically without their own effort or consent the estate of full citizenship. But suppose—as is the case in many instances—these men did not wish to use their right to vote, what would they think to be wailed over and made objects of pity because being of age they could vote if they wished to. Millions of young men become voters every year—who ever hears them bemoaning their hard lot because they are forced to vote? Men can vote if they wish and they can refrain from voting if they prefer, and it would seem perfectly logical that women should do the same.

In Nantucket, Massachusetts, according to the figures furnished by their local press, there are 800 voters. Only 100 of these attend town meetings; only 50 of this 100 vote at this meeting. The entire town budget is controlled by these 50—or by 6¼ per cent. of the whole number of voters of the town. Now this is not by any means a desirable state of affairs. But one thing it surely proves—that is that the right to vote does not force men to vote—and there is no reason why it should force women to do so.

This "forced voting" is all nonsense; such a thing simply does not exist.

"But," say the anti's, "anyway the majority of women are opposed to woman suffrage—and the majority ought to rule."

The truth, as Senator Gebhardt reminded us the other day, is just this: The number of women actively interested and organized to oppose woman suffrage is much smaller than the number of women actively interested and organized to bring about woman suffrage. Wherever and whenever the determined effort of women is exerted for and against suffrage this proposition holds true.

Witness the number of women for suffrage and those opposed who went to Trenton when the recent Suffrage Bill was in the balance. The women in favor of the bill outnumbered its opponents five to one; this is only the usual condition of affairs in every instance where the question has come to a real issue.

Outside of this body of organized women for and against is a vast body of women, many of whom are yet timid about openly declaring themselves on the question; others are simply blind to the significance of the matter, and still others are indifferent to its meaning. The timid, the blind, the indifferent, these three classes of women are the greatest hinderance to the full citizenship of women. It would seem that any woman who reads this would hate to classify herself under any one of these three heads—to own herself afraid or stupid or heedless when it comes to meeting the most vital question of the present day.

She will do well to discern the signs of the times and to ponder such statements as the following by Dr. Gulick, director of the Department of Child Hygiene of the Russel Sage Foundation:

"Woman is as sure to have the suffrage as the tide is to rise, not because she is as wise, as strong, as skillful as man is, nor because she like him is a human being, nor for any other reason of likeness or duplication at all, but because she is different, because she can do what he cannot, because the world needs her special and perculiar abilities. It is because she is different, because these differences are fundamental world needs that it is necessary that she shall bring these differences to the service of the world. This fact, whether woman wants it or not, the suffrage will force inevitably upon her. The vote is no end in itself. To serve the community in ways in which she is the creator and specialist is the end, and toward this service the women of the civilized world are pressing, most of them unconsciously—a few of them consciously, but all of them inevitably.

We are treated to another edition of interscholastic basketball competition this afternon. Wonder if it will necessitate another N. P. H. S.—P. H. S. game?

Both High Schools and their baseball candidates working out of doors yesterday afternoon and the material is plentiful in each institution. Leals have been holding practise regularly and if anything have an edge on the public school boys as far as training is concerned.

After the third interscholastic contest when N. P. H. S. lost the trophy Coach Webster was heard to remark that he was never so proud of a team as he was of his defeated champions. And well he might be. To lose without an alibi is the best of a record that defeat can't scar.

Local teams seem to have cultivated a habit of winning games on their home courts during the past season. Hope Chapel and Plainfield High School finished their respective schedules without encountering a single reverse on their native gym, and North Plainfield High School had but four.

"If" Leals should put one over on P. H. S. this afternoon some great rejoicing would probably be the issue over the brook. And it might come to pass—the Red Badge of Valor is too often yanked off or pinned on by a single turn of Fate.

In taking on a Newark basketball team as its opponent Saturday night, the Hope Chapel team did something that does not happen very often in this city. It seldom occurs that a Newark aggregation invades the confines of the Queen City. Most of local managers steer clear of Newark pilots and when a challenge comes to hand a letter generally goes back with the following material in it, "Nothing doing until I find out more about you."

What has become of that proposed city championship basketball league? It looks as though some of the contenders named has exhibited the old saffron spear or pale buff-streak.

The existing kinks may yet be wiped out, however, and the organization may become a reality, as far as the Ajax, Y. M. C. A. first team and the First Presbyterian five are concerned, anyway.

A statement is going the circuit that a ball players' union is being organized and that appeals will be made to laws higher than those of baseball in order to bring to the baseball player rights that are his.

There is no doubt but what this war will come. Those who have watched and studied the autocratic methods know and have believed that the warfare will be fierce.

YALE TEAM GOES SOUTH.

New Haven, Conn., March 19.—The Yale baseball squad, including twenty players besides the manager, coaches and trainers, left today for the South, where the schedule of the season's games will be started in accordance with the annual custom. The team will play the first game at Norfolk, with Washington and Lee University. The next day Holy Cross will be met in the same city. Two days later Pennsylvania will be played in Washington and the next day the Yale players will line up against Georgetown. The last game of the southern trip will be played in Washington, with the Catholic University on March 26.

20,000 PERSONS SAW NEW BROOKLYN BALL GROUNDS

Brooklyn baseball enthusiasts are whetting their appetite for the start of the National League season by inspection of the new stadium, which Charles H. Ebbetts has provided for the Brooklyn club on a new site near the Flatbush side of Prospect Park. The gates of the stadium were thrown open Sunday for the first time, and before dark nearly 20,000 persons passed through to "look around."

Fred Hanlon, secretary of the club, and a large number of assistants were on hand to escort the visitors and show them the fine points of the new park. A number of other inspection days are planned before the special opening with a game with Philadelphia on April 9.

WITH THE BOXERS

Joe Rivers has arrived in New York and has started training for his second bout with Leach Cross.

Jack Carrig, a former Boston light weight, but who lived in the West several years, died in Texas the other day.

The father of Jack Daly, the Baltimore pugilist, was one of the victims of the recent dynamite explosion at Baltimore.

Frank Carsey, an old-time Chicago scrapper, has the "comeback" fever and will endeavor to get into condition for another whirl in the boxing game.

BASEBALL NOTES

George Magoon, the old major league infielder, has signed to coach the University of Maine baseball team.

Larry Doyle, of the Giants, has found his batting eye early this season and is whaling the pill to all corners of Texas.

Owner Frank Farrell is with his New Yorkers in Bermuda, and "Chubby" Charles Murphy is watching his Cubs perform in Florida.

Sylvester, the youngster who is playing right field for the White Sox second team, led the Wisconsin-Illinois League in batting last season.

The new Huntington, W. Va., team in the Ohio State League will be managed by Sam Wright, a former Kansas City and Louisville pitcher.

With Pitcher Ray Collins' contract signed and in the strong box, President McAleer has all of his Boston Champions lined up for the season.

Pitcher "Dixie" Walker, formerly of the Washington team, and later with Baltimore and Wilkesbarre, has signed with Bill Friel's St. Paul team.

The Danville club of the Three-I League, has signed Pitcher Ukanavitch and Catcher Bossaloughni. Nice battery for the Three-lamp umpires to anounce. Wow!

Ty Cobb has organized a ball team and while waiting for the Detroit club to come across with an increase in salary, Ty will tour the Southern States with his aggregation of ball-tossers.

Pittsburgh fans figure that the Pirates' chances to cop the cambric depend largely upon Butler's ability to shine in the infield, and Pitcher Hendrix coming to terms and joining the team.

The Pacific Coast League teams have been giving the White Sox plenty to do in the way of ball playing. On the same day recently, San Francisco beat the White Sox regulars 2 to 1, while LosAngeles was defeating the Sox Yannigans, 8 to 7.

A few years make a big difference in baseball. Tim Murnane, the veteran scribe, says that several of the Red Sox youngsters had never heard of "Duke" Farrell until they arrived at Hot Springs, Ark. The "Duke" who was a star for a dozen years with Chicago, Brooklyn and New York, is now coaching the Red Sox.

Y. M. C. A. RECORD SMASHED IN TANK

Twenty-three Yard Swim Mark Bettered by William Schooley Last Night.

As was predicted in yesterday's issue of this paper, the twenty-three yard swimming record of the Y. M. C. A. was smashed in competition last night William Schooley, a former Newark Y. M. C. A. boy, being the new holder. The event was held in connection with the senior department color league program and was contested by fourteen entrants, all ardent followers of the water racing sport. Those trying for speed records were considerably handicapped because of the fact that the race was run off in such a way that no competitive pace setting was afforded. The racers swam individually, setting their own pace and having no one to push them on to faster efforts as only competition can do.

Schooley, the winner, snapped three-fifths of a second off the former record held by Alfred Manley, the local phenom now attending Penn State College. It is more than likely that the winner could have negotiated and distance in far better time had he been familiar with the pool as he zigzagged back and forth and got an exceedingly bad turn at one end of the pool which slowed up his actual time to some extent. William Coyle and Cedric Ostrom came second to the record holder with twelve seconds to their credit, Schooley's being eleven, and no swim off was held to decide the real holder of second place, these two competitors being satisfied to split up the honors.

When swimming competition was first inaugurated at the local Y. M. C. A., Clarence Steiner set up a part of thirteen seconds for the twenty-three yard swim. That was in the summer of 1909 and Jack Fritts came back in 1910, equaling the mark set by Steiner. Manley bettered this in the swimming championships last season, doing the distance in eleven and three-fifths seconds. The forty-six yard swim will be the last on the Color League schedule of events and will be run off tomorrow night, Schooley being a competitor in this one also. The shorter race involves but one turn while the forty-six has three turns in it, making it far more difficult.

FLIES OVER ICE.

O. Mathiason, the Norwegian skating champion, Monday set a new record for 500 metres when he covered the distance in 44 seconds at Hamar. Mathiason also held the previous record of 44 1-5 seconds, having covered 500 metres in that time at Christiana in February, 1912.

SUNDAY BASEBALL BILL WAS KILLED

New Jersey Assembly Has a Lively Discussion Over National Pastime Rights.

The New Jersey Assembly yesterday afternoon defeated the bill to allow baseball to be played on Sunday, the vote being 24 to 15. The bill provoked a lively discussion, its friends contending it was desired by a large number of people in the State who were unable to enjoy outdoor recreation on week-days because they are shut up in stores, factories and offices and to them Sunday means a real day of rest if they can get out in the open and enjoy the sunshine and a little sport harmful to no one.

Mr. Moore, of Mercer, and Mr. Kates, of Camden, jumped on the bill and batted it out without missing a hit. Mr. Kates declared it was intended to aid professional teams and not the boys and young men of the State who desired to play an innocent game on the lots. "I yield to no one in my love for the great national game," he exclaimed, earnestly, "but this bill is intended to permit the big league teams to come into Atlantic City and play on Sundays, and that would do more to injure the game than anything that could happen. I am not opposed to baseball, for I am a follower of the best team in the world."

"What is the best team?" interrupted Mr. Hennessy.

"The White Elephants, of course," came back from Mr. Kates quickly.

Mr. Steurwald made a strong plea for the bill, declaring that it was very much in favor among the people he represented and they were a large majority of the people of the State. He said other States permit Sunday ball and find not the slightest harm in it, and there was no valid reason for this State holding out.

Mr. Ackley, of Cumberland, opposed the measure on the same grounds as the others and it went by the board.

The attempt to break down the old "Blue Laws" was defeated in the Senate through the opposition of Senators Davis, Nichols and Pierce. The bill under discussion was Assemblyman Foley's measure legalizing fishing for pleasure on Sunday. The three Senators opposed the passage of the bill and pleaded against legalizing any Sabbath desecration.

TO LIBERATE BUCK DEER.

Chester, March 19—Fish and Game Warden William E. Young, of this village, has just received two buck deer from the Grand Island Forest and Game Preserve of Minising, Mich. One will be liberated near Upper Longwood and the other at Green Village, near Murray Hill. Several weeks ago word was received by Warden Young that there were at least a half-dozen does in the swamp near Murray Hill, and the same number near Upper Longwood, but no buck had been seen in either vicinity. Warden Young took the matter up with the State game department and secured the bucks. There are several deer in Black River swamp, near this village, supposed to have escaped from the private preserves north of Hackettstown, and in northeastern Pennsylvania.

LEHIGH'S COURT LEADER.

Harry Crichton, of South Bethlehem, Pa., Lehigh University's star basketball forward, was unanimously elected captain of the team for next year. This is Crichton's second year on the team, and he is one of the best all around players Lehigh ever had, besides being the second heaviest point scorer of the past season. Charles Snyder, of Pottsville, was elected manager of the team for next year.

DUNELLEN TOOK TWO FROM THE VISITORS

Somerset Bowlers Were Easy For Their Low Score Opponents.

Dunellen Baraca class bowlers took two out of the three games series rolled with the Somersets on their home alleys last night, being held from making a clean sweep by some exceptional low scores in the second contest when Benson went down to 111 and C. Braum fell off form so that the best he could set up was 136. No unusually high scores were chalked up at any time during the evening, Hodge setting up the best mark with 179.

In the first game which went to the home team by a count of 736 to 713 the pinning was closer than in any other setto, R. Braum pulling his team to the fore with a mark of 171, while E. Luthman, kept the Somersets in the running with 165.

LAWRENCE LEADER CORRALED BRUGGY

Former Bound Brook Backstop Will Join Bay State Aggregation Next Month.

Frank Bruggy, the former Bound Brook catcher, and member of Dave Driscoll's All-American nine that recently returned from Porto Rico, yesterday affixed his signature to a Lawrence, Mass., contract and will sport the woolens of the New England League during the coming season. The husky backstop was sought for by a great many teams but he favored the Bay State aggregation and will join that club about the middle of April. He has received offers from minor league managers in all parts of the country, but after weighing them all up accepted the offer of Louis Pieper, the Lawrence leader, who has been on his trail since late in 1912.

Joe McGinnity made "Brug" an offer to play with his club a way out in Washington, but Frank is an easterner born and bred and he loves the east "as a houn' pup loves the woods in the Mawnin'." That Bruggy will be a hit with the Lawrence club is a pretty safe bet. The Pittsfield club with which he was affiliated last year, while connected with no league, was the equal of any club on the New England circuit, and Frank was a star with that outfit. He showed himself to be better than ever both in the outfield and at the bat during the recent Porto Rican trip.

"RUBE'S" TROUBLES BEGIN.

Rube Marquard and his wife arrived at Los Angeles, Cal., Monday, on their way to join the Giants at Marlin, Texas. Rube stated that he is in good form and intends to hunt down the parties who started the untruthful stories about him in New York by putting detectives on their track.

BASEBALL LEAGUE IS NOW ORGANIZED

Meeting Last Night Took Five Teams Into the Circuit—Officers Elected.

Permanent organization was effected at last night's meeting of the Central New Jersey baseball league and now it is an assured fact that this league will become a reality once more, the representatives present at the scheduled gathering were enthusiastic over the prospects of reopening the circuit that proved so popular two years ago. Fandom will be treated to a five team schedule consisting of Westfield, Plainfield, Bound Brook, High Bridge and Dunellen, New Brunswick having dropped out because of the difficulty encountered in securing suitable playing grounds. Of the nines entered in the organization this season there are no new ones from those in the original league and things will be operated on practically the same basis as they were two years ago.

Officers elected at last night's meeting included: President, William Williams, mayor of High Bridge; vice president, Jack Torpey; secretary, Ernest Dorflinger. No definite date was set for starting the schedule but this will be drawn up between now and the next meeting.

NEW WEIGHT RECORD.

James E. Sullivan, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, yesterday received a telegram from A. S. Goldsmith, of the Seattle Athletic Club, stating that at an indoor track and field meet held in Seattle on Saturday night Con Walsh threw the thirty-five pound weight for height, nineteen feet six and one-tenth inches, which, if made according to A. A. U. rules, will be considered a world's record. Goldsmith also stated that the weight weighed by actual weight thirty-six pounds and was measured by six different men, as Walsh went for the record.

INDIANAPOLIS AUTO RACES.

Fourteen automobiles to date have been entered in the third annual 500-mile race to be held at the Indianapolis Speedway next Memorial Day. Four foreign cars already have signed to race for the $50,000 in prizes, and at least three more are promised. Speedway officials say they believe the entry list, which is limited to thirty cars, will be more than filled before time for the race. Thus far none of the entrants has shared President Wilson's views on No. 13, and that remains blank on the speedway books.

COLOR LEAGUE CLOSING.

Swimmers will take part in the final event scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. senior Department Color League in the association tank tomorrow night, when the forty-six yard swim is due to be decided. Although this event will wind up the season it is hardly probable that the outcome will in any way effect the standing of the Orange team which now holds first place. The league at present has 104 members.

FIRST BALL GAME

Manager C. Dodson, of the Spithre baseball team, announces that his team will open the season with the E. B. C. nine as its opponents Saturday morning, March 22. He wants all of the players to see him or Captain Stites not later than Friday and any new applicant for a position on the combination must apply at once.

LOCAL BOYS ENTERED.

About twenty-five of the Y. M. C. A. boys department athletes are expected to enter the New Jersey State Y. M. C. A. junior meet scheduled to be held at the Newark Association on Saturday evening, April 5. The junior jumpers and runners have been practicing hard for the occasion and expect to carry their share of the prizes away with them.

REACH'S 1913 GUIDE.

The 1913 Reach American League Guide—the official handbook of the great junior major league presided over by famous Ban Johnson—has just made its ever-welcome appearance, thus ushering in one more baseball season; a function which it has fulfilled each spring for thirty-one consecutive years. This long term embraces virtually two baseball generations, assuming that fifteen years measure one generation in a field in which events move swiftly and the actors make their entrances and exits in painfully quick time. So, this long continuity of publication alone has served to make the Reach Guide the standard annual publication of the baseball world, without considering the merits of the contents of the book. But, combining time and quality, we have a publication which simply stands alone in its chosen field in every way, including the literary contents, official records, illustrations, quality of paper, serviceable binding and general typographical excellence. Thus, from every standpoint, is the Reach official Guide for 1913 a splendid handbook of baseball and a decided credit to the American League, to the Reach Company, of Philadelphia, as the publishers, and to its editor, Francis C. Richter, the veteran baseball writer and authority. It should be noted, by the way, that this is the twelfth annual issue of the Reach Guide as the official handbook of the American League, and the thirty-first consecutive year of its publication by the A. J. Reach Company as a book of records and reference for the entire baseball world.

"STUMP" WANTS TO GROW.

"Hughey" Golden, the two and a half foot mascot of the Tiger team for years, who is sixteen years old, went to Baltimore in advance of the baseball squad yesterday with the manager, W. G. Penfield, to have an examination for the purpose of finding some method of increasing his dwarfish stature. The little fellow has followed the fortunes of Tigers teams every year and has become the pet of the captains and coaches, who include him in all pictures and banquets.

HOME FOLKS HONOR BRYAN.

Lincoln, Neb., March 19.—Democratic leaders and other Nebraska friends of William J. Bryan have assembled in the capital from all over the State to attend a banquet in celebration of Mr. Bryan's birthday and his appointment as secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet. Mr. Bryan is fifty-three years old today, having been born March 19, 1860. In response to an invitation from his friends and neighbors he has returned home for the celebration. It is his first visit to Lincoln since the November election.

RETURNS FROM THE AMAZON.

W. M. Ronan, who has been living in a camp 2,300 miles up the Amazon river, more than one thousand miles from civilization and four thousand miles from New York city, where a little party of Brazilian explorers have been stationed for more than five years, has just returned to New York. He went to Brazil five years ago from New York. He had been manager of the American District Telegraph Company, but he went to Brazil as a wireless expert. Soon after he became traffic chief for the Rio de Janeiro Light and Power Company and later was appointed commissioner of an expedition sent out by the Brazilian government to explore a portion of Northern Brazil and to report on the possibility of building a railroad into that country and opening it for colonization.

MARTINE PLEADS TO PRINT THE PRAYERS

But John Sharp Williams Won In the United States Senate.

Washington, March 19—About 5,000 words and one solid half hour was consumed in the Senate Monday afternoon over the stirring question of whether the prayers of Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, retiring chaplain of that august body, should be printed as a public document at a cost of $500.

Senator Martine made the proposal. His new colleague, Senator Hughes, helped in gallant fashion, but the less sentimental members couldn't approve of having the Senate embark in the business of publishing a prayer-book for free distribution, so they inconsiderately trampled the scheme under foot by a vote of 29 to 27.

"These prayers are in infinitely good taste," said Mr. Martine, upon taking the floor. "They are sincere and I think that if we print public documents about alcohol we can print these prayers."

He then asked unanimous consent to consider the resolution. Senator Thomas ruthlessly threw cold water on the plan and made a point of order that the resolution must lie over one day, inasmuch as it involved an expenditure of $500.

Senator John Sharp Williams, in his usually quaint and droll fashion backed Mr. Thomas.

"If we publish these prayers," said Mr. Williams, "we'll have to publish the prayers of all the chaplains, and goodness knows where that will lead us to. Now, a prayer is valuable only for the sincerity that is in it, and not for its English or verbiage. Prayers in cold type can't carry the sincerity that has made these prayers of Dr. Pierce's valuable as spoken words. We're establishing a bad precedent out of good humor."

BONIFACE WON'T LEAVE JAIL.

New Brunswick, March 19—Richard Martin, proprietor of the Hotel Perth, Perth Amboy, who recently amazed his family and friends by pleading non vult to a charge of keeping a disorderly resort., and was remanded to the county jail here, sprung another surprise by declining to accept his liberty on bail. When committed he said that he might as well go to jail first as last. His wife and daughters pleaded with Martin to get bail, but all to no purpose. Friends also made the same vain attempt. Martin is reputed to be worth $100,000.

POPE'S NAME DAY.

Rome, March 19.—St. Joseph's day, the name day of Pope Pius X., was kept as a holiday at the Vatican today, everybody being desirous of congratulating the pontiff on his recovery from his recent illness. Thousands of letters and telegrams from all parts of the world were received. His Holiness received the cardinals in private audience but all of the public ceremonies that have been associated with the observance in the past were dispensed with in compliance with the strict orders of the Pope's physicians.

30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are the Voices of Plainfield People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Plainfield people are in this chorus. Here's a Plainfield case.

Mrs. Cecelia Rosseter, 127 Watchung Ave., Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am only too pleased to again recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and I hope that all kidney sufferers who read my statement will profit by my experience. I have had a world of good from this remedy, backache, headache, dizzy spells and trouble with the kidney secretions being removed by it. I do not know what I would have done without Doan's Kidney Pills and I am certain that there is no kidney medicine that can be compared with them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agent for the United States.

SAMPTOWN 'NAVY YARD' NO JOKE

Old Record Shows That Ground Was Deeded to Piscataway In 1695.

USED AS SCHOOL SITE

Bill In Legislature To Get Valid Title—The Cemetery Is Still There and Still In Use—Authorities Are Anxious.

The official announcement that a plot of land known as the Piscataway "Navy Yard" was deeded to Piscataway in 1695, to be used as a "burying ground and a military and naval training ground," will surprise those who have been inclined to joke about the "navy yard" at Samptown, and thought it all a myth. A bill was introduced in the Assembly this week to enable Piscataway to obtain valid title to the ground on which its school now stands. The bill was referred to the committee on claims.

The cemetery is now there, and still in use. But the use of the remainder of the plot as a military training ground was long since abandoned, and early in the nineteenth century a school was erected on the ground. Since then the "Navy Yard" has always been a school site. One school was blown down during a tornado, and its successor was destroyed by fire, but the present school was there erected, and the plot has always been recognized as the site of the Piscataway school.

Naturall, when the Board of Education decided, some time ago, that a new and larger school was needed, no other site than the present one was considered. There is no other site so desirable. But it was found, when an attempt was made to float bonds for the new building, that the school stood on ground dedicated to a "military and naval training ground," and therefore unavailable for school purposes.

A new site appeared necessary of course, and at the last meeting of the Board of Education but little attention was directed to the present site, the chief discussion centering on the relative desirability of the Casevy and the Brundage sites.

The introduction of this Bill alters the situation, at least temporarily. In case the Legislature is able to give the township a chance to obtain valid title to the present site, which action Mr. Kirkpatrick believes possible, there will be no need of another site, and the township will be saved the expense of purchase.

COLORED MAN'S HURTS PROVE FATAL TO HIM

Henry P. Bundy, aged 65 years, colored, wso was injured yesterday afternon while helping to remove an outhouse at the home of George Burgess on Central avenue, where he was employed, died at Muhlenberg Hospital within two hours after he was taken to the institution. An examination showed that his back was broken and he suffered other internal injuries. Mr. Bundy remained conscious from the time of the accident until he passed away.

Mr. Bundy had been employed by Mr. Burgess for the past 12 years. Prior to that he was the sexton at the Park Avenue Baptist church. He resided on Elizabeth street, and leaves several children. The notice of funeral will be announced tomorrow.

MISS ANNA CASE AS A METROPOLITAN STAR

In one of the most notable performances of the opera season in New York, the premiere of "Boris Godunoff," given at the Metropolitan Opera House, last night, Miss Anna Case, the former soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian Church, this city, scored a distinct triumph in one of the leading roles, that of "Theodore." The musical critics of New York all unite in praising the work of the cast, as well as the opera itself. Miss Louise Homer was given the leading role, that of "Martina."

The remarkable success of Miss Case during her engagement with the Metropolitan forces seems to have at least reached one climax in her work of last evening. That she possesses real talent is no longer disputed by the critics, and her singing of the past season has been time and again favorably commented upon by both the press and the patrons of the Mearopolitan Opera House.

MISS MAY WHITNEY GIVES A MUSICALE

Charming Recital At Her Studio Enjoyed By Local Music Lovers.

Upon her invitation, a few musical friends of Miss May Vincent Whitney gathered informally at her studio in the Babcock building yesterday afternoon to enjoy a well-chosen program of music and readings. Miss Julia Rowley, a talented young woman, opened with the first movement of Beethoven's opus 13, and was followed by Miss Helen George, whose intelligent and painstaking interpretation of McDowell's "Water Lily" and Chopin's C minor "Polonaise," and later of the C minor prelude of Rachmamnoff marked her as the earnest student.

Miss Margaret Van Zandt is an advanced student whose playing of several numbers, among them "magic Fire Music," by Wagner, and the Waltz in E" of Moskowski placed her well in the artist class. Ranking equally big was the interpretation given to Chopin's "Scherzo in B minor," by Miss Beth Martin. A sustained even-like quality, very pleasing, was shown in Mr. Stover's rendition of Wilson's "Serenade," and Master James Dorr, a lad of 14, showed marked ability and earnest study in his sympathetic treatment of Paul Wach's "Valse Mystic."

Mrs. Gleason and Miss Whitney played upon two pianos a little known but interesting composition of Reinecke called "Neapolitan Mandolin Player." The program was delightfully varied by a dainty and artistic whistling solo by Miss Edith Hamilton, and two readings by Miss Bertha Whitney, whose invariably fine work is like good wine which "neds no bush."

MOY IS VICTIM OF HAZERS' ESCAPADE

Plainfield High School Graduate Gets Free Tonsorial Attention at Penn State.

Taking advantage of the Easter vacation accorded them from their studies at Penn State College, John J. Kenny, James Lindsey, and Theodore Hamilton, graduates of the Plainfield High School, have returned to their homes in this city and are now busy renewing old acquaintances. One of the Plainfield boys now at that institution of learning failed to make the spring trip, however, and he is now "boning" away while his comrades are enjoyying the sights the Queen City presents. This missing link is Gordon Moy, son of former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, of Division street, and his mysterious absence was a source of much consternation to certain friends in this city until one of his colleagues made a slip and let out the truth.

Moy is a freshman at Penn State and like all other first year men, was subjected to a little hazing to initiate him into the college student fold. One dark night a representative group of fun loving "sophs" sneaked into the sleeping Plainfield youth's bed chamber and carried him out on the campus, where several of the more proficient tonsorial artists practised their ability on his head. Moy's hair was shaved off, but he was maltreated in no other way, and is at present none the worse physically (not as far as beauty is concerned) for the experience.

This was the reason for his nonappearance, his hair not having grown sufficiently to warrant his appearing in this city, where he is popular among a large circle of acquaintances. Among the culprits who administered the beauty destroying dose to Moy was John A. Kenny, of Sandord avenue, and he, as are all the rest of the sophomores, is elated over the hazing dealt out to the over-ambitious freshy. Kenney had his dose last year so knows what it is to travel around without a head covering for a certain period of time.

The Plainfield boys have organized a club to stimulate the interest of local high school graduates in the Pennsylvania State College, and the following officers were elected at a recent meeting of the organization: William Bullock, president; Theodore Hamilton, secretary; John A. Kenney, treasurer. William Bullock has since severed his connections with Penn State, however, and is now taking an agricultural c ourse in Cornell University.

"AMERICAN BEAUTIES."

Owing to his increasing trade at this time, Charles L. Stanley, the florist, has opened an annex store on East Front street, in the Pittis building, which is in charge of a number of "American Beauties" from the Plainfield High School. The display of flowers for Easter is unusually attractive.

M. E. CONFERENCE NOW IN SESSION

Tribute Paid to Memory of the Late Rev. Dr. William C. Nelson.

BP. WILSON PRESIDES

Fifty-four Churches Represented at Annual Sessions at Newark—Organization Is Effected and Much Business Is Transacted.

Tributes to virtues of the late Rev. Dr. William C. Nelson, formerly of North Plainfield, prepared by Rev. Dr. Buttz, were heard at the opening session of the Newark conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in the Halsey street church, Newark, yesterday afternoon. A prayer on behalf of the family of the departed clergyman was offered by Rev. Dr. A. H. Tuttle, a former Plainfield pastor.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson is presiding at the Conference, which is now well underway. During the afternoon there was also a tribute paid to the memory of David Livingstone, the missionary.

A brief statement of the condition of each of the 54 churches of the district, as regards principally finances and membership, was given by Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, superintendent of the Newark district and former pastor of the First M. E. church, this city. Most churches show gains in both respects, and in the cases of those showing lapses good reasons were given. Reporting for the Epworth League, Dr. Hurlbut spoke especially of the fact that 20 of the churches now have the Junior League. It was further noted that the ranks of the ministers were unbroken by death during the year.

Preceding the formal organization of the conference the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. To assist him in this service Bishop Wilson called upon the members of his cabinet, Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut, Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph of Plainfield, Rev. Dr. George W. Smith and Rev. Dr. Louis C. Muller, district superintendents of the Newark, Elizabeth, Jersey City and Paterson districts, respectively, and also upon Rev. Frederick Bloom, secretary of the conference; Rev. Dr. James C. Howard, pastor of the conference church; Rev. Dr. A. H. Tuttle of Summit, and Rev. Frederick C. Mooney, pastor of Union Street church of Newark.

Immediately following the communion service the roll was called and organization effected with the election of conference officers.

In each instance the officers chosen were elected to succeed themselves. They were:

Secretary, Mr. Bloom; statistician emeritus, Rev. Dr. John A. Gutteridge; statistician, Rev. Frederick C. Mooney; treasurer, Rev. Dr. Jacob A. Cole. Mr. Bloom appointed as his assistants Rev. Wallace B. Fleming, Rev. Ausin E. Armstrong, Rev. Berryman H. McCoy, Rev. George P. Dougherty and Rev. Warren P. Coon, all of whom have served in the same capacity before.

Mr. Mooney reappointed as his assistants Rev. S. K. Doolittle, Rev. W. C. Timbrell, Rev. H. P. King, Rev. J. H. E. Schultz, Rev. William M. Nesbit, Rev. N. P. Camplin and Rev. J. K. Easley. Dr. Cole similarly reappointed Rev. J. W. Ryder, Rev. Warren R. Neff, Rev. C. H. Von Glahn, Rev. Charles S. Hunt and Rev. J. F. Bindenberger as his assistants.

DUNELLEN COUNCIL MEETS.

COL. SCOTT CURIOS BRING LITTLE PRICES

His Rare Ethnological Specimens Are Sold For a Song.

The last of the collection of ethnological specimens gathered by Col. Julian Scott, who died at his home in this city some years ago, were disposed of in the Philadelphia Art Galleries yesterday afternon. Many of the specimens have unusual historical associations and colectors were attracted from all parts of the East. The highest price paid was $200, which was brought by a double-barreled flintlock gun made by Joseph Manton, a celebrated English gunsmith of the first half of the 19th century. tI is considered one of the finest and most beautifully decorated weapons of that period.

A superb warrior's girdle from the "forbidden city" of Lhassa, in Thibet, set with 34 carnelians amidst elaborately worked metal, went for $47. A Moro coat of mail lined throughout with carabao horn plates, one of the rarest of Philippine curios, was sold for $35. It had been brought from the famous Atocha collection at Madrid. A great gong of solid silver, said to be the largest ever brought from Africa, was sold for $22.

Other sales were as follows: Old Navajo squaw blanket, $30; Afghan matchlock gun, heavily inlaid with gold, $16; unusually long, bell-mouthed blunderbuss, stamped "Tower, Georgius Rex," $26; Campilan or beheading knife, used by Moros, or beheading knife, $35.

PORT-AU-PECK PROMOTERS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Jersey City, March 20.—The Hudson grand jury today voted indictments against George W. Young William H. Cooper, formerly president of the Siegel-Cooper Co., Alvin Young and C. J. Van Slyke, charging conspiracy to defraud. The indictments have not been returned to the court and until this is done bench warrants will not issue.

The indictments are based on the charge that the four men through control of a realty company known as the Port-au-Peck Realty Co., holding a large tract of land near Long Branch, made sales to small investors on representation that the property was unencumbered, but that the entire tract was under a mortgage of $300,000 held by George Warner of New York city.

MOTT CONSIDERS MINISTERSHIP

Wilson Will Not Take "No" From Man to Whom He Offers Billet to China.

PRESIDENT WIRES HIM

International Secretary of Y. M. C. A. Well Known Here, At First Refused Pekin Post—Herbert Parker Tells of Mott.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, March 20.—President Wilson today telegraphed to John R. Mott of Montclair, N. J., asking him to reconsider his declination of the offer of the ministership to China. Mr. Mott replied that he would announce his final decision in a short time.

In line with the views of the President and his advisers on his important departure from past policy, by the abandonment of Dollar Diplomacy and the fixed purpose to formally recognize the Chinese Republic, President Wilson yesterday offered the post of Minister to China to Mr. Mott, probably the best-known Y. M. C. A. worker in the world, who is Foreign Secretary of the International Committee of that organization. Mr. Mott was proposed and urged for the Peking post by clergymen all over the country, particularly those interested in foreign missionary work, and by the Presbyterian clergy. President Wilson is a warm friend and personal admirer of the Montclair man and he gladly made the offer.

In speaking of Mr. Mott's attitude, Herbert Parker, secretary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., said today that his decision was characteristic of Mott. "That man is undoubtedly the foremost Christian layman of these times," said he. "I know that Mott was suggested for the presidency of Princeton following the resignation of Woodrow Wilson, and that the latter said Mott was then a university president and his pupils were to be found throughout the world. This is exactly true. Mott is devoted to his work and I believe he feels that he should not desert what he considers a trust to accept some great honor for himself. He would make an ideal ambassador for China for he is really one of the biggest men of the times. I recall of a man once saying that Mott was a $50,000 man and was foolish to accept a tenth of that sum from the association, but Mott is the kind of a man who lives for others and cares nothing for self. I don't believe the President can get him to change his mind."

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. BEN. R. DEBBIE

The funeral service of Mrs. Clara Debbie, wife of Benjamin R. Debbie, of Siegfried Pa., who died Sunday following a short illness, was held at St. Mary's Church, Stony Hill, yesterday afternoon. Rev. Sinus A. Shwartz, the pastor, officiated and conducted a solemn high mass of requiem for the repose of her soul. The church was filled to overflowing by friends of the departed woman who had known her when she resided in Scotch Plains and Stony Hill. Numerous floral tributes were received from relatives and friends.

Interment was made in the family plot of S. B. Debbie, in St. Mary's cemetery, Stony Hill. The pall bearers were Thomas Bechsher, Lawrence Bechsner, Lewis Muel Jr., Harold Woodruff, James Hunter and George Wahl Jr. The first four were nephews of the departed woman.

TOOLS STOLEN

Edward Craig, electrical contractor, installing work at the Elks' building in Watchung aveune, reported to the police today that thieves had stolen tools from the new structure evidently with the intent of supplying themselves with a burglar's kit. The stolen articles include two 20-inch Stillson wrenches, several pairs of pliers and a short steel bar. Sergt. Flynn, who is investigating the case, said the bar is one commonly used by burglars to force doors and windows.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from the State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a.m., 48 degrees; 11 a.m., 54 degrees; 1 p.m., 59 degrees.

The relief committee of the Charity Organization Society makes an urgent appeal for second-hand clothing, shoes, furniture, bedding, etc., to be utilized toward providing as much comfort as possible for the poor of the city. Persons having articles to give away should send a postal, telephone or call Room 323, Babcock building, 'phone No. 103.

"JANE DOE" PROVES TO BE MRS. NORTHROP

Woman Who Stole Miss Dorothy Fisk's Purse Reveals Identity.

"Jane Doe," the attractive young southern woman who has been held a prisoner in New York for the past week accused of stealing purses, including one belonging to Miss Dorothy Fisk, daughter of Mrs. Chapman Fisk, following her visit to St. Bartholomew's church, was forced to reveal her identity y esterday in Jefferson Market Court. Under severe cross-questioning the woman admitted that she was the wife of Albert S. Northrop, once of Washington.

In telling her story the prisoner said that she was born in Richmond, Va., in 1886, and at 16, while yet in boarding school she married Randolph Fitzhugh. He died and in 1909 she says she married Mr. Northrop. He was once a government lawyer stationed for a time at Minneapolis. They separated and she took her child.

After Mamie Bannon, who had been a maid for the prisoner, identified Miss Fisk's gold mesh bag as having been in her mistress' possession at the Hotel Flanders, New York, Detective Oswald told how Mrs. Fitzhugh had written Miss Fisk, telling her that if she wrote to her at the Flanders she would hear something of interest regarding her purse.

Oswald then says the woman took him to St. Bartholomew's church and showed him the purse hidden under the cushion of a pew. He did not arrest her at that time, but later there were so many complaints that she was taken into custody. The gold mesh bag was afterward returned to Miss Fisk, it having been sent to the banking house of Harvey Fisk & Sons. Miss Fisk did not appear to prosecute the woman, but the prisoner was held on a vagrancy charge.

He was caught on Craig place and taken back to Langhorne's, where the picture-taking was completed.

Rudolph Heinold, the special messenger a t the postoffice, was responsible for the arest of Andrews on Tuesday, detecting him trying to make his escape on a stolen wheel. He gave chase, and finally c aught Andrews, h olding h im until a policeman arrived.

POND VICE PRES'T OF A GREAT BANK

Resigns Secretary-Treasurership of Plainfield Trust to Go to Big Wall St. Ins'n

TO REMAIN A DIRECTOR

Popular Official of Local Concern Accepts Vice Presidency of Mechanics and Metals National Bank, of New York City.

Plainfield has again been called upon to furnish the right man for a post of honor and responsibility in

H. H. Pond.

New York City, this time the call coming to H. H. Pond, who at a meeting of the directors held yesterday afternoon was elected to the vice-presidency of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, one of New York's oldest and largest financial institutions, having assets of nearly one hundred millions of dollars. Coming to Plainfield three years ago from Vineland, N. J., where he held the position of cashier of the Vineland National Bank, Mr. Pond has done much toward the upbuilding of the business of The Plainfield Trust Company, in addition to which he has taken an active interest in local affairs.

Beginning his career in Vineland as office boy, Mr. Pond served the Vineland National Bank in every capacity until he was promoted to the chie executive office in that institution. Prior to that he was the organizer and first secretary and treasurer of the Vineland Trust Company, one of t he most flourishing institutions in South Jersey.

Mr. Pond has also been active in the banking affairs of the State, having held at one time or another all the offices in the New Jersey Bankers' Association, including the presidency. He takes with him to his new field the enthusiasm which has characterized his labors in Plainfield as well as the ability and experience which so eminently qualify him to assume his enlarged responsibilities.

As yet Mr. Pond's successor in The Plainfield Trust Company has not been named, but it is expected that an appointment will be made within a day or two. He will take up his new duties on or before May 1, when the Mechanics and Metals National Bank expects to take possession of its new offices at 50 Wall street, which are now in process of remodelling.

It is understood that Mr. Pond will continue to serve on the Board of Directors of The Plainfield Trust Company.

MIDDLESEX WILL HAVE A "T. B." SANITORIUM

The Middlesex County Board of Freeholders has d ecided that instead of co-operating with Somerset county in the building of a tuberculosis sanatorium it will erect its own, and a committee has been appointed to secure a site and get estimates on plans for putting up the necessary buildings. The plan to place the sanatorium on the Watchung range in Somerset county did not meet with much favor among the members of the board of Somerset. They thought it would mean an endless amount of detail work.

Several sites have been suggested to the Middlesex Board, one being on the hills near Fords, and another at the Sand Hills, near Monmouth Junction. One Middlesex patient has been sent to Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, in Union county. He is T. B. Miner, of near Bound Brook. The board w ill pay $12 a week or his support.

Mrs. John Melick, of 716 South avenue, is visiting Mrs. Harry Henderson of New Brunswick.

RELIABILITY.

Flattery is somewhat like poison; it won't hurt you if you don't swallow it.

I don't "swallow" all the fulsome praise that comes to my ears about my new Spring Garments.

It doesn't turn my head, unless it is to turn it in the direction that leads to even still better accomplishments!

For SPRING I KNOW that my

I know that no garments made have the inwards that mean long wear as Rothberg's clothes have.

HURLED INTO TROLLEY IN AUTO CRASH, DIES

Asbury Park, March 20.—Catapulted over the windshield against a trolley car, Elijah C. Van Cleaf, a business man of this city, was fatally injured here when an automobile, in which he was a passenger, struck a Long Branch trolley broadside.

Mr. Van Cleaf died in his home in Second avenue Tuesday night without regaining consciousness.

Lewis Asay, who was driving the motor car, is today in a serious condition. The impact of the collision drove the steering wheel into his abdomen with terrific force, and physicians today say internal injuries may prove fatal.

Charles Palmateer a city policeman, who was riding in the trolley, says Mr. Van Cleaf hurdled the windshield of the auto and that his head struck the frame between the trolley windows.

Coroner A. W. Bennett yesterday swore out a warrant for Asay, charging him with reckless driving.

Mr. Van Cleaf was fifty-four years old. He was in the stove business for many years here. A wife, three daughters and a s on survive. Mr. Asay is vice-president and treasurer of the Asbury Park Mill Company.

WILL OPPOSE REPEAL OF MILE-LIMIT LIQUOR LAW

Asbury Park, March 20.—Church organizations here are preparing to oppose the mile-limit law repealer which Assemblyman oFley of Essex has introduced in the House, and at a meeting tonight the Men's Social Union of the First M. E. church will name a committee to cooperate with committees from similar church societies to fight the bill.

The bill, which would permit the sale of liquors within a mile of Ocean Grove, was introduced, it is understood here, at the request of Asbury Park hotel keepers. In opposing the measure the anti-liquor residents are sure of the support of Founder James A. Bradley. Those who go to Trenton to oppose the repealer, if they find, as they expect, that the bill seems sure of passage, will direct their energies toward having a referendum attached to it.

Bradley Beach, which also is affected by the law, has voiced a protest through its Common Council. Church organizations there, also, are expected to join the Asbury Park antis.

COLT BORN WHILE AT SEA IS KEPT ALIVE BY CONDENSED MILK WHEN MOTHER DEVELOPS CRAMPS

CAPTAIN W.F. WOOD, COLT BORN AT SEA AND MOTHER

Bringing a colt into the world and keeping it alive on condensed milk because the mother developed cramps while a big sea pounded the steamship Estonian, of the Leyland steamship line, on her last trip from Antwerp, which ended in New York city, is only one of the many incidents that go to make life on the sea anything but monotonous, according to Captain William Ferry Wood.

Both the colt and the mare are doing well—so well, in fact, that they are now on their way to Wood River, Neb., accompanied by their wealthy owner, Mr. Frank West, who never is so happy as when in the company of a score or more blue blooded horses. The mother of the colt, which has been named after Captain Wood, is Induction, a black Percheron.

The cost of the machine includes instruction in the use of it. All the same, there are those who consider the cost of aeroplanes so high as to interfere with its development as a sport among the public.

OUR CATHOLIC CITIZENS.

There are 15,154,158 Roman Catholics in the United States proper, according to the 1913 edition of the Official Catholic Directory, and a total of 23,329,047 under the protection of the United States flag. Of these, 7,131,989 are in the Philippines, 999,350 in Porto Rico, 11,510 in Alaska, 42,108 in the Hawaian Islands, and 900 in the Canal Zone. The figures are supplied by the Catholic Bishops and chancellors of the dioceses concerned.

They show that the increase in the number of communicants since last year has been 138,589, the figures for last year having been taken by us from the religious statistics prepared by Dr. H. K. Carroll of North Plainfield, as special agent of the United States census office.

The churches in Continental United States number 14,312, which, according to Dr. Carroll's statistics, shows an increase of 373 in one year.

There are 17,895 Roman Catholic priests, three Cardinals, 11 active Archbishops, three titular Archbishops, 104 Bishops, two Arch-Abbots and 15 Abbots in the United States According to the same authority, there are 288 Roman Catholic orphan asylums, in which 47,415 orphans are being cared for.

Thirty-one States in the Union have more than 50,000 Catholic population, including: New Jersey, 506,000; New York, 2,790,629; Pennsylvania, 1,633,353; Illinois, 1,460,987; Massachusetts, 1,633,435; Ohio, 743,065; Louisiana, 584,000; Michigan, 568,505; Wisconsin, 558,476; Missouri, 470,000; Minnesota, 454,987; California, 403,500; Texas, 396,400; Iowa, 266,735; Maryland, 260,000; Indiana, 232,764; Kentucky, 163,228; New Mexico, 140,573; Kansas, 131,000; Nebraska, 118,270; Colorado, 105,000; North Dakota, 99,871; Washington, 90,663; Montana, 87,119; South Dakota, 73,000; Oregon, 66,408.

HEEDS THE CALL.

When J. Herbert Case accepted the flattering offer of the vice presidency of the Franklin Trust Company, of Brooklyn and later vice president of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, the Plainfield Trust Company lost as an active officer a man to whom much of its success had been due. As secretary and treasurer, his pleasing and business-like treatment gained for the institution innumerable friends with the resultant patronage to the concern. But men like Case are not intended to "stand still," the prosperity their services gives unto others must naturally be shared by themselves for the man that "makes good" is the man in demand. This is why H. H. Pond, Mr. Case's successor, leaves the employ of the same institution. Mr. Pond has resigned to accept the vice presidency of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, of New York city. During his short stay of three years in the capacity of secretary and treasurer, Mr. Pond maintained the record made by Mr. Case and we may be guilty of betraying private conversations when we state that many lucrative offers have been turned down by him since assuming the position which he now resigns. But opportunity has knocked at his door and Mr. Pond hearkens unto the call. We can't blame him for departing, neither can the Plainfield Trust. He is a big man and big interests summon him.

John R. Mott, the international secretary of the Young Men's Christion Association, who is well-known here, where he has delivered addresses time and again, has declined an offer of President Wilson to the ambassadorship of China. In doing so, he lived up to the title once given him by our fellow-townsman, Charles W. McCutchen, who referred to Mott as "The St. Paul of Modern Times." Today, the President wired that great leader of Christian men to reconsider his decision, but people who are at all acquainted with Mott and his work are pretty well satisfied that no matter how great the preferred honor, he cannot be swerved from what he considers his duty to his fellow men.

Appropriate to the season, the contributed editorial feature for Saturday's issue will be on the Resurrection, and instead of one there will be two editors. One of these will be a representative of Catholicism and the other a representative of Protestantism, Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, the beloved rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, and Rev. Dr. Phillip B. Strong, the honored pastor of the First Baptist church, respectively. The contributed editorial by another prominent Plainfielder on an educational topic, announced yesterday to appear this Saturday, will be published one week later.

Salaries higher than those paid Federal judges will be those to be given the Supreme Court judges and the Chancellor by the provisions of Assembly Martin's bill, which passed the Senate yesterday. It allows them $13,000, and also gives the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court $11,000. As the salary of the Vice-President of the United States is but $12,000, and that of the Chief Justice of the United States is but $15,000, it will be seen that New Jersey does not propose to be niggardly towards its judges.

Let us hope that the report is true that President Wilson will follow up the death blow he gave Dollar Diplomacy by a formal recognition of the Chinese Republic. It has certainly not been creditable to the greatest of Republics to refuse recognition to the newest and strangest recruit to democracy.

Should Assemblyman Kate's concurent resolution for the election of Assemblymen by districts result in an amendment to the Constitution for that purpose, it would be impossible to have Union county represented as it is at present, all three members being residents of Elizabeth, and the rest of the county being ignored.

As former Mayor Charles J. Fisk pointed out in his discussion of the Commission Form of Government, it is not the men but the system that is wrong with Plainfield's government.

This is the first day of spring. Judging from the weather, some one turned the spring upside down. P. S. —See Joe Miller's joke book.

GREAT EFFECT OF PANAMA CANAL

Bolivian Minister Tells of Benefits.

FULFILLS AGE OLD DREAM.

How South American Continent Will Be Developed In Future Through Great Waterway—Distances Almost Annihilated—The Riches of Bolivia Described—Has Monopoly of Tin.

"The dream of centuries will be realized and physical distances will be almost annihilated by the opening in the near future of the Panama canal," writes Ignacio Calderon, minister of Bolivia to the United States, in the March issue of Export American Industries. "The slow development of commercial relations between this country and the republics of South America in the past has been largely due to the difficulties of crossing the isthmus. The transportation charges via Panama have been to a large extent prohibitive. The freightage by steamer from our ports to New York via Magellan and from our ports to Europe is on an average from 25 to 30 per cent cheaper than our commerce with New York via Panama. this despite the fact that the most distant ports of our respective republics are but 4,500 miles from New York via Panama and 11,000 miles from New York via Magellan.

"The completion of the Panama canal will remove these and other obstacles. Equally important will be the better understanding of the markets of South America by the exporters and manufacturers of this country, who will have more opportunity to study and consult the tastes and necessities of the South American people and also will have greater facilities to visit the various countries in order to get acquainted with the business men. Personal and direct contact is a powerful element of union and a powerful agency for the promotion of advantageous relations.

South America's Riches.

"The continent of South America is capable of unlimited development by reason of its size, the variety and richness of its products. The total population of the ten republics does not exceed 60,000,000 people, but their international commerce amounts to about $2,500,000,000 annually and grows steadily every year.

"My country, Bolivia, situated in the center of the continent and crossed by double chains of the Andes, watered by great rivers flowing to the Amazon and the Plata, rich in virgin forests, abundance of rubber and all tropical products, offers in its eastern plains wonderful opportunities for stock raising. The mines of silver, copper, bismuth, zinc and tin are the principal sources of wealth ever since the domination of Spain. The silver mines of Potosi produced billions during the 300 years of the colonial period, and if it had not been for the great depreciation in the value of this metal and the lack of cheap transportation the numerous mines abandoned would today be in active operation.

Boliva Has Tin Monopoly.

"On the other hand, the exploitation of tin has increased considerably. Bolivia, being the only American country where this metal is found in paying quantities, has, I will say, the natural monopoly in its production. Last year more than 24,000 tons of pure tin were exported, and, with better transportation facilities and greater working population, Bolivia, that now produces about one-fourth part of the tin used, could easily supply enough for the world's consumption.

"The opening of the Panama canal will make yet more important the development of the free commercial relations between both Americas. The completion of that stupendous work, called to revolutionize the political and trade relations of the world, will show how near neighbors we are and how close together are the countries of this hemisphere. May their relations increase and, with the development of trade and friendly intercourse, all the nations of America become the homes of happy and free peoples and of permanent peace and good will among them."

BLACK HANDS VISIT DANIELS.

Navy Secretary Recognizes $10,000 Demand as Sons' Joke.

When Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, got back to his department from a cabinet meeting recently, his aid, Lieutenant Commander Lee Palmer, saluted him and said, "Mr. Secretary, I have the honor to report, sir, that you have been threatened by the Black Hand."

There on the secretary's big desk was a sheet of paper on which the sign of the Black Handers had been drawn, and scrawled beneath it were the words, "Put $10,000 on the ole stump or beware of the Black Hand."

Mr. Daniels smiled. "Have Worth and Frank been here?" he asked.

They had. Worth and Frank are the young sons of the secretary. Worth was named for his uncle, Ensign Worth Bagley Jr., the only line officer of the navy killed in action in the war with Spain.

THINKS MEN SHOULD LIVE TO AGE OF 100.

Boston Professor Attacks Biblical Belief as to Longevity.

Dr. Frank Ellsworth Allard, professor of physical economics at the Boston university medical school, believes that 100 years should be the average life of a man. "The old Biblical passage anent the life of man being threescore years and ten is put into our head at Sunday school," said Dr. Allard, "and we later accept it as a matter of course. It is unfortunate that we have the limit of life in mind. We ought to live to be 100. All disease is a process of distintegration.

"I believe that every disease of every name and nature begins primarily in the breaking of some of nature's laws. I believe that the body may be so trained that it becomes a perfect servant of the will. The keeping of nature's laws is the most perfect form of morality.

"The old line practitioner is bound to pass. The family doctor as we know him today is doomed to extinction. His place will be taken by the physician who will fulfill the real meaning of the word, which is 'teacher.'"

TEMPLE FOR SPIRITUALISTS.

To Build $250,000 Structure For Study of Ghosts.

Announcement was made recently at the New York Temple of Modern Spiritualism by the Rev. Dr. Richard R. Schleusner, pastor, that a site has been decided on in Central Park West for a new temple.

The edifice is to become the headquarters for New York spiritualists and in some measure for the whole country. It is to cost $250,000, including the site, and more than $50,000 has been subscribed.

So great has been the growth of spiritualism in New York within the last two years, said the Rev. Dr. Schleusner, that no doubt is felt about the ability to secure the rest of the sum needed.

It was stated that there are about 12,000 spiritualists in New York and 150,000 in the whole country.

TO BUILD UNIQUE RESIDENCE.

Arkansas Man Gets All Material From Site of Structure.

J. F. Whitlock is going to have, when completed, a unique home in the state of Arkansas. Mr. Whitlock owns about 160 acres of land three miles north of Benton, on which is found every particle of material that will be used for building purposes, besides containing vast depesits of beauxite.

Every brick and concrete block will be made on the place from the raw material; the glass will be manufactured from his own pit; the wood will be sawed from the timber on the place, and practically nothing will be used except the hardware necessary in building that does not come directly from the ground that he owns. The residence will be up to date in every particular.

"How They Solved It!"

Scene I

Living Room in Everyman's Home

Time—Any Evening

Characters—Mr. & Mrs. Everyman

Mr. Everyman has finished reading the evening paper which lies upon the floor beside his chair. He is nearing the end of his after-dinner cigar and his attitude is frankly bored. Mrs. Everyman is doing fancy work.

Mr. E.—(failing to suppress a yawn) "My dear, you will pardon me for saying it, but our evenings have reached a point where they are dead slow."

Mrs. E.—(looking up from her work) "What shall we do? I'll do anything you like. Shall we play cards?"

Mr. E.—"Thanks, no. Two handed games except cribbage, are no good and I'm so tired of cribbage that I hate the sight of the board."

Mrs. E.—"Very well. Shall we go out? Let's go and see George and May."

Mr. E.—"No, I don't want to go out. I'm too tired to begin with, and what's more I don't like this idea that if we want entertainment, we've got to go to some one else's home to find it. Can't you play something?"

Mrs. E.—"I'm awfully sorry, dear, but I'm all out of practice. You know I haven't had time to keep up my music since we were married."

Mr. E.—"Well, there's one thing sure. I'm glad we bought that piano. It's been a fine investment all right. It cost three hundred and fifty dollars and I guess we've used it twice. One hundred and seventy-five dollars per time, which is going some."

Mrs. E.—"I wish I could play. I miss our music as much as you do. (pauses and then apparently seized with a new idea, proceeds with animation) I'll tell you what! Why don't we do what the Loudons did—exchange our piano for a Pianola Piano. I called on Grace this afternoon and found Alice, her little girl, playing dance-music for a half dozen other children. Grace says that Will and she use their Pianola Piano constantly. They have a wonderful assortment of music—most of it music I never could play even when I was in constant practice. Grace played a Chopin nocturne for me that was simply ravishing."

Mr. E.—"That sounds good to me. Why on earth didn't we think of it before? You find out from Grace where Will bought his instrument and I'll meet you there tomorrow afternoon. If they don't cost too much we'll get one."

"My dear, our evenings are dead slow"

Scene II

Demonstration Salon—Aeolian Hall

Time—The following afternoon

Characters—Mr. & Mrs. Everyman and Mr. Hoyt, an Aeolian salesman

A dozen or more selections have been played upon the Pianola Piano, including such pieces as—Nevins' "Day in Venice;" Rubinstein's "Kommenos Ostrow;" Chaminade's "Scarf Dance;" Victor Herbert's "Badinage," etc.
Both Mr. and Mrs. Everyman have tried their skill with the instrument and have become enthusiastic converts.

Mrs. E.—"Isn't it too splendid? Think of your playing a Liszt rhapsody and playing it well, too, with all the changes of tempo and expression. I think the Metrostyle is the most marvelous thing about the instrument. Imagine having Paderewski's own interpretation to guide one as I had when I played that Chopin etude."

Mr. E.—(to salesman) "You say this instrument is like the one Mr. Loudon has. I think he said his cost $650."

Salesman—"Yes, I had it looked up. He purchased one of the $650 models. This is a similar instrument."

Mr. E.—"Have you anything less expensive?"

Salesman—"Yes, I can give you a player-piano, an excellent instrument, for $450. Our cheapest Pianola Piano is $550. I will show you one."

Mr. E.—"No, I won't bother. I think this is what I want—that is if the terms of payment are not too steep. I understand I can make payments monthly."

Salesman—"The terms of payment on this instrument are $35.00 down and $17.50 monthly. On the cheaper instruments the payment runs as low as fifteen dollars down and twelve dollars monthly."

Mr. E.—"Well, I guess I can stand $17.50 a month all right. How about my old piano? What'll you do about that? I'd like to turn it in as part payment toward this instrument. Do you do that sort of thing?"

"Imagine having Paderewski's own interpretation to guide one"

Salesman—"Yes, we take old instruments in exchange. Of course I'll have to see your piano before I can tell you how much we can allow you for it."

Mr. E.—(rising to go) "That's all right. Here's my address. You can send a man up at any time, but I'd like to arrange so as to have the instrument in the house by Sunday surely."

Scene III

Same as Scene I, except that the old piano has gone and a new Pianola Piano has taken its place.

Time—11:45 o'clock Saturday evening

Characters—Mr. & Mrs. Everyman

Mrs. E.—(to her husband who has just finished the piece he has been playing) "That must be the last, Tom—do you know that it is nearly midnight?"

Mr. E.—(looking at his watch) "By jove, you're right! A quarter to twelve! I wouldn't have believed it. I guess we'll have to call it off for the night. Say, that's what I call having a "regular" time! What do you think of your hubby as a star performer? Pretty good, eh? Didn't I show some class in that last little bit of ragtime?"

Mrs. E.—"It's all wonderful. It seems almost too good to be true. Here are you who don't know the first thing about music and suddenly without a moment's study or an hour's practice, you can play anything and play well, too. It has been glorious—you have had your ragtime and the popular airs you are so fond of, and I have had Chopin, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Brahms and all the other great composers whose works I love so well. It is just like a dream."

Mr. E.—"Well, it may have been a dream, but if it was, it was a bully one and we're going to have a whole lot more just like it."

Mrs. E.—"Yes, dear. That's the nicest part of it. This is only the beginning."

"It seems almost too good to be true"

Throughout the entire civilized world, scenes similar to the above are being enacted daily. The Pianola Piano is replacing the "Silent Piano" in thousands upon thousands of homes. You may well ask yourself if there is not here a suggestion for brightening and enlivening your own and your families' home-life. The only genuine Pianola Player-pianos are the Steinway, Steck, Wheelock, Stuyvesant, Stroud and famous Weber*. They cost from $550 upwards and may be purchased on easy monthly payments.*

Trenton, March 20.—An appropriation of $50,000 will be available to erect a suitable monument in the City of Elizabeth to mark the first English settlement in this state, if a bill introduced Tuesday night by Mr. Leonard of Union County becomes a law. It was referred to the Appropriation Committee.

Mr. Leonard also put in the bill by Senator Smalley last year authorizing the formations of corporations to build trackless trolleys and permitting the use of such trolleys on the public roads. The bill last year met defeat in the senate.

A third bill by Mr. Leonard repeals the act placing court employes under civil service.

New Providence, March 20.—Upon their return yesterday from a honeymoon spent in Washington, D. C., Rev. and Mrs. Jesse Lee Peck, who were married a week ago, were given a reception in the parlors of the Methodist church, of which Mr. Peck is pastor.

The reception was given by the trustees and official board of the church, the Ladies' Aid Society, the Epworth League, the Sunday school and other church organizations. W. T. Hickson, in opening the program, spoke in behalf of the trustees, of which he is president, and of the official board of the church. Miss Ethel Hickson rendered a soprano solo and then Rev. W. A. L. Jett of St. Luke's Episcopal Mission, Murray Hill, spoke.

'TIS NEVER TOO LATE

Hillsboro, Tex., March 20.—Heirs of the late Judge Abbott of this place were advised today that the estate had been increased unexpectedly by $15.50. While Judge Abbott was a member of the house of representatives, many years ago, he lost a pocketbook containing $15 in bills and 50 cents in postage stamps. Recently a negro, at that time a janitor in the house of representatives, returned the pocketbook and the $15.50, explaining that he had found the money at the time of the loss and the fact that he had failed to return it to the owner had been on his conscience ever since. The amount was formally turned over to the heirs of Judge Abbott at their annual business meeting today.

MANY CANDIDATES IN FIELD

Berkeley Heights, March 20.—More than one-half of the legal voters of New Providence Township turned out to vote at the annual district school election for four members to the School Board and for $3,400 school budget. The budget was carried.

There were two candidates out for the three three-year vacancies and five for the two-year vacancies. The successful candidates were: Three years, Charles Burgmiller, Simon P. Debbie and Thomas Exner; two years, Angelo Del Duco.

ONE WHITEHOUSE CONTEST

Whitehouse, March 20.—At the annual school meeting of Clinton Township at Lebanon there were 123 votes cast, and Enoch Merrell of Round Valley and John W. Sharp of Annandale were elected members of the Board of Education without opposition, receiving the total vote.

There was a contest between P. K. McCathern and I. Johnson, both of Cokesbury, for the third vacancy on the board, which resulted in McCathern winning by a vote of 65 to 58. No appropriation was voted on.

IN TRI-STATE LEAGUE.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 20.—President Carpenter and the club owners of the new Tri-State Baseball League are to meet here tomorrow to complete all arrangements for the opening of the league's initial season. It has already been decided that the league is to be a six-club organization, embracing Atlantic City, Wilmington, Allentown, York, Trenton and Harrisburg. According to the tentative schedule the season will begin April 30 and end on Labor Day.

ELIOT NEAR FOUR-SCORE.

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, entered upon his eightieth year today. For a man of his years Dr. Eliot is unusually hale and vigorous. Last year he made an extensive tour of the Far East and recently he has been prominently mentioned for an important diplomatic appointment under the new administration.

PUBLIC SCHOOL USE

Trenton, March 20.—Public school houses will be thrown open to various uses, if a bill introduced in the assembly last night by Mr. Henessey of Bergen County shall pass. It provides that school houses may be used for public library purposes, for holding social and civic and recreational meetings, for entertainments, etc., where admission fees are charged; also for polling places and for political meetings.

DOG SHOW OPENS.

Toronto, Ont., March 20.—A bench show under the joint auspices of the Toronto Kennel Club and the Bulldog Breeders' Association opened at the Armories today and will continue through the remainder of the week. Prize-winning dogs of many breeds and representing well known kennels throughout Canada and the United States are included among the exhibits.

FRANCE TO HAVE PARADE OF GREAT BLACK ARMY.

Plans Made For Review of Remarkable Troops In Paris.

Within the last six years France has raised a black army approximating 140,000 men, and the ministry of war and the colonial ministry are now preparing a plan for giving Paris a chance to see the black soldiers at the national review on July 14.

It is purposed that each section—the Senegalese, the Madagascar troops and others—shall send a delegation and that President Poincare shall present each regiment with its flag. The First Senegalese regiment, which has its flag already, will receive the insignia and the Legion of Honor, which decoration was recently gazetted.

France's black army has been brought into being by Colonel Mangin, who was when a captain second in command of Marchand's famous mission to Fashoda in 1899.

There are very few black officers. Two years ago there were only a dozen. The French find that black men fight better under white officers, as has also been the experience of the American army.

A French military authority, General Bonnal, estimates in a document which is filed at the French war office that a division of 10,000 blacks officered by Frenchmen could make a breach in a German line of battle of two to three miles and push them back, scattering infantry, cavalry and artillery after French troops had prepared the way for them.

CANNON TO BE NO AUTHOR.

Ex-Speaker Declines to Write—Says Too Many Books.

There will be no volume of reminiscences written by Joseph G. Cannon, ex-speaker of the house of representatives, who has been a private citizen since March 4.

Champ Clark suggested in Mr. Cannon's presence during a speech at the Cannon testimonial dinner last February that the latter should write such a book.

"Oh," said Mr. Cannon when asked whether he intended to write such a book. "I shall write no reminiscences. Thousands of books are being written now. I'll leave that to others.

"A man is in the public mind for a time; then he is gone. Not one book in ten is remembered. Not one in a thousand survives. It is almost a crime to cut down the forests to print so many of them.

"I will be seventy-seven next May. No; thank you. I cannot undertake it."

HOW TRAITORS SOLD RUSSIA.

Report of How Army Officers Sold Plans to Japan Is Out.

An amazing story is related in a Geneva dispatch to the Excelsior, a French paper, concerning the Russian Baron Ygor Tillinsky, who was recently at Zurich. The baron declares that he holds a claim on the Japanese government for $70,000,000. According to his story, three Russian staff officers of revolutionary tendencies sold the plans of the Pacific fortresses, including Port Arthur, to the Japanese government at the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war.

They received in payment three checks amounting to little more than $23,000,000, each payable at Tokyo on March 22, 1915. The officers further contracted to remain in the service of Japan until the checks were paid.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

One piece or semiprincess frocks, both for young girls and women, will be worn as much this spring and summer as they have been all winter. The model in the cut is very smart and simple to make. It consists of a three piece skirt, with panel at the front and a simple blouse, with vest that meets the panel of the skirt and gives a continuous effect.

In the illustration the material is one of the new spring novelties combined with plain goods for the vest, panel and collar.

For the sixteen-year-old size the dress will require five yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, with one yard and an eighth yard for collar and cuffs. The width of skirt at lower edge is two yards.

SEMI-PRINCESS FROCK FOR SPRING.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for girls of sixteen and eighteen years of age and is adapted to small women. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 7761, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SALT MACKEREL.

SALT fish should be prepared by soaking overnight in cold water with the skin side up or else taking off the skin before the fish is put into the water. This takes out the salt. Changing the water often will shorten the process.

Salt mackerel broils to advantage. It may be served with cream sauce. Potatoes, beets and onions are suitable vegetables to go with it.

Seasonable Suggestions.

Suggestions for cooking salt mackerel are given here:

Broiled Salt Mackerel.—Soak the fish overnight. In the morning dry without breaking. Lay between the bars of a buttered gridiron and broil to a light brown. Place on a hot dish. Melt a tablespoonful of butter and add to it a teaspoonful of lemon juice or vinegar, a tablespoonful of hot water, a pinch of black pepper, a small pickle chopped fine and pour over the mackerel.

With Sharp Sauce.

Mackerel and Horseradish Sauce.—Soak a salt mackerel for ten hours, changing the water once. Then cook in boiling water with a bay leaf, a sliced onion and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. When done put the fish on a platter. Serve with a sauce made from a cup of thin cream, a level tablespoonful of butter and an egg yolk, stirring in half a cup of grated horseradish, bringing it to the boiling point.

Creamed Mackerel.—Soak the fish overnight and wipe dry before using. Broil on a buttered gridiron over a clear fire. Lay on a hot dish and pour over it a cream sauce made as follows: Into one cup of boiling water stir two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch. Rub smooth with one tablespoonful of butter and cook until well thickened. Add a well beaten egg, mixing carefully to prevent curdling. Cook a moment longer, season with a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and a saltspoonful of pepper.

New Jersey Legislature.

The direct representatives of Plainfield people are Senator Carlton B. Pierce and Assemblyman Hugh J. McLaughlin, John J. Griffin and William A. Leonard. Address them at either Senate or House of Representatives, State House, Trenton, New Jersey.

State Council.

Notices have been sent out of the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Council of Mothers' Clubs and Parent-Teacher Associations, to be held at Trenton on Thursday morning, April 3, at 10:30 o'clock, in the parlors of the Presbyterian church on Prospect street. The date was changed from Saturday, April 5, for reasons of convenience. Delegates from all Mothers' Clubs and Parent-Teacher Associations as well as all individual members of the Congress are invited to attend and bring reports. Those attending are requested to bring a box luncheon.

Widows' Pensions.

There is now a Widows' Pensions bill before the New Jersey Legislature. It has been referred to the committee on miscellaneous businss, the chairman of which is Samuel T. Munson. A most interesting account of how Pensions for Widows were won in Oregon through the efforts of the Oregon Congress of Mothers can be found in the Child Welfare Magazine for March 1913. In Los Angeles, California, Kansas City, Missouri, Chicago, Illinois and Milwaukee, Wisconsin, such a law is now in active operation and in each case is heartily endorsed by the judge administering it.

Any person approving such a law in New Jersey can help by writing to Mr. Munson and expressing the hope that he favors the principle and will recommend a bill, this one or some other, granting allowances out of State funds to impoverished widows, for the purpose of rearing their children.

Letters also to the men representing our district in the Legislature are helpful to them in determining the wishes of their constituents regarding such matters.

N. E. A. and N. C.

The officers and managers of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations met in Philadelphia, February 27th to March 6th, with the Bellevue-Stratford as headquarters.

The Department of Superintendance of the National Education Association met in Philadelphia, February 26 to March 1, with the Bellevue as headquarters. This brought to Philadelphia about three thousand leading educators of the United States. The latter assigned the Clover Room at the Bellevue-Stratford to the Mothers' Congress for Saturday, March 1, 9 to 1 o'clock, and this conference was included in the program of the Department of Superintendence.

The officers of the Mothers' Congress gave a luncheon following this Saturday morning session, entertaining U. S. Commissioner of Education P. P. Claxton; Miss Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of Chicago schools; B. A. Fairchild, president of the N. E. A., and many other prominent educators.

Program Committee.

"What shall we have for our program?" is the question puzzling many Mothers' Clubs and Parent-Teacher Associations. To meet that need efficiently one must make that program of real helpfulness to parents in their own home problems. One should also give the broader viewpoint by keeping the members informed as to current efforts for child welfare outside the home. One should also have a summary of what is done by other Parents' Circles from month to month. This will give work for three persons at each meeting and not be a heavy burden on any one.

A suggested program is given in the March number of the Child Welfare Magazine. Any association desiring different programs or suggestions can obtain the same by writing to the magazine, 227 South Sixth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

THE KINDERGARTEN.

Educators have never done full justice to the profound services of the kindergarten and the doctrines of Froebel which it represents. They have not adequately recognized that the most vital educational movements of our day are either directly or indirectly traceable to the work of Froebel. Whever the kindergarten has gone pedagogical formalism and mechanical teaching have disappeared. It has completely transformed primary work within the past generation. Through the influence of the kindargarten, music, drawing, color-work, constructive work of all kinds, and the more psychological and natural methods of teaching reading have been introduced into the schools. Yet many up-to-date teachers of primary work operate the kindergarten and appear totally ignorant that all these progressive methods come directly from Froebelianism. From this same source the advanced grades have received manual training, nature-study, gardening, play and several other important additions to the course of study. The most significant educational doctrine of the past twenty years, that of social education, came directly from the kindergarten circle and from Froebel's doctrine of Gliedganzes, the relating of the child through his activities to human institutions. We are compelled to inquire in astonishment why such liberal services have not received more ample recognition. One reason may be that kindergarten principles have been kept aloof from ordinary pedagogy, and kindergartners have been too narrow in their interests. They have not understood that the principles of pedagogy are the same for all ages and stages of child life, and that Froebel's laws are true for all education.

The progress of kindergarten has been retarded by circumstances arising both from within and without, and these must be removed before progress can be expected.

The kindergarten has a wonderful mission to perform in the industrial society of our times. It is perfectly evident that more and more women will be forced into the ranks of labor. The care of their children throughout the hours of the day may devolve upon properly conducted kindergartens, just as the children of Rome are trained in the Case dei Bambini which Madam Montessori directs. All school systems in industrial communities should be compelled to furnish kindergarten facilities for the children. No one who has reflected upon the matter doubts that the age from four to seven is crucial for the development of the most important instincts of the child's nature. Another reason why the kindergarten should be made an integral factor in State education lies in the fact that it will greatly lengthen the number of years of schooling for the vast masses of children who are compelled at an early age to leave school.

Every age has it Zeitgeist which inevitably finds expression in a new view of education. Some of the characteristics of the era upon which human society is entering are not difficult to discern. It will exalt social duty, and be more efficient, creative, and artistic in production, and if we believe the new prophets, Bergson and Eucken, it will be more intensely spiritual. Where shall we look for a discipline better fitted to embody such a full and harmonized conception of liberalized manhood and womanhood than in the theory and practices of Froebel? Let us remember the kindergarten despite its weaknesses, is still the one and only school which recognizes without compromise that man's true nature is realized in the spiritual creation of truth, beauty, justice, philanthropy, and holiness. tI alone has striven to produce perfect personality by liberating, training and organizing the inner spontaneous forces. It alone views education as a process of organic development. The extension of the principles of the kindergarten upward through all grades to the university is, in my view, the most important step in the advancement of education.—Child Welfare Magazine.

Days of Sunshine Are Ahead
Awnings Will Be Welcome Soon

You Can Save 10 Per Cent. If You Order Awnings Now

It is really remarkable how many people are getting wise and ordering awnings early. So gratified are we at our earliest responses that we think it worth while to tell again of our offer to save 10 per cent. for those ordering awnings this month.

Why not save this 10 per cent. on the cost of your awnings, when all that is necessary on your part is to say the word permitting us to go ahead with your order right away.

You need not pay until we deliver and hang your awnings.

We use absolutely the best materials that can be put into awnings, guarantee you the most careful workmanship and the most expert hanging, and give you the service at the lowest possible price.

No one can promise you any more and make good your promise.

We make and sell more awnings than any other two or three shops in town. We've built the business on the basis of highest quality, best service and fair price.

We use the Best and Heaviest Galvanized Frames, close to one-half inch thick, on all window awnings of standard size.

For porches we use 3-8, 1-2 and 3-4 Galvanized Pipe, the solid iron being too heavy for porch use because the greater widths and lengths required.

We also use head rods at top of awnings, thus saving your woodwork and making awnings easy to put up or take down. Exlusive with us.

We Use the Best and Most Fully Guaranteed Awning Stripes, giving you wide choice of colors, including the popular browns and tans, reds, blues, greens—Colors That Will Not Run, no matter how much exposed to rain and wind they may be.

In making the awnings, the frames are enveloped in a pocket—a most important feature—introduced by us, copied by very few—so that they will withstand the heaviest wind storms.

If you will observe many of the awnings hung by others, you will find that the awning covers are attached to the frames only here and there with little patches, making it easy for a violent wind to rip them to pieces.

Awnings Generous in Size

We will make all our awnings in Generous Sizes, making them look Dressy and Full, hanging as low as need be to keep out all the sun, yet so that they may be raised to let in the air when the sun is not beating upon your windows. There is as much difference between Hahne & Co. awnings and many that you get elsewhere as there is between a carefully tailored suit and the most ordinary hand-me-down.

If you want the best awnings at the fairest prices, send us word at once and our experts will come and measure you windows or porches, bringing samples of stripes for you to choose from, relieving you of any further worry or bother.

Baby Carriages
THAN ANY HOUSE IN THE COUNTRY

It may seem strange to some that a store in Newark, N. J., could outstrip all its Metropolitan neighbors in the selling of baby carriages.

And it is not because there is a bigger average of babies born in New Jersey than in New York or Pennsylvania or any other State.

It is because we carry the largest line of baby carriages in America and because this store has long been headquarters for everything that mothers buy.

Tomorrow we offer as a special inducement—

Pullman Sleepers in a variety of styles, made of best reed with roll on hood and body; fitted with loose sanitary corduroy cushions, with pushers of bicycle tubing and porcelain and enameled cross handles, heavy, easy-running rubber tires—carriages that we regularly sell at the moderate price of $20, on Friday at only $15

EVIDENTLY THE BOSS ISN'T AS LUCKY AS SCOOP

"MAC" SAYS

Hard luck is the final test of efficiency. A cork can float with the current. Although the Leal boys were plainly outclassed in their game with P. H. S. yesterday afternoon, it was evident that they were laboring under a little hard luck. Time and again the spheroid would circle the ring of the basket only to b ounce out without registering the two points.

If Plainfield High School had kept Nash from scoring that lone field goal of the private school quintet, the high school five would have chalked up a record seldom, if ever, equalled in basketball. Holding a team goalless would have been very much out of the ordinary.

As it was, however, Leals managed to push across a lone tally and were contented with that.

Certain parts of the farce were marred by rough playing, especially on the part of Capt. Nash. Not knocking the demon little leader in any way, he is hardly a type to arouse any wonderful enthusiasm if pitted against a tough, rugged player. Little Johnny Heron took all the drubbing without a murmur.

The Leal team must be an elastic proposition, reeking with vitality, to stand up under the numerous assaults upon it. Nothing short of a wonderful sport could absorb the punishment it does and stick around. Better spirit among an aggregation of basketball players is seldom unearthed, and although they have not been playing winning basketball all season, the five regulars deserve no little amount of credit for their stick-to-it-iveness.

It seems familiar to hear of the Yankees being treated to a drubbing. Jersey City took the better half of the score in their game yesterday afternoon.

What has become of Jack Martin? Why have the papers ceased to mention his name? Is he really as homesick as is reported? Will he return home with Chance or finish the trip with Jersey City? How about those Bermuda onions he promised to send to friends in this city? Has anybody heard from Jack? These are just a few of the thousand and one queries flung at us every day concerning the youngster who left here a few weeks ago full of hopes to shine on the A. L. circuit.

The big leaguers will soon be returning to their home fields, the Yankees and Giants occupying the Polo grounds jointly this year.

Aside from the fact that McGraw is working to hold first place and Chance is working to emerge from last, the two old rivals face about the same situation.

COLOR LEAGUE CLOSES

The final event, the 46-yard swim, will be run off in the Y. M. C. A. Senior Department Color League tonight, and this will wind up a most successful league season among the senior department members. The Orange team is now leading by a good margin and the event tonight will have no effect on the team standing, that team being the acknowledged champion.

WILL TRY FOR RECORD

William Schooley, alias "Scoop," will try for another record in the Y. M. C. A. tank tonight when the 46-yard swim will be run off in connection with the Senior Department Color League aquatic schedule. "Scoop" smashed the 23-yard swim mark Tuesday evening at the association gym and will try to lower the longer distance mark tonight.

NOTHING DOING, BAILEY

Manager Bailey of the Y. M. C. A. first team, who has been trying to arrange a game with the Y. M. C. A. Ajax to be played on the association court next Saturday evening, will have to call off the engagement, as Manager A. M. Hetfield of the Ajax does not feel justified in playing the game when he cannot get his full team together. Two of the members will be out of town Saturday night, and this would necessitate playing the game with two substitutes, which would greatly diminish the Ajax chances for victory. The game will likely be brought about, however, although the season is fast drawing to a close and the much-disputed association championship will be decided.

ELKS' LAST GAME

Jersey City Elks will roll on the local alleys tonight in the last game scheduled for the Queen City tribe in the Elks Bowling League's season schedule. The local pinners are anxious to wind up the season with a victory, and will go after all three games tonight.

SEASON CLOSES

With the final game of the Interscholastic basketball league now decided the local schools will now turn their entire attention to turning out baseball nines. Yesterday's game was the last one for Leals and P. H. S., and the boroughites wound up their schedule two weeks ago.

SATTELS WINNER OF CHESS TOURNAMENT

A Handicap Tourney Will Now Be Conducted By the P. H. S. Club.

Joseph Sattels, with 19 games won and 1 lost, is the winner of the Plainfield High School Chess Club's tournament which has been running along all winter. Now that the tournament has been concluded a handicap tourney, with Sattels as scratch man, will be started, and handicaps will be lotted out to the players based on the final standing of the club tournament just closed.

The final standing of the tournament is as follows:

	W	L	D	Pts
Sattels	19	1	1	39
Shaw	16	4	1	33
Thompson	12	9	0	24
Smith	10	10	1	21

Henderson	8	11	2	18
Sachar	4	17	0	8
Fleming	3	19	1	7

The handicaps will be distributed according to the difference of points between the handicapped and the handicapper, who will start from scratch.

SENIORS TIE SOPHS IN LEAGUE CONTEST

Upper Classmen Are Now On An Even Footing In Race For Interclass Honors.

Playing the second game of the post scason series to decide the winner of the Plainfield High School Interclass Basketball League title, the Senior quintet evened matters up with their rivals, the Sophomores, on the school court yesterday afternoon taking the second clash with a score of 17 to 14. As was the case in the other game the close guarding was a prominent feature, the guards holding their forwards to low scores, and the goals that were made were of the sensational kind, provoking healthy bursts of applause from the large audience that is following up these interclass games.

The series now stands one game apiece and the playoff will be conducted this afternoon in the school gym, the winner being awarded the championship and a set of medals that go with it. At the end of the first half the count stood 6 to 3 in favor of the ultimate winners, and the same margin of three points was maintained until the end, the Seniors holding the lead. Several times in the second half it looked as though the Sophs were about to launch their famous spurt and annex the victory, but the fourth-year guards were effective in checking the 1915 class' onrushes. LEAL SCHOOL FIVE GETS THREE POINTS

While P. H. S. Is Tallying Up Forty-nine In Weird Contest at Y. M. C. A.

One field goal and a single tally from the 15-foot mark was the sum and substance of the score totaled up by Leals against her Plainfield High Schol rivals on the Y. M. C. A. court yesterday afternon, the final count being 49 to 3. The lone tally from the field was made by Capt. Nash after P. H. S. had run up a count of 28 to 0, and he followed this one quickly with a one-point score from the foul line. This was the last stand taken by the private school boys as far as scoring was concerned, they being held scoreless in the second period, although Nash tallied one from the penalty line. His loss went to the High School's credit, however, as he run up the tally in the P. H. S. goal instead of his own, in spite of calls from the gallery and entreaties on the part of his teammates.

Frequent fouling on the part of certain members of the private school quintet marred the game in some instances, and if the contest had been closer might have proven disastrous. Although possibly unintentional, the heavy Leals' guards would pick up a light P. H. S. opponent and toss him heavily to the ground, the lightest P. H. S. man being the most effected. Good tallied an even dozen field goals during the contest, while Peacock counted for half that number, four of his coming in succession, being the first ones tallied in the contest. The score:

Athletes from every part of the world will be invited to participate in the events. The lines of the Olympic games will be followed closely in the amateur events, but in addition to these attractions, provided the boxing bill now pending in the egislature passes, there will be several professional boxing bouts. An effort will be made to secure the services of James Thorpe, the Indian athlete, for an exhibition.

RAHWAY TO HAVE A MOTORCYCLE OFFICER

Rahway, March 20.—The Common Council, at a meeting held here, ordered a policeman with motorcycle to be placed on duty in St. George avenue by the lamp and police committee to stop the speeding of automobiles.

Dr. Walter E. Cladek was elected city physician, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Charles B. Holmes.

An ordinance to pave Irving street, with brick or block, from Poplar street to Grand street, was passed on its final reading, and the city engineer was ordered to advertise for bids.

A petition protesting against the paving of Grand street from Irving street to St. George avenue was laid over until the next meeting on request of Councilman Trembly, who stated that he would at that time have a petition to oppose the one presented.

The committee to secure a dog-catcher was authorized to erect a dog pound, it being the intention of the committee to exterminate worthless dogs.

The receiver of taxes reported receipts for February as $2,964.07. The city treasurer reported a balance of $45,419.70, and the following balances in several funds: Contingent, $13,134.43; roads, $13,828.39; police, $11,503.14; fire department, $624.28; poor, $1,472.25; lamp, $6,477.70. Bills to the amount of $2,732.92 were ordered paid.

WANT TROLLEY ROUTE LAID THROUGH MENDHAM

Summit, March 2.—Another appeal to the Morris County Traction Company to build a branch of its road from this city to Morristown by way of West Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Gillette, Millington, Bernadrsville, and Mendham, has been rejected. The latest appeal was made by Edward C. Holmes, of Summit, who called on Otto G. Schultz, one of the officers of the troley company, and laid the request before him.

Mr. Holmes argued that the establishment of such a line as proposed would open up the entire Passaic Valley, and be a big boon to all that section. Talking from the standpoint of a real estate broker, he declared that considerable land that is now unoccupied would be put on the market, that values would increase and that the people of that section would receive incalculable benefits. The distance would be a little more than twenty miles. Arriving at Mendham, the line, it was said, could go straight across country to Morristown, connecting there with the main division.

Mr. Schultz told Mr. Holmes the trolley company would not consider the operation of a branch line until after the courts had determined whether it could build its tracks in front of the convent and Twombly properties between Madison and Morristown. The case has been in the courts more than a year, and all the decisions have been favourable to the trolley company, but in each case appeals have been taken.

P. H. S. ATHLETES PLAN LONG GRIND

Peacock and Schenck Waiting For Roads to Dry Up Before Staring For Ithaca.

William Peacock and Irving Schenck, two Plainfield High School boys, are contemplating a trip to Ithaca, N. Y., via their bicycles, a distance of nearly 300 miles. The journey was originally scheduled to start this afternoon, but because of the wet condition of the roads will probably be deferred until tomorrow. Peacock and Schenck intend to pedal the entire distance in about a week, and arriving at Ithaca they will be entertained by Joseph Gavett and Dixon Phillips, Plainfield High School graduates, who are now pursuing a course of study at Cornell University.

This is by no means a new experience to either o thetwo P. H. S. athletes, they having done some long distance pedaling last summer together. Rugged out of door life appeals to both, and they will probably be benefited by the long grind over hill and dale en route to Cornell.

Captain Greenhut's Honor

The U. S. Government Recognizes His Conspicuous Bravery at Gettysburg.

It was with undisguised pleasure that the host of friends of Captain Joseph B. Greenhut learned of the steps the Government had taken in recognition of his conspicuous bravery at the battle of Gettysburg. Captain Greenhut's comrades knew him for a hero, but the test of the true hero is in the perspective of time, and time has established the shining quality of Captain Greenhut's distinguished valor.

Captain Greenhut himself is very modest about his part in the battle, but anyone who has seen anything of the horrors of war can appreciate what it meant for him to do the volunteer service which has at this late day won for him the signal honor of public Government recognition and commendation. He dismisses the matter in a true hero's way, merely stating the bald facts in the briefest manner possible.

"It was on the second day of the battle," he modestly explained, "when it became necessary to dislodge a corps of sharpshooters who were picking our men off. I volunteered, and selecting about seventy-five men, we stormed the houses and forced the sharpshooters to retreat. We lost only two men. That's all there was to it."

The story is told with more detail in this letter which the Secretary of War has sent to Captain Greenhut on behalf of the Government:

War Department, Washington, Feb. 25th, 1913.

Mr. Joseph B. Greenhut, formerly captain Eighty-second Regiment, Illinois Infantry:

Dear Sir—1. The attention of the War Department having been brought lately to the distinguished service rendered by you to your country on the second day of the battle of Gettysburg (July 2d, 1863), wherein you were specially selected by your commanding officer, Lieutenant-Colonel Edward S. Salomon, to lead a body of about fifty picked volunteers to dislodge Confederate sharpshooters from the shelter of certain houses about one hundred yards in front of the Union line, and from which they were picking off gunners and officers on said line; that you did lead said volunteers and did execute the movement with such great skill and bravery under heavy fire of the enemy, culminating in a bayonet charge led by yourself and in such a manner that the houses were carried and the enemy driven therefrom.

2. I therefore take great pleasure in expressing to you the thanks of the War Department of the United States for the gallantry displayed by you, as set forth above, contributing thereby to the final success of this memorable battle. Very respectfully,

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War.

HOW MONEY TRUST OPERATES AS TOLD BY PUJO COMMITTEE

Morgan, Stillman and Baker Are Said to Compose Inner Group.

Combination Not Formed by Agreement, but Its Control Is a Menace.

A FINANCIAL combination approximating what is popularly called a "money trust," but not formed in consequence of any definite agreement is asserted by the Democratic majority of the Pujo committee to be in actual existence in the United States.

In an exhaustive report, presented to the house of representatives a few days ago, the seven Democratic members of the committee summarized and discussed the evidence presented before the body at its many sessions during the winter.

They hold that the "most active agents" in bringing about the concentration of money and credit, alleged to have been disclosed, are J. P. Morgan & Co., the First National bank of New York, the National City bank of New York, Lee, Higginson & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co. of Boston and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of New York.

What the report describes as the "inner group" in this combination consists of J. P. Morgan & Co., "the recognized leaders, and George F. Baker and James Stillman in their individual capacities and in their joint administration and control of the First National bank, the National City bank, the National Bank of Commerce, the Chase National bank, the Guaranty Trust company and the Bankers' Trust company, with total known resources in these corporations alone in excess of $1,300,000,000."

The firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. is described as being "only qualifiedly allied with the inner group."

How the Combination Controls.

The report, after asserting that the money trust existed, said that it had come about largely as follows:

"First.—Through consolidations of competitive or potentially competitive banks and trust companies, which consolidations, in turn, have recently been brought under sympathetic management.

"Second.—Through the same powerful interests becoming large stockholders in potentially competitive banks and trust companies.

"Third.—Through the confederation of potentially competitive banks and trust companies by means of the system of interlocking directorates.

"Fourth.—Through the influence which the more powerful banking houses, banks and trust companies have secured in the management of insurance companies, railroads, producing and trading corporations and public utility corporations, by means of stockholdings, voting trusts, fiscal agency and contracts or representation upon their boards of directors or through supplying the money required.

"Fifth.—Through partnership or joint account arrangements between a few of the leading banking houses, banks and trust companies in the purchase of security issues of the great interstate corporations, accompanied by understandings of recent growth—sometimes called 'banking ethics'—which have had the effect of effectually destroying competition."

Two Reform Bills Proposed.

In order to carry out some of the many reforms suggested by the majority to end the alleged evils, the majority presents two bills. One proposes changes in the national banking laws for the regulation and restraint of concentration and control of money and credit.

The committee urges legislation affecting bank consolidation, interlocking directorates, interlocking stockholdings among banks, voting trusts, security companies as adjuncts to banks, fiscal agency agreements, bank investments in bonds, reform of railroad reorganization, limitation of borrowings by officers, from their own banks, publicity of assets and similar matters.

The committee advises that clearing houses be incorporated and seeks to accomplish this by prohibiting national banks from affiliation with an unincorporated clearing house or any clearing house association that adopts rules that infringe on the rights of national banks under their charters.

The report also recommends that national banks be barred from engaging in underwritings and that the interstate commerce commission receive power to supervise the reorganization of interstate railroads and control the security issues of such lines.

The other undertakes to compel the incorporation of stock exchanges by forcing them to make certain reforms before allowing them to use the mails. This is an indirect attempt to regulate the New York Stock Exchange. The committee does not recommend direct regulation of the affairs of the exchange except through the application of a mail embargo.

None of the Republican members signed the majority report. Three of them—Hayes of California, Guernsey of Maine and Heald of Delaware—filed the principal minority report. In it they deny the existence of a money trust, but admit that there is a dangerous concentration of credit. They recommend that more testimony be taken on the probable effect of the legislation proposed by Chairman Pujo and his Democratic associates.

Representative McMorran of Michigan, the fourth Republican member of the committee, refused to sign the Pujo or Hayes report and submitted a report of his own covering about 7,000 words, challenging the conclusions of the majority and paying a tribute to the New York financial world.

Analysis of Money Trust.

In discussing the question of a combination of financial interests, having for its purpose the control of money and credit and thus constituting to all intents and purposes a real "money trust," the majority of the Pujo committee reviews the evidence exhaustively and then says:

"Your committee is satisfied from the proofs submitted that there is an established and well defined identity and community of interest between a few leaders of finance, created and held together through stock ownership, interlocking directorates, partnerships and joint account transactions, and other forms of domination over banks, trust companies, railroads and public service and industrial corporations which has resulted in a great and rapidly growing concentration of the control of money and credit in the hands of these few men.

J. P. MORGAN (AT TOP) AND GEORGE F. BAKER.

"If by the term 'money trust' is meant a combination or arrangement created and existing pursuant to a definite agreement between designated persons with the avowed and accomplished object of concentrating unto themselves the control of money and credit we are unable to say that the existence of a money trust has been established in that broad, bald sense of the term, although the committee regrets to find that, even adopting that extreme definition, surprisingly many of the elements of such a combination exist.

Form of the Combination.

"It would, of course, be absurd to suggest that control of the bulk of the widely distributed wealth of a great nation can be corralled by any set of men. If that is what is meant by gentlemen who deny the existence of a money trust your committee agrees with them. Such a thing would, of course, be impossible, and its suggestion is ridiculous. It is not, however, necessary that a group of men shall directly control the small savings in the banks nor the scattered resources of the country in order to monopolize the great financial transactions or to be able to dictate the credits that shall be extended or withheld from the more important and conspicuous business enterprises. This is substantially what has been accomplished and fairly represents the existing condition.

"Under our system of issuing and distributing corporate securities the investing public does not buy directly from the corporation. The securities travel from the issuing house through middlemen to the investor. It is only the great bank or banker with access to the mainsprings of the concentrated resources made up of other people's money in the banks, trust companies and life insurance companies and with control of the machinery for creating markets and distributing securities who can underwrite or guarantee the sale of large scale security issues.

A Maze of Co-operating Institutions.

"Sixth.—Beyond these inner groups and subgroups are banks and bankers throughout the country who co-operate with them in underwriting or guaranteeing the sale of securities offered to the public and who also act as distributers of such securities. It was impossible to learn the identity of these corporations owing to the unwillingness of the members of the inner group to disclose the names of their underwriters, but sufficient appears to justify the statement that there are at least hundreds of them and that they extend into the principal cities throughout this and foreign countries.

"Your committee is convinced that, however well founded may be the assurances of good intentions by those now holding the places of power which have been thus created, the situation is fraught with too great peril to our institutions to be tolerated.

"If therefore by a money trust is meant 'an established and well defined identity and community of interest between a few leaders of finance which has been created and is held together through stockholdings, interlocking directorates and other forms of domination over banks, trust companies, railroads, public service and industrial corporations and which has resulted in a vast and growing concentration of the control of money and credit in the hands of a comparatively few men' your committee has no hesitation in asserting as the result of its investigation up to this time that the condition thus described exists in this country today.

Makeup of the Trust.

"The parties to this combination or understanding or community of interest, by whatever name it may be called, may be conveniently classified for the purpose of differentiation into separate groups.

"First.—The first, which for convenience of statement we will call the inner group, consists of J. P. Morgan & Co., the recognized leaders, and George F. Baker and James Stillman in their individual capacities and in their joint administration and control of the First National bank, the National City bank, the National Bank of Commerce, the Chase National bank, the Guaranty Trust company and the Bankers' Trust company, with total known resources in these corporations alone in excess of $1,300,000,000, and of a number of smaller but important financial institutions. This takes no account of the personal fortunes of these gentlemen.

"Second.—Closely allied with this inner or primary group and indeed related to them practically as partners in many of their larger financial enterprises are the powerful international banking houses of Lee, Higginson & Co. and Kidder, Peabody & Co., with three affiliated banks in Boston—the National Shawmut bank, the First National bank and the Old Colony Trust company—having about two-thirds of the total resources of all the Boston banks; also with interests and representation in other important New England financial institutions.

"Third.—In New York city the international banking house of Messrs. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., with its large foreign clientele and connections, while only qualifiedly allied with the inner group, yet through its close relations with the National City bank and the National Bank of Commerce and other financial institutions, with which it has recently allied itself, has many interests in common, conducting large joint account transactions with them, especially in recent years, and having what virtually amounts to an understanding not to compete."

THE MONEY TRUST AS FOUND BY THE PUJO COMMITTEE.

I.—WHAT IT IS.

Your committee is satisfied from the proofs submitted * * * that there is an established and well defined identity and community of interest between a few leaders of finance, created and held together through stock ownership, interlocking directorates, partnerships and joint account transactions and other forms of domination over banks, trust companies, railroads and public service and industrial corporations, which has resulted in great and rapidly growing concentration of the control of money and credit in the hands of these few men.

PLAN CAMPAIGN ON SEX HYGIENE

Dr. Winfield S. Hall to Conduct Series of Meetings Here Next Month.

FOR GENERAL PUBLIC

Seventeen Talks to Be Given In Three Days Under the Auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Dr. Winfield S. Hall, of Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago, will conduct a three-day sex education campaign in this city on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, April 12, 13 and 14, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. A program of 17 addresses to be given before as many distinct groups of persons has been prepared, and sufficient copies of this program will be printed to allow one to every family in the city and borough. Admission to all meetings will be free.

Dr. Hall is recognized as one of the leading medical authorities of the country on the subject of sex hygiene. He has recently been commissioned by the American Medical Association to write a series of four pamphlets for general distribution and for the dissemination of scientific knowledge regarding the sex life.

His writings, including "From Youth Into Manhood," "Reproduction and Sex Hygiene," "Sexual Knowledge," are everywhere accepted as standard works. They are simple, scientific, thorough and everywhere characterized by good sense and good taste. Possibly no books dealing with the same subject have been received by the public with greater appreciation.

As a lecturer, Dr. Hall brings to bear upon his work an attractive personality, great reserves of information, a clear-cut, scientific method, an unusual power of statement, and a genuine Christian character. Lecturing only during the week-ends of a crowded life as professor of physiology in Northwestern Medical College, he addresses the remarkable total of nearly 200,000 persons every year. The universal testimony of those who promote his campaigns is that they leave everywhere lasting impressions for good and that the after effects of Dr. Hall's talks are most wholesome.

While nearly all the meetings planned for him in Plainfield will be for men and boys, by special request Dr. Hall is to give one lecture to mothers and one to young women. It is planned to have Dr. Hall talk on "Social Ethics, or What Shall We Teach Our Children About the Great Life Truths." It will be given in the High School Auditorium on Saturday afternoon, April 12, at 2.30, and repeated at 4:00 o'cock in the auditorium of Washington School. He will also speak to young women on Sunday afternon, April 13, at 3:00 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. The complete program for the campaign follows:

STEPHEN KROM DIES IN HIS 78TH YEAR

Retired Mining Engineer Succumbed to Heart Disease Suddenly Today.

Stephen Krom, aged seventy-seven years, a well-known resident of this city since 1874, died suddenly this morning at his home, 318 Franklin place, from an acute attack of heart trouble. He had been a sufferer of heart disease for several years, but his general condition was not considered serious.

Mr. Krom was born at Ashokan, Ulster county, New York, where he spent his boyhood days. Later he removed to New York, where for many years he was engaged in the manufacture of mining machinery, the factory being in Jersey City. Since his retirement seven years ago the business has been carried on by his sons, Stephen A. Krom and Stanley V. Krom.

Mr. Krom was a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers and a trustee of All Souls' Unitarian Church, where he was a regular attendant. Surviving are four sons, Stephen A. and Louis J. Krom, of this city; Fred H. Krom, of Weston, Somerset county, and Stanley V. Krom, of Jersey City; also one sister, Miss Annie Krom, of New York.

Private funeral services will be held at the late home Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Arthur E. Wilson, of All Souls' Church, will officiate, and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

MISS RICHARDS ON TROUBLES IN GREECE

She Recites the Life and Sad Ending of Beloved King George.

Incidents and comments, somewhat of a personal character concerning the recent assassination of King George of Greece, formed the basis for the instructive talk given by Miss Janet Richards at the Hartridge Auditorium, yesterday afternoon. There was an unusually large attendance of women. The speaker said that while perhaps most of those present had read accounts of the tragedy, she might be able to give a personal sidelight on what she termed nothing more nor less than a cruel, useless murder.

Miss Richards said that King George's death occurred to the day just 50 years from the time he ascended the throne. Greece had been in a state of turmoil as the Balkan States are at present. She paid a fine tribute to the King and his father, King of Denmark. She said that the children in the family during their younger days were taught trades and domestic science, and afterward all married into royalty.

King George, Miss Richards said, was 18 years old, a midshipman in the English navy, and throughout his long reign he was beloved by his people and in her opinion was one of the best rulers. He had about decided to retire in favor of Constantine when he was murdered, believing that he had served long enough.

That King George's murder was brutal and useless was the opinion of Miss Richards. What bearing it might have on the Balkan war she was not prepared to state.

Turning her attention to other foreign affairs, Miss Richards refered to to the proposed plan in France to increase the taxes for the support of the army and navy, a worse example of which was to be found in Germany. In Great Britain there is now a movement to compel young men of the richer as well as poorer classes to serve some time at least in the army, and Miss Richards said that this proposition is causing great dissatisfaction in England, and thus the turmoil continues among the foreign nations. Miss Richards devoted the major part of her talk to foreign affairs, only touching in brief on those at home.

A SURPRISE PARTY

When George Gates of Grove street was called to his home last night by a hurry call, he found nearly 100 of his friends assembled in the parlor ready to spring at him when he opened the front door. Mr. Gates was taken completely unawares and it took some time to realize the fact that his wife had prepared a surprise party for him and the host of friends was there to make merry. Guests were present from Bound Brook, Somerville, New York and Jersey City and enjoyed a program of game playing and vocal and instrumental music.

NEW SUPERVISOR FOR PLAYGROUND

George W. Wriston Succeeds C. R. Bostwick As Director At Parker Field.

HIGH SCHOOL DIRECTOR

Graduate of Wesleyan University and An Experienced Coach—Bostwick to Go to Mt. Kineo, Maine.

Announcement was made this morning by Herbert E. Parker, secretary of the Plainfield Playground Commission, of the appointment of George W. Wriston of this city, as supervisor of Parker Field during the coming summer. This appointment was made necessary by the resignation of Charles R. Bostwick, last year's director, who will be one of the leaders at Camp Kineo, in Maine, next summer, and this is assigned as the reason for his retirement. Mr. Bostwick conducted the affairs at Plainfield's chief recreation center last summer in an unusually creditable way, and it was with regret that his resignation was received. All last summer the attendance at Parker Field was exceedingly large, and the popularity of the director in charge and his methods of dealing with the juvenile recreation seekers had much to do with its success.

The new committee is well qualified to take up the work now established on a firm basis through Mr. Bostwick's efforts, and the success of Mr. Wriston in the directorship is assured. It is by no means a novelty to him, as he has been dealing with athletics of various types and calibres for the past five years, or since his graduation from Wesleyan University in 1908. He is at present director of athletics at the Plainfield High School, doing all of the coaching at that institution. He has been actively connected with baseball, basketball and track work both in college and in his school work.

Mr. Wriston has developed many star athletic teams, a notable example of his work being the Plainfield High School basketball team, which was not defeated on its home court this season, and won the interscholastic basketball championship two weeks ago. He handles his understudies on a scientific basis, and will invoke a number of entirely new methods of body developing at Parker Field, which will be opened some time during the early part of July. As was the case last year, Mr. Wriston will have a capable corps of associates to assist him in the instruction work, and from present indications it looks as though the playground work would be conducted on a more far-reaching basis this season than it was last. The increasing popularity of the field, especially during the last part of the summer, taxed it to its capacity, and the directors had their hands full providing entertainment for the youngsters who spent their summer vaca-

TAKE BICYCLE THIEF TO THE COUNTY JAIL

Joseph Andrews of Providence, R. I., the alleged bicycle thief arrested Tuesday and who attempted to escape yesterday while being "mugged" for the rogues' gallery, was arraigned last night before City Judge De Meza, who held him in $1,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The elusive Andrews, who has been nicknamed "Mysterious Joe" by the police, was taken to the County jail in Elizabeth this morning, firmly shackled to Roundsman Maurice Higgins. Despite repeated cross-examinations by Chief Kiely, Andrews will reveal nothing of his past other than that he was born in Providence, R. I.

Daniel Sparano, 17 years old, of 818 St. Mary's Avenue, arrested the same day as Andrews on a charge of stealing bicycles, was also arraigned before Judge De Meza last night, and was held for further examination.

TOURIST TELLS OF ISLAND OF SICILY

A. S. Riggs Displayed a Number of Stereopticon Views Taken During Travels.

Illustrating his lecture in a graphic way by a fine collection of views gathered by himself, A. S. Riggs entertained a large gathering of travel lovers in the Washington School Audftorium last night with his talk on "Twentieth Century Sicily." Mr. Riggs prepared the slides especially for this occasion and they added much to the interesting address he delivered, displaying a thorough knowledge of the subject with which he dealt. The facts he has discovered during the time he has spent in research work in geography and ethnology, were described in a way that held the attention of his audience from start to finish.

Being a professional traveler, Mr. Riggs, who has spent years of time and much money touring the continent, told of many scenes of historical and pictorial beauty. His subject is one not often dealt with by lecturers, the island of Sicily being an almost unknown quantity, although at one time it was on this central island that all civilization was focussed. Mr. Riggs described the habits of the conglomerate people of that island, dwelling minutely with their lives and homes at the present time which have a peculiar fascination all their own.

Mr. Riggs is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society and spoke last night in connection with the Public School Free Lecture Course.

DEPOSED MINISTER IS PLACED ON TRIAL

Cleric Who Signed Confession of Evil Doings Now Faces Conference Judges.

The Newark Conference of the M. E. church, which is in session at the Halsey Street M. E. church, in Newark, went into executive session yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to consider the case of Willis S. MacRorie of Mt. Horeb, who, after signing a written confession of his guilt was freed from a serious charge preferred by the mother of 17-year-old Gertrude Nelson, a member of his congregation, when he was pastor of the Mt. Horeb, Mt. Bethel and Springdale churches. Following close upon the events leading to his arrest by the Plainfield police was his resignation from the pastorates. He now seeks reinstatement on the ground that the complaint against him was dismissed.

The investigation by the conference into MacRorie's case is being made with the utmost secrecy. Newspaper men are barred from the proceedings. Nor, will any of the ministers make any statements or give out any information concerning the hearing.

It was rumored in Newark that the trial court, which has been appointed by Bishop Luther B. Wilson, was unable to arrive at a decision after a series of lively debates. Rev. Dr. Williams E. Palmer of Perth Amboy was appointed by the bishop to represent the church in taking testimony. Two clergymen were assigned as representatives for the clergyman under trial and two were appointed to represent the interest of the conference, while a jury of 15 were appointed to hear testimony and render a verdict. The trial has been transferred from the Halsey Street church to the Central M. E. church, in Market street, Newark.

Rev. MacRorie was at the conference and gave evidence of mingled defiance and confidence. Gertrude Nelson and her mother were placed on the witness stand. They are brought to and fro from a boarding house to the church in utmost secrecy, and although newspaper men have searched for them to secure an interview, the scribes have been unsuccessful.

Two sisters and a brother reside in Waterbury, Conn., two brothers in Montreal and a brother and sister in Boston, Mass.

The funeral will be held at 8.30 o'clock Monday morning at the residence of Mrs. E. F. Johnson, 19[illegible] North avenue, Burlington, Vt., and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Cathedral where a high mass of requiem will be said for the repose of the soul. The burial will be at Burlington.

FORMER MAYOR NEWTON B. SMALLEY HAS PLAN FOR "WASHINGTON COUNTY"

As a contributing editor of the Daily Press a few weeks ago, former Mayor Newton B. Smalley discussed his scheme for a new jurisdiction to be known as Washington county, and to embrace Plainfield, North Plainfield, and the city's suburbs. Some idea of his proposition may be gained by the drawing reproduced herewith.

Mr. Smalley says that he has heard many favorable comments concerning the plan, and that he believes in due course of time there will be an organized movement to bring about the change which would be of benefit to Plainfield and surrounding towns. The cut of the map was loaned by The Review.

YOUNG SWINDLERS CAUGHT BY POLICE

Alleged Newarkers Selling Tickets Under False Pretenses Are In the Toils.

FOUND VICTIMS HERE

Made Prisoners After Chase—Many Articles Found On Their Persons Are Incriminating—Held For a Hearing.

Two men, who say they come from Newark, arrested at noon today as swindlers, are believed by the local police to be a pair of clever flim-flammers who have worked their variety of games in many cities of the East. They were arrested for selling admission tickets for a "basketball and dance" to be given by the "Crescent A. C." at the "Plainfield High School Auditorium on Monday, April 7, 1913." The price for each ticket was 25 cents, which admitted "lady and gentleman." They had sold many tickets to various storekeepers and individuals, among them being Dudley Miller, druggist, of 401 Park avenue; Clarence Thorn, 405 Park avenue; J. Kenter, tailor, of 430 Watchung avenue, all of whom became suspicious and notified the police. Needless to say the dance was never scheduled to take place, and the name used was simply a decoy.

Patrolman MacDonald, hearing that the men were operating around the High School, started in pursuit. As he left headquarters he saw two men running up Sycamore street, followed by a crowd of boys. Upon seeing MacDonald the fleeing men separated. After a chase over several back fences and through several alleys, MacDonald caught one man, who gave his name as Charles Pearson, and his address as 27 Halsey street, Newark.

The other prisoner, who later said he was Gustav Fletcher, 28 years old, of 317 Halsey street, Newark, was still pursued by a number of High School boys, who were playing baseball this morning in the High School yard. Charles Roll, of Rockview avenue, took up the chase at Sixth street and Park avenue, and after a run of several blocks, caught Fletcher by the coat and held him. By this time the alleged swindler was set upon by several others just as Patrolman Craig came along. The latter took him to headquarters.

Many articles that may be means of connecting them with offenses committed in other cities were found in their pockets wrapped in silk handkerchiefs. The things included one fake "special police" badge; a "special deputy sheriff badge No. 1551;" several newspaper clippings giving an account of the arrest of a swindler by the name of Harry Gray, apprehended in Newark and another told of the stabbing of a policeman in Jersey City. The traditional good-luck rabbit's foot, a skeleton key, a small bottle of acid, and many fake calling and business cards, which would tend to show that they had several schemes with which they fooled and swindled the public, were also found on their person.

ELABORATE EASTER SERVICES.

Elaborate Easter services will be held at the Temple Baptist Church on Sunday under the auspices of the church and Sunday-school. In the evening the school will be assisted by an orchestra of about fifteen pieces, and the children will take part in recitations, exercises and songs. L. W. Randolph, the superintendent, will be in charge, and Rev. Evarts C. Conover, the pastor, will make an address.

LOCAL SCENES IN "MOVIES."

The first reel of motion pictures taken in Plainfield recently will be shown at the Plainfield theatre this afternoon and evening. When the reel was tested out this morning it was found to be an unusually good one, and it includes many familiar scenes about Plainfield that will be sure to interest patrons of the theatre.

MIRRORS AS A LIQUOR CURE.

Pennsylvania Town Uses Odd Expedient Against Drunkenness.

French mirrors, the beveled, expensive kind, are to be used to rid Swissvale, Pa., of drunkenness.

That suburb is "dry;" so are many of its residents, according to Burgess Henry Milligan. Most of them leave Pittsburgh on the midnight train.

The burgess is going to erect a big panel mirror at the exit from the depot platform. Every man under the influence who passes must see himself. Another mirror will be placed in the borough lockup. Milligan had one of the town boys before him recently. After rousing him out of a cell Milligan had him look at himself in a mirror. "Never again!" swore the delinquent.

Loyalty of the Fan.

Declaring that it doesn't pay to overplay a good thing, Howard Camnitz tells a good yarn concerning an incident that occurred when he pitched for Dick Kinsella's Springfield club.

"We had a veteran pitcher," Camnitz says, "who hadn't been going very well. He lost a couple of games, and the management released him. That afternoon he was to take a 3:15 train for home and went to the bench to bid the boys goodby. Then with his grip in hand he started across the field for the clubhouse. The bleachers saw him going. He had been rather popular around there, so the fans stood up and shouted:

STARTED ACROSS THE FIELD AGAIN.

"'Good luck to you, old sport! Hope you get going again and come back to us!'

"This cheered the old boy, and he delayed his departure. 'If I can get them to do that tomorrow maybe the manager will relent and give me another chance,' he thought.

"So the next day, with grip in hand, he started across the field again. All of a sudden the bleacherites got up as one man and yelled:

"'You darned old stiff, haven't you gone yet?'" — Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

Sorrow and I.

Have I known sorrow?
Yea, sorrow hath been my guest,
Hath walked beside me the morn,
The noontide and the quiet eve
And often lingered in my dreams
Till her pale face familiar seems.

Do I hate sorrow?
Nay; sorrow hath brought me strength
And calmness, and silent walking
In the shadow of her somber robes,
With trust in him who guides aright,
Hath led me into glorious light.
—Eliza M. H. Abbott.

A Literal Rendering.

A Scotch lady gave her servant very particular instructions regarding visitors, explaining that they were to be shown into the drawing room, and no doubt used the Scotticism, "Carry any ladies that call upstairs." On the arrival of the first visitors Donald was eager to show his strict attention to the mistress' orders. Two ladies came together. and Donald seized one in his arms and then said to the other, "Bide ye there till I come for ye," and, in spite of her struggles and remonstrances, ushered the terrified visitor into his mistress' presence in this unwonted fashion.—Life.

LENTEN CANTATA IS IMPRESSIVELY SUNG

Stainer's "The Crucifixion" Rendered By First Baptist Church Choir.

The Lenten cantata, "The Crucifixion," a meditation on "The Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer," by John Stainer, with other numbers was given by the soloists and chorus choir of the First Baptist Church last night, before a large gathering of worshippers, who were deeply impressed with the beautiful work. Perhaps the choir has never given a more finished and perfect rendition of this work. The recitative parts of the cantata by William Holmes, baritone, and George Smith, tenor, with the chorus numbers, were given with true feeling throughout, the description of "The Crucifixion" being impressive.

Practically all the solo work in the cantata is for bass and tenor, and Mr. Holmes and Mr. Smith interpreted their parts in a way that called forth words of praise. A feature of the service was the instrumental music by Udo Gossweiler, 'cellist, and Otto K. Schill, violinist. Their work added much to the finished production. The singing by the choir showed unusual care in training by Howard Case, organist and choir master, all of the choruses being in perfect harmony and unison.

The program was opened with several extra numbers before the cantata was given. The first number was "Nocture," by Mendelssohn, for violin, violoncello and organ, followed with a selection by the chorus, "Ave Verum," by Mozart. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the pastor, recited the Scripture lesson, and after the singing of "Recordare," from the requiem mass by Verdi, for soprano and contralto, Miss Elizabeth St. Ives and Mrs. Annabelle Dickey, Dr. Strong offered prayer. The selection "Recordare" afforded both Miss St. Ives and Mrs. Dickey an excellent opportunity to be heard at their best. Their voices, rich and full, seemed just suited to the difficult numbers. This was also true in the singing of "Agnus Dei," by Verdi, a beautiful number.

Throughout the program the congregation joined in singing appropriate hymns, which included "I Lay My Sins on Jesus," by Sullivan, "Weary of Earth and Laden With My Sin," Langran, and "O, Jesus Thou Art Standing."

The soloists of the choir are Miss Elizabeth St. Ives, soprano; Mrs. Annabelle Dickey, contralto; George H. Smith, tenor; William Holmes, baritone. The members of the chorus follow:

Sopranos, Mrs. Robert Giddes, Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, Mrs. Arthur B. Price, Mrs. H. L. Black, Mrs. E. L. Pfaff; contraltos, Miss Jessie Haynes, Miss Nan F. Randolph, Miss M. M. Reger, Miss Ida Englehardt; tenors, Edward Wagner, Charles B. Fisher, C. W. McCutcheon, John Parry, Erwin B. Leland; bassos, Thomas MacDonald, W. Hull Western, Charles Western, Hollis Cubberly.

PENNOCK'S IDEAS ON SEWER SYSTEM

A Dunellen Druggist Sees Where Borough Can Save Some $2,300.

Edward Pennock, the druggist at Dunellen, who has been making a special study of the proposed sanitary sewage, plans at that place in connection with the joint sewer proposition which Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen propose to construct, claims that he has a scheme whereby the borough can save $2,300, that is by cutting off two sections of the proposed line. The territory in question includes Sixth street, betwen Washington and Madison avenues, which is an imaginary thoroughfare on the borough map.

The matter was taken up with County Engineer Fox, who, after an investigation, agreed with Mr. Pennock and wrote a letter to the Borough Council to that effect. Mr. Pennock's plans include two drops, one from Lincoln avenue towards Washington avenue, and the other running toward Madison avenue. From that point the pipe line would run along Madison avenue to Sixth street and thence back to Washington avenue.

This plan would necessitate raising the elevation at Madison avenue about four feet, and dropping it at Washington avenue to a depth of 12½ feet. He claims that 2,300 feet of pipe could be cut out by this plan, giving a gravity system and thus doing away with a pumping station, which the joint plans call for. The Council has informed Mr. Pennock that the matter will be considered at the April meeting.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD BOY WILL BE RICHEST ONE

New York, March 21.—Some one recently propounded the question as to what would be the first thing you would do if you were given a million dollars. Now here's one for the bright pupils at the head of the class. What would you do if you inherited several hundred millions of dollars? Some problem, eh? Yet this is the very problem that a little American boy who celebrated his seventh birthday today will in all probability have to solve when he grows older.

The little fellow is John D. Rockefeller III., eldest son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., and grandson of the Standard Oil magnate, the bulk of whose millions he will eventually inherit. The Rockefeller fortune is estimated at upwards of $1,000,000,000. Should the seven-year-old lad of today inherit one-half of this amount and the same be compounded at interest for fifty years he will have about $2,500,000,000 with which to make himself comfortable in his old age.

Not a Boaster.

In the old days, when Kentucky was a Whig state, there was one district that was especially rock ribbed in its Whiggery. Much to the surprise of everybody in Washington, this Whig Gibraltar once sent a Democrat to congress. When the new member reached Washington he was congratulated on his personal popularity that had enabled him to overturn the great Whig majority.

The old chap accepted the congratulations and said he did not want to boast, but proudly declared that he had beaten two Whigs in that election and could have beaten three if they had been running.

Followed Instructions.

A Kansas City woman recently took her two small daughters to make their first visit to her husband's people, living in a small Kansas town. Naturally she was anxious to make as favorable an impression as possible. So the two little people on going on an errand to the depot were cautioned to be on their very best behavior. To the mother's surprise, they returned vigorously chewing gum. As they had no money, she asked them where they got it.

"Oh," explained the older one, "it said on the slot machine, 'Ask the agent for pennies,' so we did."—Kansas City Star.

Quite English.

George Broadhurst tells of an English shopkeeper, the soul of amiability. "You are an American, sir, are you not?" he asked. "Yes," said Mr. Broadhurst to save lengthy explanations. "Now, I have a conundrum that I always save for the Americans, because they say they are so deuced clever. When you put a billiard ball on the table, what is the first thing it does?" "Why, I don't know," said Mr. Broadhurst uncertainly. "Perhaps it waits for its cue." "Ah, that's very clever, very clever," countered the little Englishman, "but not so good as the real answer. The first thing it does is to look round."

Unintentional Frankness.

The eldest sons of British peers bear what are known as "courtesy" titles when the head of the house has two or three and can spare an inferior one to his son.

Earl Winterton, a young English politician, has a keen sense of humor and can enjoy a joke on himself. He likes to tell the following:

Before succeeding to the earldom he was known as Lord Turnour, under which name he figured in some noisy scenes in the house. A few months after his father's death he was thus addressed at dinner by a fellow guest:

"I ought to know you, but I can't recall your name."

"Oh, I am Earl Winterton," was the reply.

"Of course, of course," said the other. "Why, I have been confounding you all the evening with that ass Turnour!"

A High Authority.

Curran, the famous Irish advocate, was one day engaged in a case in which he had as junior a remarkably tall and slender barrister who had originally intended to take holy orders. On the judge observing that the case under discussion involved a question of ecclesiastical law, Curran said, "I refer your lordship to a high authority behind me, who was once intended for the church, though in my opinion he was fitter for the steeple!"

"A HIGH AUTHORITY BEHIND ME."

NEW KING OF GREECE HAS WON HIGH RESPECT.

Through Many Hard Experiences Constantine Showed Fine Qualities.

Like his father, Constantine, who succeeded King George of Greece, has had his ups and downs in the favor of the people he is to rule and has grown acquainted with the quick changing likes and dislikes of his subjects. He is now forty-five years old.

King Constantine was born in Athens and received his early education from foreign tutors, who taught him to speak German, English, French, Latin and Danish. At the age of eighteen he was graduated from the military academy with the rank of sub-lieutenant in the army.

He was then sent to Germany, France and Denmark, attending the military maneuvers in each country and acquiring practical knowledge about their armies.

Saw War Was Coming.

When the crown prince in 1896 saw his country drifting into war with Turkey he warned the war department at Athens that the army was utterly unprepared for a campaign. The infantry was armed with condemned French rifles which had cost $2 each. The cartridges were fifteen years old. There was no cavalry. The artillery was obsolete and its officers few. There had been insufficient drill. Nevertheless the country decided upon war. The result was disastrous—a humiliating defeat for Greece. Immediately the popular tide turned against its rulers, whom it denounced as foreigners who could have little in common with the Greeks. The king and queen were hooted in the streets, and the officers turned their backs upon the crown prince.

A similar spirit was roused against the royal house when in 1909 King George tried to oppose the popular clamor for the annexation of Crete, knowing that Turkey was eagerly awaiting such an excuse to bring a second crushing defeat upon Greece. This time the clamor almost became a revolt, and the king was obliged to yield to the demand of the Military league, both for a reorganization of the army and for the dismissal of the crown prince as generalissimo and of his brothers from active commands in the army and navy.

The crown prince left Athens. But two weeks after he had issued orders for the removal of his belongings from Athens to St. Petersburg, where he was to accept a command in the army of the czar, the tide turned again, and he was notified by his father to come back. Three months later Constantine returned to Greece on the invitation of the national assembly.

Restored as Head of Army.

He was restored to his former dignities and after having undergone a severe trial was restored to the command of the army, with added prestige and influence. At the outbreak of the present war in the Balkans he led the advancing Greek forces and captured the city of Saloniki from the Turks. With a force of 10,000 Greeks he caused 25,000 Turks to lay down their arms. His popularity from that time has been tremendous throughout Greece.

It is said that Constantine aims to restore the former grandeur of the ancient Hellenic empire and that he is a believer in the old national prophecy that under the reign of a Constantine and a Sophia the eastern empire shall be called into life again and the cross restored on St. Sophia in place of the crescent.

Prince Constantine, like his father and his brother, Prince George, is of herculean stature, more than six feet tall and magnificently proportioned. He has three children, Alexander George and Helen.

GOOD FRIDAY OBSERVED IN OLD NEW YORK

New York, March 21.—Good Friday, marking the close of the penitential season which precedes the great Christian festival and holiday of Easter, was observed in New York today with all the time-honoured customs. In Old Trinity and St. Paul's Chapel, in St. Patrick's Cathedral and in nearly all of the other Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches there were elaborate services with many notable programmes of religious music. The New York Stock Exchange, the Cotton Exchange and the other big exchanges are closed for the rest of the week to reopen Monday.

The outward and visible sign of Good Friday is the hot cross bun. Never before were there so many of them seen in the metropolis. The windows of every bake shop and delicatessen store were filled with them and every hotel and restaurant served them at the breakfast hour.

The custom of eating hot cross buns on Good Friday was introduced into America from England, but the real origin of the custom has never been satisfactorily traced. Similar delicacies existed long before the Christian era. Indeed a learned Egyptologist once asserted that it was originally symbolical of the worship of the sacred bull in ancient Egypt. Bous, which stands for bull, is in one of its oblique cases written boun," which gives, as he triumphantly pointed out, an easy transition to bun—an explanation more ingenious than convincing.

PARCELS POST.

As an expressman, Uncle Sam has built up such an enormous business since January 1, that he proposes to introduce many improvements to facilitate his work. The big department stores and the mail order houses were the first to take advantage of the parcels post as the quickest, safest and cheapest means for shipping their goods, but it was not long before the florist, the tobacconist, the dairyman, the grocer and the candyman found that the wisest thing for them to do was to use Uncle Sam's service. That accounts for the fact that fifty million packages were sent through the postoffice in this way during the short month of February.

Now, the Government has arranged to introduce a C. O. D. service on July 1, by which upon the payment of ten cents in addition to the regular charge Uncle Sam will collect for a package and remit the amount up to $100, but charging the additional money order fee for the remittance. This will allow the housekeeper to give her orders by telephone from her house in the suburbs or on the farm and have the package delivered at her door. If she wishes to return the parcel, however, additional postage must be paid. On these packages the government will become insurers against loss or damage not to exceed $50.

A "special delivery" service will be instituted in this branch of the postal service, just as in other departments. Then the sender, by attaching a special delivery stamp or ten cents in ordinary postage, will be assured of having his package rushed ahead.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

Mayor Frederick W. Donnelly, of Trenton, has summed up the chief characteristics of commission government in this fashion:

"First, the placing of the municipal governing authority in a small body of men.

Second, Their election at large instead of by wards.

Third, The power to exercise administrative and legislative functions and the privilege of appointment by the board.

Fourth, The placing of each commissioner in charge of a definite department and making him responsible to the people for its proper and intelligent management.

Fifth, The power given to the people to secure honest and efficient government through the medium of the initiative, referendum and the recall. The intrinsic value of commission government really rests on these cardinal principles.

Some say that the wold is no better than it was a hundred years ago, but just notice how general is the observance of Good Friday now and how little notice a great mass of the people took of this most solemn day, twenty-five years ago.

President Wilson is determined to name the ablest man he can find for the Ambassadorship to the Court of St. James. Richard Olney, Cleveland's second Secretary of State, having declined, the billet has now been offered to Charles W. Elliot, Harvard's president-emeritus. Olney's refusal of the post was due to his advanced years and it is not improbable that for the same reason Elliot may have to decline.

There will be two contributing editors for tomorrow's issue, Rev. Dr. Philip A. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church. Each will write on a topic appropriate to Easter.

The promotion of DeWitt Hubbell to the secretary-treasurership of the Plainfield Trust Company is a source of gratification to the patrons of the institution and his friends generally. Mr. Hubbell is a courteous man and an experienced banker.

And so Prof. John B. Fine, of Princeton, is to be made ambassador to Germany. The college "prof" is the one best bet these days when it comes to important posts.

The tone of Huntington Wilson's letter of resignation gives sufficient evidence that he was not a fit man for Assistant Secretary of State.

Seems that New Jersey is being managed from the White House these days.

MAYOR'S COMMITTEES ON USE OF SCHOOLS

Veysey as a committee to take up the matter of opening the local public schools for social and educational purposes. This action of Mayor Stewart is in accordance with a resolution adopted at the public meeting of the Plainfield Mothers' Association last week. The committee is empowered to add to its numbers if it considers best.

tion as almost regular inhabitants of the field.

Last year the Parker Field track and baseball diamond were open to the public at all times, and could be obtained by individuals or organizations upon application for meets or games, and same condition will exist this year. Because of the large number of applications received last season and the promise of a much larger list this year it is quite necessary that those desiring to secure the grounds on any occasion make their applications at once. This can be done by 'phoning Mr. Wriston at 1599 W, during the latter part of the afternoon, in the evenings or on Saturdays.

OSTROM BREAKS RECORDS.

Competition in the Color League of the local Y. M. C. A. was brought to a close last night, when C. Ostrom, of the Orange team, won the 46-yard swim in 28 1-5 seconds, breaking the association record of 29 seconds held by A. Manley. This was the second time in a week that a local swimming record has been smashed. Tuesday William Schooley, also of the Orange team, broke the 23-yard mark. He competed last night, but his best time was a second slowerthan that clocked for Ostrom. William Coyle, a consistent point wiinner for the red team, swam the distance in 29 2-5 seconds.

CHARTERS DECLARED VOID.

The Plainfield Auto Bus Company and the Plainfield Auto Sales Company are among the hundreds of certain corporations in the State whose charters have been declared forfeited by the Governor's proclamation to be found in our advertising columns today. Neither one of these concerns have been doing business here for asme time, and having failed to pay the State tax the charters are declared void.

Hunt the buyer who wants to buy and the seller who wants to sell through the Press cent-a-word columns, then your deal is two-thirds closed.

PLANS TRIP FROM EARTH TO MOON

Parisian Engineer Tells How It Could Be Made.

WOULD USE A CLOSED VESSEL

M. Pelterie Asserts by Scientific Figures That Object Could Be Projected Through Ether Like Skyrocket and Journey to Other Planet Made In Forty-eight Hours.

A stir was caused by a paper read recently before the members of the French Physical society, in Paris, by Robert Esnault Pelterie, the brilliant young engineer, on how to get from the earth to the moon in forty-eight hours.

M. Pelterie insists that his idea is practicable, based on scientific calculations, and not reminiscent of Jules Verne's romance.

The vehicle for the first travelers to the moon will, he says, be a closed vessel of extreme lightness, provided with a motor of great power, a combination which the astonishing advances of locomotion during the past 100 years brings well into sight.

Since there is no atmosphere in the space between our planet and the moon no system of propellers would be of any use, and the only possible means of driving the vehicle forward would be an adaptation of the rocket principle, which, he says, works as well in a vacuum as in air.

To Use Rocket Device.

The motor then would work a kind of continuous rocket, and M. Pelterie has made calculations of just how much power the engine must have to carry the vehicle along the 240,000 odd miles between the earth and its satellite.

For a vehicle weighing one ton the motor would have to be of 414,000 horsepower. For added weight the horsepower must be proportionately increased. When this combination was realized the journey would be divided into three parts. The first would be to drive the vehicle with increasing speed until the sphere of the earth's attraction was passed. During the second the vehicle would continue its journey by inertia until it reached the point where the moon's attraction began, while the third would be the simple matter of dropping on to the latter's surface, no motive force being necessary.

Trip In Three Periods.

The first of these phases, according to the lecturer, would last twenty-four minutes and nine seconds, the second phase forty-eight hours and five minutes and the third three minutes and forty-six seconds, giving a total of forty-nine hours, seventeen minutes and fifty-five seconds.

During the first 4,000 miles, he says, the passengers would have the sensation of weighing one-tenth more than usual, but afterward they would cease to weigh at all and have the sensation of falling indefinitely into space.

To remedy the bad physical effects which might result from these phenomena special appliances, says M. Pelterie, might be installed.

STAMPS OF CZAR CAUSE STIR.

Emperor's Portrait Deemed Too Sacred For Postage Stickers.

Philatelists will be concerned to learn that the new Russian stamps bearing the likeness of the czar are to be withdrawn at the close of the current year. The reason is that the stamp bears on its face rather an effigy than a proper likeness of the reigning sovereign and is considered a degradation of the august dignity and sanctity of the reigning monarch and an offense to the sacred memory of his illustrious predecessors.

Twenty archbishops of the state church have forwarded a petition to the holy synod protesting against the use of the imperial portraits on these stamps which are issued in commemoration of the three hundredth anniversary of the succession of the Romanoff dynasty.

Postoffice employes have also forwarded to the general postoffice at St. Petersburg a petition in which they declared that they regard their duty of obliterating the commemorative stamps as a repellent form of lese majesty.

AERIAL POSTMAN'S BAD LUCK.

Harry Jones Takes Fifty-three Days to Go From Boston to New York.

It required fifty-three days for Aviator Henry M. Jones, first aerial postman, to carry mail from Boston to New York, and even then he had to complete the journey by train.

Jones arrived at the general postoffice in New York recently with a mail bag containing sixty letters and a dozen parcels. He had gone by train from Rye, N. Y., where his aeroplane finally collapsed after having met with many accidents since the start was made from Boston Jan. 16.

Postmaster Mansfield of Boston gave Jones a crock of genuine Boston baked beans for Postmaster Morgan of New York. Jones handed the empty crock to Mr. Morgan, explaining that the beans had soured and been thrown away on the protracted trip.

DUTY ON HIS TOBACCO.

The Baron Evaded Paying It, and Yet He Wasn't Happy.

Dr. Wekerle, Hungarian minister of finance, had a country seat at Pilis, near Budapest, where he was in the habit of spending his Sundays. His only piece of luggage on these occasions consisted of a small hand bag, which never contained anything but the regulation bottle, four handkerchiefs and a traveling cap.

Returning one Monday to the capital, the minister met a friend, a gentleman named Von Fischer, who was carrying a bag exactly the counterpart of his excellency's valise. Baron von Fischer smiled a thoughtful smile as he noticed the similarity of the bags and whispered to the minister: "My bag is filled with smuggled Turkish tobacco. You will be good enough to shield me against the custom house spies, I hope."

The minister looked serious. "I will do nothing of the kind," he said, and when the two gentlemen arrived at the Pest depot the minister beckoned to a custom house official and said, "My friend desires to pay duty on a lot of Turkish tobacco he has in his bag."

"His excellency is joking," cried the baron, who meanwhile had changed bags with the minister. "See, I have no contraband articles about me," and he opened the bag in proof of what he said.

The minister of finance looked perplexed for a moment, then he resolutely grabbed his friend's bag and said to the official: "Well, assess me for the tobacco, but be quick about it. I have no time to lose." The official acted on the suggestion, and the minister paid 3 florins and 50 pfennigs into the treasury of his own department. Then he jumped into the carriage and drove off, shouting out his thanks to the baron for his present of twenty pounds of excellent tobacco.—Argonaut.

PAY FOR DAMAGE.

A settlement has been effected between the Public Service Corporation and Nicholas Fauturos, the fruit dealer of West Front street, for damages sustained by the latter's horse and wagon which were struck by a main line trolley car several weeks ago, at the intersection of East Second and Richmond streets. Matthew Austin, the driver employer by Mr. Fauturos, who was slightly injured, also received an amount in settlement. Fauturos and Austin were represented by W. R. Codington and Councilman Francis J. Blatz, of the law firm of that name.

SALARY LIMIT BOOSTED

The Tri-State Baseball League last night adopted a schedule for this season and raised the salary limit from $1,600 to $1,800. The meeting was the first since the members decided to have a six-club league, and the players from the Reading and Chester teams, which will not be in the league, were distributed. The schedule will open on April 20 and close on Labor Day. During the meeting attempts to raise the individual salary limit were defeated.

NEW JERSEY MANSE, BIRTHPLACE OF GROVER CLEVELAND, IS NATIONAL SHRINE

The Old Manse, the ancient wooden building in which Grover Cleveland was born at Caldwell, N. J., seventy-six years ago, March 18, has passed into the hands of the Grover Cleveland Birthplace Memorial Association and has been added to the national shrines. The ceremony, which took place on Tuesday, March 18, drew five thousand persons to the lawn of the house, which for 134 years has faced the high road through Caldwell. Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, who was formerly Mrs. Cleveland, with her husband and three children, Miss Esther Cleveland, Richard Cleveland and Miss Marion Cleveland, sat with noted persons on a platform in front of the Manse.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The cut shows a delightful suit for early spring wear carried out in tan colored ratine, which is a fashionable material and a good one for hard service. Every woman knows that ratine or eponge, which is the French for sponge, is a fabric that resembles nothing more than our roughest bath towels.

The arrow buttonholes on the cutaway coat is an effect that is modish just now. The narrow collar and shawl shaped revers are novel, and the cuffs are oddly cut affairs.

The skirt has sectional panels, with the lower portions plaited. This gives greater freedom of movement to the wearer. There are two main portions of the skirt, which are lapped on to the panels, and the closing is made invisibly at the left side. The finish can be made at either the high or natural waist line. This is an excellent model to keep in mind for linens.

The skirt requires four yards of twenty-seven inch material and the coat four and a half yards of the same width fabric. The width of the skirt at bottom is two yards when plaits are laid.

These May Manton patterns are cut in sizes for the coat from 34 to 42 inches bust measure and for the skirt from 22 to 32 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents each for these patterns to this office, giving number, skirt 7635 and coat 7376, and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

OYSTER SOUPS.

OYSTERS are easily digested and hence make a good food for invalids. Oysters are composed of about the same elements as milk, but they are more highly flavored and hence give even to milk a more tempting taste.

Oysters should be well cleaned before cooking. Drain off the liquor that comes with them and before using it run it through a fine wire strainer.

Lay the oysters in a colander and rinse, using about a half pint of water to a quart of oysters. If too much water is used the flavor will be washed out.

Always examine the gills of oysters with the fingers to see that no bits of shell are there.

Nourishing Preparations.

Oyster Soup.—Take two quarts of oysters and drain and wash them. Take two thin slices of lean ham cut in small pieces, some parsley, thyme and onion and tie in a bunch as thick as your thumb. Strain the oyster liquor. Put all together, with pepper and salt. When almost done add a lump of butter as big as an egg rolled in flour, with a gill of good cream.

Oyster Bouillon.—Take two dozen large oysters and after washing and draining chop fine. Put in a double boiler and heat slowly to draw out as much juice as possible. Turn into a fine sieve and press out every particle of the liquor. Return the liquor to the fire in a saucepan, beating into it the white of one egg. Bring to the boiling point, boil one minute, then strain through double cheesecloth. Season, add an equal quantity of hot milk and serve.

A Southern Soup.

Gumbo of Oysters.—Take a young chicken, cut it up and roll in flour and brown well in a saucepan with a spoonful of lard, two slices of ham, one chopped onion and a red pepper. When browned cover with water and steam until the chicken is tender. Then add the liquor off four dozen oysters, with water enough to make four quarts of soup. When it has again come to a boil add the oysters and stir while sifting in one large spoonful of gumbo. Pepper and salt to taste. Serve immediately, placing a large spoonful of boiled rice in each soup plate.

Bisque of Oysters.—Take a quart of oysters, a quart of rich milk or cream, eight rolled soda crackers, a teaspoonful of beef extract, a saucerful of finely minced celery, two tablespoonfuls of butter, worked into an equal quantity of flour; the yolks of three eggs, a teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of pepper, with a sprinkle of cayenne. Chop the oysters, put into a saucepan with their own liquor and a pint of water, the celery beef extract, crackers, salt, pepper and a little parsley. Boil for twenty minutes. Rub through a sieve until all moisture has been pressed through. Return the liquor to the stove, add milk and simmer again for ten minutes. Set back and carefully stir in the beaten yolks of the eggs. Serve at once.

GAMECOCK THRASHES A MAN.

Rooster Thoroughly Disables Its Owner in a Battle.

Benjamin Sherman, a farmer living near Glen Gardner, N. J., came out second best in a battle with a game rooster recently.

The farmer early in the morning gathered three dozen eggs in a basket. As he came out of the coop Redney, a gamecock with a reputation as a fighter, flew at his face and inflicted a deep gash just under the right eye with a spur. Before he could recover Sherman was spurred again on the right side of the face near the mouth.

He attempted to catch the bird, but it sank a spur in his right wrist. In making a swing with the basket of eggs he lost his balance and fell to the ground. The bird then spurred him in the right leg several times.

A farm hand who heard Sherman's cries ran to the poultry yard and knocked the bird over with a spade. Sherman took to his bed.

CHINESE HONOR FOR WILSON.

Pair of Celestial Twins Named After Him and Marshall.

Friends of Low Fat Yuen, a prominent member of the Chinese Six companies, were summoned to Low's home, Oakland, Cal., recently to celebrate the arrival of two "honored ones." The "honored ones" are Woodrow Wilson Low and Thomas Riley Marshall Low. Woodrow weighs six pounds and Thomas five.

The twins were preceded by Alice Roosevelt Low, aged five; Helen Taft Low, aged three; Governor Pardee Low, aged eight, and Mabel Low, aged ten.

"What about William Jennings Bryan Low?" the father was asked.

"Maybe some time yet," he replied, smiling.

At the christening the guests all shouted "Man suey! Wey lo sun gong mar shew!" which means "Long live Wilson and Marshall!"

HOUSTON HAD JOKE ON HIM.

Why His Old School Chum Felt "Cheap."

"No man ever felt cheaper than I did inauguration day," said Representative J. W. Ragsdale of South Carolina to a party of friends in Washington recently. "I was in school with David Franklin Houston, the new secretary of agriculture, but had not seen him in years until I ran upon him in the senate chamber.

"'Hello, Frank,' I said. 'What are you doing in the senate chamber?'

"'I was invited here,' said Houston.

"'That's strange,' I replied. 'I'm a congressman and can't get a ticket for this place before I'm sworn in.'

"I went over to make a row with Senator Tillman about it.

"'Why, that is one of the new cabinet members,' said Senator Tillman."

QUEER WATER AFFECTS HAIR.

Florists Assert City Supply Has Tendency to Change Flowers' Color.

Florists of Evanston, Ill., assert that the city water, which is purified with hypochloride of lime, is changing yellow chrysanthemums to an ashen color, white roses to pink and carnations to almost every shade but the one they should be.

The commissioner of public works, with whom the florists took up the matter, said the water had nothing to do with changing the colors of the flowers.

The florists will make an effort to keep the city from placing lime in the water and assert they will have the aid of the women, who some time ago complained that the water was bleaching their hair.

Law Passed to Curb Hatpins.

Women in Massachusetts who do not cover the points of their hatpins with some device that will protect the public from injury on and after April 7 will be liable to a fine of not more than $100. An act to this effect was signed by Governor Foss recently.

The Scrap Book

How Could She?

A bright spirit of earlier days, Charley McKeand, an advocate ready for any emergency, dropped into court too late one day to read the depositions and found himself faced with the duty of defending a woman for stealing a pair of boots. He burst into a moving harangue and said he would read the very words of her defense on arrest since they bore "the stamp of conscious innocence." He seized the depositions and went on: "Ha! Here we are. Oh, h'm!" He faltered a little when he saw them. "Well, gentlemen, this uneducated woman does not put it as you or I would put it, but I said I would read her words, and I will. What she says is: 'How the —— could I have the —— boots when he was wearing them?' And, gentlemen," continued McKeand in a concluding burst of eloquence, "I ask you with some confidence, how the —— could she?"

Fate.

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart,
And speak in different tongues, and have no thought
Each of the other's being, and no heed,
And these o'er unknown seas to unknown lands
Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bend each wandering step to this one end—
That one day out of darkness they shall meet
And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life,
So nearly side by side that should one turn
Ever so little space to left or right,
They needs must stand acknowledged face to face,
And yet with wistful eyes that never meet,
With groping hands that never clasp and lips
Calling in vain to ears that never hear.
They seek each other all their weary days
And die unsatisfied. And this is fate.
—Susan Mary Spalding.

An Invitation Declined.

Before the Spanish-American war the old battleship Texas, then the hoodoo ship of the navy, while being overhauled at the Brooklyn navy yard was sunk because the yokes of its sea cocks were broken in the course of repairs, and the water poured in just as if the boat had been scuttled. The Texas sank, as everybody knows, and was raised as soon as possible. It was on that occasion that Captain Jack Phillips, one of the bravest and best naval officers, by the way, that ever trod a bridge, won a funny retort from "Fighting Bob" Evans, then commanding the Iowa. When the Texas was raised it was found that in the hull were thousands of eels that had been sucked through the open sea cocks. Knowing Captain Evans' fondness for eels, Phillips had a lot of them sent over to the Iowa. He was somewhat surprised a day later to receive a note of acknowledgment from his brother officer, which read: "The eels were fine, Jack. Sink her again."—Washington Post.

Didn't Need Protection.

"Ed Heffernan, Charley McDonald and Billy Maloney were traveling in the northwest some years ago," according to Drury Underwood, "and had not had a chance to gamble in weeks. They itched to play and at last were reduced to a three handed game of poker in the room which Heffernan and McDonald occupied together. Heffernan was frozen out soon and went to bed and to sleep. McDonald and Maloney kept on, and finally McDonald was all in.

"He undressed and turned out the light, but in getting into bed he had to crawl over Heffernan, who was aroused.

"'Mac,' he said, 'did you lock the door?'

"'No,' answered McDonald. 'What's the use? Go and lock Maloney's door. He's got every cent of the coin."—New York Sun.

Sabbath Desecration.

In illustration of the "dreary Glasgow Sunday" a lecturer told this story of the late J. L. Toole, the English comedian: He was leaving his hotel in Glasgow one fine Sunday morning when the sun was shining brightly. As he was strolling along George square a policeman eyed him suspiciously and at last approached and said:

"Ye had better tak' care what ye're doin'."

"What am I doing?" inquired Toole and added, with a merry wink, "Why, I'm not even whistling."

"No," replied the Glasgowian in solemn and reproving tones, "but ye're lookin' almost as happy as if it were Monday."

Wanted It Anyhow.

There recently sought the services of a dentist a quaint young Swede, who, at the urgent insistence of his newly acquired wife, came to "get his mouth fixed."

There were a number of teeth too far gone to be filled. Accordingly these were extracted, and then the dentist made an appointment with the Swede for further sittings, when the filling would be done. Instead of leaving the office Olaf hung about expectantly.

"Is there something more you want done?" finally asked the dentist.

"Vell, I dunno," said Olaf, looking doubtfully at the ceiling. "I tank maybe I like leedle gas. My meesis tole me I hov to tak some for my toots. Eef she don't hort too moch I tank maybe I better hov about twenty-fi' cants' worth."—New York Press.

HOW LIVINGSTONE FOUND CONTINENT

Great Drama of Africa Is Recalled.

CENTENARY IS CELEBRATED

Memorial Events In All Countries Revive Stories of Explorer's Splendid Work In Putting Life Into Darkest Regions of Barbarous Territory—How Americans Share In Achievement.

All over the civilized world, with Great Britain and the United States playing a leading role, the week in which March 19 occurred, was a period of general celebration in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Dr. David Livingstone, the famous English explorer.

The London Missionary Society, which sent Livingstone on his historic journey into the heart of darkest Africa, has taken steps to raise $50,000 for the erection of a fitting memorial to the heroic explorer. Though the actual centenary fell on March 19, the entire week was virtually given over to a series of celebrations and sermons in the explorer's honor. The anniversary recalls a great African drama.

Americans' Claim.

Americans claim a larger share in Livingstone than any Europeans, except Englishmen. After Britain had sought in vain to find him buried deep in the wilds of central Africa it was Yankee persistence and energy that penetrated the dense jungle and made possible that dramatic scene at Ujiji on Oct. 28, 1871, when Stanley, backed up by the stars and stripes, greeted the weary, heroic old missionary in the brief but impressive phrase, "Dr. Livingstone, I presume."

David Livingstone's sixty years of existence have a significance in the narrative of civilization which no amount of elaborate memorial could seem to overestimate. He virtually put a continent on the map. He blazed the trail for the largest single movement to carry light into dark places that the world has ever seen, and he obliterated the transatlantic slave trade not by his own effort, concentrated as that was, but by the stimulating power of his own personality.

Had Big Personality.

Dr. Livingstone's personality and through it his work had the gift of capturing the public imagination. Certainly it was not in the regions he explored that the general interest lodged, for until he was sent there by the London Missionary society in 1840 the world was content to know merely the rough size and shape of Africa, with never a flicker of concern over its gigantic interior. A map made two years after Livingstone was born tells naively that the Nile ended in the Mountains of the Moon, that the Kongo was unknown except for a short distance from its mouth and that the Niger, indicated by a short interior section, was unexplored either at the mouth or source. Between the time of that map and the year when Livingstone was sent to Africa some yeoman service had been done about the edges of the continent, but the whole equatorial regions were undiscovered.

Came of Sturdy Stock.

David Livingstone came of a sturdy, vigorous Scotch stock. Two of his uncles fought under Wellington in the peninsular war against the French in Spain. The family was characterized by the hearty, combative vigor of the Scotch highlander and covenanter. Born on March 19, 1813, the second son in that humble home, David was nurtured in the strict and narrow but lofty ethical influence of the Bible and "Pilgrim's Progress." The days of his boyhood were great ones for missions. All the land was full of the impulse of Christianity's response to the call of its head. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Young David had a good scientific education. At Glasgow in 1837 he offered himself to the London Missionary society for foreign service. In November, 1840, he was ordained in London and the next month sailed for Africa. He died in the jungle on May 1, 1873.

The Mosaic and Terrazzo workers in Chicago are negotiating with their employers for a small increase in wages.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

At Proctor's Fifth avenue theater the bill for Easter week assumes the importance of a springtime jubilee, each one of the 12 acts being an undisputed headliner. First honors will go to W. H. Macart, Ethlynne Bradford and company in the whirlwind of Celtic wit, "The Second Generation." "The Trained Nurses," with Clark and Bergman, will be another important feature, while Wilfred Clarke and company will present that infectious farce, "What Will Happne Next." "The Stage Door-tender"; Jack Hazzard, with new songs, stories and dialects; McRae and Clegg, the perfect woman and a mere man in daring evolutions on the bicycle; Lynn and Novita, novelty entertainers; Buckley's Animals, with the skating bear and monkeys; and as added features Cross and Josephine and Edison's Kinetophone.

Newest of New York playhouses the Princess Theater, in 39th street, near Broadway, has opened formally. The bill consists of four short plays, "The Switchboard," a comedy, by Messrs. H. R. Lenormand and Jean d'Auguzan; "Fancy Free," a comedy, by Mr. Stanley Houghton, and "Any Night," a drama, by Edward Ellis.

There is no danger in not getting any of the lines across the fotlights. In that way, at least, the theater and its offerings are a success. But it is no place for babes or Sunday school classes, since the plays require mostly a broad and forgiving mind to receive and applaud them, which, it is stated, that the management has decided to discourage the attendance of any except mature theatergoers." After these preliminaries up with the curtain.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

The Journeymen Tailors' Union of America has decided to hold its convention this year in Bloomington, Ill.

Nineteen local unions were chartered in February by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. Their membership is nearing 250,000.

The labor organizations of San Francisco are preparing to open a union labor hospital and training school for nurses. The institution will be opened July 1.

A resolution adopted at the Rochester convention directed the officials of the American Federation of Labor to arrange an A. F. L. exhibit for the Panama exposition in San Francisco in 1915.

Justice Blackmar, in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn recently decided that the 54-hour law, applicable to concerns employing women and children, is in accord with the constitution.

Government insurance for workmen in Manitoba was adopted as a principle by both employers and employees at a recent conference of representatives of the board of trade, the builders' exchange and the trades and labor council.

Agitation concerning the employment of child labor during the year 1912 brought about better conditions for children in 14 states and an increased interest in behalf of children who are driven to work in factories and tenement sweatshops.

There was a five per cent increase in the number of factory and workshop employees in the year 1912, but the increase in wages was only one per cent, according to the annual report of the State Labor Commissioner of Ohio.

A farm where paroled and discharged convicts may regain their place in the world may become industrious and respectable citizens will soon be established by Miss Kate Barnard, State Commissioner of Charities and Corrections for Oklahoma.

As the greatest coal producing state in the Union, Pennsylvania expects to have within the next 10 months or so the most complete laws regulating hours of employment for minors and safeguards for those engaged in this dangerous occupation.

The Bellingham Journal, the official organ of the Central Labor Council of Bellingham, Wash., has been designated as the official city paper of Bellingham, the contract for the city printing for 1913 having been awarded to that paper by the city council.

Beginning April 1 members of the Architectural Ironworkers' Union of Chicago will receive 65 cents an hour. Their present wages are 62½ cents an hour. After April 1, 1914, they will be paid 67½ cents. The wage scale was made a year ago and will expire March 31, 1915.

The United Mine Workers' International Union is increasing in membership at a rapid rate. It now has 397,000 members. The anthracite miners are joining the union by the thousands. The policies followed by International President John P. White are said to be responsible for the increase in interest and membership. The union will have more than 4,000 votes in the next convention of the American Federation of Labor.

NATIONAL WAR STARTED AGAINST THE SOCIAL VICE

Score of Governors Enlist In Movement to Aid Working Girls.

Minimum Wage of $9 Weekly Is Demanded—New Laws on Way.

THE entire country has been asked to unite in a campaign in behalf of working girls who are unprotected and surrounded with an environment of temptation and vice.

The initial step in the movement was taken when the Illinois state vice committee sent the following telegram to governors throughout the country:

Are you in favor of a minimum wage for women? If so, what wage? Do you favor a state law or national law? Will you co-operate with Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara, chairman of the Illinois committee which is now investigating with an aim to enact legislation for women in an effort to stamp out white slavery?

At least a score of state executives replied immediately, each assuring the Illinois investigators of hearty support and co-operation.

One of the first to reply was Governor Sulzer of New York, who said that New York would fall in line with any move aimed to eliminate traffic in women.

A message from Utah stated that the state legislature passed a bill fixing the minimum wage for women at 75 cents a day for the first year's service and after that $1.25 a day.

Governors Fall In Line.

All the governors expressed themselves emphatically in favor of a minimum wage, and many of them promised to send messages to that effect to their legislatures.

The Chicago merchants who testified before the committee held a secret meeting recently. The wages and conditions of girl employees were discussed for several hours. Since the investigation began the department store proprietors and others have made a careful study of the probable effects of establishing among themselves a minimum wage.

Girls in some stores have already asked higher wages, and it was learned that all were assured that they would be "taken care of" as soon as something definite had been decided on by the employers.

Massachusetts Plans Commission.

Governor Foss of Massachusetts addressed a letter to Lieutenant Governor O'Hara replying to his suggestions. He said:

"A resolution has already passed the senate of Massachusetts to provide for an investigation of the white slave traffic, so called, which if enacted will authorize the governor and council to appoint a commission of five persons with ample authority for the purpose."

That a working woman needs $8.90 a week except in domestic service to support herself in Milwaukee is the opinion expressed by the social service commission of the Milwaukee Federation of Charities.

The commission urges young women who expect to support themselves to keep away from the city unless they have an assured income of at least $9 a week, domestic service excepted.

A bill has been introduced in the Ohio legislature requiring all persons or corporations employing five or more women to report to the state inspector of workshops and factories giving detailed information as to wages, hours of employment, etc. Governor Cox has announced himself in favor of a minimum wage for women workers, but the bill as drawn does not provide for that feature.

A legislative committee to investigate the causes of white slavery in California and the effect of low wages in that relation has been under the chairmanship of Senator Gates of Los Angeles. Governor Hiram W. Johnson declared himself in favor of a national campaign for a minimum wage scale for women.

O'Hara Makes Statement.

Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara of Illinois recently made the following statement on his project in behalf of women:

"Our investigation into the causes and effect of social vice has shown conclusively that thousands of good girls are going wrong every year merely because they cannot live upon the wages paid them by employers.

"The conditions revealed to our commission have been only half told in the press reports. Senator Edmond Beall, a veteran of the civil war and a man of wide experience with the world, broke down completely and wept during the examination of the victims of low wages at our executive session.

"Senator Beall is a retired manufacturer, worth a great many thousands of dollars. He told me that he intended to spend every cent of his fortune and every hour of his time to save American womanhood from the piteous menaces that our investigation has shown constantly surround her.

Have Probed Conservatively.

"Senators Tossey and Woodard have declared themselves in like manner. We have investigated this matter sanely and conservatively. We have tried to let the sunlight in on a condition and to spare individuals. We have accorded to all witnesses exact justice and full courtesy, and at the end of our labors so far we are appalled, stunned, horrified.

"American womanhood is in grave peril solely and only because American manhood profits from the helplessness of womanhood to enrich itself. There is no other conclusion to be derived. It is a national shame, but it must be faced now and boldly.

Effect of Low Wages.

"We were forced to realize that low wages were the real fundamental cause of white slavery and that to study the effect and ignore the cause would be to give to our investigation the appearance and reality of a farce. We refused to be parties to a farce. The people of Illinois, which took the lead in the final solution of black slavery, stand back of us loyally, and the work will go on regardless of whom or where it strikes.

"Our merchant princes and our kings of manufacture, the very people who have been the witnesses before our commission, admit that there must be a readjustment of wages. To a man they have entered into sincere and earnest co-operation with us.

"The crisis is not confined to Illinois It is national."

Famous Physician Photographs the Remarkable Object—Causes Furore.

Before an audience that packed the medical amphitheater of Johns Hopkins hospital Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute For Scientific Research, announced recently that he had discovered, isolated, cultivated and photographed the germ of infantile paralysis.

The announcement was greeted by the physicians, surgeons and medical students with prolonged applause as a great step forward in medical research.

Illustrating with micro-photographs, Dr. Flexner said the germ was one of the smallest ever identified. As shown on the screen in an enlarged view of a section of spinal cord infected with it, the germ appeared in a chainlike form in a wavy line.

He said he had employed insects, which were allowed to bite monkeys infected with the disease and that the insects thus became infected for eight days, but he had not succeeded in reversing the process.

Dr. Flexner said that in cultivating the germ a medium freed from oxygen had been found necessary and that the germ never would be found in blood or in any cavity containing oxygen.

Holland to Care For Its Old.

The second chamber of the Netherlands parliament recently adopted by 54 votes against 35 a bill providing for compulsory old age and sickness insurance for workingmen.

HE HAS DEVICE TO PREVENT TRAIN WRECKS—ASKS PRIZE

Connecticut Man Thinks He Has Won Right to $10,000 Reward.

Harry Needles of Winsted, Conn., explained to the public utilities commission recently a device to prevent railroad wrecks with which he hopes to win a prize of $10,000 offered by President Mellen of the New Haven Railroad company for such a safeguard.

The device consists of two uprights of unequal length attached to the roof of a car, connected with the interior by wires, and signal posts with crossarms alongside the track which when set for danger strike the uprights and by means of the interior wiring apply emergency brakes to the train.

When the signal arm is set at an angle of forty-five degrees it can strike only the longer of the two uprights, the effect of which is to open the air valves only enough to reduce the speed of the train to thirty miles an hour This is designed for use at crossovers, after passing which the valves close again and the higher speed is resumed.

Better English For Signs.

Declaring that modern advertising is a ruthless transgressor against the rules that govern the use of the English language, Edwin Fairley of the Jamaica high school, New York, expresses the opinion that every city and community should have a commission on English whose function it would be to examine or edit the reading matter on any advertising sign before it is placed before the public.

DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH TO PLACE 1,000 ACRES OF VAST ESTATE UNDER THE PLOUGH

The Duke of Marlborough's announced intention of placing one thousand acres of meadow land, forming part of his estate at Blenheim, under the plough is attracting great attention all through England.

The Duke, who owns 19,685 acres, has chosen this method of waging a campaign against what he believes to be the present liberal government's intention of introducing legislation in the direction of the nationalization of the land in the British Isles.

The Duke of Marlborough argues that a private landlord can administer his land more cheaply and efficiently than the State could do and he will endeavor to demonstrate his theories.

INDIAN PAPOOSE IS FASCINATED WITH NEW YORK'S GRAND CANYON

Three hundred and seven feet above the roaring streets of New York, Cecile Ground, a Blackfoot Indian papoose, gazed into the Grand Canyon of Herald square with an awe which the greater natural canyons of her native West have inspired.

From the cornice of the McAlpin Hotel she got her first comprehensive glimpse of New York. Cecile is one of the party of Indians who are there for the Travel and Vacation Show. She is accompanied by her father, mother and six braves of the Blackfoot tribe from Glacier National Park, in Montana, and as the Indians refused to be cooped up in hotel rooms they were allowed to raise their teepees on the roof of the hotel.

To Cecile a canyon is as common as a street car is to a New York child, but she had never even heard of anything like the view from such a height above New York. The roar of the elevated railroad and the Herald square traffic was muffled and musical when it reached her ears, and the sight of the great buildings and thousands of persons so far below fascinated her. Big Top, one of the braves, was called upon to hold her upon the rampart for more than an hour before she would turn from the picture. Cecile and her companions are appearing at the Travel Show at the Grand Central Palace there.

OUTLAW LEADERS AWAIT THEIR DOOM

Floyd Allen and His Son, Claude Allen, to Die Next Week.

Richmond, Va., March 21.—Floyd Allen, the leader of the outlaw band in Carroll County, and his son, Claude Swanson Allen, who are in the death cell of the state penitentiary awaiting their doom, have only one more week to live, Gov. Mann having refused to interfere in the case and all legal resources having previously been exhausted in behalf of the prisoners, they will go to the electric chair one week from today, unless something entirely unexpected and unforseen should occur. The execution of these two men, who had been the principal actors in the "shooting up" of the Carroll County Court at Hillsville, on March 14, 1912, will be the closing chapter of one of the most sensational murder tragedies ever enacted in this country.

The tragedy at the Hillsville court house was the culmination of years of lawlessness on the part of the "fighting Allens," as the wealthy and numerous family of Allens were called in that mountain district. Some time in February, 1912, two nephews of Floyd Allen were arrested for some minor offence by a deputy sheriff. While they were being taken to the jail, Floyd Allen and several other members of the Allen family attacked the deputy, knocked him senseless with the butt of a revolver and rescued his prisoners. Floyd Allen was arested and indicted and his trial began in the early part of March.

Floyd Allen, who seemed to be the leader of the clan, had openly boasted that he would never go to prison and the Allens had made threats against the court and everybody connected with it. Floyd Allen was tried on March 13, but the jury did not bring in its verdict until the following day. The prisoner being a man of prominence, his trial attracted a great deal of attention and on the morning of March 14 the courtroom was crowded with spectators, among whom were half a dozen or more of the members of the Allen family.

The jury rendered a verdict of guilty and the court sentenced Floyd Allen to one year imprisonment. When the presiding judge, Thornton L. Massie, turned the prisoner over to the sheriff, Floyd Allen exclaiming that he would not go to prison, drew two revolvers and opened fire at the court. The other members of the Allen family, who were in the rear of the courtroom, followed his exemple and for a few minutes bullets flew thick and fast, Judge Massie, States Attorney E. M. Foster and Sheriff Lewis Webb were shot down and killed on the spot and a number of other persons who happened to be in the courtroom at the time were injured. Two of them, August Fowler, a juror, and Nancy Ayres, a girl of 19, who had been a witness in the case, died from their wounds after a few days.

The Allens, excepting Floyd Allen, who accidentally had been shot in the knee, and his son Claude, mounted their horses and fled into the mountain wilderness of the Blue Ridge range, where, from behind rocks they defended themselves against the posse sent out to capture them. The governor offered a reward of $1,000, which was later raised to $4,000, for the capture of the gang.

Floyd Allen was arrested on the following day and two days later a special grand jury returned indictments against Floyd Allen, Claude Swanson Allen and Victor Allen, sons of Floyd; Sidna Allen, a brother of Floyd; Friel Allen, Wesley Edwards and Sidney Edwards, nephews of Floyd; Bird Marion and John F. Moore. The latter was merely indicted for having assisted the Allens to escape.

Victor Allen and Bird Marion were arrested at Pulaski on March 17 and taken to Roanoke, Va. Sidney Edwards was captured near his home on March 22. Claude Swanson Allen, almost starved by two weeks of hiding in the mountains, gave himself up near Hillsville on March 28, and on the following day Friel Allen followed his example. Sidna Allen and his nephew, Wesley Edwards, managed to escape, but were captured at Des Moines, Ia., on Sept. 14.

Floyd Allen and his son Claude were tried separately for the murder of States Attorney Foster and found guilty. They were sentenced to be executed on Nov. 22 of last year, but obtained several respites, the date being finally fixed for March 28. Sidna Allen was given 35 years, Wesley Allen 27 years, Friel Allen 18 years, Sidney Edwards also 18 years in the penitentiary, Victor Allen, Bird Marion and John F. Moore were acquitted.

THE NEW KING, CONSTANTINE

KING GEORGE OF GREECE
© BY UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

One of the saddest events in the history of Greece occurred on March 18, when George I., King of the Hel nes, was assassinated while walking in the streets of Salonica. The tragedy, which has caused intense excitement throughout the Balkan States, as well as in all civilized parts of the world, has left its deepest impression on Greece itself.

George I., King of the Hel enes, was the second son of King Charles IX. of Denmark and was born in Copenhagen on December 24, 1845. At the time of his death he had reigned lo ger than any other sovereign in Europe with the exception of Francis Joseph, and preparation for a brilliant celebration of his golden jubilee as a monarch in June next had been begun. He was loved and respected by his subjects, who regarded him as the only diplomatist worthy of the name who was ever identified with the throne of Greece.

King George was a brother of Queen Alexandra, mother of King George V. of England. Another sister, Princess Dagmar, became the wife of Grand Duk Alexander Alexandrovitch, afterward Emperor Alexander III. of Russia. King George in 1867 espoused the Grand Duchess Olga Constantinovna of Russia who became distinguished in Greece for her activity in all charitable works. Their children are Crown Prince Constantine, born in 1868, who in 1889 wedded the Princess Sophia of Prussia, daughter of Emperor Frederick and sister of Emperor William; Prince George, born in 1869; Prince Nicholas, born in 1872; Prince Andrew, born in 1882; Prince Christopher, born in 1888, and Princess Marie, born in 1876, who, in 1900, wedded Grand Duke Michallovich of Russia.

Crown Prince Constantine, who succeeds to the Hellenic throne, was born in Athens on July 21, 1868. A soldier inured to the severest hardships of military campaigns in Crete and Turkey, Generalissimo of the Greek army and a chieftain of ability which many assert is not inferior to that of his father, it is generally believed that his reign will mark a new era in the history of Greece.

FRANCO-GERMAN WAR PREDICTED

Teutons Fear Revenge of France.

PAPER GIVES GRIM WARNING

Asserts Two Nations Must Clash When European Trouble Occurs—Kaiser's Subjects Hoarding Millions—French Writer Points to Great Injury to Art by War Scare.

The semiofficial Cologne (Germany) Gazette published recently an extraordinary leading article headed "The Michief Maker," in which it says:

"It will not be difficult for the German government to justify the necessity for the army increase if it will only speak out plainly and, without mincing words, indicate the point from which danger is threatened—as all the world realizes, from France."

The paper says nobody underestimates the gravity of the new conditions in the Balkans, but when the country is asked to make such heavy sacrifices chapter and verse must be given, and the government's finger must point to the precise spot from which there is immediate peril—that is, France. It adds:

"Never were our relations with our western neighbor so strained as today. Never has the idea of revenge been so openly flaunted. Never has it been so apparent that the French made their Russian alliance and their English friendship for the sole object of recapturing Alsace-Lorraine.

Franco-German War Certain.

"One thing is absolutely sure. Whenever the world catches fire the Germans will have to cross swords with the French. When that will happen nobody can tell."

Wholesale realizations of foreign securities, notably Canadian Pacific railway shares, are taking place in Germany in order to relieve the unprecedented famine of gold and money. The stock exchanges in Berlin and elsewhere in Prussia were closed on the centenary of the nation's rise against the Napoleonic oppressor.

To procure money investors are sacrificing their foreign holdings. This condition has been brought about primarily by the hoarding craze which has obsessed Germans since the outbreak of the war in the Balkans. It has not been lessened by the nervousness of their own government, as manifested by the gigantic army increase.

The sum now hoarded by timid Germans is estimated at between $112,500,000 and $125,000,000. Merchants and manufacturers report that it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain the payment of bills even from customers who have never before been delinquent.

Deficit In Banks.

Another aggravating factor is the deficit caused by the withdrawal of the immense balance which foreign banks formerly kept on loan in Germany.

A money famine can only be relieved from abroad. Gold must be imported. England was drawn on one week to the extent of $1,500,000, and still heavier importations are in process of arrangement with the United States.

"It is the end of French culture," is cited as the opinion of Anatole France on the new French conscription bill in an interview sent to the London Daily News by Harold Spender from Paris. M. France is further quoted as follows:

"This addition to the yearly conscription comes on us just when France is moving forward with new energy both in science and industry. It will be a grave blow to all our higher life. Medicine especially will be injured, for the medicine of the army is not the medicine of the civil state. French science requires the time of its young students, and that will be gravely curtailed. The demand for another barrack year from all young Frenchmen imposed without exemptions will draw off the best from every field of life.

Is Heavy Blow to Art.

"It comes at a moment of great industrial development. It will check that development. It comes at a moment of expansion in our arts, especially in sculpture, and it will be a heavy blow. Sculpture is not practiced on the battlefield."

Mr. Spender declares that the militarist spirit is at present supreme in France and that other voices are not likely to be heard, for the present at least. The ordinary attitude of the Frenchman, he says, is one of resignation rather than aggression, but the cry "a Berlin," which resounded through the streets of Paris before 1870, has been raised again.

GIRLS TO WAR ON AIGRETS.

Philadelphia Students Pledge Themselves to Protect Heron.

Agreeing not to wear aigrets and to do all in their power to persuade others not to wear them, the Nature Study club of the girls' high school of Philadelphia recently prepared a petition urging that the sale of plumage of the snowy heron be prohibited in Pennsylvania.

The action was taken after the reading of a paper on the sufferings of the heron at a meeting of the club. The paper was prepared by Miss Irene Eldridge, teacher of English, and read by Ruth Gerhard, an officer of the club.

His Test of the Antique.

John B. Herreshoff, the blind yacht builder of Bristol, R. I., was a guest at a large party in Bristol when the hostess was proudly displaying a cabinet just received from an antique shop in New York and bought for $700 as a product of the year 1710. It was observed by one of the other guests that Herreshoff alone refrained from favorable comment, although the old man had examined the cabinet by his delicate touch. Finding an opportunity, the man approached Herreshoff and asked him the reason for his silence. Herreshoff chuckled. "I'll let you into a secret if you don't breathe a word of it to the good Mrs. B.," he said. The promise having been given, Herreshoff led the way with his unerring directness to the cabinet, and, extracting a drawer, he ran the tips of his fingers lightly over the bottom and chuckled again: "Circular saws in 1710? Poor Mrs. B.!"

"Goodby."

We say it for an hour or for years;
We say it smiling, say it choked with tears;
We say it coldly, say it with a kiss,
And yet we have no other word than this—
"Goodby!"

We have no dearer word for our heart's friend,
For him who journeys to the world's far end
And scars our soul with going. Thus we say,
As unto him who steps but o'er the way,
"Goodby!"

Alike to those we love and those we hate
We say no more at parting. At life's gate
To him who passes out beyond earth's sight
We cry, as to the wanderer for a night,
"Goodby!"
—Grace Denio Litchfield.

Hard to Catch Up.

Two Silesians seated in a music hall began to argue about the music of Wagner. The argument as it progressed grew heated. The upshot was that the younger challenged the older Silesian to a duel. But the older Silesian declined to fight.

"No, no," he said. "I refuse to meet you. The risks are not equal. You, you see, are a bachelor, whereas I am a married man with three children. I'll tell you what to do. Go get married and wait till you've a family as large as mine. Then when our risks are alike come and challenge me again."

The younger man complied. He married. Three years passed, and one day three years later he went, accompanied by a nursemaid to his opponent's home.

"Here I am," he said fiercely. "My wife is at home. In this coach are my three children. Now for the duel."

But the older man shook his head.

"Not yet awhile," he said. "I have five now."

LOCAL ELKS WIND UP THEIR SEASON

Took Two Out of Three Game Series From Jersey City Last Night.

Rolling on their home alleys for the last time this season, the Plainfield Elks' bowling team put a fitting finale to a most successful season by taking two out of the three games bowled with the Jersey City antlered pin smashers. Starting off the evening with some spectacular scoring the local representatives gradually began to sink until they went just low enough to let the visitors take the last set-to.

The first contest, won by the Queen City tribe with a score of 1039 to 891, was by far the best exhibition of the evening, four of the men on the winning quintet passing the double century mark and Campbell doing 236, which will materially boost his individula average. Kiely was the only one of the home players who did not pass the 200, but he made good in the very next game by chalking up 223, the second highest mark of the series, Campbell holding the high water mark with his 236.

Both teams rolled consistently in the second game, but Corydon, of the Jersey City five, fell down to 157, which shattered his team score considerably. Coffman went up to 192 in this match, while Kiely, with his high score, was really the winner for Plainfield, as the final score stood just 43 points apart. Campbell was the only man to set up a 200 mark in two different games, making 219 in the final game, which was lost by Plainfield. The score:

COLLEGE BASEBALL SEASON

New York, March 21.—The initial games in the intercollegiate baseball season of 1913 are scheduled for tomorrow. Several of the big Eastern colleges have games scheduled for that day, and another week will see virtualy all of them go to bat. In accordance with their custom the teams of Yale, Cornell and several of the other big colleges have gone South to play their opening games. Confident reports as to the outlook for the season have emanated from the training cages the past few weeks. The fear most entertained is on the score of the pitching staffs. Except in one or two of the big colleges in the East the twirlers are not the same men who did the work last year and the lack of seasoned men in the boxes is troubling the coaches.

JONES STILL AT IT

John Paul Jones, Cornell's track captain and American amateur record holder for the mile, clipped four-fifths of a second off his board track record at Cornell in the midweek meet yesterday, when he covered the 13 laps in 4 minutes 21 1-5 seconds. He ran the same distance last week in 4:22.

"RUBE" GETS BIG SALARY

It was reported on what was said to be reliable authority that the contract which Marquard signed in San Francisco provided for an annual salary of $8,500 for three years. In addition to that Kinsella is said to have given him a bonus of $1,500 for signing.

P. H. S. SOPHS WON CHAMPIONSHIP IN SPIRITED OVERTIME COURT STRUGGLE

Before a large crowd of interclass basketball enthusiasts in the Plainfield High School gym yesterday afternoon, the Sophomore class five defeated the Seniors in the third and final game in the post-season interclass series for the 1913 class title, thereby annexing the championship and seven silver medals that go with it. The final score was 22 to 21, after an extra session in which the second-year men scored a field goal to their opponent's one from the foul line. After two minutes of extra time in which the playing was exceptionally fast and the guarding close, LaRue slipped in a field goal that netted two points and victory for the second-year men.

All through the contest the scoring was tit for tat, the guards sticking to their men like leeches, and the little field goal shooting that was indulged in was of the sensational nature. At the end of the initial administration the count stood 10 to 8 in favor of the graduating class, but soon after the opening of the final period, as they have done in both of the previous contests, the Sophs launched a fighting spurt that came near pulling the upper classmen completely off their feet before a minute of time was run off. The Seniors soon buckled down, however, and the lower class representatives were compelled to work hard for every point they chalked up as they did in the initial half.

Toward the end of the fray the contest took on a still more speedy aspect and the cheering of the rival bands of cohorts on the sidelines spurred the class delegates on to renewed efforts which resulted in the teams finishing the allotted time of play deadlocked at 19 to 19. In the first period two goals by McNamee and one by Cantor and LaRue were all that the ultimate winners secured, while the Seniors, through the efforts of Grisley, chalked up a quintet of foul goals and one from the field, and Henderson and Sattels each contributed one of the field variety, bringing the score up two points ahead of their rivals. The second period found the scoring just about the same, made by about the same individuals, McNamee and LaRue getting a trio for the Sophs, and Henderson, Goldsmith, Sattels and Dennison doing the tallying for the upper classmen.

These three after-season contests, made necessary because of the fact that the Seniors and Sophs ended the season tied for first place, have produced more enthusiasm and interclass rivalry than was ever before evidenced at the local high school, large crowds of undergraduates attending each of the games, all of which were close and exciting. The first contest went to the Sophs, the second to the Seniors and the playoff yesterday to the lower classmen, giving them two out of the three. The score:

ONLY A FEW YANKEE RECRUITS TO STICK

Dispatches from Bermuda Seem to Foretell Jack Martin's Destiny With Others.

The Yannigans, an interesting lot while they lasted, have come, had their little day and passed on. Not so with Jack Martin, however; he has had several days, and if he is shifted back to the minors once more this spring it will be a keen disappointment, not only to him, but to his large circle of friends who were expecting the local youngster to make good this trip. When Frank Chance put his Yankee regulars on the field to battle with the Jersey City International Leaguers yesterday he practically served notice on most of the younger members of his squad that they would do well to so arrange their personal affairs that a prolonged stay in New York would not be absolutely necessary to their peace and welfare.

Of the number called from the minor leagues last summer and fall only a few will stay up. Since it is practically certain that "Pep" Young, Claude Derrick and Ezra Midkiff will be retained, Midkiff to understudy Roy Hartzell and Young and Derrick to fight it out between them for the shortstop berth, it is fairly safe to predict that the minor leagues will benefit in greater or lesser measure by the return of all the others.

The New York Herald says:

"Jack Martin and Bill Stumpf, both holdovers from the Wolverton regime, may both be budding world beaters, but they are not yet ripe for plucking, and will most probably "go back" for another season at least. A couple of them will have strings attached to them; the other will be cast adrift with not even an optional agreement sale to bind them to the big leagues. Stumpf is a clever young ball player, but green; Martin should develope into a very fair performer one of these days."

So from all accounts it looks as though Plainfield "Jack" was slated for another term in the minors, although there is still a possibility that Chance may hold him over after the weeding out process is gone over and Martin may still be retained. He is still a youngster, however, and one of these days may be a star in the shortfield. When leaving Plainfield Martin was confident of making good, and should he again be sent back to the International League it would probably be a great disappointment to him.

MAT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Ithaca, N. Y., arch 21.—A bevy of star grapplers representing leading Eastern colleges rounded up at ornell University today to contest in the annual championships of the Intercollegiate Wrestling Association. The championship matches will occupy two days. The institutions represented are Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Columbia and Lehigh. Cornell is the present holder of the championship, having captured it last winter after winning a large number of dual meets with other colleges outside the intercollegiate association.

BYRNE RECOVERING

Bobby Byrne, third baseman of the Pittsburg Nationals, who was hit on the head by a pitched ball by Joe Wood of the Boston Americans during a practice game Thursday, was pronounced out of danger yesterday.

BIG OFFER FOR BRESNAHAN.

Charles Murphy, of the Chicago Nationals, before leaving Jacksonville, Florida, last night declared he had been offered $35,000 and two first-class players in exchange for Roger Bresnahan by a National League club, the name of which he refused to make known. Although it was one of the biggest offers ever made for a ball player, he refused to part with the former St. Louis manager.

Y. M. A. A. BASEBALL NINE WILL BE FAST

Meeting Held Last Night Produced Much Enthusiasm Over Proposed Plans.

Another local baseball nine threw its hat into the ring last night when the Young Men's Athletic Association met at the home of P. H. Moore and formulated plans for the opening of the 1913 diamond season, reorganizing the successful aggregation of last summer, in which many changes which will add materially to the strength of the nine will be made. The following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year: President, William H. Conger; vice-president, Russell Stewart; recording secretary, Christopher Meyers; treasurer, Albert Meyer; financial secretary, Roy Moore.

George Howell was chosen as captain of the baseball team, and will start work immediately in shaping the combination for the opening of the baseball season. The association has several diamonds in view at present, and will probably arrive at a definite choice before Saturday next, when the first practise will be held. The diamond at the corner of Center street and West Seventh street will undoubtedly be decided upon, and the initial practise will be held there Saturday afternoon. The first game will probably be played at Parker Field.

President Conger introduced a plan whereby the players would share in the gate receipts at the close of the season, it being agreed to give 33 1-3 per cent. of the balance in the treasury over expenses to all those who had proven faithful through the season. This sum goes only to those who play in the games or are retained on the bench by the manager during the games. William Conger, the president, offered to put up a gold watch which will be presented at the end of the season to the player chalking up the best individual batting average. This offer was met with much enthusiasm, and the rivalry in the race for it will no doubt be keen. The team will be strictly an independent one, and certain rules and regulations will be laid down by the officials which will have to be strictly adhered to.

NO EASTER VACATION FOR TIGER OARSMEN

Princeton, March 21.—The Tiger oarsmen are remaining over the first part of the Easter recess for two practices daily on Lake Carnegie. This was demed advisable by Dr. Spath the crew coach, in order to get the men well seated and comfortable in their positions as soon as possible.

Coaches Spath and Scoon are in charge and have outlined morning and afternon trips for the second boat.

The varsity and second boats will be filled as follows:

Boat No. 1—Stroke, N. I. Swart; 7, Rauch; 6, Nort; 5, Briggs; 4, Pyne; 3, Chester; bow, Curtis; coxswain, Congleton.

Boat No. 2—Stroke, Putnam; 7, W. Swart; 6, R. Quinby; 5, Battles; 4, Austin; 3, McKibben; 2, Drinker; bow, Bussel; coxswain, Paul.

ANOTHER HOLDOUT SIGNS

It was officially announced at Detrot yesterday that Sam Crawford, veteran right fielder of the Detroit American League Baseball Club, has signed his 1913 contract. President Navin said the contract calls for a $5,000 salary, which is the same as the 1912 agreement.

ONE TEAM WITHDREW FROM S. S. LEAGUE

Several Applicants Mentioned at Last Night's Meeting Will Be Able to Fill Gap.

A special meeting of the Sunday School baseball league committee appointed at a previous gathering was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors last night to adopt certain rules and to hear from likely entrants. Much surprise was evidenced when the announcement of the withdrawal of St. Mary's was presented, for that team was considered to be one of the most likely aspirants for the league title. Joseph Green, representative of that team, in his communication said that he had gone ahead with the presentation of the application before the proper authorities had been consulted, and as the St. Mary's team did not want to enter the organization with any existing bad feeling among the church directors it was decided best to withdraw, and it is likely that this combination will play independent ball this summer.

Monroe avenue sent a representative to last night's meeting, who made his appearance just after Green's withdrawal had been presented, and the Monroe delegate was elected a member of the committee to serve in Green's place, as it is now most certain that Monroe avenue will be one of the contestants in the organization this year. The six other Sunday schools that were invited to join have not been heard from, although several of the men on the committee who were asked to inquire into certain individual schools turned in favorable reports on the conditions existing at these institutions. Randolph Chandler reported that he was almost sure Temple Bap'ist would enter at or before the next meeting, but the man asked to consult with the South Plainfield Baptist authorities said that the Sunday school at that place would not enter this season because of the large amount of travel necessitated and the fact that they could not live up to certain regulations regarding attendance.

A constitution was drawn up based partly on the one of last year, but with many revisions, and this document will be presented to the league at the next meeting. A Board of Governors with absolute power will take charge of the organization's affairs this season. This board will consist of one man from each Sunday school, appointed by the superintendents, and must be over twenty-five years of age. The officers of the league will be chosen by this board from their own number.

RITTER MAKING GOOD.

Fred Ritter, who pitched for the Brunswick team and Plainfield last season, is making good with the Baltimore Club of the International league at their training camp down south. Some local friends of Ritter received word from him today, and he speaks well of Manager Jack Dunn and the members of the Baltimore Club. Ritter has been doing mound duty work. At the end of the week he expects to pitch against the Philadelphia Nationals. The Baltimore Club is playing the Phillies a series of games.

CADETS ORGANIZE CRACK BALL NINE

The Manager Issues Challenges to All Local Junior Teams In This Vicinity.

One of the strongest junior baseball nines in this vicinity will sport the woolens of the St. Mary's Cadet Association on the diamond this summer and plans are well under way for the organization of this team. A challenge has been issued to all teams whose members range in age from 14 to 17 years, and the manager is anxious to hear from every combination within these limits in this vicinity, particularly St. Josephs and Holy Cross seconds.

Among the candidates trying for positions on the team are Arthur Kyle, E. Brennan, R. Day, R. Lawton, F. Lawton, H. McDonnell, F. Deady, J. Powelson, P. McDonough, W. Clarkson, J. McCarty and E. McCann. With a lineup picked from the above list the Cadets ought to command notice as a real spicy baseball aggregation. In arranging games and dates address either of the following: Francis Deady, 522 West Fifth Street, or Arthur Kyle, 543 West Sixth Street.

The schedule of this team will appear later in The Plainfield Daily Press.

ALL UNITED IN SOLEMN SERVICE

Protestant Churches, Following Annual Custom, Jointly Observe Good Friday.

AN INSPIRING SCENE

Seven Ministers Take As Their Topic the Seven Words From the Cross—Hugh Congregation Sings "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

The Union Good Friday service held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night attracted a large congregation of worshippers, and the address on "The Seven Words from the Cross," by the various ministers were impressive and inspiring, and the whole congregation seemed to enter into the spirit of the solemn occasion. Dr. E. Metler Davis was at the organ and the quartet choir sang.

The program opened with an organ voluntary, followed with an anthem by the quartet. The invocation was delivered and Lord's Prayer said by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and Rev. Frederic L. Greene, of Hope chapel read the scripture lesson. Rev. J. Y. Brook of Trinity Reformed church offered prayer, which preceded the singing of "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" by the congregation.

Then followed the several addresses on "The Seven Words From the Cross," which were as follows:

"Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do," Rev. Frederick J. Hubach of the Monroe Avenue church; "Verily, I say unto thee, today shalt thou be with me in Paradise," Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson of Grace church; "Woman, behold thy son: Son, behold thy mother," Rev. J. Y. Brook of Trinity Reformed church; "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church; hymn, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross;" "I Thirst," Rev. Evarts C. Conover of the Temple Baptist church; "It is finished," Rev. Dr. Philip B. THEY STOLE AWAY FOR THE WEDDING

Miss Margaret McCarty and Frank Jaeger Secretly Married In New York.

Miss Margaret McCarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCarty, of West Fourth street, and Frank Jaeger, of this city, were married in St. Luke's Roman Catholic church, New York, on Tuesday, March 18, Father Donnelly officiating, according to an announcement made today by the mother of the bride.

The couple left Plainfield a week ago today, and when the young woman failed to return her parents grew anxious. They could not account for her disappearance, but later they learned through a friend that the couple contemplated marriage. They then surmised the truth. Mrs. Jaeger's parents, who were at first inclined to anger over the affair, have since relented and given their parental blessing. The couple will reside in this city.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

The appeal which has been sent broadcast throughout the county for subscriptions with which to purchase a piano player and phonograph for Bonnie Burn Sanatiorium has met with a ready response from hundreds of people interested in the proposition. More money is needed, however, before the patients will be enabled to enjoy the contemplated amusement. There are about seventy patients at Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, all of whom would enjoy the music provided by the piano player and phonograph, and those who want to help this good work can send their subscriptions to Nathan R. Leavitt, 130 Broad street, Elizabeth.

MISS DOROTHY FISK APPEARS IN COURT

A Witness Against Woman Who Stole Her $500 Gold Mesh Purse.

Miss Dorothy Fisk, daughter of Mrs. Chapman Fisk, whose gold mesh purse was among others that have been stolen in New York churches, appeared in Jefferson Market Court, yesterday, against the woman known as Mrs. Randolph Fitzhugh, who, it is alleged, took the purse. Her appearance afforded one of the greatest surprises of the day at the hearing. Miss Fisk was robbed of a bag valued at $500 in St Bartholomew's church one Sunday in February.

Mrs. Fitzhugh was accused of stealing the purse, but was discharged because Miss Fisk did not press the charge. When she appeared as complainant yesterday she said that her reasons for not appearing before were because of sympathy for the woman and her child. But later Miss Fisk said she had heard things about Mrs. Fitzhugh which had made her change her mind. She identified the bag and repeated how she had recovered it. Then the vagrancy charge was dropped against the prisoner, and she was charged with larceny. Bail was fixed at $2,000.

YOUNG SWINDLERS ARE SENT TO JAIL

Caught Selling Fake Tickets They Fail to Produce the Bail Required.

Charles Pearson of 27 Halsey street and Gustav Fletcher of 317 Halsey street, Newark, who were arrested yesterday on suspicion of being swindlers, were arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza this morning on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences, Jacob Cantor, a tailor of 430 Watchung avenue, who lost a dollar, being the complainant.

The prisoners were selling tickets for a fake basketball game and dance to be given by the Crescent A. C., at the Plainfield High School. Both prisoners waived examination and were held in $300 for the grand jury. They were taken to Elizabeth this afternoon.

They claimed that the tickets they were selling they found on East Fifth street. They were printed in Newark and bore union label No. 23.

MISS SPERRY TO BE A CELEBRANT

She Will Reach Her Ninety-second Mile Stone of Life's Journey.

TO ATTEND SERVICE

Venerable Woman Will Be at Grace M. E. Church Tomorrow to Observe Easter—Sketch of Her Career.

Mrs. Lois Sperry, who is credited with being one of North Plainfield's oldest and most interesting women residents, will observe her 92d birthday anniversary Monday, when it is expected that she will receive many callers. If her health permits, as it did a year ago, she will attend service at Grace M. E. church tomorrow.

Mrs. Sperry makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Stevens, of Grandview avenue. She was born at Annsville, near Rome, N. Y., on March 23, 1821, living there the greater part of her life. She was the second of a family of 11 children, of whom only one other is living, Mrs. Eliza Gould, of Northville, Fulton county, N. Y.

Mrs. Sperry removed to Oswego, N. Y., late in life, and 25 years ago came to North Plainfield to live with her daughter. Despite her advanced age, Mrs. Sperry's faculties are in what might be termed almost perfect condition. She not only sees and hears without any suspicion of impending failure, but moves about with the agility of one many years her junior. Her memory serves none of the forgetful trickeries of those in the twilight of life, making her a delightful narrator of reminiscences and regular attendance at church is only one of the interests. She has her own ideas about living and has such implicit faith in them that she will undoubtedly remain to receive congratulations on her 100th natal day.

The coming event is of double interest because of the fact that Rev. J. F. Burton of Suffern, N. Y., the husband of Mrs. Sperry's granddaughter, will be present to celebrate the anniversary of his birthday.

EVARTS TRACY WINS A VERY HIGH HONOR

Local Man Gets First Prize For Design For Strauss Memorial.

The judges were Herbert Adams, Henry Bacon and Karl Bitter of the National Sculpture Society, and Joseph B. Greenhut and Felix M. Warburg, of the memorial committee. The models are now on exhibition at the rooms of the National Sculpture Society, New York City.

FUNERAL OF E. P. GOODWIN.

The funeral service of Edwin P. Goodwin was held at the late home, 155 Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and former business associates from New York. Rev. William S. McCoy, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Robinson, grand treasurer of St. Louis, Mo., a check for $3,000 due for payment on the death of Harold Serrell, late member of Plainfield Council. Just six days elapsed from the date of death to the payment of the check.

COURT CONSTRUES W. ACKERMAN'S WILL

Vice Chancellor's Opinion Filed In Friendly Suit of E. R. and M. S. Ackerman.

Vice-Chancellor Vivian M. Lewis has filed an opinion in the Court of Chancery in the friendly suit brought by Ernest R. Ackerman and Marion S. Ackerman, of Plainfield, and Jonathan A. Coles, of Scotch Plains, as trustees, for the construction of the will of Warren Ackerman, and for the settlement of their accounts as trustees.

Warren Ackerman, who was for many years a resident of Scotch Plains, died at that place in 1893, leaving a will by which, after making provision for his widow and others, he directed that the residue of his estate should be divided into eleven trust funds, one for each of his brothers, sisters, nephews and nieces who survived him. The principal question which arose in the case related to the trust fund created for the benefit of Theodore J. Ackerman, a brother of the testator, who resided in New Haven and died there in 1911. He received the income of the trust during his life and was empowered to direct by his will to whom the principal of the fund should go upon his death. In default of such direction by him, the principal was to go to his heirs or next of kin. He left a will by which, after giving certain legacies, he left all the residue of his property to the Union and New Haven Trust Company, in trust, to pay the income to his wife and daughter. His wife died soon after his own death, and the question arose whether the principal of the trust fund in question passed to the Union and New Haven Trust Company, in trust, to pay the daughter the income, and upon her death to pay the principal as directed by his will, or whether it passed to the daughter absolutely and as her own.

The Vice-Chancellor held, that under the law of New Jersey the general residuary clause of the will of Theodore J. Ackerman did not operate as an exercise of the power of appointment conferred by the will of Warren Ackerman, and that consequently the trust fund in question should be paid to the daughter absolutely and should not be paid to the Trust Company to be held in trust.

It was further held that the undistributed portions of the trust funds created by Warren Ackerman for the benefit of his sisters, Mary S. Hoyt and Maria Ackerman Hoyt, should be paid to J. Ackerman Coles, as executor of the will of Ezra P. Hoyt, on his taking out ancillary letters testamentary in New Jersey.

Leslie M. Daniel, of this city, and McDermott and Enright appeared for the trustees of the Warren Ackerman estate; Thomas Mills Day, of this city, for the Union and New Haven Trust Company; George Holmes for Caroline E. Ackerman, and Nelson and W. N. Runyon for J. Ackerman Coles, as executor of Ezra P. Hoyt.

NEW BRIDGE FOR ROCKVIEW AVE.

Mayor Clark Makes Plea Before the Somerset Co. Freeholders Board.

ANOTHER FOR BOROUGH

Bids For Wingwalls For West End Avenue Crossing Are Received—A. G. Hooley Appears Before the Board.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders held a session yesterday at the court house, at Somerville, to receive bids for the construction and repair of a number of bridges throughout the county. A great number of bids were received and these were referred to a special committee, together with the county engineer, for tabulation and report at a meeting to be held next Tuesday. The bids on the West End avenue, at North Plainfield, ranged from $2,070 to $2,630, which were for four new wingwalls.

A motion was carried directing the county engineer to prepare two plans for the bridge on Rockview terrace, North Plainfield, one for the widening of the present structure, and one for a new bridge entire.

Mayor Clark and A. G. Hooley, of North Plainfield, were present in the interest of the bridge at Rockview terrace, and Mayor Clark made a short address. He stated that the county had built a bridge on West End avenue, where the assessed valuation amounted to only $250,000 at a cost of about $8,000, and he thought that the borough was entitled to a structure at Rockview terrace, where the assessed valuation was nearly $1,000,000, at a cost of at least $4,000. He asked that the Board consider the matter well, and give the residents of that section of the borough the kind of a bridge that the county and the borough would feel proud of. He stated that the neighborhood was very generally built up, while at West End avenue the property was not yet fully developed.

The members of the board were inclined to take Mayor Clark's view of the matter and his address was very favorably received.

DECLINE TO AMEND THE BUILDING CODE

"Movies" Promoters Get a Negative Answer From the Common Council.

The majority of the members of the Common Council at a meeting of that body, last night, as a committee of whole, decided adversely to the passage of the proposed supplement to the building code to provide for the building of moving picture theatres. The meeting was held in response to a request from the fire and building and laws and ordinance committees which had been considering the proposed supplement offered by Councilman Fred Endress.

It was the opinion of the councilmen that the adoption of the supplement would result in too many changes in the code, and that was thought to be unwise. The supplement was intended to afford relief to William H. Abbott, who wants to build a moving picture theatre on East Front street, and Harry Dreier, Jacob Fass and Morris Abrams, who have a similar proposition for West Front street.

Just what further action may be taken by the Council is not known, but the opinion was unanimous last night against adopting the supplement as proposed.

HAD BOYS ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF LARCENY

Taking for granted that a number of barrels sold to him by five boys of this city were stolen, George Woelping, of Newark, a dealer in kegs and barrels, caused the arrest yesterday of Francis Kane, of 509 West Third street; William Fass, 95 Duer street; John Kennedy, 124 Liberty street; Owen Hollenbach, of 103 Somerset street, and Thomas Judge, of 194 Grove street. Although made to suffer the humiliation of being placed under arrest, no evidence was produced in court to show that the boys had committed an offense. The boys when asked where they obtained the barrels when they were arraigned this morning before City Judge De Meza, said the kegs had been given to them.

After telling the boys to be sure and avoid any trouble in the future, the court suspended sentence.

His Royal Highness declined to discuss the matter of his rumored retirement from the governor generalship, though the general impression is that he expects to return to his post at Ottawa early in the summer. The Duchess of Connaught and the Princess Patricia are accompanying the Duke to England. Owing to the poor health of the Duchess neither she nor her daughter will return to Canada.

TO DIE FOR MURDER.

New York, March 22.—Yee Dock and Eng Hing, two members of the Chinese Hip Sing Tong, are under sentence to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing next Monday. The two were convicted of murder in connection with the tong war that raged furiously in Chinatown here a year ago. Their conviction and sentence to death were causes for satisfaction on the part of the New York police, who have always found it a most difficult matter to secure convictions in such cases. The principal witnesses against Yee Dock and Eng Hing were two Philadelphia girls who drifted into Chinatown.

BIG SAFE BREAK PROVES CLASSIC

Genius in Looting of Electrified Vault.

RICHES OF KING SOLOMON.

Daring Robbery of New York Pawnshop in Which $300,000 in Plunder Was Taken Attributed to "Deafy," World's Greatest Living Safe Blowing Artist—Dodged Many Wires.

A strange key found in the lock of a cellar door led recently to the discovery of the biggest robbery in New York city since the burglary of the Manhattan bank more than a quarter of a century ago.

The amount stolen is roughly estimated to be $300,000, while a half million more in jewels and negotiable bonds was not taken, probably because the safe blowers could not carry the plunder away.

The place entered and robbed was Martin Simons & Son's pawnshop, at 94 Hester street, on New York's east side. Simons is, with perhaps two exceptions, the largest pawnbroker in the United States.

It is whispered about the rooms of the detective bureau that only one man known to be still living could have planned and executed the robbery of the Simons' vaults. That man, one of whose aliases is "Deafy," is as great an artist with burglars' tools as was Whistler with the brush, head of what practically amounted at one time to a correspondence school in safe cracking conducted through the blind channels of the underworld, and student of vault combinations and protected safes beyond all others the most expert.

"Deafy," who is now a cocaine fiend, but whose cunning can be bought, even though his head is not as steady as it once was, arrived in New York a short time ago, so the deadened whisper came to headquarters through hidden sources. He arrived just about the time the Varga Jewelry company, at 324 Fifth avenue, gave up $20,000 worth of gems to burglars.

Used Cheap Tools.

An examination of the tools left behind at the Simons job showed them to be about as cheap a set of instruments as a set of cracksmen ever carried. They comprised a four foot iron drill, an eighteen inch jimmy, two circular saws, one twelve and one six pound sledgehammer and a quantity of insulated wire. There were two pairs of kid gloves, giving the impression that only two men were concerned in the inside work. In a way this accounts for what had been left behind.

It is clear the cracksmen wore gloves to avoid leaving a trace of finger prints behind them. Detectives who scanned every inch of the immediate scene of the robbery, using electric lights and microscopes, failed utterly to find any of the telltale thumb marks.

In order to accomplish the robbery of the Simons pawnshop the burglars skillfully evaded a network of electric burglar alarms which was considered so perfect that the firm did not carry any burglar insurance.

Great Riches In Vault.

The pawnbrokers' vault contained $130,000 in negotiable bonds and $100,000 in negotiable notes as well as thousands of dollars' worth of gold watches and gems. The paper was scattered about the floor. Some of the watches were taken, but for the most part the thieves got what they were after—diamonds.

The looted vault was nine feet high, twelve feet long and about ten feet wide. Its walls were two feet thick, of brick. From the steel of the vault to the outer rim of the store itself the network of wires was continuous, but the burglars dodged every one.

The burglars went down into the cellar, where the tenants had coal bins. They had a key with which they unlocked the bin nearest the wall, on the other side of which is the cellar of the pawnbrokers' store. They didn't touch that wall; they burrowed under it, because it, too, was infested with the dangerous electric wires.

In the coal bin they went to work with their hands. They scraped coal away from the desired wall. Then they gouged their little hole in the earth of the cellar floor and went through. The hole was measured by skeptical policemen. It was 12 by 18 inches, so the measurers say.

Skillfully Avoided Wires.

Wriggling through, they found themselves in the pawnbrokers' cellar at the foot of the stairs leading up to the store. At the head of the stairs was a trapdoor, and the trapdoor wasn't locked. But it was electric wired. The burglars avoided it.

The bored hole after hole in the wood until they took out a square of planking big enough to let a man or boy through.

They made a big hole in the brick as they penetrated the side wall and laid bare the wall of the vault itself.

This wall was only wood, hardly more than a quarter of an inch thick, just a nominal wooden sheathing which nobody ever thought any burglars would ever see. They ripped the wood, dropped into the vault, and there before them were the riches of a King Solomon's mine in the east side of New York.

The Scrap Book

No Place For a Sailor.

The Rev. Mr. Payson was invited by the Marine Bible society of Portland, Me., to address the seamen who happened to be in port on a certain Sunday, and as he was famous as a preacher and there were several of Uncle Sam's warships in the harbor the church was overcrowded with Jack tars.

Temporary seats were erected in the aisles and at the rear of the pews by putting dry goods boxes here and there and stringing boards across them like rude circus seats.

SLID DOWN TO THE LOWER FLOOR.

The preacher was describing the day of the last judgment and in an endeavor to use language suitable to his audience was closing his sermon with the words, "Then our world, driven by the last tempest, will strike and be dashed to pieces on the rocks of eternity."

The last words were hardly uttered when one of the boards gave way under the weight of its occupants with a resounding crash.

"She has struck!" yelled a sailor in the gallery, and he promptly threw himself over the rail and, wrapping one leg around a pillar, slid down to the lower floor. "I ain't going to be on no hurricane deck in a wreck!" he cried as he ran for the street.—New York American.

Our Purpose Here.

You ask me, oh, sincerest friend,
What is our purpose here
While passing days may onward trend
And year supplanteth year?

What purpose largest place should hold
In heart and life and plan?
What is a soul's most treasured gold
In this the sphere of man?

The answer is not hard to see.
Has it escaped your view,
And have you learned so scant of me
And I so small of you?

Oh, kindly friend, the answer seen,
Like stars that shine above,
Is this, and only this, I ween:
We live that we may love.

—Douglas Dobbins.

An Intelligent Goat.

In the old days, when New York's Harlem was mostly rock and was known as Goatville after some of its most conspicuous inhabitants, the New York Central railroad trains would pass bowlder after bowlder painted over with advertisements in vivid colors.

"SEE HOW HE OBEYS."

J. Pierpont Morgan, younger then than he is now, was riding out of the depot with a friend when his hat, blowing off, was seized by a vagrant goat, which began to devour it. The friend was too much amused to offer any sympathy.

"Deuced intelligent goat that!" he said. "See how he obeys the orders of the owner of the field." And he pointed to a large sign that read, "Chew Morgan's Plug."—New York Tribune.

An Interested Listener.

When Claude Grahame-White, the famous aviator, was in this country not long ago, he was spending a week end at a country home. The first night that he arrived a dinner party was given. Feeling very enthusiastic over the recent flights, he began to tell the young woman who was his partner at the table of some of the details of the aviation sport. It was not until the dessert was brought that he realized that he had been doing all the talking; indeed, the young woman had not uttered a single word. "I am afraid I have been boring you with this shop talk," he said, feeling as if he should apologize. "Oh, not at all," she murmured, in very polite tones; "but would you mind telling me, what is aviation?"

He Made Sure.

A Harvard student, who for obvious reasons does not care to have his name appear, passed up this one: "A cousin of mine in the western part of the state came to Boston for a visit and dropped out to Cambridge to call on me. He asked if he could share my room with me that night, and I told him he could if he came in early enough. He started for a theater, and when midnight came without any trace of him I called in my regular roommate, who had sought quarters elsewhere to make room for my cousin. I decided that my relative was going to make a night of it in town.

"We had hardly got to sleep, however, when he came in, bringing a highly flavored breath. We said nothing, and he soon climbed into the bed with us. Everything was quiet for a few moments, when suddenly he sat up, put his mouth close to my ear and whispered, 'Jim, there are six feet in this bed!' 'Forget it,' I said. 'You're crazy.' With that he climbed out, groped his way around to the foot of the bed and began to paw our feet. 'You're right,' he said, after a minute. 'I've counted 'em, and there's only four.'"—Boston Traveler.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I endured much misery from backache which was caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and when I got up in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back always made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians but their medicine did not help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store, that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Of the six members of the Allen clan tried and convicted for the murders, Floyd Allen and his son are the only two condemned to death. The others were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from fifteen to thirty-five years.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, MARCH 22, 1913.

The editorial columns of this paper are conducted on Saturdays by representative citizens who are free to express their own views. Rev. Father Bernard M. Bogan, rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, and Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist Church, are the contributing editors for today.

WHAT EASTER MEANS TO ME.

All bright and beautiful thoughts gather about Easter,—the returning verdure of field and forest, the promised boon and benison of countless blossoms, the opening minstrelsy of homing birds, and the first faint breath of fragrance-freighted breeze. No one can be more susceptible to these glad things than I who am constantly conscious or sub-conscious of them. And yet these dear delights by me are all but forgotten in the supreme, central message and meaning of the Day.

The song of the woodland singer, the bourgeoning beech and maple, the rare and radiant petals of a thousand flowers—what are all these if the dead are not raised? Lo! the very music of Easter is mockery, declaring that Christ hath been raised when raised He hath not been if the dead are not raised. For "the dead" in general include "the dead" in particular; Christ was once one of "the dead." Ay, if the dead are not raised what are rose and lily to the physical senses when the heart yearns for the touch of a vanished hand? Forever vanished if there be no resurrection. What signify the strains of bluebird and of robin if the human voice we loved is silent forever? As forever silent it is if Christ hath not been raised the first fruits of them that are asleep.

Of immortality apart from ultimate bodily resurrection, the Scriptures know nothing, either in Old or New Testament. The final resurrection of the body demands the imperishable life of the soul, and the imperishable life of the soul assures the final resurrection of the body. Temporary separation of soul and body there may be and personality subsist, for the germ of personality resides in the spirit; permanent separation there cannot be and personality persist, for perfect personality consists of both soul and body, each acting and reacting upon the other, making the complete self as known to the individual, to his fellow-men and to his God.

Our beloved dead are fallen for awhile asleep, but sleep never, either in Nature or in Revelation, means actual cessation of being even for one briefest moment, such cessation would be annihilation precluding the possibility of resurrection; for there can be no resurrection without identity of being, and there can be no identity of being without unbroken continuity of being. Many and marvelous changes may and must pass upon the body when this corruptible puts on incorruption, but essential personality remains untouched and intact forever; else, once again, there can be no resurrection. A second creation, even were it a facsimile of the first, could not restore personality lost for a single second. Words often contradict themselves in stating the simplest and most certain truths, for thought transcends all speech; but this we may assert, Death indeed resembles sleep, but sleep is never death. Only the living sleep, and the dead as truly live in their very death as the sleeping live in their deepest slumber. "God is not the God of the dead but of the living, for all live unto Him." How perfect or how partial the present blessedness of those who thus sleep in Jesus, none may surely say; enough to know that they are with Christ which is very far better—that death to them was immediate gain.

Therefore with all the Church of God I join today in saying, "I believe in the resurrection of the body;" and so and only so I add, as triumphantly I do add, "and the life everlasting."

PHILIP B. STRONG.

THE RESURRECTION.

But a few days ago there was sorrow in the heart of Mother Church, for with the heritage of Faith transmitted to her children came the heritage of sorrow for her Spouse, the Murdered Son of the Eternal God. She looked with wonder and amazement at it all as in sign and ceremony she reviewed the dread tragedy of our redemption. To her children of every land under the sun, of tender or advancing years she retold the story of it all. The blight of sin, the hope of forgiveness—the fulfillment of Divine intervention—and the assurance of security. All these things she told us, and bade us look through the gloom of Good Friday afternoon to the certain glory of the Resurrection Morn. And what is the spirit begotten of her teaching? Surely it is joy that follows as day follows night, the joy begotten of heart-felt penitence and deep contrition for the part we have played in this tragedy of our redemption. Looking now upon the resurrection of our Saviour, we find that in this glorious mystery are contained two pledges: the pledge of the final triumph of His Church, the pledge of the fulfillment of the Christian hope, the foundation of the power by which the followers of Christ conquered an unbelieving world; and the foundation of the blessed hope that we, too, shall arise, and in our flesh shall see God. The resurrection was the pledge of the triumph of His Church. It proves that He who was murdered, who died, and who was buried, arising in His power, is God; that the fire which He came to cast upon the earth was fire from Heaven; and that the doctrines which He announced, bore upon them the stamp and seal of Divine authority. Many a wonderful miracle had Jesus wrought in the course of His public ministry. Healing went out from the very hem of His garment, and His voice had power over the devils who tormented the possessed ones. He had made the blind to see, and the dumb to speak, aye, He had broken down the barrier that sunders the living and the dead, and brought back souls who had gone upon that journey whence none return, save by the high command of God. But great though these miracles were, though each was of itself sufficient to prove the divinity of His mission, yet not upon these did He choose to rest the proof. He appealed once and again to the fact that He would arise from the dead; and on this was He content to rest the assertion of His divinity, and it was armed with this sacred truth, this fulfillment of a divine promise that the followers of the Risen Jesus went forth to bear His name to the limits of the habitable earth, and the power of God went with them, supplying the want of learning and of wealth, and the sound of their voices went forth to the ends of the earth. Men began to feel that there was abroad, a mysterious influence which they could not understand, but which mastered the keen intellect and bent the stubborn will. The new doctrines strong with the strength of truth and attractive by their intrinsic beauty, won upon the hearts of men. They stole upon the world like strains of half forgotten music, and the hearts that had been steeped in worldliness, recognized their teaching as divine, and so the banner of the Risen Jesus was born through the world. But neither then nor now in peace. Our Blessed Lord had predicted: "The world will hate you even as it hated Me;" and His words have been fulfilled. The banner was borne in triumph, but the song of victory was the cry of battle, and the feet of those who marched in that procession were red with the blood of martyrs. And so has it been since, a story of conflict and a story of victory. The religion of that Risen Jesus has gone onward through the world, conquering and to conquer. Many a relentless foe has she encountered; she has survived their fall. Yes, Jesus has triumphed. Go now after nineteen hundred years to the grave where His enemies had imagined they had buried His influence and His power; lo! He is risen, He is not there. He has gone forth to the world, His power has passed upon every nation, His influence upon every heart, His cross is high above a thousand altars, and today His followers counted by millions, celebrate the glories of His Resurrection.

BIBLE SCHOOL CAMPAIGN AT THE FIRST BAPTIST

Great enthusiasm is developing in the First Baptist church over its Bible school campaign to bring its enrollment up to 1,000 before Christmas. Sunday afternon at the close of a stirring three-minute address by the pastor over 75 arose to express their purpose to bring in one new scholar by the following Sunday. Since the beginning of this campaign, practically not more than a month ago, over 100 have been added to the enrollment and every week the interest in the movement gains strength and momentum. Confidence in its final success is likewise growing. Many questions are already being asked relative to the proposed new chapel, all indicating assurance on the part of those asking the questions that the chapel will be erected in the near future.

No effort is being made to attract pupils from other Bible schools, indeed every such attempt is frowned upon and discouraged. When pupils voluntarily seek admission to the school of the First Baptist church the superintendent of the school from which they come is first informed, that he may take such action in the matter as he deems it wise and not until after such notification will names be enrolled. The effect of the campaign upon the general life and labor of the church is already apparent in increased attendance and deepened interest. Nothing would bring the First church more pleasure than similar conditions should obtain in all the churches throughout the city.

HOT CROSS BUNS ON GOOD FRIDAY

GIVES A PRISONER BENEFIT OF DOUBT

Daniel Sparano, seventeen years old, of 818 St. Mary's aenue, arrested Tuesday charged with the theft of two bicycles which had been reported stolen, was arraigned before City Judge De Meza this morning, who placed him in charge of the probation officer. The evidence against Sparano, although purely circumstantial, was apparently damaging. He was determined in his stand, however, that he found the two bicycles in a strip of woods along Terrill road, and that they were covered with brush.

In disposing of the case Judge De Meza said that there was much doubt as to his guilt, and added he would give him the benefit of that doubt. Continuing, the Judge said: "Your record in the past has been good, and to send you to jail for an offense which you may not have committed is a mistake no magistrate likes to make. You are the sole support of your mother and your younger brothers and sisters because of the present illness of your father, so I will send you back to them, and I want you to behave."

THE DIPLOMATIC SERVICE IS SUBJECT TO VAST CHANGES

New Administration Has Right to Appoint Many Representatives.

Social Requirements Costly. Profession Has Grown to Be Fine Art.

PRODIGIOUS is the upheaval that occurs when a new administration comes into office, and nowhere in the whole structure of the federal government is this more evident than in the diplomatic service.

In token of the complete revision of personnel, for many days and, in fact, even before President Wilson took office there were rumors, counter rumors, speculation and reports as to who should receive appointment to places in the service which conducts the intercourse between this country and others.

So thoroughly has the custom become established that with the inauguration of a new administration the president must have the privilege of appointing new men it is now the rule for all diplomatic agents to send in formally their resignations. Though in a few isolated cases of lesser importance the agents, whether ambassadors or ministers, are retained, it is unswervingly the custom to put new men in the places.

This sweeping change of affairs justifies in the public mind at this time a high degree of curiosity as to the diplomatic service, who the diplomatic servants of the United States are, how much of salary they receive and what manner of work they do for their pay.

Social Obligations Expensive.

It may be remarked right here, to answer a leading question, that one of the principal functions of an ambassador is that of social activity. This fact has an important bearing on consideration of salary, the honor of the job and the fitness of the man to hold it. It has been well proved that an ambassador at one of the leading foreign posts has a mighty hard time of it fulfilling his social obligations abroad on the salary he receives.

It was on the foregoing point that much trouble arose recently over the purposed appointment of William F. McCombs to the post of ambassador to France. Mr. McCombs, through intimate friends, was quoted as having pronounced himself a poor man. He had possessed a lucrative law practice in New York, but when he was chairman of the national Democratic committee it was said he had spent upward of $60,000 in the interests of Mr. Wilson's candidacy for nomination at Baltimore and had ruined his practice.

When President Wilson first offered him the post Mr. McCombs considered the matter deeply and declined. The reason was given that he could not possibly live and be socially a proper representative in the flowery French diplomatic circle on the ambassadorial salary of $17,500 a year. He later withdrew his rejection of the offer and accepted the post tentatively. It was reported that President Wilson, Mr. Bryan and many other friends of the national chairman had brought pressure to bear upon him to induce him to accept the post. This was taken in some quarters to mean that a way had been found to finance Mr. McCombs' social activities.

The diplomatic service is divided into four ranks, composed respectively of ambassadors, envoys extraordinary and ministers plenipotentiary (all this is the title of one rank), ministers resident and consuls general.

United States Has Ten Ambassadors.

There are ten ambassadors, whose salary is $17,500 yearly. The countries to which ambassadors are appointed are Austria-Hungary, Brazil, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Russia and Turkey.

There are thirty-one countries in each of which the United States has an envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary. The salaries for these positions are $10,000 and $12,000, according to the relative importance of the countries. This provides diplomatic intercourse with virtually all the nations of the earth.

The machinery of the consular service is independent. Consuls are maintained in all the principal cities of the world. The consular service to a large extent is under civil service regulation, and therefore its members are not subject directly to summary removal upon the change of administration, as are the higher diplomatic agents.

Originally the term embassy applied strictly, and in a technical sense yet applies, only to the special missions from one country to another, to transact an extraordinary piece of diplomatic work. But in a popular sense embassies are understood to be the permanent establishments maintained by the chief representatives of a country in foreign lands.

The principal objects of diplomacy have always been the same, to preserve the independence and safeguard the security of the state or to obtain some coveted advantage over other states. Subsidiary to these main objects have been the more immediate purpose of maintaining certain arrangements, such as the prevention of wars and the obtaining of commercial advantages to the citizens of the trading nations.

Commercial Matters Most Important

Under settled political conditions the commercial purposes of diplomacy reach their highest importance, though the political significance of the service is never far in the background. How sinister political exigencies can intervene in the functions of an ambassador was recently exemplified in the City of Mexico, when Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson was under the necessity of dealing with a government suddenly established by revolution. At one time an absolute breach of diplomatic relations threatened to give way to armed intervention by the United States.

The secretary of state—or, as he is called in some countries, the minister of foreign affairs—is the supreme head of the diplomatic service. Thus Secretary William Jennings Bryan has the greatest burden of responsibility under President Wilson in the appointment of new diplomatic agents.

The methods of diplomatic action vary according to the magnitude of the matters involved and the nature of the emergencies which call them into play. Often in years past, when the interests of several nations were vitally concerned to the extent that the peace of a continent was endangered, international conferences were called.

Originally the diplomatic relations of the nations were carried on by occasional embassies, the sending back and forth of specially appointed missions. But this form of intercourse, which was ineffective and inadequate at best, gave way in the fifteenth century to the establishment of resident legations. Since that time the practice of international intercourse has been developed to a fine art.

Power of Early Ambassadors.

In its early period of growth the system of resident legations enjoyed power second only to that of the sovereigns. The ambassadors won their success and the political advantage of their countries through the degree of cunning, astuteness and personally engaging manners they possessed. Statecraft is those days was another name for intrigue. The biggest powers in church and state sought ambassadorial positions. However, in the past century the nations have instituted systems of trained agents and the perfection of the telegraph and other means of communication have greatly diminished the functions of the ambassadors. The home offices are never out of touch with them.

But throughout the years the function of social representation has always remained an immensely important one for the diplomatic agents. No matter how democratic the various powers have become, the degree of pomp and ceremony in diplomatic service has remained largely the same. Of course there has not existed for several centuries the possibility of another "Field of the Cloth of Gold" meeting, which was conducted at Calais, France, when King Henry VIII. of England conferred with King Francis of France. Yet some gorgeously elaborate court functions break into the routine life of the diplomatic intermediaries. Each representative at each national capital is expected at occasional intervals to entertain at some sort of elaborate function. It calls for the expenditure of an amount of money which puts a considerable dent in an ambassador's salary.

Decline of Personal Power.

The transformation of diplomacy in the past century from the art of applying personal influence in the management of men to the more prosaic and worthy art of managing the business of the state with foreign nations has necessitated naturally a corresponding change in the organization and character of the diplomatic service. The personal qualities of shrewdness, talent for intrigue and smoothness of address have declined in importance and have made way for knowledge of international law, of history, of the laws and conditions of trade. In most countries the selection for ambassadorial duties of men having exceptional influence has given way to the selection of trained professional diplomats. This change has not been so marked in the United States with reference to the leading posts, but the tendency is in that direction. At least the men chosen have generally been possessed of wide knowledge of international political affairs. The recent expansion of this country's commercial relations has added great importance to the work of the ambassadors.

If a nation finds objection to any man named as ambassador to it by another nation the objection if well grounded is always respected by the second nation. Several instances of the withdrawal of a suggested ambassador's name because of unpopularity at the capital to which he was sent have been recorded.

The distinction of the ambassadorial office as the direct representative of a sovereign power and the importance of the duties intrusted to it have invested the office with a certain sanctity. Thus an ambassador possesses immunities and privileges in the country to which he is appointed.

Immunities of Ambassadors.

These immunities and privileges, briefly stated, are as follows: Exemption of the envoy and his family and staff from local jurisdiction, both civil and criminal; inviolability of his house, his papers and his goods from search and seizure; exemption of his personal effects from imposts and taxes, liberty of worship for himself and entourage.

These immunities are generally due to the principle of extraterritoriality, the domestic jurisdiction of a minister being supposed by a legal fiction to go with him and to exclude the jurisdiction of the state to which he is accredited. But the doctrine is more properly explained on principles of convenience and international comity.

The ambassadors whose places recently have been subject to speculation are Richard C. Kerens of Missouri, ambassador to Austria-Hungary; Edwin V. Morgan of New York, to Brazil; Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, to France; John G. A. Leishman of Pennsylvania, to Germany; Thomas J. O'Brien of Michigan, to Italy; Larz Anderson of the District of Columbia, to Japan; Henry Lane Wilson of Washington, to Mexico; Curtis Guild of Massachusetts, to Russia, and William W. Rockhill of the District of Columbia, to Turkey.

KING GEORGE CAPABLE AND LOVABLE MONARCH.

Victim of Assassin and His Wife Enjoyed Highest Affection of Subjects.

King George of Greece, assassinated at Saloniki, leaves behind him a record of having been a capable, businesslike executive in addition to being a lovable ruler. His country's finances were in a deplorable condition when he ascended the throne, but in a few years the national affairs, including industry and commerce, had taken on splendid advancement.

Queen Olga, a beautiful woman, shared in his complete popularity.

George I., king of the Hellenes, was the first of his name to reign in Greece. His family name is Holstein-Glucksburg; and he was a brother of the late King Frederick VIII. of Denmark, Alexandra, dowager queen of Great Britain, and the dowager empress of Russia. He married in 1867 the Grand Duchess Olga, eldest daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine of Russia.

George was born on Dec. 24, 1845, and was elected king in 1863. He was the second son of Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glucksburg, who afterward became king of Denmark. The national assembly, which met at Athens on March 18, 1863, elected the Danish prince to rule over the Hellenes, and the crown was accepted for him on June 4 by his father, who acted as his guardian.

A few days later the prince was declared of age by the national assembly and assumed the crown on Nov. 2. It was on this occasion that he took the name of George.

CRYSTAL GAZER, AT 50 CENTS A LOOK, PICKS COLLECTOR OF THE PORT OF NEW YORK AND THE NEW AMBASSADORS

"John J. Jinks may be named as Ambassador to Dahomey; on the other hand, men skilled in political predictions admit that if Mr. Jinks fails to obtain the appointment he will be compelled to fill some other position under the Wilson administration, or may have no position at all. It is conceded at Washington that Jinks may not be Ambassador to Dahomey."—News item.

Somewhat upset by repeated readings of the foregoing startling bit of information since the inauguration of President Wilson, a reporter decided that the time had come to get at the real facts regarding just what the appointments are going to be.

At the Navy Department, the War Department, the House Office Building, Harvey's oyster bar and other government departments he had obtained the same information that one does in a conversation with an eel. Everybody knew exactly what was going to be done in the matter of appointments, but no two persons agreed. So he sought some more reliable source of information. He wandered off to the east and found his way into E street, S. E., where King Solomon and certain others look into the future through great crystal balls at so much a look.

LOOKING FOR THE COLLECTOR OF THE PORT OF NEW YORK — MORE SOOTHSAYING.

King Solomon was asked for fifty cents' worth of "dope" on the Collectorship of the Port of New York. He went around behind the spangled curtain and lighted the chafing dish and uttered a few words which sounded like a Governor of South Carolina revoking a notary's commission. Then he picked up his crystal ball and gazed intently.

"I see a man," he said. "He looks like Dudley F. Malone. Doesn't he?" and he thrust the globe under the reporter's eyes. The reflected figure did resemble Mr. Malone in a way. It had the same number of eyes and ears. By the same token it resembled A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, and Albert J. Swalm, of Iowa. King Solomon, however, preferred to look upon it as Mr. Malone, and the reporter immediately telegraphed the rumor to his paper.

The political crystal gazer also discovered the fact that if Senator Bailey is not appointed District Attorney for New York some one else will be, and the reporter left, half satisfied. He still wanted to know who stands the best chance of capturing the postmastership of Sleepy Eye, Minn., and stopped the first dark visaged man he met. The victim happened to be a red coated Ethiopian who spends his afternoons in warding the public away from the doorway of a dentist's apartments.

"Ah done heard a lot o' talk 'bout dat job," said the animated signpost. "An' Ah got mah own ideas. Yassah. Ah jist 'pears to me dat de job's sure goin' to de man what gits de 'pointment. You-all unnerstan's dat my word doesn't go very far, 'cause I ain't no reporter an' ain't got no typewriter. If Ah had a typewriter Ah figgers Ah could pick jest 'bout as many winners as the rest of 'em."

REMARKABLE YEAR FOR TELEPHONE CO.

President Vail Issues Yearly Report—Messages to 700,000 Places Now.

The report just issued by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for the year ending December 31, 1912, shows that the telephone has become in the United States to a greater extent than anywhere else in the world, a household necessity. There are now 70,000 towns, cities and hamlets from which telephone messages may be sent. This is 5,000 more than the number of postoffices in the United States; 10,000 more than the number of railroad stations and nearly three times the number of regular telegraph offices. There are altogether 7,456,074 telephone stations in the Bell system, which is an increase over last year of 823,449 stations. This compares with an increase during the previous year of 749,906 stations.

Including the traffic over the long distance lines, but not including the connecting companies, the daily average of toll connections in 1912 was about 728,000 and of exchange connections about 25,572,000. This compares with 645,000 and 23,484,000 in 1911. Speaking broadly this means that the daily average of telephone conversations last year reached 26,310,000, or at the rate of about 8,472,000,000 for the year, as against 24,129,000 in 1911, when the rate was 7,770,000,000 a year.

FAMILY REFUSES TO SEE DAUGHTER WHO ELOPED WITH FATHER'S CHAUFFEUR

WM P STORTY — MRS WM P STORTY

"A member of my family saw my daughter. She now knows that we do not want to see her again nor have any communication with her."

This was the emphatic statement made by Mrs. Anna Middleton, widow of Lee B. Middleton, of Newport and Washington, whose young daughter, Gertrude W. Middleton, three months ago eloped with a chauffeur and was married in Alexandria, Va. Her husband is William P. Storty, who for several years has been employed by Mr. Charles Henry Butler, reporter for the United States Supreme Court.

Miss Middleton closely followed the example of Miss Julia French, whom Miss Middleton knows, and who escaped the vigilance of her mother and married "Jack" Geraghty, a Newport chauffeur.

The young couple met three years ago. When Mrs. Middleton took her daughter to Connecticut last summer the young couple corresponded. Storty proposed marriage last December and was accepted.

Saying she was going to the theatre on the night of December 17, Miss Middleton met Storty downtown, and in Mr. Butler's car they drove to Alexandria, awakened the marriage license clerk, obtained a license and were married.

Mrs. Storty kept her secret until a few days ago, when, without leaving any explanation for her mother, she went to an apartment in the northeastern section of Washington, D. C., which her husband had fitted up for her.

Mrs. Middleton is wealthy and owns considerable real estate in Washington.

FRENCH TROOPS ANNIHILATED

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Paris, March 22.—A column of native French trops with their officers was virtually annihilated by Arabs a few days ago while operating in the Aderar region of the western Sahara. A body of 1,000 Berbers of Awesiemid swooped down and surrounded the French detachment. After a fight lasting all day the French troops were overcome. A few natives escaped on pack horses accompanying the French detachment survivors and brought the news to headquarters in Timbuktu.

PICTURES OF PLAINFIELD.

The motion pictures showing views about Plainfield, North Plainfield and Watchung, which were shown for the first time at the Plainfield theatre yesterday, are considered one of the best films yet produced. They were witnessed last night by a large audience. The reel will be presented at the theatre today and three days next week, affording all an opportunity to see it. Individual pictures of Fire Chief Doane and Chief of Police Kiely are especially good.

COLLISION IN FOG.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Vineyard Haven, Mass., March 22.—The revenue cutter Itasca towed the City of Macon into Vineyard harbor at 7:30 this morning. The steamer was in collision with the Metropolitan liner James F. Whitney in a fog in the Sound last night. The James F. Whitney anchored a mile off shore undamaged. The City of Macon carried no passengers.

RESCUE MISSION WORK

Gratifying results of the work of the Plainfield Rescue Mission were shown in the annual report made by the treasurer, J. D. Loizeaux, at the yearly meeting of the board yesterday afternoon, and the past 12 months have found a great increase in the wide spreading work of the local charity organization. The total receipts were $1,493.17, and the expenditures $1,486.58, leaving a balance on hand of $6.89.

STRAWBERRIES $1.00.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

CHICAGO, March 22.—Strawberries are selling at $1.00 a quart here today. Easter buyers found the market practically bare of offerings because of the non-arrival of consignments from the south due to the big storm.

SUNRISE MEETING.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed Church will hold its Easter sunrise meeting at 6:45 tomorrow morning, with Arthur M. Harris as the speaker.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Alexander Millar, of Madison avenue, announces the engagement of his daughter, Jeanie Louise, to Franklin Thompson Towle, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Towle, of Boston.

CLEVER SINGER AT PROCTOR'S

That popular composer and clever singer, Frederick V. Bowers and company, in a singing and dancing turn that is the top notch of grace, originality and artisticness, has attracted a great deal of attention. Mr. Bowers possesses a beautiful tenor voice, clear as a bell. He has with him a girl who is an exceptionally graceful dancer. The colored boys received their share of the applause for the good work in clog dancing. Sharp and Flatt, a team of the funniest German musical comedians, will please the big and little kiddies. Their handling of the English language is remarkable as well as daring. Rose De Young, a charming singer of the latest popular songs, was well received. The Heuman trio of clever comedy cyclists, in daring feats, have a clever, laughable yet exciting finish to their act. They have a race, a two-man race, one mile stretch, nuf sed, see this race. The Kinemacolor pictures are improving rapidly, and the new electrical machines will be installed the first of next week. "The Awkward Mixup," a two-reel comedy, is very funny.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SALLY LUNNS.

SALLY LUNNS are made very much like muffins. Yeast is generally used for raising them instead of baking powder. They are popular for breakfast. Quickly made by using baking powder for raising them, they are also available for tea.

Delicious Hot Breads.

Southern Sally Lunns.—Take a cupful each of scalded milk, boiled water and butter mixed with lard, a half cupful of lukewarm water, a half cake of compressed yeast, three cupfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of salt and a quart of milk. The milk, yeast, water and three cupfuls of flour should be mixed together and then stood aside to rise. When light put in the eggs, the shortening, the salt and the rest of the flour. Beat well and pour into the pans. Bake and serve hot.

Quick Sally Lunns.—Take one cupful each of flour and milk, a teaspoonful each of baking powder, salt, melted butter and one egg. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt into a bowl, add the milk, a well beaten egg and butter, mix well and pour into a baking pan which has been brushed with lard. Bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes. Cut in squares and serve hot.

Tea Cakes.

Sally Lunn Tea Cakes.—Take two tablespoonfuls each of butter and sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Place in a bowl and pour in one cupful of scalded milk. When lukewarm add one-half cake of yeast dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of lukewarm water, three well beaten eggs and enough sifted flour to make a stiff batter. The amount required is about two and one-fourth cupfuls. Cover and let rise until very light. Pour into buttered tins, again let rise and bake in a quick oven.

English Sally Lunns.—Take three-quarters of a pound of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, one ounce of butter, half an ounce of compressed yeast, one egg, one and a half gills of milk and a quarter of a teaspoonful of sugar. Mix the flour and salt, then add the butter. Rub the yeast and sugar together until they are liquid. Warm the milk till just tepid and mix it with the yeast. Beat up the egg and add it to the milk, then strain the milk and other ingredients into the middle of the flour and mix. Turn on a floured board and knead lightly, using a little flour to prevent sticking. Grease two high, round cake pans. Divide the dough in two, make into round cakes and put in the pans. Twist a piece of greased paper over the tops and set them in a warm place to rise till the dough fills the pans. Then bake in a quick oven half an hour, turn out and brush over with a little warm milk and butter.

THE MORAL IT TAUGHT.

A Quaint Comment on the Success of F. Marion Crawford.

Many visitors to Rome will remember the German book store on the Piazza di Spagna kept by Herr S. of whom a story is told which throws a backward light upon the apparently troublesome activities, as a boy, of a distinguished American novelist. Herr S., who had been established in Rome as a bookseller almost a lifetime, once met in his store another elderly gentleman, who said:

"Isn't it fine, Mr. S., about Frank Crawford?"

"Fine about Frank Crawford? Vot you mean?"

"Why, about his book—a great success. Haven't you heard. Haven't you read it?"

"Read his pook? No. Frank Crawford ride a pook? Impossible!"

"Oh, yes; no doubt of it. Giuseppe," calling a salesman, "let me have a copy of 'Mr. Isaacs,' please."

When the volume was brought to the incredulous bookseller he held it at arm's length, looking at it curiously as he turned it from side to side and from end to end. Then he cautiously examined the title page with its "—th edition," which he greeted with a guttural "Hum!" Next he turned to the last page and read the concluding sentence with another grunt of astonishment. Then he dipped into the volume in two or three places and finally, satisfied that he was not being deceived, handed back the book to Giuseppe without looking at him and said:

"Vell, vell! Dot brooves dot you must neffer trown a poy."—Baddeley Boardman in Century.

Very Bad Form.

Lord Rocksavage, who leads the Duke of Westminster's set, is handsome, a fine rider, a superb shot and very, very smart in dress. He was strolling one warm and sunny winter morning on the terrace at Monte Carlo. From the cut of his gray flannels a pickpocket realized Lord Rocksavage's opulence and attempted to steal his sovereign purse. But the young nobleman seized in his strong brown hand the pickpocket's grimy paw, and, looking at it disgustedly, he said as he flung it from him, "How dare you put your hand in a gentleman's pocket without washing it first?"

Webster Was Gallant.

Daniel Webster was exceedingly fond of music, and when he was stopping at Willard's hotel in Washington he never ceased to implore the wife of a member of congress, also a guest at the hotel, for "just a little song." He had an old fashioned gallantry in speaking to ladies, and every time he saw the wife of his friend he complimented her most extravagantly on her voice. When Jenny Lind came to Washington Daniel Webster was, of course, among the audience. He had come in rather late from a champagne party and after each song of Jenny Lind's applauded most vociferously. Finally, rising to the pinnacle of enthusiasm, he stood up in the crowded hall and made one of his most gallant bows to the great singer. Then, catching sight of the lady whose voice he also admired, he turned to her, away from Jenny Lind, and made a still lower bow amid the laughter and applause of the audience.

"LAKE OF LIFE" IS FOUND IN NIGERIA

Englishman Discovers Holy Pool.

SAID TO HAVE ODD POWER.

P. Amaury Talbot Makes Report—Had Previously Found Strange "Lake of the Dead"—Natives Look Upon the Sheets of Water as Sacred Objects. Have Countless Legends.

P. Amaury Talbot, a district commissioner in southern Nigeria, has made another remarkable discovery. Some months ago, when he returned to England on a visit, he told how he found the Lake of the Dead in the Oban country. He now tells how he and his wife explored the Sacred Lake of Life.

When Mr. Talbot returned to Nigeria he found that the news of the discovery of the Lake of the Dead had brought to light the fact that another sheet of water to which mysterious powers were ascribed existed in the neighborhood of Ikot-Obo, the chief town of the Ibiblos, and one afternoon Mr. Talbot and Mr. Eakin, accompanied by Mrs. Talbot and her sister, set out to locate it.

Hitherto the knowledge of the lake had been kept a jealously guarded secret from all Europeans, and not even the natives, with the exception of the high priests, had been allowed to approach the sacred water, the dwelling place of the greatest deity of the race.

Access to the lake was through a sacred grove so cunningly contrived that a stranger might pass within a few yards of yet never find the holy pool. Mr. Talbot and his party, guided to the spot, found that the water was full of great fish, on the welfare of which depended the life of the Ibiblo race.

Its Fish Are Tame.

The fish were so tame that they fed from the hand of the reigning high priest, the only native human being allowed to look on the water. Formerly many victims were annually sacrificed here, though at the present day human life is not permitted to be taken.

Countless legends had grown up round the spot. It was said to have been placed by its first guardian, the thunder god, under the care of a python and a leopard, which ceaselessly keep watch and ward and destroy any one rash enough to seek to penetrate its mysteries. It is especially sacred as the dwelling place of the most powerful deity—the Great Mother Isu-Ma (the Face of Love)—whose symbol is a holy rock facing the entrance.

Near by the travelers found a second pool, ancillary to the lake itself. In the center of this is a palm tree, near which, in the water, are stationed a man, a girl and a boy who bear the name of the goddess, as they were granted to the parents in direct answer to prayer. Mr. Talbot will send home a complete account of the discovery at an early date.

Tree Frogs' Nests.

In describing his previous discovery of the Lake of the Dead Mr. Talbot said that the surface of the water was absolutely still and round about were bushes ten feet high bearing what looked like great tufts of creamy flowers. These, however, proved to be nests of tree frogs. The place is a sanctuary for all wild things, for no hunter would dare to penetrate the bush to this fearsome place.

As Mr. Talbot stood at the edge, gazing out over the water, its quiet was suddenly broken by a broad ripple, and little fish were seen to spring agitatedly above the surface. A great python was crossing, and this, it was learned, shared with the crocodiles the guardianship of the sacred lake.

Nothing was allowed to trouble the water or even to touch its outer edge for fear of famine and pestilence ensuing. Hither, the natives believed, came by night the ghosts of long dead Ekoi, to drift in sad companies, hopeless and wailing, over the surface of the water.

AIRSHIP TO CROSS THE OCEAN

Joseph Brucker Ready For Flight Over Atlantic With Big Balloon.

Joseph Brucker, the German-American aeronaut who plans to cross the Atlantic in the balloon Suchard II., departed from Berlin recently for the Canary Islands, where he expects to begin his voyage between April 12 and April 14.

Mr. Brucker, with the balloon, will leave Trieste for Las Palmas by steamship on March 17. The Suchard II. is the largest balloon in existence. Its diameter is eighty feet and its gas capacity 200,000 cubic feet.

Mr. Brucker will be accompanied by two assistants. They are taking three weeks' provisions, but if they have the luck they expect they will land either in the West Indies or on the northern coast of South America in five or ten days.

How People Gave Aeroplanes to France

France has received seventy-two aeroplanes for the army as a present from the people, purchased by popular subscription. The newspapers took an active part in the plan and devoted much space in exploiting it. The Journal presented three machines, as did the Petit Parisien, and every newspaper in Paris presented at least one.

GOT THE WRONG NUMBER BUT THE RIGHT GIRL ON THE WIRE

Mr. John L. McDonald, an automobile dealer, of Washington, D. C., two years ago asked "information" for the telephone number of a certain Miss Johnson. The telephone operator gave him Miss Katharine Johnson, the pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Johnson, of Newton street, N. W.

"I beg your pardon, but you have the wrong number," said Miss Johnson. "It is my cousin you wish to speak to."

Mr. McDonald was charmed by the voice and while visiting the cousin whom he had known for several years, asked to be introduced to Miss Johnson. They met and soon became close friends.

Friendship grew into love, and they recently obtained a license and called upon the Rev. J. S. Montgomery. A wedding luncheon at the Willard followed and the young couple, brought together by the "wrong number," left for a honeymoon of several weeks in Palm Beach, Fla. Upon their return they will make their home at the capital.

SCOOP HAS A BAD INFLUENCE ON THE BOSS

"MAC" SAYS

Now that spring has been officially sprung baseball enthusiasts have begun to count the days intervening before the opening of the big leagues. All other signs of spring are merely hunches. This one sticks.

"My kingdom for a ball game," wail the impatient "fans." But a much bigger price is demanded. Nothing less than a wait of 19 days before the umpires bawl, "The batteries will be"—

Manager Bailey of the Y. M. C. A. first team, is said to have developed a stone bruise on his heel running after Manager Hetfield of the Ajax in an endeavor to arrange that much-talked of Ajax-First Team contest. He comes through as cheerfully and as buoyantly as any one could have, being subjected to so many disappointments, but the Society for the Prevention of Something should get after the Ajax pilot for making the genial Bailey suffer in this way.

It is too bad that Hetfield has to bear the brunt of all of Bailey's assaults, as the Ajax manager is one of the players who is willing to play the game at any time, but cannot seem to herd the rest of the fold together, at the same time.

Speaking about "jinxes," we must not forget the one that hangs over Jack Martin and his attempts to break into the big league. One year it is one thing and another it is another, but there always seems something wrong. Last year the trouble was sickness, this year the prospects seemed bright, until Derrick appeared on the scene, and now it looks as though Jack would be a cropper again.

Unless all signs fail, the infield for the opening of the pennant race will be made up of Hartzell at third, Derrick at short, Chase at second, and Chance at first.

Just like some persons can seldom pick a winner when they guess rather than study the subject, just so does luck seldom come to the Yankee baseball team. In the glare of Chance's advent everything seemed rosy, but now that has worn off, and the bad luck of the New York Americans is again present.

The troubles of the Cubs would have been nothing for Chance in view of what is apparently in store for him with the Yankees.

Coach Sharpe of Cornell claims that college tradition wins more games in all of the sports than any other particular feature of university athletic life. The wonderful spirit created by student rooters at football and baseball games prove this idea.

Sunday baseball has once more been treated to its yearly knockout blow. But it is game and will be back for another next year in the same old ring and in the same place. The New Jersey legislature has just passed a bill prohibiting Sunday baseball along with several other recreative pastimes.

When the enjoyment of sports on Sunday becomes general and it is not looked down upon by some persons with Puritanical tendencies sport will be better and so will the people.

Sport in itself is all right. The only objection that can be advanced at any time to sport is the environment it creates. Therefore, it is the environment that causes either praise or condemnation.

Baseball is not the only sport to receive a jolt, however. The PURITY of New Jersey has been saved from the VANDALS who would make it legal to fish for pleasure on Sunday.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

The Legislature has killed a bill that would have made it possible for anglers to enjoy themselves quietly on that day.

They talk about broadmindedness and common sense. We think that the same fellows we often met Sundays in the country with their line and tackle will say "Hello" to us in spite of this "reform" legislation just the same as ever.

What if it is cold out today? Hasn't the college baseball season opened? That's sign enough of spring.

AMERICANS WILL TRY TO SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

If plans now under way are brought to a satisfactory conclusion three Americans will attempt within the next few months to swim the English Channel, the great goal that the world's best distance paddlers have ever held in sight.

The candidates for the gruelling test are Charles Durborow of Philadelphia, Joseph M. Callahan of Pittsburgh, and Benjamin H. Schlomberg of New York. Durborow is an amateur and a member of the Philadelphia Swimming Club; the other two are lifesavers. Callahan has been attached for seven years to the Atlantic City squad of professionals, and Schlomberg is affiliated with the United States Volunteer Corps.

SAD BUT TRUE

In view of the widely-circulated report that James J. Jeffries is thinking of fighting again, it may be well to remember that he is 38 years old and weighs 285 pounds. Tom Jones, Wolgast's manager, is believed to be responsible for Jeffries' latest statements, but the reason has not been divulged. Jeffries is said to have been riding the water wagon for a month, but there's no denying the fact that for more than a year after his downfall at Reno he traveled at a mighty fast clip. Jeff is playing handball at Los Angeles these days, and says he is reducing. To get into any kind of physical trim it would require the loss of at least 50 pounds, which would consume many weeks of vigorous labor. While sporting men as a rule ridicule the story of the boilermaker's return to the ring, Jeff is quoted as saying that he will make at least a bluff at it.

GOLF DATES ANNOUNCED.

The Country Club, of Lakewood, announced the conditions governing its annual spring tournament, scheduled for April 17, 18 and 19, yesterday. There will be a qualifying round of eighteen holes occupying all of the first day, with match rounds on the two days following. The decisive test will be at eighteeen holes Saturday afternoon.

Competitors will qualify for match play in four sixteens, the chief trophy being the Country Club of Lakewood cup, for the winner of the principal division. The second, third and fourth flights will play, respectively, for the Metedeconk, Carasaljo and Manetta cups. A prize goes to the runner-up in each division, and the customary medal to the winner of the qualifying round. On the last day a medal play handicap will be run off.

RECOLLECT HIM?

J. Franklin Baker added to his fame as a fence breaker, Thursday, when the Athletics defeated Nashville of the Southern League in a swatfest by a score of 11 to 8. The heavy hitting third sacker drove the horsehide over the right field fence of the Nashville park. It was a terrific hit, and easily cleared the fence, which is thirty feet high by a margin of ten feet. The distance from the home plate to the fence is slightly greater than that at the Phillies' park.

CHARLIE STARR MAY BE LEADING BURTON

By Virtue of His Recent High Scoring the New Yorker May Be Holder of 1st Place.

If the scores made by Charley Starr, of the New York team, in the Elks' Bowling League at Hoboken last Thursday night are accurate the indications are that he has defeated Walter L. Burton, of the New Brunswick team for high individual average. The New York bowler wins only by a small fraction.

Starr bowled against Hoboken Thursday night, making scores of 159, 194 and 196, or a total pin fall of 549. His total on Wednesday rolled 150, 178 and 202, or a total pin fall of 530. His average for the three games was 177.

Up to Saturday of last week Burton had a slight lead over his New York opponent. Burton's average was 192.47, while Starr had 192.46. Each of the bowlers up to Thursday night participated in 60 games during the season. Burton's total pin fall for 60 games is 11,500, while Starr's total pin fall for the 60 games in which he played was 11,519. Dividing the number of games played by Burton into the total pin falls of his games gives him a total average of 191.67. Dividing the games played by Starr in the same way gives him an average of 191.98.

Captain Burton held the lead in the league for the greater part of the season. His low scores made in the game against Elizabeth this week are responsible for his defeat. Starr just made enough last night to overcome the lead of the New Brunswick pin knight. The final figures in the race will be given out the early part of next week by Johnny Campbell, the secretary. The race is so close that the figures may be gone over again in the hope that a mistake might be found. Secretary Campbell will, however, figure out the problem and his decision will be final.

ANOTHER NEW ONE.

A brand new athletic event will be seen at the games of the Twenty-third Regiment A. A., which will be held in Brooklyn on Saturday evening, March 29, in the shape of a 100-yard hopping race. The prizes for this event have been donated by Sam See, the old-time athlete, who has put up a set of handsome medals in hopes that one of the present day athletes will be able to better the figures that he made 28 years ago. See's time for the 100-yard hop was 13 3-5 seconds, and it has never been equaled. The contestants in the Twenty-third race will be required to start off one foot, and if at any time during the race the other foot touches the ground the hopper will be disqualified.

NEW LEAGUE GETS PROTECTION.

Secretary J. H. Farrell, of the National Association, yesterday granted protection to the newly formed New York and New Jersey League, which will place clubs at Poughkeepsie, Newburg, Middletown, and Kingston, N. Y., and Paterson and Long Branch, N. J. The league was granted Class B protection. The league will now proceed to adopt a schedule, and the various clubs will begin signing their managers and players. The clubs were unable to do this before protection was granted to the new league.

AT PARIS HORSE SHOW.

Paris, March 22.—The annual Paris horse show opened this afternoon, and will continue through ten days. The Americans have not sent so many horses as in some previous years, but they are well represented. Among the donors of prizes are Alfred G. Vanderbilt and James Hazen Hyde, who have offered cups of a value of $500 for the best turned-out park road four-in-hands.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN FOR Y. M. C. A. BOYS

Twenty Members of Boys' Department Follow Trail Which Led Into Mountains.

In connection with the regular Saturday morning program of work in the Y. M. C. A. boys' department, Boys' Secretary C. Wm. Bingeman took advantage of the fine weather conditions this morning and organized a run, which was entered by about 20 youngsters. Prizes were hidden in three different places in the Watchung Mountains, which the winners were supposed to find and return with to the Y. M. C. A. building before 11 o'clock. The slow condition of the roads made the traveling hard in some places, and the winners, Joseph Angerbauer and Rufus Searles, deserve a great deal of credit for returning within the allotted time.

Frank Dunning, William Thompsen and Alfred Seals were sent out as an advance guard to hide the prizes in the hills, the trio wearing cleated football shoes so that their tracks could be easily detected and followed by the runners. As a further means of laying a trail the prize hiders were supplied with corn, which they distributed after them in the road and which was followed by the youngsters.

Dunning and Thompsen are two of the original boy scouts in this city, having been connected with the movement when it was first introduced, and attended the Silver Bay Scout Camp in 1910. Although the run was not held by a troop of boy scouts it was on the same principal as those conducted by the scout organization. Joseph Anberbauer won first prize by finding a hidden object and returning to the building with it within the allotted time, and Rufus Searles secured second.

BOUND BROOK FIRE COMPANY TO HOLD DEAD MARK SHOOT

Sharpshooters will be given an opportunity to lay in their winter supply of meat Saturday afternoon, April 5, when the South Bound Brook Fire Company holds its dead mark shoot. Two dressed lambs, turkeys, rosters, ducks, geese, guineas, and other barnyard products will be awarded as prizes in the various events scheduled as follows: One lamb will be given for the shot nearest the center and one lamb will be given for the second nearest shot.

The shoot will be conducted rain or shine, starting at one o'clock Saturday afternoon, and it is expected that professional shooters will be present from all parts of the State.

GOLF AT PINEHURST.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 22.—The annual United North and South Amateur Championship for women began at the Pinehurst Country Club today under conditions that promise one of the most successful tournaments since the event was inaugurated eleven years ago. The entries include many well-known women golfers. The tournament will continue until the end of next week and will be followed by the United North and South open championship.

Y. M. C. A. TEAM IDLE

Manager Bailey of the Y. M. C. A. first team announced this morning that there would be no first team on the Association court tonight as he has been unable to sign up a suitable opponent. The Ajax, for whom the date was reserved, could not get their full team together and from present indications it looks as though the much-talked-of first team-Ajax game would have to be held over until next season.

GAME CANCELLED.

The exhibition basketball game originally scheduled to be played at Bound Brook last night between the Nonpareil girls of this city aid the Bound Brook girls' team, was called off by mutual consent. It is understood that the Nonpareil manager was requested to play the boys' team of that place as a substitute but refused.

GAME AT SCOTCH PLAINS

A local basketball team, composed of stars from various Plainfield teams, will appear on the Scotch Plains Parish House court as opponents for the Parish House first team tonight. No definite lineup has been divulged, but it is probable that the team will be made up mostly of Hope Chapel players.

STORY OF "THE WHIP."

Condensed Synopsis of the Big Drury Lane Melodrama.

"The Whip" is the most pronounced example of spectacular melodrama that London's famous home of melodrama, Drury Lane, has given the amusement loving world throughout its hoary age. It is in four acts, divided into thirteen massive scenes, each of which might with propriety be dignified by the term act. Each closes with a startling big dramatic situation, ranging from an automobile smashup early in the development of the play to a railroad collision, a mob scene and a thrilling race, in which seven mounts battle for turf supremacy. Horses and dogs and action abound, but more tender subjects receive full consideration, and a romantic love interest runs through the entire story.

The Whip is the name of the best racing mare ever bred by the Marquis of Beverly, a gallant old sportsman descended from a noble house, distinguished by two centuries of clean success on the turf. The affections of the kindly old marquis are divided between his beautiful and accomplished granddaughter, Lady Diana Sartoris, and The Whip during his declining days, passed on his estate at Falconhurst. Exclusiveness reigns there, due to the absence of the owner of the adjoining estates, Earl Hubert of Brancaster, who is accredited with living a wild, dissolute life abroad.

Early in the unfolding of the drama Lady Diana begins to evince an interest in an unknown artist, who has sought out the quaint surroundings of Falconhurst to sketch, usually selecting the bank of a stream near her grandfather's kennels. An automobile, which crashes into the bridge spanning this stream and so seriously injures the driver that his life is despaired of, discloses the artist-driver to be the abhorred young Earl Hubert.

Common humanity compels the marquis to extend the hospitality of his manor to the injured man, and there Lady Diana nurses him and meanwhile discovers that, despite his past dissipations, the character of artist is a more truthful likeness of Earl Hubert than that pictured by rumor and gossip. While Hubert is hovering between life and death Mrs. D'Aquila, an adventuress with whom he has become more or less involved, shows a keen interest in him. Captain Greville Sartoris, a cousin of Lady Diana and a suitor for her hand, who is also entangled with Mrs. D'Aquila, helps her out by devising a plan to impersonate Earl Hubert, marry her, advance the date of the records to conceal the fraud and give her possession of Earl Hubert's estate in event that his injuries result, as expected, in death or madness.

But Lady Diana's nursing brings Earl Hubert back to health. His bearing charms the marquis and his beautiful granddaughter. The engagement of the young couple is announced at a hunting breakfast. The adventuress appears with her evidence of marriage and claims Earl Hubert as her lawful husband. Both she and Earl Hubert are driven out in disgrace, and Lady Diana is forbidden to ever see or speak to Earl Hubert again.

Meanwhile the marquis is busily engaged preparing The Whip for entry in the 2,000 guinea race at Newmarket and Captain Greville Sartoris is alertly watching for information that will assure him success in "picking the winner," as he is sorely in need of recouping his fortunes. He selects Myrtle Mason, sister of the marquis' jockey, as the instrument to keep him supplied with all stable gossip and ultimately ruins her. This is the situation when all the characters troup to London for the international horse show, just before the races. Lady Diana and Earl Hubert meet, although forbidden by the marquis. She accepts his statement that his reputed marriage to the adventuress was fraudulent and in an effort to aid him financially gives him the "tip" of The Whip's splendid condition and ability to win.

Earl Hubert backs the "tip" heavily with Joe Kelly, an unscrupulous bookmaker, who has Captain Greville Sartoris in his power through holding his notes bearing forged indorsements. When Kelly finds he has used bad judgment in accepting the enormous bet he calls upon Captain Greville Sartoris, through his relationship with the owner, to arrange matters so that The Whip will disqualify or lose. Captain Greville Sartoris cannot accomplish this through influence or bribery, so he plots with the Mrs. D'Aquila to prevent the horse from reaching the track by cutting off the car from the train in which it is to be taken to Newmarket.

Fearing to be seen with her at any ordinary meeting place because he knows Earl Hubert's detectives are watching her, Captain Greville Sartoris meets his accomplice at Mme. Tussaud's famous wax works exhibition. All county folk in London visit this weird place, which is more or less selected by Londoners. So it is that Lady Lambert, The Whip's trainer, chances to drop in. A comedy situation compels him to impersonate one of the waxworks to escape embarrassment before his sweetheart, and he is in that unhappy plight when the conspirators meet. Finding the spot free from visitors, Sartoris and Mrs. D'Aquila hatch their plot directly before him. Hubert's prank results in his being locked all night in the wax works chamber of horrors, but he has heard all and manages to convey his information to the marquis by telephone not however, until the train with The Whip has pulled out from Falconhurst for Newmarket.

Captain Sartoris is on board and of the passenger coaches. He creeps along the footboard of the flying train to the last car, containing The Whip and disconnects it in a tunnel, where it is sure to be wrecked by a following train. But no! A woman member of the marquis' household has sped in an automobile when the telephone brought the warning and raced to the tunnel. There is no time to flag the approaching train, only a moment to awaken the jockey and stable boy in the endangered car and lead forth The Whip. Then the crash comes and the station piled high with smashed rolling stock and screaming passengers.

Another train subsequently carries The Whip unharmed to the great race but the wicked captain is undaunted, and, knowing full well that no one else can successfully ride the fiery mare, he causes the jockey's arrest in the paddock for having threatened him with a revolver when he learned of his sister's fate. The marquis pleads with the detective to defer the arrest until after the race. They are obdurate.

But racing madness has seized the crowd. The jockey is torn from the detectives and tossed into his saddle just as the race is called, and The Whip dashes off in a careening flight that gives the dust to all competitors, new honors to the marquis' stables and a wife and a fortune to Earl Hubert. The arrest of the two conspirators follows on the confession of a poor, weak young substitute vicar, who performed the fraudulent ceremony under compulsion.

Stage "Realism" Laid Bare By the Scientific American

Albert A. Hopkins, of Noted Technical Publication, Selects the Biggest Spectacular Success of the Season, "The Whip," to Demonstrate the Underlying Simplicity of Awe Inspiring "Thrillers."

SENSATIONAL ENGLISH MELODRAMA SUBJECTED TO PROBE, AND ANALYSIS.

How a Real Train Carrying Actual Passengers Speeds For Miles In View of the Audience and Finally Ends Its Flight In a Startling Wreck---A "Genuine" Horse Race That Keeps New York Cheering Reduced to Wood, Canvas, Paint and Mechanism.

By ALBERT A. HOPKINS.

(Copyright, 1913, by the Scientific American.)

THE DRURY LANE, with its massive melodramas, is a household word among all English speaking people. The stage of this theater, with its huge electrically driven bridges, lends itself to effects requiring ponderous machinery and accessories. One of the best plays ever put on at the famous London playhouse was "The Whip," which ran continuously for two years, delighting hundreds of thousands. This production has now been translated bodily to the Manhattan Opera House, New York. There are four acts and thirteen scenes in the play, but we need concern ourselves only with two, which are interesting from a mechanical point of view. These are the famous railroad wreck and the horse race, both of which are now illustrated for the first time by authoritative photographs and drawings.

The entire play is written around The Whip, a race horse of phenomenal speed, on which large sums of money are wagered. This forms the motive which leads to the perpetration of an atrocious crime. The race is supposed to be run at Newmarket for the Two Thousand Guinea stakes. This necessitates the transportation by rail of The Whip, with her trainer and jockey, in a box car such as we so often see attached to English local trains. One of the prettiest scenes is that where the race horse is led to the Falconhurst station and loaded on the waiting box car. Presently you hear the sound of the whistle, the friction of revolving wheels and the exhaust of steam, and a regular English coach with four compartments comes slowly down the track and picks up the box car. The signal to start is given, the wheels revolve, and the country flashes past. After a few minutes a tunnel is reached, and the audience can even see the bricks as the train rushes through it. This is the opportunity which the villain has been waiting for. The death of the mare must be accomplished at all hazards. He opens the door of his compartment, crawls along the running board, throws off the tail light on the box car and uncouples the car, leaving it standing on the track, while the train passes out of view of the audience.

The heroine finally succeeds in reaching the tunnel by automobile just in time to release the horse and the jockey, the trainer having been detained by a misadventure in Mme. Tussaud's "Chamber of Horrors." They make frantic efforts to flag the express, which is heard approaching at a rapid rate of speed. The engineer fails to stop in time, and the locomotive strikes the box car, which is converted into kindling wood. There are many killed and wounded. The steam and fire effect at the locomotive is very realistic.

Now, let us explain how it is accomplished. The coach is operated by about eighteen men, who control the various switches and force the car back and forth, attend to the exhaust, to the whistle and to the management of the panoramas. Only three men can be shown at the back of the coach in the illustration, otherwise the machinery would be obscured. There is a set of false wheels in front which do not run on the track, but mask the actual wheels. An electric motor serves to operate them, motion being transmitted from the rear of the coach to the false wheels by the aid of shafts. There is another motor which raises the small panorama at the back of the coach which serves to simulate the bricks in the tunnel. A third motor is for the purpose of driving this panorama widthwise. The electric lights in the coach go out for an instant when the panorama is raised. The effect of the exhaust steam from the locomotive is obtained by using a jet of steam illuminated from a spot light and working intermittently. A simple exhaust throttle valve controls this jet. It is started by hand, and when the speed of the train is to be increased a motor is thrown in. The whistle is carried on the same framework and is blown at the time of starting and stopping. A similar device is in use on the other side of the stage to give the effect of the exhaust of the automobile which is racing to save the life of the precious horse. The steam exhausts into a large packing box, and the effect is very realistic. There are electric lights at intervals along the track, which are flashing in succession, thus giving the effect of the light from the cars on the rails. A moving panorama at the back rounds out the illusion. The tunnel consists of a black cloth scene, and it is set, in semidarkness, by men who wear black smocks so they will not be seen by the audience. This is a variation of the well known trick called "black art." When the locomotive is pushed forward by the men propelling it, it is run up on an interrupted incline plane. The slats which have been removed at the top of the plane leave an aperture which receives a false wheel in the center of the locomotive that thrusts it over to one side. The locomotive, which is built of wood, is piped so that steam comes out of the stack, firebox and underneath. At the moment of the crash a bomb is exploded in the box car, and it is promptly broken by men who pull lines at a signal.

The scene gives an admirable idea of what English rolling stock really looks like from the outside. It would almost appear preposterous to those who have not been abroad or have seen the play that an evil minded person could emerge from his compartment and creep along the footboard to work such mischief, but some of Europe's most atrocious crimes have taken place in railroad passenger carriages of this type.

The Whip was sent to Newmarket by another train, and, after strenuous unsuccessful attempts to prevent her being ridden by her own jockey, the actual race takes place. The stage has been cleared of scenery, and those who have taken part in the mob scene gradually edge off to left and right. The stage is darkened for a moment, the curtain is raised, and the audience sees for a brief moment a most exciting race. There are seven horses in the race, but there is a chance for only two of them to win, as the others are held in position by iron rods which prevent them from actually progressing across the stage. In order to give a lifelike appearance they run on treadmills, which are flush with the floor of the stage. The treadmills of The Whip and her nearest competitor are mounted on rollers and are adapted to move across the stage in a channel which is provided by removing sections of the flooring. Two men in the cellar receive cue from a man who is watching the race through a hole in the floor, and at the proper signal they both turn their winches, and at another signal the removable platform on which The Whip is speeding is drawn forward past the winning post, which is mounted on rollers and which is pushed back at the critical moment by a man who stands behind it. He is masked by a black background, which serves to bring out the winning post in relief. The panoramas, which run in the opposite direction to the race, are extremely ingenious. The large panorama is fixed and occupies the back of the stage, and this is driven by a thirty-five horsepower motor in the cellar. The other four panoramas, however, which prevent a sharp line of demarcation, can be pushed around into position, and each of these four panoramas is actuated by its own motor. The five panoramas are all controlled through one switchboard, so that they are all moved in unison.

Manhattan Opera House stage cut away to show the mechanism controlling the thrilling race scene that is causing New York to cheer itself hoarse nightly. More horses are shown in this race than in anything of the kind ever attempted on the stage. Five run on stationary treadmills, while two can be advanced as desired. Five huge panoramas, driven by electric motors, complete the illusion. The "lookout," below stage, and the men at windlasses controlling the movement of the horses are shown in the illustration; also the machinery driving the panoramas and stage hand operating the winning post, which is moved across the stage on rollers at the proper moment.

"PITTSBURGH PERFECT"

The most distinctive and economical FENCE

Look beyond the purchase price when you buy wire fencing.

A fence you get at a cheap price is bound to be a cheap fence clear through—poor and unsatisfactory in service, soon to rust, sag, break and fall away, an expensive failure.

Wire fence economy means more than first cost price.

It means a full and efficient service that lasts for years; an elimination of time, energy and money spent in endless repairs; it means an investment that pays big dividends by increasing farm production through better farm equipment.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fences are the most economical you can buy because they are the most adaptable and adjustable to all fencing conditions and requirements of the farm. They are the strongest and most durable because Open Hearth wire—like old time iron wire—heavily galvanized with pure zinc, is used exclusively in their manufacture, and is ELECTRICALLY WELDED at every touching point in the fabric, producing practically a one piece fence. They are the most distinctive because of their construction, and enhance the appearance and increase the actual value of a farm by perfectly serving their particular purpose and permitting scientific crop rotation. WM. H. BANNARD PASSED AWAY

Former Plainfielder, Asbury Park's Postmaster, to Be Buried Here.

PROMINENT IN STATE

Cold and Nervous Breakdown Prove Fatal After Month's Illness—A Sketch of His Career—Was Very Popular.

Asbury Park, March 24.—Postmaster William H. Bannard, who died at his home here Saturday, will be buried in Hillside Cemetery in Plainfield on Wednesday. The funeral service will be held at the late home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Bannard was born in Plainfield in the house now owned and occupied by Dr. George W. Endicott at Park avenue and East Seventh street. He had been a resident of Asbury Park, where he was prominent, for many years.

Mr. Bannard's death was quite unexpected. He had been detained at his home for the past four weeks by a cold and nervous breakdown brought on by close attention to the management of the postal facilities at the Park. During the four years of his administration he succeeded in having the government erect a handsome marble building and improve the service in every department. Active participation in public affairs made him one of the most popular citizens of the resort.

Mr. Bannard was a councilman in 1908, president of the New Jersey State Association of Presidential Postmasters, of which Postmaster E. H. Bird, of Plainfield, was vice-president, and of the Monmouth County Postmasters' Association, and was affiliated with the Masons, Elks and Odd Fellows.

He will probably be best remembered by his participation in Princeton University athletics, especially by dovotees of football. He was a graduate in the class of '98, and served as presentation orator. A wife and two sons and two brothers, Horace and Llewellyn, survive. A year ago Mr. Bannard's father was buried in Plainfield.

TO GIVE A RECITAL AT CRESCENT AVENUE

Dr. E. Mettler Davis, organist of the Crescent Avenue church, assisted by the quartet choir, Miss Lillian Vernon Wat, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Gwilym Miles, tenor, will give a public recital at the church Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Among selections the quartet will sing the cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace," by Maunder.

This will be one of the series of recitals that Dr. Davis has been giving the past season and the public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy an excellent program arranged for the recital.

The Westminster Guild of the Crescent Avenue church will meet this afternoon.

LINE WON HIS INSIGNIA FOR GYMNASTIC ABILITY

Charles H. Line, formerly assistant physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., returned to his home in this city last night to spent his spring vacation with his parents. Line is at present a senior in the Springfield Training School for Y. M. C. A. workers and has just finished a successful season as manager and member of the college gymnastic team which appeared here last season in the local association. Upon the completion of his training school course Line proposes to enter a medical school, probably somewhere in the West and this will likely be his last visit to Plainfield for three years to come.

The season of gymnastic work just finished has been the greatest in the history of the school, the team being accorded a large amount of special recognition for its excellent showing by the athletic board. Line, as manager of the team, received his insignia in this line of sport, having been two years a member of the college gymnastic team, taking part in all of the exhibitions.

RASORES TO MEET

The Rasores will meet tomorrow morning at the home of Mrs. G. H. Condict of Central avenue.

J. EVARTS TRACY ARCHITECT FOR THE STRAUS MEMORIAL DESIGN

To J. Evarts Tracy, of this city, as architect, and Augustus Lukeman, of New York, as sculptor, has been awarded the first prize in the competition for designing a fountain to be erected in Straus Park, New York city, in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, who died together in the wreck of the Titanic. Mr. Tracy is known as the architect for some of the finest public buildings in America.

In reaching their decision the committee eliminated the idea of attempting to memoralize the qualities of the man and woman for whom the fountain is to be erected, but accepted the suggestion which Mr. Lukeman has endeavored to embody in the small park—a scheme of peaceful contemplation over a sheet of water leaving it to the public to think over the sacrifice that the same element demanded in the disaster in which Mr. and Mrs. Straus perished. The fountain will be of granite and bronze, an expansive granite base being surmounted by the graceful bronze figure of a woman reclining. A bronze plate will bear this inscription:

"To Isidor and Ida Straus, whose lives were unselfishly devoted to the betterment of the State and whose death was a monument to that great bulwark of the State, the family. This memorial erected in the year nineteen hundred and thirteen."

BLESS MEMORIALS AT EASTER SERVICE

Altar, Reredos and Pulpit Bible Gifts to Holy Cross Church.

Among the pleasing features of the beautifu Easter-day services at Holy Cross church yesterday was the presentation of a new altar and reredos, the gift of J. Brognard Betts in memory of his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Betts, and a pulpit Bible, the gift of Miss Grace King in memory of her father, Thomas B. King.

The altar was blessed by the rector, Rev. William S. McCoy, at the 6.30 o'clock morning service, and in his sermon at the later service he referred especially to the beauty of giving, and spoke of the two appropriate and handsome gifts to the church. Mr. McCoy also made an appeal for $500 and he was delighted to learn that nearly that amount was contributed.

The altar is larger than the one formerly used, richly carved and is a great addition to the church furnishings. In front appears the words, "Alpha and Omega," and in the center is carved the figure of a lamb, as a symbol of St. John, the beloved disciple. On the retable are the words, "Holy, Holy, Holy." Above the altar is the reredos stand about 12 feet high. There are three panels, on one of which is a cross and on the other two candlesticks, all surmounted by a large cross. The church was beautifully decorated.

MRS. NUCHOLS ADMITS KIDNAPPING DAUGHTER

Mrs. Amy C. Nuckols, of Atlantic City, who, several months ago caused some excitement here when she was arrested late at night while having an argument with one of the local cab drivers, is again in the limelight. According to a report from Atlantic City she admited her husband's charge that she had scaled the convent fence at Merion and stolen her child, Muriel. She declared that she was more concerned for her life than for anything that can happen because she is sure some one is conspiring to poison her.

Mrs. Nuckols came to Plainfield for the purpose of securing her child who at that time was in Mt. St. Mary College. She called at the college late at night, when those in charge according to the rules refused to receive the woman. She was informed that if she called at the college at a reasonable hour the Sisters would see her and listen to her story.

BURGLAR AT WORK.

Lewis Newman, of 601 John street, reported to the police today that while he and his family were at church last night someone entered his house by forcing a rear door, ransacked the place and took a small amount of money.

WILSON HONORED WM. L. SAUNDERS

His Last Act As Governor Was to Make Him Member of Harbor Commission.

APPOINTEE SURPRISED

Puzzled By Getting Notices of Meetings, Former Mayor Goes to Washington, Where He Learns of His Commission.

William L. Saunders, former mayor of North Plainfield, is a member of the Interstate Harbor Commission, under appointment of Woodrow Wilson when he was Governor, but he did not learn of the fact until quite recently, when he began receiving invitations to speak at dinners. At first the matter puzzled him considerably, and accordingly he made a trip to Washington, where he was informed by Private Secretary Joseph Tumulty that his appointment as a member of the Harbor Commission was the last official act by Mr. Wilson before going to Washington to become President. The appointment did not require confirmation by the senate and thus it become generally known.

Mr. Saunders has since attended meetings of the commission, which has a membership of seven, three from New York and three from New Jersey, with a seventh member named by the President. In discussing the matter, Mr. Saunders said that he never realized how important it was that New Jersey's waterways should be properly protected. Through inquiry he has learned that every county in the state has a waterway of some kind. The commission has arranged to make a tour of inspection of New York harbor tomorrow.

POLITE BURGLARS

According to the police records it was a very polite pair of burglars who called last night at the home of Robert Morley, of 117 Plainfield avenue to carry away the family valuables. The report of the attempted burglary says two men tried to force open a cellar door, tore off several blinds on the front of the house in an endeavor to effect an entrance, and failing at this rang the door bell. Why burglars should awaken a family to let them know that they desire to be entertained, the report does not say. Nothing was taken and the members of the police force, other than the one who made the report, enjoyed a good laugh.

M. E. CONFERENCE'S APPOINTMENTS DUE

Assignments For Ministers to Be Announced By Bishop Tomorrow.

Newark, March 24.—The Newark conference of the Methodist Episcopal church resumed its business session this morning, which will continue until tomorrow when the annual appointments will be made as the concluding business of the conference. There is still much speculation regarding impending changes and the feeling seems to be general that the Bishop plans a general "shake-up," so to speak.

The conference was greatly surprised on Saturday to learn that Rev. Dr. William H. Morgan, who has been pastor of the Central M. E. church, Newark, for the past sixteen years, has accepted a call to Calvary M. E. church, New York, provided that his church in Newark is provided for as regards a pastor. He will succeed Rev. Dr. C. L. Goodell, who is to become pastor of St. Paul's church, New York city.

No further information has been divulged concerning Rev. W. S. MacRorie, former pastor of the Mt. Horeb, Martinsville and Springdale M. E. churches, who requested an investigation of charges preferred against him. The committee named to investigate the matter has not made a report and probably will not before tomorrow.

"BIG BILL" SUCCUMBS; SEARCH FOR RELATIVES

In Cole's undertaking parlors in West Second street is the body of "Big Bill," an umbrella mender, who died Saturday in a boarding house in Westfield. County Physician Frank Westcott, who viewed the body shortly after death occurred, has granted a burial permit. An effort is being made to find his relatives, which seems to be a hopeless task.

The only name which the umbrella mender was known by was "Big Bill," and despite the search made no one can be found who knows his real name. "Big Bill" had plied his trade in Westfield for many years, but his past history had been a mystery. He appeared to be well educated and would at times give indications that he has enjoyed many of the luxuries of life before misfortune overtook him.

Mrs. Helen Schneiderbach, of Larimer road, arraigned before City Judge De Meza this morning on a charge of being intoxicated, promised to take the pledge and received a suspended sentence. She was arrested Saturday.

IN POLICE COURT.

Clair Osborn, of West Fourth street, will be arraigned before City Judge De Meza tomorrow morning on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife.

SKULL FRACTURED LITTLE ONE DIES

Odd Mishap Causes the Death of Seven-Year-Old Joseph Kaine.

ARREST WALTER FORD

Although Held In Nominal Bail No Blame Is Placed On Man Who Accidentally Caused the Fatal Injuries.

Sustaining a fractured skull Saturday afternoon, in a collision with Walter Ford, 32 years old, of 327 Berkman street, who was riding a bicycle at the time, 7-year-old Joseph Kaine of 403 Berkman street died seven hours later. The little victim's father, Thomas Kaine, notified the police and Ford was arrested yesterday on a charge of manslaughter. According to statements made by the cyclist and eye witness, William Goff, of West Third street, Ford was not responsible for the accident. The prisoner was questioned yesterday afternoon in Chief Kiely's office by County Prosecutor Stein.

Ford was taken before Judge Connelly in the Union County Court today and was released after signing his own bail bond for $500, to await the action of the Grand Jury.

That the accident which resulted in the child's death was caused by the victim himself is the opinion of the local authorities, as a result of investigations they have made. According to the story told by Goff, which is identical with the sworn statements made by Ford, young Kaine, who was playing in front of his home Saturday afternoon, spied Ford passing on his bicycle and ran out to greet him. He shouted, "Hello, Mr. Ford," and grasped the handlebars of the moving vehicle. This caused the bike to swerve and the rider to lose his balance. Rider and wheel fell to the ground, Ford hitting the Kaine boy, who fell violently backward, his head striking the roadway with great force. In a dazed condition he ran crying to his home as Ford, wiping the dirt from his mount, rode on unmindful that the boy had sustained serious injury.

Mrs. Kane bandaged her son's head and applied liniments to other bruises which he suffered. The boy a few hours after the accident appeared little the worse for his experience. Shortly before 9 o'clock, however, the victim complained of violent pains in his head and spine and was soon takenu with convulsions. Dr. Bernard Levinson arrived in a few minutes and worked over the child for over an hour. Death occured shortly after 9 o'clock.

METUCHEN POLICE FORCE DOESN'T WELCOME EX-COP

Metuchen, March 24.—There is talk of a strike by the three members of the police force here if Mark B. Murtha, for 20 years a New York policeman, goes on duty as a borough cop. He was recently appointed, but has not taken up his work as yet. Objection to Murtha reached a serious stage when a New York newspaper anounced that a former Policeman Murtha had been indicted for collecting graft in Harlem.

Councilman Eben H. Veen, sponsor for the appointee, denies that the latter is the officer referred to in the graft story. He also denies that the situation in the matter of a police strike is serious.

"Why," said Mr. Veen, "I was talking to the chief a short time ago and he never mentioned anything to me about Murtha. I had received no previous protest from him or any other member of the force. The strike is all a fake.

"As to Murtha, I have his record in my pocket. He has been a sergeant and is without a blot on his career. I don't know just when he will begin duty, as he hasn't got a house here as yet."

SLIGHT FIRE.

A defective fireplace started a blaze at the home of C. V. Dwiggins, 508 Woodland avenue, at 12:45 o'clock this morning, which did damage to the extent of $75 before it was extinguished. A telephone call was sent in to fire headquarters and the firemen put out the blaze with three gallons of chemical.

BOROUGH SCHOOLS REOPEN.

North Plainfield public schools will resume work after the annual spring vacation tomorrow morning. The borough schools closed a week earlier than the local ones so as to allow more time for examination preparation after the vacation, and reopened a week earlier.

GREAT TORNADO A DEATH REAPER

In Omaha Alone 1,000 Lives Were Sacrificed and Fatalities Elsewhere.

VILLAGES WIPED OUT

Nebraska's Governor Summons Troops to Prevent Looting—Communication Is Cut Off and Railroads Are Crippled.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Chicago, March 24.—Meagre advices received from Omaha today say that more than 1,000 persons were killed by the tornado that hit that city yesterday. The Western Union and the telegraph companies had no communication with the city today. Some reports have it that fires destroyed at least twenty city blocks. Dispatches sent by courier say that the fires were put out by a rain storm which started at 4 o'clock this morning. The telegraph company says that the destruction to their lines is the worst in their history. The terrific wind storm also raged over Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, parts of the Dakotas, as well as Nebraska.

Chicago, March 24.—A report from Omaha by courier says that the Governor of Nebraska has ordered State troops to Omaha at the request of Mayor Dahlman, known as the "cowboy mayor," to preserve order and to prevent looting. The Burlington and Rock Island roads are sending special trains to Omaha with doctors and nurses. The Governor himself went to Omaha this morning. The Illinois Central bridge over the Missouri River is said to have been destroyed. Communication is still interrupted, the only wire working is the railroad line into Lincoln. This is not available for press messages. It is impossible to give even a hint of the exact situation but officials of the railroad controlling the wire to Omaha admit that it is grave. The villages of Benson, Dundee and Florence, suburbs of Omaha, are said to have been practically wiped out. Martial law, it is said, has been practically declared in Omaha.

Chicago, March 24.—A dispatch received over the long distance telephone from Omaha at Denver relayed here, says Omaha and vicinity was swept by two distinct wind storms late yesterday afternoon, both of cyclonic intensity which spread death and destruction in their wake. Fire which broke out in many of the wrecked buildings added to the horrors. At 8 o'clock this morning the best available figure placed the number dead between 100 and 200 and probably 300 or more seriously injured. All fires have been put out, but during the night fifty alarms were turned in.

Lincoln, Neb., March 24.—Ten persons are known to be dead and it is believed that the list will reach forty-five at Yutan about thirty-five miles northwest of here where the tornado, which later did so much damage at Omaha, began its destructive work.

New York, March 24.—Indirect communication by the Western Union wires with Chicago by way of Memphis and St. Louis failed early this forenoon. About 2,000 poles are down within a 180-mile radius of Chicago. The local offices of the telegraph company are in communication however, with such middle west and western points as Indianapolis and St. Paul, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle. Omaha is cut off completely. Wires to the south are in good order with the exception of Houston, Memphis and Nashville have to be reached by circuitous routes.

REWARD FOR SAVING A GIRL FROM DEATH

Miss Agnes Harned, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Harned, of Trenton, has received a check for $200 from Frederick A. Carter, formerly of Princeton, for having saved the life of his daughter, Miss Anna May Carter, two years ago. The young women were members of a house party in the city and went for an automobile ride toward Somerville.

Seeing some wild flowers, they decided to gather a bouquet. Miss Carter slipped over a precipice and fell fifty feet. Miss Harned summoned assistance and by means of a rope rescued her friend. A reception for Miss Harned will be given in New York tonight.
